Change in Congress, Assembly Lines Asked

LIBRARY

BY THE DOZEN—The Lewis family doesn't believe in doing things by halves. When it was indicated that the children needed their tonsils out, they went to the University Hospital en masse—all nine children. James Lewis, the father, had his tonsils out, too, for good measure. Mrs. Mary Graves, director of nurses, is examining Joseph, 3, the youngest of the clan. The others are: Ronald, Donna, Anthony, Michael and James Lewis and their cousins who live with them, George, Jerry and Sharon Allen.

Warren Wins Re-election as NAACP Head

Edward D. Warren, real estate broker, was re-elected president of the NAACP in the annual meeting Sunday at the Second Baptist Church that was sometimes heated, but never acrimonious.

Warren thus becomes the first president of the branch to be elected for a two-year term, in accordance with a recently adopted constitutional change.

Clear Majority

Warren defeated the Rev. John N. Doggett, 168 to 121, after Manuel D. Talley, also a candidate for the presidency, withdrew his name and asked his supporters to back Rev. Doggett.

Highest scorer for local branch offices was Atty. Loren Miller, publisher of the California Eagle, who received 225 votes to become first vice president.

Miller was also top scorer for members of the national executive board. For that office he received 239 votes out of the 289 counted.

37 Votes Challenged

Voting figures are still tentative since 37 of the 326 ballots cast were challenged. The challenges were based principally on technical grounds and Warren said Tuesday that probably most of the challenged votes would be found

Liberia is Given Seat on U. N. Council

NEW YORK — Liberia Tuesday became the first African nation south of the Sahara to become a member of the United Nations Security Council.

The selection came as a compromise after a 13-ballot deadlock, with Liberia and Ireland splitting the two-year term.

Western nations had originally backed Portugal for the seat, but when opposition to that choice remained strong, the West switched to Ireland.

Portugal is one of the European powers that still has possessions in Africa where conditions are reported on a par with those of South Africa.

Citizens Group Says Present Lines Unfair

Charging that "both Democrats and Republicans have joined hands and forgotten party differences to gerrymander Negro communities in the past," a "Non Partisan Citizens Committee" last Friday presented a plan to a legislative committee by which the south central area of the city would be divided into four assembly and two congressional districts. Negro voters would be in a majority in three of the assembly districts and in both congressional districts.

Under the plan laid before the Assembly Elections and Reapportionment Committee, the 62nd assembly district would be bounded by Olympic on the north, Florence avenue on the south, Alameda on the east and Vermont on the west. The 63rd district would also be bounded by Olympic on the north, Slauson on the south, Vermont on the east and would extend west to La Brea, and beyond in a few instances.

Combined Districts

The 62nd and 63rd districts would be combined to form one congressional district. Under the plan, the 62nd district would have 196,000 residents and the 63rd would have 201,000—a total of 397,000. The average size of California assembly districts is estimated at 195,000 inhabitants and congressional districts at approximately 400,000.

The plan locates the 55th district between Imperial on

Calif. Team Segregated in St. Petersburg

Discrimination in the housing of members of a California State College football team in St. Petersburg, Fla., has brought forth protests and a demand that any future athletic event where such practices are followed should be summarily cancelled.

The integrated team of Humboldt State College, up north, went to St. Petersburg to play in the Holiday Bowl last Saturday.

Accept Ruling

When the players arrived in the Florida city, they were informed that Negro team members would have to be lodged in Negro housing.

The ruling was accepted by the team.

Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson, upon learning of the insult suffered by the Negro players, denounced the action Monday in a letter to Dr. Roy E. Simpson, director of the State Department of Education, and asked for a policy ruling to avoid such incidents in the future.

Ask Policy Statement

"It would seem quite clear to me," said Anderson, "that no California educational institution should submit to such discrimination, and that any athletic event which involved such practices in any

Hunt Three Men In Pre-Christmas Robbery, Murder

Grief settled upon the family of Sol Herman Weiss, of 13425 Blythe street, Van Nuys, Tuesday, sweeping away all thoughts of joy at Christmas time.

For Weiss was killed in broad daylight, slain by a bandit who had just robbed his liquor store at 1014 E. Florence avenue.

Shot in Chest

His body was found lying on the lawn in front of 1006 E. 73rd street about 4:30 p.m. There was a bullet hole in his chest.

He was the father of two children one 16, the other 11.

Capt. Tony Ruiz, head of the detectives at 77th Street Station, was on the scene probing for clues shortly after the shooting.

None Saw Robbery

He said there apparently was no one in the store but Weiss and the killer at the time of the robbery. It appeared, he said, as if the man had come into the store, pulled a gun and grabbed the bills from the till.

Then he fled down the alley between Florence and 73rd street.

Weiss ran after him down the alley. As he drew near and appeared to be gaining, the thug turned, aimed his pistol and fired.

While no one had seen the robbery itself, there were

Evers' Case Too Raw for Miss. Paper

When justice is so perverted that it calls forth a rebuke from a daily newspaper in Jackson, Miss., the heart of the "black-belt"—that's news.

In a lengthy editorial Dec. 7, the "State Times" of Jackson, expressed grave concern over the sentencing of Medgar Evers, NAACP field secretary for Mississippi, to 30 days in jail and a fine of $100 for contempt of court.

Freedom for All

It is indeed strange to find words like the following coming from the Deep South. Said the "State Times:"

"Under our American concept the rich, the poor; the literate, the illiterate; the conformist, the non-conformist — all are entitled to freedom of speech.

"In the contempt trial of Medgar Evers in Hattiesburg, Jimmy Finch, district attorney, said the people should stop and think before we pop off and speak out against the freedom.

"This is the direct antithesis of what Gov. Ross Barnett has been telling our people. He says that the judicial pattern of today is a threat to the freedom of every man, woman and child in America.

"Our speaker of the house, Walter Sillers, an eminent attorney, has warned repeatedly that our people should guard against the intrusion of the courts upon the individual liberties of our people. In this warning he is joined by Joe Patterson, our state at-

Louisiana History

Louisiana residents have less reason to get themeselves into a tizzy over race than the people of any other state. Its citizens of African descent have always played a large part in its history. When the Americans took over in 1803 they found a large free colored population of such influence that the first governor found it expedient to organize them into a Territorial Militia.

Many of these colored people were merchants, others were influential in the intellectual life of New Orleans and some of them were slaveholders. By and large they were descendants of French or Spanish settlers who had mar-

'White' Air Force Officer Fights Slur

WASHINGTON — A young Air Force captain, whose white appearance belies his Negro ancestry, came to Washington this week to try to get a transfer from a situation that has become intolerable.

Capt. Charles M. Penny, 32, is stationed at McConnel Air Force Base near Wichita, Kan., where he is commander of the food service squadron.

'Secret' Told

Penny said the latest incident involved pressure brought on a white girl, a civilian employee at the base, whom he had been dating openly for the past two months.

He said that the base commander, Col. Arthur McGibney, ordered another officer last Wednesday to speak to the girl and tell her his "secret." There was an implied threat, Penny said, that if the girl didn't heed the warning things might become difficult for her.

The young airman said the girl had known of his background ever since they met.

Not 'Passing'

He said he believes his great grandfather was a Negro and that he also has some Indian ancestors, but that while some of his relatives are "passing," he doesn't feel he should have "to cross a line."

Trouble at the base is not the first time Penny has encountered this particular brand of race problem. At the Negro school he attended in L Plata, Md., the other boys called him "white boy," and took out "a lot of their grudges against whites on me."

Even at Howard University, the other students treated him with coolness.

The trouble at the base, owever, was the last straw.

Penny came to Washington to go directly to the Defense Dept. and place his case before the Air Force inspector general.

He wants a show-down with the service to which he has devoted eight years of his life.

Five Teachers Pass Test for Vice Principal

Five Negroes were among the 50 teachers who have been advised that they have passed the Board of Education examination for vice principals of elementary schools.

From 1956 up to the present time, only three Negroes had made the grade.

Those who qualified are Mary Phillips Lindsay, who is now serving as an acting vice principal, and Hazel Ayers Henry, Owen Lloyd Knox, Evelyn Leonard Barber and LaVerne Dillon Parks.

Adam Powell, Secretary Wed

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — Adam Clayton Powell, whose divorce from pianist Hazel Scott was made final only two weeks ago, was married here in a private ceremony last Thursday.

The bride is the former Ivette Diago, 29, Powell's secretary for the past year until she resigned a month ago. She is a native of San Juan.

Trouble Hits One Family Nine Times

Bubble, bubble, toil and trouble, trouble, trouble —repeated nine times— greeted the family of Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, 1401 Cliveden street, Compton, Tuesday, as other people prepared for Christmas.

At 4 p.m. on the dot, the six Lewis' children and their three cousins who live with them trooped into the University Hospital, 3787 S. Vermont, all headed for the operating table.

The oldest of the troupe is George Allen, 16; the youngest Joseph Lewis, 3.

In between there are Ronald Lewis, 9; Donna, 8; Anthony, 7; Michael, 5 and James, 4; and Jerry Allen, 12, and Sharon Allen, 10.

All nine are going to yield their tonsils to the knife of skilled surgeon, Dr. John Coleman.

For good measure, Lewis, a truck operator for the county, decided to join the parade and have his tonsils out, too.

Mrs. Lewis, who works as a clerk for the county, says she plans on making gallons of soup over the holidays instead of the traditional turkey.

But cheer up, kids, it won't last long, and, boy how you'll be tucking in the food come New Year's Day!

FOR THE YOUNGSTERS—A few of the 3500 youngsters who jam-packed the Largo Theater on 103rd street Saturday afternoon are shown with Dr. Christopher L. Taylor, center, who sent out a "call for all tots" to attend his sixth annual Christmas party. Shown also are some of the members of Dr. Taylor's staff who along with Mrs. Taylor helped in the festivities. Some of the staff members are Pat Hernandez, Gloria Sutton, Billie Kenderick, Barbara Rollins and Marcella George. John Buckner is shown at left. (See Social Page.) (Adams)

Contempt Charged To 3 La. Officials

NEW ORLEANS — The federal government, which since Nov. 14 has consistently overruled all attempts of the Louisana governor and legislature to enforce segregation in New Orleans, on Tuesday initiated contempt actions against three of the state's top officials.

The U.S. Justice Department asked a U.S. Court to render a contempt decision against Lt. Gov. C. C. (Taddy) Aycock, House Speaker Thomas Jewell and State Supperintendent of Education Shelby Jackson.

Withheld Salaries

Reason for the contempt requests was the withholding by the state of salaries of teachers in New Orleans' integrated schools.

The motions filed by U.S. Dist. Atty. M. Heburn Many said the three men refuse to "draw, sign and issue salary checks to employees at William Frantz Elementary School and McDonogh 19 Elementary School and to certain other employees."

The federal action came after St. Louis heiress Miss Ellen Steinberg said she was depositing half a million dollars in a New York bank for use by the school board to meet its obligations.

Eugene Sands, president of Magnetic Research of White Plains, N.Y., said his firm would send $5000 to supplement Miss Steinberg's offer. There were also reports that offers of aid came from Los Angeles, but the details were not released.

Businessmen Act

Additional backing for the school board came from business men in New Orleans. Last Wednesday as 100 civic leaders called for an "immediate end to threats, defamation and resistance to those who administer our laws."

They took out a large ad in the daily papers to get their message across to the people of the city.

They called for an end to street demonstrations and urged full support for "city officials, the police and the duly elected school board of the parish of Orleans."

Financial Pinch

Business men admitted that the violence and hate campaign launched when four little Negro girls, all six years old, entered the two schools in mid-November have seriously hurt business. The loss affected both those who cater to the people of New Orleans and those who depend upon the tourist trade.

The financial pinch is expected to hit the schools this Friday when bills and salarie of more than $3 million fall due.

In Baton Rouge, meanwhile, the legislature was still trying to find ways to circumvent the integration order. Latest plan is to raise the state income tax from 2 to 3 cents on the dollar, to pay for the special legislative sessions and to provide funds for a private school plan for white students.

U. N. Censures Segregation in South Africa

NEW YORK—By a vote or 90-0, the U.N. General Assembly Sunday called on South Africa to end apartheid (segregation) laws in the mandated territory of South West Africa.

A resolution asking the U.N. to investigate conditions in the territory and propose steps toward self-government was adopted 78-0 with 15 abstentions.

Violation

The resolution held South Africa's policies in South West Africa violated her obligations under the 1920 League of Nations mandate. The South African government has refused to convert the mandate to a U.N. trusteeship.

In other resolutions, the assembly commended Ethiopia and Liberia for asking the world court to find South Africa guilty of such violations; urged an end to arbitrary imprisonment and deportation of Africans in the territory, and sought punishment of police and soldiers who shot and killed 11 Africans there a year ago as they were demonstrating against forced resettlement.

South Africa had moved that the assembly refuse to consider the resolutions on grounds the issues involved were before the court. This motion was defeated 82-1 with only South Africa voting for it.

Police got a description of the car and of the three men, all Negroes, who made their escape.

U.N. Congo Debate Ends in Deadlock

By GRACE E. SIMONS

United Nations' efforts to compromise the two opposing views on the Congo ended in failure Tuesday, but the U.N. Assembly voted funds for contiuing the Congo operation before adjournment until March 7.

Efforts at arriving at some kind of settlement in the Congo itself floundered, with the country splintered by separatist movements and the mounting threat of civil war.

Struggle for Control

The stumbling block in the U.N., as in previous debates, was the question of support of the jailed premier, Patrice Lumumba, versus support for the pro-Western President Joseph Kasavubu and the "strong man" dictator, also pro-Western, Col. Joseph Momutu.

The U.N. conflict, in turn, reflects the struggle in the Congo over control — whether there shall be a strong central government as advocated by Lumumba or a loose federaaetion of semi-independent provinces, favored by Belgium with the support of other Western powers.

Two resolutions, reflecting these opposing viewpoints, were debated in the U.N. Assembly, one proposed by the United States and Great Britain, the other by India, Yugoslavia and six other Afro-Asian nations.

Both Resolutions Fail

A two-thirds majority was needed for passage. The United States resolution just barely failed of passage, winning 43 votes, with 22 against and 32 abstentions. No African nation supported the U.S. stand. Five opposed it and 18 abstained.

The Afro-Asian resolution, backed by the Soviet bloc, received 28 votes, with 42 against and 27 abstentions. Many African nations supported this proposal.

This resolution sought the immediate release of Lumumba and the convening of the parliament that was elected just prior to the formal granting of freedom last July 1 and suspended in September by Mobutu when he set himself up as ruler.

It also sought the neutralizing of Mobutu's Congolese army.

The U.S.-British resolution, on the contrary, had the effect of approving U.N. actions in supporting Kasavubu and Mobutu and called upon the president to restore conditions that would permit the reconvening of parliament.

The British representative, in speaking on behalf of that resolution, advocated "prompt, fair and open trials for deposed Premier Lumumba and other imprisoned leaders."

Implicit in that approach was the concept that Lumumba's arrest was legitimate, which is hotly disputed by Lumumba's supporters.

No Agreement

Over the weekend, representatives of the various factions in the Congo met in Brazzaville across the Congo River from Leopoldville. Kasavubu attempted to bring about minimum agreement between the warring factions, but was unable to gain headway.

Neither Moise Tshombe, head of secessionist Katanga Province and generally regard as a Belgian puppet, nor Albert Kalonji, president of the South Kasai Province, also tagged with pro-Belgian leanings, would agree to any limiting of their powers by a central government.

Present at the meeting were representatives of Lumumba's Congolese National Movement.

Blockade, Battles

On their return to Leopoldville, all the politicians made widely divergent and contradictory statements, from which it was appparent that nothing had been solved.

Meanwhile, Mobutu has proclaimed an economic boycott on Oriental Province, Lumumba's stronghold, and battles were threatening on the borders of that province.

In Kivu Province, at the capital Bukavu, there was a battle Friday between Congolese troops and a U.N. service company composed of Nigerians. The Congolese had jailed a 50-member Austrian medical team, claiming that the Austrians were in reality Belgians in disguise.

In the six hour battle, one Nigerian was reported killed and three U.N. soldiers were reported wounded. One of the latter was British. Ten Congolese were said to have been killed.

Officer Awarded For Rescuing Five

Officer Henderson Cooper, of Newton Street Police Station, and Policewoman Dorothy Pettigrew, at present assigned to the Main Jail, were among police officers given awards for meritorious service during the year 1960.

Cooper was one of eight officers given Class "A" commendations for exceptional police work "beyond the call of duty."

Saw Flames

Miss Pettigrew, along with 18 men in the department, received a Class "B" commendation for meritorious police work.

Cooper's award resulted from his rescue of five persons from a flaming residence at 1244 E. 21st street Dec. 4, 1959, three of whom were children.

Cooper saw flames rising from the roof of the house and entered to check for sleeping occupants.

He led one person to safety. When a woman screamed hysterically that her grandchildren were asleep in the rear bedroom, he ran back into the house and found three small children. He grabbed all three in his arms and carried them outdoors.

Determined to Jump

Then he learned there was someone on the second floor of the building. Cooper again ran back into the house and rushed up the stairs, which by this time were engulfed in flames.

Standing near the front window was a man so terrified that he refused to follow the officer down the stairs as directed and insisted that he was going to jump out the window. Realizing that the jump could be fatal, the officer directed him to assist in tying bed sheets together.

Cooper then anchored one end of the line around his arm and dropped the other end out the window, permitting the man to lower himself to safety.

After checking the remaining rooms and finding them vacant, Cooper ran back down the stairs and through the front door just as part of the ceiling collapsed across the staircase.

He then aroused the occupants of neighboring houses.

The award given him was in recognition of his display of conspicuous courage in the face of extreme danger, with complete disregard for his personal safety.

Policewoman Pettigrew was given her award for work done as an agent while she was working at the Narcotics Division.

DUTY, PLUS — Henderson Cooper was awarded a Class "A" commendation for exceptional police work "beyond the call of duty" for saving the lives of five people, three of whom were children, during a fire on E. 21st street.

MERIT AWARDED — Policewoman Dorothy Pettigrew, along with 18 men, was awarded for "meritorious" work by the Police Dept.

OMEGA LEADER — Dr. I. Gregory Newton, grand basileus, will preside at the opening session of the Omega Psi Phi conclave in San Antonio, Texas, Monday, Dec. 26.

Six to Sue UCLA Over Permit Rule

Six UCLA students filed suit this week in Superior Court challenging a university regulation barring the distribution of literature on the campus without permission of university officials.

The suit, which is supported by the American Civil Liberties Union, asks for a court order declaring the regulation unconstitutional and in violation of the First and 14th Amendments.

The regulation was adopted on November 13, 1959, and went into effect last February. It provides that "no literature may be distributed free or sold in connection with meetings or events without permission obtained in advance."

ACLU Attys. A. L. Wirin and Lawrence Steinberg said the students hoped to distribute a pamphlet discussing both sides of the racial segregation issue, but objected to the university's "paternalism" implicit in the regulation.

the north and Artesia on the south and between Alameda on the east and Western avenue on the west. The 66th district would be located between the 55th and the 62nd with Van Ness as its western boundary. The population of the 55th would be 203,000 and that of the 66th would be 150,000. The two districts would be combined into one congressional district with a population in excess of 350,000.

"Not Begging

Acting as spokesman for the committee, Wendell Green, Sentinel editor, told the assembly committee, headed by Robert Crown, that the group "is not approaching with hat in hand begging for a handout." He also assured the assemblymen that it was not "giddy with a sense of power making excessive demands."

The case for the plan was bolstered by carefully drawn maps with 1960 census figures showing population and residence. Perry Parks, Atty. Morgan Moten, David Scott Sr., and Mrs. Marnesba Tackett collaborated in the preparation of the maps and collection of statistics.

Negroes In Majority

If district boundary lines are drawn as proposed by the citizens committee both the 55th and 62nd assembly districts would have an overwhelming majority of Negro voters. The 63rd district would have about 35 per cent Negro population and the 66th district somewhat less than a majority.

The committee's plan would eliminate the 61st assembly district now represented by Jess Unruh and would split up that district between the 66th, 62nd and 63rd districts. It would also remove a substantial number of Negro voters from the 26th congressional district now represented by James Roosevelt and the 23rd district represented by Clyde Doyle.

Ministers Speak

Committee spokesmen told the assemblyman that Negro communities have a unity of interest in many problems growing out of what they called "the facts of life" and added that such conditions are apt to prevail for a "long time to come."

A committee of ministers headed by Rev. Maurice Dawkins appeared before the assemblymen Thursday to voice a plea for fairness in redistricting plans. The delegation also included Revs. Sylvester Odom, James Hargett, Jerry Ford and Clayton McCoy.

Color is Badge Of Honor, Says Fund Director

GREENSBORO, N.C.—Referring to Africa as the "bridge between the East and the West—the last great frontier for the West"—Dr. R. O'Hara Lanier of New York City, urged the Founders' Day audience at Bennett College, recently to re-identify themselves with Africa, "lest what we know as a free society pass from our generation."

Dr. Lanier, director of African Affairs for the Phelps-Stokes Fund, who recently toured Africa, said:

"You and I should cherish the idea that color is not a disgrace, but an honor. Deep are the roots of our heritage in Africa."

The speaker reminded his listeners that highly organized and complex civilizations flourished in Africa long before the white man came to the continent. Evidence reveals that as early as 3315 B.C. the African-Egyptians had developed a written language.

Xmas Party Planned for Hate Victims

WASHINGTON — There will be some Christmas cheer this year in the drab lives of thousands of Negroes in Fayette and Haywood Counties, Tenn., who face starvation and exposure because they dared exercise their right to vote.

There will be a special dinner candy for the youngsters and a "Carol Sing" at Owen College in Memphis Wednesday, Dec. 21.

Caravan

Memphis citizens, organized by Atty. James F. Estes, are bringing the farmers and their children to the city in a caravan procession that will travel down Beale street to the festivities at the college.

College Pres. Charles Dinkins will play the role of Santa.

The "Carol Sing" is expected to be the biggest civil rights yuletide celebration in the country, and will serve as the starting point of a renewed nationwide drive to aid the beleagured Negroes.

No Federal Aid

Some 300 families have been evicted or face eviction. Tents are being set up as their only shelter against the cold of winter.

Appeals to the Federal government to send in aid have so far met no response.

Report Six With Whooping Cough

Six children in the vicinity of Vermont and Florence avenues are reported to have whooping cough, Dr. Pauline O. Roberts, Southwest District health officer, announced this week.

All of these children are pre-school age, ranging from 2 to 5 years old.

Dr. Weekes' 'Progress' 'Too Slow' for Warren

Dr. LeRoy Weekes, vice president of the Urban League, and Edward Warren, president of the NAACP, clashed this week in their estimate of race progress in the United States.

The clash came in continuing comments over articles written by Nigerian journalist Oladele Bibliari, in which he was sharply critical of conditions he found here.

Found Nothing Good

Dr. Weekes, stressing aechievements, was critical of Bibliari because during "the four months he spent in this country, he never found anything good to write about."

The good things Dr. Weekes thought should have been mentioned are, to quote him, eradication of racial discrimination in the armed forces and in the nation's capital, the Supreme Court decision (1954) calling for integrated schools, the platforms of the two major political parties this year "which spelled out complete bills of civil liberties," Supreme Court decisions since 1954 that have furthered integration and student sit-ins in the South.

Warren, a real estate broker, backed Bibliari's criticisms.

Who Are We Kidding?

Progress in the racial field, he said, is so slow it sometimes even goes backwards.

He went on:

"Somebody's dodging the truth. The facts are obvious. Who are we kidding when we say great strides are being made?

"Everywhere you look you can find segregation. We have been covering up too long one of the bad features of American society. The Negro salutes the same flag and fights in the same Army as the white man, but doesn't get the benefits of peace."

9 Get Jobs as Bus Drivers In Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla, — Nine Negro bus drivers were hired here recently, according to Ruby Hurley, NAACP southeast regional director, the first hired in this Florida city.

They will not be restricted to driving within the Negro community, Mrs. Hurley said.

This employment breakthrough stemmed from NAACP youth council activities. The council has also agreed to meet with a committee of the Chamber of Commerce in an effort to iron out lunch counter bias.

Meanwhile, sit-in demonstrations are continuing in conjunction with a "No Christmas Gift Buying" withholding campaign against the entire downtown shopping district.

Safely Install Christmas Tree To Prevent Fire

Don't let your Christmas tree be the cause of needless tragedy and fire.

The Los Angeles Fire Department makes the following suggestions:

Make sure you select a freshly cut tree with firmly attached needles.

Keep the tree outside and in water until you set it up for decorating.

When setting up the tree, select the coolest spot you can, away from radiators, heaters and fireplaces.

If possible, set the tree up in a tree holder that includes a container of water in which the trunk can rest. Keep the container filled. Do not put lights on aluminum trees

Suffocation Try Awakens Woman

Miss Geneva Mae Sims, 32, of 601 E. 27th street, told police that she was awakened about 2:30 Saturday morning when a man she identified as James Green was holding a pillow over her face, shutting off the air.

She struggled free and fought him off. He left, but returned about 7:30 a.m. Afraid he would kill her, she called the police.

Miss Sims said this was the second time Green, 28, a truck driver, had tried to kill her while she slept.

The first time, about a month ago, she awoke to find him bending over her, with his hands around her throat, attempting to strangle her, she said.

She blamed that attack on Green's drinking.

Arrested at the 27th street address, Green denied that he had attacked Miss Sims. He said, "I didn't do anything to that woman last night. I wasn't even there. I was in Santa Monica."

The marks on Miss Sims' neck he said were caused durign a quarrel they had some time ago.

Unemployment Here Increases

Unemployment in the Los Angeles - Long Beach-Orange County area rose to 168,900 in November from 156,100 in October, a 33 percent increase compared with the same month in 1959 when 126,400 persons were seeking jobs.

The rate of unemployment amounted to 5.8 percent of the labor force in November. It was 5.4 percent in October and 4.5 percent in November a year ago.

DEATH RIDES

Leave drinking alone if you're going to be driving, and driving alone if you've done some drinking, advises the National Automobile Club.

Drive after drinking and Death rides by your side.

300 Towns In South Hit By Boycotts

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—The NAACP went to the community last week for support of its "No Christmas Gift Buying" drive through a series of public meetings in vacant lots.

The association launched the pre-Christmas boycott throughout the Southeast last week, Mrs. Ruby Hurley, NAACP southeast regional director, said involved are more than 300 communities in six states: Georgia, Florida, North and South Carolina, Mississippi and Tennessee.

$1.25 Farm Wage Proposed

A recommendation that a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour be set for women and children employed in agriculture was given unanimous approval Friday by Gov. Brown's Advisory Committee on Children and Youth.

The committee met at the UCLA Extension Building on S. Hill street.

"At this time of the year it is a pleasure to turn aside from everyday affairs and send to our friends, old and new, warm Season's Greetings and Sincere best wishes for the Coming year."

The Important Newspaper

The Kennedy Cabinet

The composition of the Kennedy cabinet isn't calculated to set Negro voters dancing in the streets. The failure to include a Negro is disappointing, especially in light of the fact that the cabinet was carefully picked to accord major recognition to all other groups from which President-Elect Kennedy drew the support necessary for his election.

Mr. Kennedy did say that he offered the postmaster generalship to Congressman William Dawson and Dawson agreed that the offer had been made and he had declined. We're not much impressed by this adroit maneuver because it proceeds on the assumption that there was only one Negro in the whole country who was of cabinet structure and that his declination disposed of the matter.

One of the most important posts in the cabinet is that of the attorney general which went to Robert Kennedy, the president-elect's brother. We don't know what he plans to do in the civil rights controversy. He has no record on that issue and his only qualifications for the position, as far as we can see, were his activities as counsel for the committee which investigated labor abuses. That committee was headed by Arkansas Senator John McClellan, a bitter-end segregationist. Of course, that committee did nothing about the widespread and unlawful racial discrimination practiced by unions. We can only hope that Attorney General Kennedy will tackle the civil rights problems with the vigor for which he has been so widely acclaimed.

Secretary of Health Abe Ribicoff holds another cabinet post of importance to Negroes but his publicity has been consistently slanted to depict him as a "moderate" and his known ambition to get to the Supreme Court—may or may not—dispose him to take it easy in his dealings with racial matters.

The men with the best records on racial issues, Stewart Udall and Orval Freeman, occupy the posts of Secretary of Interior and Agriculture, respectively, and their activities will have little direct impact on civil rights matters.

The new postmaster general is a resident of Los Angeles but if Mr. Day has taken any stands on racial issues they have escaped our notice. Is is disturbing to note that his first assistant is a South Carolinian distinguished for nothing except partisan activities.

The important positions of Secretary of Defense and of the Treasury are in the hands of conservative Republicans who have been discreetly silent on issues of major importance to Negro voters.

Taken as a whole the cabinet is a carefully selected political group carefully grounded on dead center. There isn't a crusader in the lot and it seems that if the new administration is going to assert any leadership on civil rights issues that leadership will have to come from the new president. We'll have to wait and see what he has in mind.

Short Sighted City Atty.

Apparently, Roger Arnebergh isn't going to have any opposition in the race for city attorney. He has been an all-things-to-all-men public official with the result that nobody can find an issue on which to oppose him.

The most significant thing about Mr. Arnebergh's office is that he rarely finds a place for a Negro attorney on his staff. One deputy did serve under him but when he resigned that seemed to end the matter.

We place little importance on the claim that there have been no applications for the jobs. In comparison there are a number of deputies in the district attorney's and attorney general's offices. Even the public defender's office dropped its ancient color bar a few years ago. Only the county counsel and the city attorney seem unable to find Negro lawyers to assist them.

Rev. Henderson Speaks Out

The Rev. J. Raymond Henderson, pastor of Second Baptist Church, brought his Christian brethren up short in San Francisco last week with a simple plea that "the National Council of Churches should do more than talk" about the Christian family. He recommended that they take a strong stand on the New Orleans situation. The churches responded with a resolution condemning mob violence and, in effect, urging New Orleans Christians to support school integration.

The Rev. Henderson has always served as the strong voice of conscience in this community and in church affairs. He can be counted on to cut through silence and evasion on all moral issues. Los Angeles has every reason to be proud of a minister who insists on the practice as well as the preachments of Christianity.

Battleaxe & Bread

By Lester B. Granger

A big part of my business is writing and answering letters. Long letters and short ones, letters that are explanatory and informative, or argumentative and persuasive, letters that do something for some one else and letters that ask some one to do something for the Urban League.

And a big part of my avocational pleasure is in reading some kinds of letters, though generally I don't answer them.

Granger

Some of these letters comment on something reported about me or on something I am quoted as having stated. Sometimes people just write to me to share their feelings about something in which they assume I am interested. And sometimes they are so right.

Distrusts Nkrumah

There's the chap from Brooklyn, for instance, who is "of the opposite race," as some of us so quaintly describe those whom the census lists as "white." He is evidently a reader of the Amsterdam News, because he addressed his little note to me at that office even though it had nothing to do with anything this column had recently carried.

My correspondent is distrustful of Ghana's volatile prime minister, and comes right out and says so. That's all right; he has plenty of company—some of it in Ghana—but his authority quoted doesn't constitute very sound reason for trust or mistrust.

He includes a clipping of a "New York Daily News" editorialette. It's entitled, "Make Up Your Mind, Mr. N." The editorial refers to reports some weeks ago that Ghana intends to nationalize all foreign business concerns within its borders. It contrasts this reported intention with the need of Ghana for investment of foreign capital. The Daily News is not reassured by Mr. Nkrumah's denial of any such intention, citing his Marxist socialism as reason for skepticism as to his government's trustworthiness and advising private capital to "bypass Ghana" unless and until "Nkrumah offers an ironclad guarantee against such thievery" as nationalizing business concerns.

Like Castro?

My correspondent attached to this clipping a note of just 13 words: "I don't trust this guy. He will do the same thing Castro did." I presume the "guy" he doesn't trust is Prime Minister Nkrumah, not the editorial writer of the Daily News. As a matter of fact, I don't see why he has to trust either. The News' editor is writing to appeal to the kind of people who read the paper, thereby encouraging advertisers to buy space in it, while Ghana's prime minister is running his country in such a way as to appeal to a majority of his voters, thereby insuring his continuance in power and advancing his dream of "Free Africa."

Mr. Nkrumah's dream of a free Africa may not accord with the ideas of people in New York City, Los Angeles, or even Nigeria. And the editorials of the Daily News may seem downright silly to many readers with different notions about Ghana or foreign capital or both.

Right to Nationalize

But the point is that Ghana has a perfect right to nationalize its domestic or foreign businesses—if the people of the country think this is the thing to do. And foreign capital has a perfect right to enter, withdraw or stay out of Ghana entirely, if the prospect of a fair return for capital investment seems dubious. This isn't a matter for trust: it's a matter of figuring the odds. And business is generally pretty good at that sort of figuring, at home and abroad, and a good thing for the American people that it is.

The Daily News editorial contrasts what it calls "Christian honesty" with "Marxist larceny," but the comparison isn't that simple. There is such a thing as dishonesty on the part of people who will swear they are Christians; and Marxism, so far as I've observed, is more apt to be muddle-mindedness than outright dishonesty. The dishonesty is shown by those—such as Castro and his Communist tutors—who use Marxism as the come-on while entrapping the simple-minded into the toils of the Communist world conspiracy.

I repeat, this isn't a matter for trust or lack of trust; it's a matter for understanding. We in this country have got to understand not only what the New African nations do or say, but also the reason why they act as they do. Understanding this, we'll come to understand also that sometimes their appearance of morality or lack of morality is an accurate reflection of what they see in us.

Not what we are, but what they see. At times what we are is what they see—and it's not pretty at all. At times what they see is anything but what we are—and that's unfortunate. But when we quit worrying about how much we can trust Nkrumah and his fellows, and put some thought to how we can get them to trust us—when that time comes, we'll be on the road to effective world statesmanship.

NAACP Selects Warren; Miller Leads National List

to be valid after checking the names against office lists.

Atty. James R. Akers Jr., former NAACP president, obtained 197 votes for the post of second vice president. Dr. H. Claude Hudson took third place with 172 votes.

Although five vice presidents were elected, Warren advised that according to a recent amendment to the national constitution, only three are regular voting members of the branch executive.

Ballard Leads

Placing fourth and fifth were the Rev. C. W. Arnold, 135 votes, and Atty. Herbert Simmons Jr., 121.

Top scorers for the branch executive committee were E. H. Ballard, 208; Johnny Otis, 207; and Vivian Strange, 202.

Others elected to the 18-member committee are:

Vote Close

Votes for treasurer and secretary were both so close that they could easily be upset by the counting of the 37 challenged ballots.

As of the initial count, Julia De Passe received 117 votes for secretary, losing out to Patricia M. Elmore, who received 128 votes.

For treasurer, Dr. Frederick N. Spann obtained a count of 129 votes, against 115 for Cecil Peterson.

For the national executive board, in addition to Miller, those elected were Dr. H. Claude Hudson (second with 198 votes); Daisy Bates of Little Rock, with 189 votes; Joseph Kennedy of San Francisco, 154.

Others of the 16 elected on the basis of the partial returns were: Daisy Lampkin, H. T. Delany; Walter Reuther, Arthur B. Spingarn, Stephen G. Spottswood, Felix H. Dunn, James Henton, A. S. Wiggins, William A. Ross, Chester I. Lewis, S. Ralph Harlow, with a tie for 16th place between George V. Gardon and Carl Murphy.

Judge Bernard Jefferson, as chairman, performed skillfully to keep the meeting at an even keel (almost) and moving rapidly. Mrs. Alice Taylor served as secretary.

The Rev. J. Raymond Henderson, in whose church the meeting was held, delivered the invocation.

Rev. Ellis Casson, NAACP regional representative from San Francisco, represented the national office as an official observer.

Evers' Case Too Raw for Miss. Paper

torney general, the Citizens Council, many other trusted officials and editors of our state. . .

Hapepns to Be a Negro

"In Mississippi today we find our highest officials, our governor and two United States senators, our legislative leaders voicing criticism of the courts . . .

"Yet, after all of the criticism which has been directed at our courts, who is it that is landed in jail. Is it Gov. Barnett? No. Speaker Walter Sillers? No. Either of our two United States senators? No. The individual happens to be a Negro who represents the most unpopular organization in our state and one to which we as segregationists do not subscribe."

The editorial ends by saying that if the "humblest citizen is denied "the right to express his opinion today, "all of us may be slaves tomorrow."

Tried to Register

The sentencing of Evers, who is free on bond while his case is being appealed, is tied to the strange case of Clyde Kennard, a young poultry farmer, former student at the University of Chicago, and an applicant for admission to Mississippi Southern University.

When Kennard applied at the university, he was rejected for "deficiencies in schoolastic records."

When he drove away from the university's administration building, Kennard was arrested for "reckless driving" and officers searched his car and "found" illegal whisky. Kennard was jailed on this charge.

Marked Man

Any Negro who applies to a "white" school in Mississippi is a marked man and, although nothing was heard from Kennard for a time as he went about his poultry business, last spring he was again hauled in by law officers.

The new charge against Kennard was that he agreed with another person to purchase five sacks of chicken feed to be stolen by the other person. The feed retails at $5 a bag.

The all-white jury found Kennard guilty in ten minutes.

Evers was asked in Jackson for a comment on the verdict rendered in the Forest County court nearly 100 miles away. He said the verdict was "a mockery of judicial justice." For this he was cited for contempt, found guilty and given 30 days in jail and fined $100.

Loren Miller Says . . .

ried Negro women. Andrew Jackson enlisted their support in the war of 1812 by flattrey and they gave him a big hand in the battle of New Orleans.

Held Their Own

This group of persons pretty well held its own until the Civil War. Sons and daughters were often educated in France and the beautiful girls in many instances became wives or mistresses of some of the leading citizens of the state. When the Civil War broke out the well-to-do Negroes, with a fine disregard of race, organized a regiment of "free men of color" to fight for the South and the New Orleans Picayune (still being published, incidentally) said of them:

"We must pay well deserved compliments to the companies of free men of color, all well dressed, well drilled, and comfortably uniformed. Most of these companies have provided themselves with arms unaided by the administration."

When the Civil War ended, these Negroes grabbed for political power and for the first time remembered their identity with other Negroes who had been slaves. Three Santa Dominican brothers named Rouandez showed up with a dream of making Louisiana a state controlled by persons of African descent. They established a daily newspaper, The New Orleans Tribune, and began to urge Louisiana Negroes to follow the example of Haiti, the Dominican Republic and Liberia which they described as the "three Governments among civilized nations entirely in the hands of men of the African race." They controlled a faction of the Republican party called the "Pure Radicals" and tried to win the party nomination for a Negro in 1868 but their man lost the nomination in the Republican convention by a vote of 45 to 43.

Bid For Power

This bid for power by Negroes frightened the wits out of the so-called "Compromising Republicans" and they promptly chose a Negro for lieutenant governor. The New Orleans Tribune was repudiated as "the organ of the Republican party." Undaunted the Pure Radicals put their own candidate in the field but he lost the gubernatorial race amid cries of corruption.

The Pure Radicals didn't give up the ghost with their loss in 1868 but they lost ground in the stormy ten years that followed and gradually dropped out of sight after the Republicans abandoned the South in the Compromise of 1876. During the years in which they sought power they pressured the legislature into enacting laws forbidding segregation in schools and places of public accommodation. They were influential in passing another law, vetoed by the governor, making racial discrimination a crime.

Cross Color Line

When Reconstruction finally came to an end many of these "free men of color" moved over the color line. Literally, thousands of them began to "pass" for white and some of their descendants are numbered among rich and powerful Louisianans to this day. Some of those descendants know these facts; most of them do not.

The point is that one way or another Louisianains of African descent have played a large part in the state's history. There has been more racial intermixture in Louisiana than in any other state of the union. Some of the people who are yelling for segregation today have more Negro ancestors than those they are trying to keep out of the public schools. It's a wise child who knows the race of his own great grandfather in Louisiana.

Christmas in Haywood County

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

It is my intention to picket Negro churches in Los Angeles until the current picketing of Woolworth has ceased.

The manner of picketing is as follows: One church each Sunday, from 10 a.m. to noon, with a sign reading: "Picketing Woolworth is a Christian Duty."

I intend to maintain Gandhism discipline, and to wear cotton garments as a symbol o Gandhi's dress.

I have chosen Negro churches because when a Negro pickets by my side, (I am Caucasian) people understand so much better. A bi-racial picket line is educational to the community.

Churches were chosen because the Negro ministers represent the most solidified leadership of the Los Angeles Negro Community.

My being a Caucasian has no bearing on this project because to feel otherwise would be to say that a race is involved in an idea.

No organization is sponsoring this; it is my own idea and doing. Nor do I consider that Negro ministers are my opponents. Rather this method has been chosen to ask for a demonstration of brotherhood where it will count, in front of Woolworth.

Each week a letter will be sent to a Negro minister informing him (or her) that his church has been chosen for that Sunday's "Satyagraha" or Soul Force Walk. The Hindu word was given deeper meaning by Christ's "Sermon on the Mount."

The original of this letter is to be sent to the Victory Baptist Church, and my first Satyagraha Walk will be there at 10 a.m. Christmas Day. I welcome others to join me.

Yours in Brotherhood,
Sidney Plotnick

Dear Sir:

I would like to put in a word of appreciation of equal opportunities extended to members of our race (FEPC).

While shopping at the May Company downtown, I was very gratified and happy to have my check OK'd by a Negro clerk, who was wearing a badge giving her the authority to do so.

I think we should give credit to those companies who do give us equal opportunities as well as censor those who do not.

Since your fine paper has done so much for our race in opening the way for fair employment — perhaps by printing this you can encourage other companies to offer us better jobs, for which we are equally qualified.

"I would like to be informed if there is any policy currently observed by the State Colleges with regard to discriminatory practices, in or out-of-state.

"If such a policy exists, was it violated by the arrangements made for the housing of the Humboldt State football team?

Opposes Action

"If there is no policy of any kind with respect to this important matter, are immediate steps being taken to develop one which is in line with the intent of this administration and the State Legislature as expressed in many specific actions?

"Since it will, after July 1, 1961, be the responsibility of the new Board of State College Trustees, of which I am an ex-officio member, to establish policies for the State Colleges, I am particularly concerned about present practices and also plans that the Department of Education may have in this regard for the coming six months."

Citizens Must Act On Rights—ACLU

NEW YORK — Individual citizens shape the course of civil liberties in the United States, the American Civil Liberties Union declared in its 40th annual report, "By the People," just released here on the eve of the 169th anniversary of Bill of Rights Day.

"By action or inertia—singly, through private groups or government representatives — people determine the progress or setbacks in the preservation of their basic constitutional rights," Patrick Murphy Malin, ACLU executive director, stated in the introduction.

Backs Sit-Ins

The ACLU report singled out three areas of current tension in which citizens can make their influence felt: civil rights for Negroes, separation of church and state, and the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Endorsing the Negro lunch-counter sit-ins and other legal measures being used to win equality, Malin wrote that people "could privately do a lot more than they are now doing" to hasten the end of racial discrimination, "without waiting for government action." But in any case, he emphasized, what federal, state, and municipal governments do will be determined by the pressure exerted on them by the people.

In the same manner, Malin observed, citizens play a key role in the separation of church and state.

Serpent

Repeating the ACLU's conviction that the House Un-American Activities Committee should be abolished, Malin said this "serpent in our demi-paradise of a free democratic government and a free society can be scotched only by the people, through their representatives."

The ACLU report also reviewed other high points of the organization's activities during its 40th anniversary year:

It fought efforts to censor books, magazines and movies either by legislation or by pressure groups such as the Citizens for Decent Literature.

It joined in the mounting attacks against loyalty oaths, including the loyalty provisions to the National Defense Education Act.

It supported legal cases to correct malapportionment of voting districts.

It backed the right of unions to use members' dues for political purposes.

Handwriting on Wall

It fought the use of wiretapping and police brutality.

It pressed an extensive campaign for creation of municipal citizens' review boards to hear complaints of malpractice by police.

The sit-ins by Negroes in southern cities were described as "additional handwriting on the wall for those who have not yet learned that machine civilization spells the doom of racial discrimination (in northern housing as in southern voting and schooling) . . . Modern industry means big factories and supermarkets instead of small farms and shack stores, skilled workers and college students instead of share-croppers and handymen. Modern industry needs a large body of well-disposed workers and customers at home, as well as enthusiastic friends in Asia and Africa . . ."

Even though the 1960 political party platforms and the 1960 Civil Rights Act reflect the increasing demand for civil rights progress, the report said, the nation "cannot realistically expect further federal legislation at more than a snail's pace.

"The immediate practical question, with regard to governmental efforts to end discrimination, is still this two-

'Spartacus' Theater Party For Stovall Home Jan. 8

"Operation 'Spartacus' Theater-Party" was launched this week by a group of community volunteers to solicit by telephone calls the sale of tickets to the "Spartacus" theater-party January 8 at the RKO Pantages Theater, Hollywood.

The gala theater-party, the first of its kind to be held in the community, will benefit the Stovall Home for the Aged, a non-profit organization opened in 1956 at 4000 E. Fairmont Street, according to Dr. Gerald L. Stovall, president of the Foundation.

Tickets for the theater-party are being sold for $5 and $10 each and reservations or additional information concerning the "Spartacus" theater-party may be obtained by calling REpublic 2-2424 or REpublic 4-5968.

Woody Strode, former UCLA and Los Angeles Ram football star, plays an important supporting role in "Spartacus" and is serving as an honorary member of the theater-party committee headed by Dr. Leroy R. Weekes.

"Spartacus" stars Kirk Douglas, Laurence Olivier, Jean Simmons, Peter Ustinov, Tony Curtis, Charles Laughton and John Gavin. The film had its Los Angeles premiere recently and is showing exclusively at the RKO Pantages Theater.

Jobs Found for Older Workers

During the month of November the Los Angeles Metropolitan Offices of the Department of Employment had 1752 new work applications from persons over 45. Of these 188 were given counselling assistance, 616 were referred to jobs and are working, Henry Holtzman, field supervisor, announced this week.

"Ability is ageless," Holtzman said, "and we have highly qualified older workers in a wide range of vocations in our files.

"Employers who are looking for qualified applicants should phone RI. 8-6511."

John Hargrove Gives Aid To 'Chest' for 26th Year

John E. Hargrove is still doing something he has done for more than 25 years—speaking on behalf of the Community Chest.

Hargrove, director of public relations for the Protective Order of Dining Car Waiters Local 465, has publicized the Community Chest before thousands of people during his long volunteer stint.

For his outstanding service, he received a diamond-studded Red Feather pin last year, thereby being honored as one of very few ever to wear this award.

Save on Parties, Students Advised

WILBERFORCE, Ohio. — Dr. Charles Wesley, president of Central State College here, urged college students to spend "less on parties and socials and more on the NAACP," at a Freedom Fund rally here last week.

Gompers to Get 4 Classrooms

Gompers Junior High School will benefit greatly due to the recent School Bonds election victory.

In addition to four new classrooms, the school will be provided with dressing room and shower facilities for girls' physical eduatieon. The bonds also permit the enlarging and remodeling of the boys' physical education dressing and shower room facilities, the provision of a new textbook room, and the remodeling of the administrative offices.

Christmas Eve Communion At First AME

Festal of Holy Communion service will be held at First AME Church, 8th and Towne avenue, on Christmas eve, Saturday, Dec. 24, at 10:30 p.m. Dr. H. H. Brookins will deliver the sermon on the subject, "Night Before Christmas, What?" Special Christmas music will be presented by the Cathedral Choir under the direction of Charles Turner, minister of music.

On Sunday, Dec. 25, Christmas morning, 8 to 8:30, Dr. Brookins will be one of the panel speakers over Channel V, KTLA, on the program "In God We Trust." The subject will be "What Does Christmas Really Mean?"

At the 10:45 a.m. Dr. Brookins will deliver the Christmas Day message. The Cathedral Choir will sing at this worship service.

God Is Nearer At Christmas

By REV. JOHN C. BAIN

Christmas is a time when the over-arching love of God seems nearer to earth and human affairs. It is a time when we feel a strange tenderness pulling at our heart strings. A time when we turn aside from the way of self interest to greet the One who truly loved us.

A joyful time when a renewed awakening of the good, the beautiful and true become signs that the Christ Child belongs to all of us.

"The mere lapse of years is not life. Knowledge, truth, love, beauty, goodness, faith, alone can give vitality to the mechanism of existance."

— James Martineau

Every Day Could Be Like Xmas

By REV. WELFORD P. CARTER

This is a season of good will. All of our animosities are forgotten for the day and we feel in harmony and fellowship with the spirit of the occasion.

We are anticipating great things as we prepare to celebrate the birthday of our Christ. We are ready to do a kindness to a friend or enemy alike, for this particular day, but what of tomorrow? Christ who came to bring peace and good will did not come to bring it for one day, but for every day. He means for us to love and live in a friendly relationship with all mankind every day. Until we learn to do this we are not living according to the pattern intended by the Prince of Peace. Let us try to practice the spirit of Christmas.

Sunday School To Unveil Tree

A Christmas tree laden with gifts will be unveiled at New Community Church, 5965 S. Broadway ave, tonight, Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. Gifts of all kinds will be given away by the Sunday School under the direction of Mrs. KaKtherine McCluney.

Rev. Anita L. Edmonds, pastor of the church will speak on Christmas morning on "No Room at the Inn," at the 11 a. m. service.

At 8 p. m. Dec. 25, several singing groups will offer a Christmas musical conducted in the spirit of rivalry. Each group attempting to sing the most beautiful and moving number.

A preaching marathon is scheduled at the church on New Year's eve, beginning at 9 p.m. and concluding at midnight, according to Rev. Edmonds.

Basis of Christmas is Spirit Of Selfless Love, Sacrifice

By DR. L. SYLVESTER ODOM, Ward AME Church

Bishop Pike, of the Episcopal Diocese of California, has hurled a ringing challenge at the Christian Church in his provocative article in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post. It is the Bishop's thesis that Christmas 1960, finds the Christian church at almost every level, and almost every front, in retreat. Once again the church stands accused of blending too much with the social topography of the society which it has been sent to save.

This is a serious charge, made all the more so by the inward and painful recognition that it is true. Our hope lies, however, in the fact that while it is true, it is not eternally true. We face an ugly picture, but our hearts are lifted by the certain knowledge that it is a picture that can be changed.

Lost the Meaning

I submit to you that the dilemma we face is due, in no small measure, to the fact that we have somehow lost the deeper meaning of Christmas. In a kind of typical pharisaical manner, we have exaulted the ordinary, and turned aside from the "weigh-

History of Four Religions to Be Discussed

The history of three of the world's greatest religions will be told at a special holiday program of Our Authors Study Club, today, Thursday, at the Safety Savings and Loan Auditorium, 2638 S. Western avenue, at 8 p.m.

Speakers on the panel will include Dr. Cornish Rogers, pastor of Calvary Methodist Church; Dr. Jacob Pressman, rabbi of Temple Beth Am; and Ahmad Obeid, of Sudan, a graduate student at USC.

Robert L. Demps is the instructor of the club is Mrs. Vassie R. Wright is the president. Refreshments will be served.

Holy Sacrament To Commemorate Birth of Christ

Christian togetherness will be demonstrated in churches all over the world on Dec. 25 as prayers and songs of adoration fill the air in commemoration of the birth of Christ Jesus almost 2000 years ago.

The angels sang "Peace on Earth, good will toward all men," but in His ministry Jesus said He came not to bring peace, but a sword. However, in the commandments He admonished that man love his neighbor as himself.

Cordial invitations have been extended by ministers to everyone to attend Communion services at a church on Christmas eve, or on Sunday, which is Christmas day. Midnight watch services will be held on Saturday at Ward AME Church, 25th and Magnolia avenues.

Hamilton Methodist

At 6 a.m. Sunday morning, Hamilton Methodist Church will hold sunrise services. Later canned goods will be distributed. The Gospel Choir will lead worship at the General Hospital. Rev. John N. Doggett, pastor, will speak on "Keeping Christmas Alive," at the 11 a.m. service.

Westminster Presbyterian

The cantata, "The Christ Child," by Hawley will be sung by the three choirs of the church at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services. Rev. James E. Jones will lead the Christmas meditation. The choirs are the Angelic, Westminster and Sanctuary. The church address is 2230 W. Jefferson blvd.

Christian Science to Tell Christmas Story of Light

Proclaiming that the same light of hope and joy which guided the shepherds of old to the Christ child is again leading to the Christ, Truth, which saves and heals, the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Christian Science" will be heard Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

The Christmas story to be read from Matthew's Gospel will include the following, "Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him . . . When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy" (2:1, 2, 10).

Eternal Dawn

In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy writes, "Led by a solitary star amid the darkness, the Magi of old foretold the Messiaship of Truth. Is the wise man of today believed when he beholds the light which heralds Christ's eternal dawn and describes its effulgence?" (p. 95).

Pioneer Doctor Is Buried Here

Dr. Monroe Alpheus Majors, veteran pioneer race leader and medical man, whose life spanned the entire period of freedom of Negroes in the U.S., (1864-1960) was buried here last Saturday. Among surviving relatives are his daughter Mrs. W. A. Grace Boswell, and grandchildren Rev. Hamilton Boswell of San Francisco, Georgia B. Clark, Robert, Warren, Jr., and Chas. Boswell.

Among his many firsts was first Negro physician West of the Rockies. Places in which he practiced were his birthplace Waco, Austin, Brenham, Texas, Decatur, Ill., Indianapolis, Chicago, Los Angeles and Monrovia. Among his friends were: Paul Lawrence Dunbar, T. Thos. Fortune Dr. Dan Williams, Dr. U. G. Dailey, Booker T. Washington, Frederick Douglass, Henry Ward Beecher and Clarence Darrow. His former Chicago pastor and lifelong family friend, Rev. Harold M. Kingsley, officiated.

mont Square Methodist Church, 4410 Budlong avenue, augmented by voices from the Lincoln Memorial Congregational Church, will present the Christmas Oratorio by Saint-Saens at the Christmas Eve service, Dec. 24, at 11 p.m.

On Christmas morning the Brass Choir and organ will present a period of sacred music, beginning at 10:40 a.m. The title of Rev. A. C. Austin's message will be "This Is Christmas."

Mrs. Leftridge Gives Annual Yule Message

By Camilla Leftridge

Those who know the meaning of the miracle manger, when the word was made flesh and came to dwell among us, know that Christmas isn't just another holiday. It has a message and purpose which offer a hope for all mankind, the faithful as well as the unfaithful.

It was our first Christmas when God gave us His best, His only son Jesus, in the form of a little child as a Messiah. Not just "a son of man" but "The Son of Man." Before His coming the heavens foretold and awaited Him.

The only way that God could express His love for us was through His son, who was moved by our lost world. He came to seek, to save, teaching us love, humility, and forgiveness. I wonder are we, His children, are we accepting His best and in sincerity are we going about our Father's business?

Many names were ascribed to Him by the prophets: Shepherd, King, Man of Peace, but none fitted Him as well as Redeemer and Savior. Chirst is our Savior; let us put Christ back in Christmas instead of using the term Xmas to designate the anniversary of His birth.

I pray that if we put the Bibles back into the schools it will lessen juvenile delinquency.

God bless everyone and may the New Year bring you Peace.

Pacoima Church Presents Good Samaritan Story

Calvary Baptist Church, 12920 Vaughn street in Pacoima, this year became the first of the community churches to participate in the Van Nuys Star of Bethlehem parade which was held recently.

REV. H. T. BROADOUS

SHOCKING TRUTH

In spite of the fact that most everyone sings the song, "Oh Little Town of Bethlehem" every Christmas time, only 58 per cent of the persons questioned knew that it was the city of Jesus' birth, according to a recent survey by the Pathfinder Youth club of the Seventh-Day Adventist church.

The float was designed by Jesse C. Tyler, Jr. with costumes by Rosetta Peterson. It told the story of the Good Samaritan, the parable which teaches that love must know no limit or boundary of race, creed or color.

Rev. Hillery T. Broadous, pastor of the church, described the float to the television audience. John Taylor was the wounded man; Theo McConnell the priest, Ray Burns, the Levite and Jesse C. Tyler was the Good Samaritan.

Young Minister Preaches at St. Mark AME

St. Mark AME Church sponsored its pre-Christmas program last Sunday afternoon. Thomas Kemp, youthful minister and a USC student, addressed the youth group at the 130th and Avalon Street Church.

This is the second sermon presented by the minister, who is an active member of Second AME Church.

Rev. J. Ernest Williams, minister of St. Mark, indicated that from time to time youthful ministers will have the opportunity to share his pulpit.

Xmas Melody?

By Rev. James E. Jones

Occasionally I have the fortune or the misfortune of hearing progressive and sometimes modern jazz in which various instruments are from time to time featured as soloists. Each soloist improvisise as the mood strikes and sometimes the soloist is "so far out" that the melody is lost in the riff.

Sometimes in the baubles and the tinsel and the wrappings that represent and dramatize Christmas, one gets the feeling that a page has been taken from a Philharmonic or Newport score.

Or when one harks to hear "Hark the herald angels sing —joy to the world the Lord is come; let earth receive her king," improvisations of pleasantries, vanity and pride have distorted the melody of Christmas beyond all recognition. Especially when a pet shop displays a handsomely bound leather book with a gilt inscription "Our Puppy's Baby Book."

Or a popular Southern department store catalogue suggests a live black Angus steer wrapped as best we can." The wildest score being a gold plated garbage can filled with imported caviar at $12,125.49 delivered.

Christmas is still Christ's birthday, a historical fact whether we believe it or not. When you do your Christmas shopping, you can still hear the melody?

Self Sacrifice is Basis of Spirit of Christmas Season

tier matters" that lie at the very heart of our faith.

We have lifted ritual above righteousness, and have sought to satisfy, rather than to save. Harry Emerson Fosdick, that "beacon light of the American pulpit," pointed us the way years ago when he preached, "Christ Himself As Christmas." This is a truism which has somehow eluded us. We have become caught up in office parties, cross commercialism, selfish giving, and all the other trappings which make a mockery of this Holy Day.

Selfless Love

Christmas is a spirit. It is the spirit of "God in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself." It is the spirit of selfless love, of genuine sacrifice. It is the spirit which should make us uncomfortable when we gather around our "festive board," when we remember that millions around the world are hungry. It is the spirit of deepest humility, when we are pointed not to a palace, but to a stable, to find the Saviour of the world.

God grant that we can recapture the rapture of the real Christmas message, and that we may resolve that next Christmas will find the church answering the charge—

"Rise up! O men of God,
The Church for you doth wait,
Her strength unequal to her task,
Rise up; and make her great!

Holiday Cheer

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to all my friends, sisters and brothers for their thoughtfullness during my illness and for their donations, beautiful flowers and cards.

Christ's Day Challenges

By Rev. John N. Doggett, Jr.

Christmas is a sign of God's confidence in the human race. This trust is represented in the birth of Jesus, which embodied the spirit of God to the fullest. All of us are challenged to strive to be like Jesus in order to show appreciation for God's gift.

Let us make Christmas Christ's day.

"No age or time of life, no position or circumstance, has a monopoly on success. Any age is the right age to start doing."

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

"We called Armstrong Family..."

. . . we shall always remember the elegant appointments, beautiful equipment and thoughtful attention—a prestige tribute at moderate cost."

Santa Monican Quits Job to Fight for Ideal

Mrs. Ruth V. Ryan of Santa Monica, a widowed mother of two girls, resigned from her job at St. Johns' Hospital in order to devote her time to the fight for true democracy for all citizens.

Concerned about the events in Louisiana, Arkansas and Georgia, Mrs. Ryan wrote the hospital a long letter of resignation in which she said, in part, "The time for this stupid vacillating is long gone. The peoples of the world are asking each other onstantly nowadays how America can export a commodity she does not believe in herself.

Sanctity of Individual

"Democracy is the best answer to Communism. Democracy is everybody's business. I have wanted for years to work at making democracy a reality in America and now for whatever time I have left, I hope to do so.

"I firmly believe that America's greatest gift to the world is our Constitution with its glorious Bill of Rights, which is dedicated to the sanctity of the individual, under God."

Mrs. Ryan is a member of the executive board of the Santa Monica NAACP and works in other community organizations.

March, April Win Zodiac Tea Honors

The table representing March won first prize at the annual Zodiac Tea of Pasadena's First AME Church, at the YWCA one afternoon recently. Mrs. Martha Lunday was chairman of the March group.

Second prize went to November with Mrs. Mary Rogers as chairman.

The gold cup award for the largest amount of money raised went to Mrs. Anna Lou Parker, representing April.

Special guests of the tea were: Dr. and Mrs. Howard McDonald, of Los Angeles State College; Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Pitts of State College, and Charles Tinder.

Tom Ralls designed the guest table centerpiece. Miss Allie L. Almore was chairman with Mrs. Mamie Elders cochairman. Courtesy Club members served as hostesses.

Henry C. Ball, Organist, Dies

Concert organist Henry C. Bell, 57, who was known locally as Henri LeBel was buried in Rose Hill cemetary in Portland following funeral services conducted by Rev. Harley Akers, at the Colonial Mortuary. He had been ill about 10 days.

Christmas

Merry Christmas

Happy New Year!

Passing years bring no greater pleasure than the age-old custom of extending Holiday Greetings.

And, on this our first Christmas in the Sixties—in the midst of a world's inhumanity of man to man—the Star of Bethlehem still shines. It is a guiding light to hope and tranquility!

So, in the Spirit of the Season, our fervent wishes are extended that your Yuletide will be a Happy One, and that 1961 will reward you richly.

Dr. Taylor, Doll League, Avalon Center Christmas Parties Spark Yule Spirit

Santa came early this past weekend to some thousands of children in Los Angeles as Dr. Christopher L. Taylor of South Los Angeles gave his annual Christmas party Saturday and the Doll League followed suit with its annual gift-giving to many more children Sunday.

Not to be outdone, the Avalon Community Center followed up the two greatly appreciated parties with a third one Monday night at the Center.

This was the sixth year in succession that Dr. Taylor and his staff have undertaken to give as many youngsters as they can herd together a grand afternoon of fun and gifts.

This year the youngsters came from far and wide — some 3500 of them, flocking to the Largo Theater on 103rd street in throngs that formed lines clear to the street and stretched far around the corner.

Walter Espinosa, manager of the theater, said it was the "best turnout" he has had all year.

The youngsters were treated to a super-collossal movie, and in addition were loaded down with candy-filled stockings, toys and other gifts that to a youngster spell "Christmas."

Another 1500 gathered at the Carver Junior High School Sunday morning, when the Doll League took charge, with dolls and dolls and more dolls, calculated to please the heart of any and every little miss.

Actor William (Bill) Walker donned the traditional whiskers and red robe and made a jolly old Saint Nick as he handed out the treats to eager, small hands.

As others played on Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Opal Jones, Lindsay Vickers, Joe Bristow and the rest of the Avalon crew spent their time sorting gifts—including dolls given them by the Doll League and the Marine's Toys for Tots — wrapping packages and preparing for the rush of young guests expected the following evening.

They were ready and waiting Monday when 500 eager tots and teenagers thronged the Avalon Community Center, to witness the Christmas show, gloat over their gifts and munch their candy. At the Center, Joe Bristow took over the role of Santa Claus.

It was a great weekend for the youngsters. And it was a great weekend, too, for Dr. Taylor and his staff, the Doll Leaguers and the Avalon workers.

Merry Christmas to all, and to all good night.

Girls League At Jefferson Making Toys

The Girls' League of Jefferson High School under the energetic leadership of Mrs. Betty Riley, a teacher of English, turned aside from its many social activities this month to lend a hand to the less fortunate.

All year long the Girls' League has sponsored school parties, selected the girl-of-the-month, and, as of the winter term 1961, created a financial scholarship to be given to one of the graduating seniors, whose name will be revealed at a later date.

This December, however, the young ladies turned their attention to other and vital facets in the development of their personalities: that of giving of themselves for the betterment of humanity. The girls have been busy making yarn toys, stuffing dolls and making baby layettes for the unfortunate children who are confined to hospitals in the United States.

Also, the league has been instrumental in getting gift boxes filled for the Red Cross

To the delight of Mr. Sam Hamerman, principal, the entire student body has contributed most generously to the filling of these boxes which will be distributed in disaster areas throughout the world.

Dance Theatre To Stage Play At Holman Mon.

Eunice Cain, director of the Children's Dance Theatre, will present a Christmas dance program Monday, Dec. 26, from 7 to 8 p.m. at Holman Methodist Church Fellowship Hall, 3320 W. Adams blvd.

The advanced students will be featured in a creative ballet, "The Juggler of Notre Dame." They have previously apppeared in five performances.

Janice Hill will dance the role of the juggler; Donzalea Moore, Wanda Weaver, Janis Sterling, Dawn and Donna Bostic, the monks of the Cathedral of Notre Dame; Cathy Neal, Cynthia White, Royda and Leslie Brown, the royal people; Debby Gould, Sheila Sloan and Dion White, the merrymakers.

FOUNDER'S DAY PROGRAM—Members of he Bay Area Council of National of Negro Women are pictured following their Founder's Day Program held last Thursday. Seated are: Mary Johnson, treasurer; Betty Simmons, financial secretary; Arlene Lewis, member; Gloria Cranes, member; Mabel Hall, president; Eloise Sykes, membership chairman; and Alfreda Hubbard, corresponding secretary. Standing: Tossie Ruby, ways and means chairman; Esther Saunders, chaplain; Ida Dooley, recording secretary and historian; Lilie Mae Rogers, Shedrick Jones, Ann T. Davis and Marie B. Watts. (Adams)

Bay Area National Council Holds Impressive Founder's Day Program

The newly formed Bay Area, Southern California Council of the National Council of Negro Women, celebrated its Founder's Day with an impressive program last Thursday in the Carter Education Center of Calvary Baptist Church in Santa Monica.

Winsome Mabel Hall, formerly of Cleveland, Ohio, organized the chapter and is its president. She also was a fashion model for Lane and Bryant, top department store in Cleveland. In addition, she held memberships in the NAACP, League of Voters, Jewish Welfare and was associated with the AME Church of Cleveland.

Mrs. Hall has been residing in Santa Monica only one year and saw the need for such an organization as the Bay Area Council.

In celebrating their Founder's Day the group also honored citizens of the Bay Area for their contributions towards the growth of the fine Bay Area community.

Appearing on the program were Esther Sanders, mistress of ceremonies; Gospel Choir, John Dooley, 11, Sadie B. Boozier, Atty. Eugene Hall and Gloria Cranes.

The new council is comprised of 40 local women who hold meetings monthly with membership open to all local women.

Those receiving the Council's achievement scroll included:

Rev. and Mrs. Welford P. Carter, Rev. and Mrs. H. S. Davis, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Burcher, Rev and Mrs. Charles Williams, Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Holmes, Rev. and Mrs. F. M. Sadler, Rev. and Mrs. Harold Bynum, and Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Ward.

Also Mrs. Sadie Boozier, Mrs. Ida Dooley, Mrs. Margaret Mays, Mrs. Beatrice McCarroll, Mrs. Louise Finley, Mrs. Maude E. Ward, Mrs. Helen Brantley, Mr. Vernon Brunson, Mr. Dave Wesson, Mrs. Juanita Waters, Mr. E. G. Allen, Mr. Goodrich McNeil, Mrs. Rose Wesson, Mrs. Vada King, Mrs. Ester Coleman, Mr. Chauncy Garladd, and Mr. Joseph Rees.

Also Mrs. Thelma Terry, Mr. Silas White, Mrs. Daisy Payne, Miss Edna Heard, Mrs. Martha Sheffield, Mrs. Allie Cook, Mr. Alfred Quinn, Mr. Donald Brunson, Miss Elane Blanks, Mr. Joseph Spalding, Mrs. Mary McNeil, Mr. Manual Murrel, Mrs. Bessie Osborne, Mrs. Loretta Edwards, Mr. Leroy Witherspoon, Mr. Hilliard Lawson and Mr. Sherman Jones.

Miss Ball, Reid Troth Revealed

MISS DOLORES E. BALL — Betrothal announced.

At a family dinner party at the Islander Restaurant in Hollywood, Mrs. L. F. Ball announced the engagement of her daughter, Dolores E. Ball, to Ronald D. Reid.

The informal announcement was made to 16 members of the couple's respective families and came as a suprise to those attending.

Cooperettes Seat New Officers

The Cooperettes Club Inc. prepared for an active 1961 by installing their new officers early, with installation ceremonies being held in the lovely home of Ann Craig.

The gavel was passed to the new president, Lillian Atwood, by Roslyn Goddard who has very capably held the office for the past two years.

Following the installation, club members proceeded to the Town Tavern where they toasted their officers with cocktails.

The Freelancer Club's annual Christmas Party was held recently following their regular meeting in the home of Margaret Watts. Velma Craig was installed pres.

CAKE CUTTING—Mrs. Isiah Brown is pictured cutting a huge tier cake during the celebration of her 50th wedding anniversary attended by scores of friends last week.

Lindsay Vickers Gives Xmas Party

Lindsay Vickers, staff member of the Avalon Community center, was hostess to a gay and delightful pre-Christmas cocktail party in her beautifully arranged apartment, 1151 Plymouth, last Friday night.

Among her friends enjoying the festivities were organist Jackie Davis, Walter Hutherson, Capt. and Mrs. L. Barrett of Riverside, Joyce Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bristow, Isabelle Dorsey, Sandra Gladstone, Barbara Dyce, artist Charles and Mrs. White, Opal Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Laffle Robinson, Charles Barrett and Alice Greecy.

Assisting Miss Vickers with the party was Carlene Phillips.

Bill Smallwood

Xmas Eve is Edith Houston's birtthday while next day is ditto for Lena Tucker and Dorothy Howard. Dr. and Mrs. Warren Brooks (Aurelia) and their two kids jetted to the nation's capital for the holidays. Atty. and Mrs. Ivan Johnson's houseguest is Chicagoan Bruce McGoodwin (he's Dorothy's cousin).

Betty and Jim Scott's son, Scotty, reaches town today (Thurs.) for two weeks leave from S'Diego's Naval base; he's been reassigned there for 24 weeks.

Holiday Hopping

Xmas Eve hosts: Dr. and Mrs. Wayman McCoo. Evelyn Pride Cox and her Harry will be in town from San Mateo over the New Year's Eve weekend. Dr. and Mrs. Andre Tweedy moved into that Leimert Park house they built. The Ernie Weavers have their customary Xmas day open house. Philadelphia's Dr. and Mrs. Jack Smith (Catherine) visited Mary and Bud Clay (Jack and Mary are brother and sister) and the foursome left Mon. night for Xmas in Mexico City.

Ida Lee hostessed an Xmas party Tues. at her spacious place. Lillian Hall, back in town via Detroit, changed her last name to Hayes and is apt. shopping. Clara Prince and Pearl Lawson have SF on their holiday calendar. Ex-Angeleno Jodie Cooper underwent major surgery in NYC. Walthea Simms Jones headed for a spa in Mexico for hot mineral baths. Margaret Outley and Frances Ragin Xmas-party-entertained Holman Church's Sunday School teachers last Frid. at the home of the latter.

Yuletide in England

Freddy Clark, who used to really brighten this place when he lived here, is Yuletiding in England. The John Simmonses (Blanche) and Carrie Holcomb have asked friends in for New Year's Eve at the home of the former. LA to NYC: H. M. Owens who took the 66 route but pluckily, rushing to his injured wife's bedside. Pasadena's J. Robert Smith holidaying in Jamaica enroute to S'America on assignment. Elliot Carpenter takes a birthday on the 28th. First day of the year is anniversary for Pinki and Byron Webb so they're having open house on that date, naturally.

Zrelda Sealy picked the Thurs. after Xmas to entertain her girl chums over cocktails at her home. Dr. and Mrs. Mayo DeLilly are readying their house for the New Year's Eve party of the Friday Nighters Club. Della McDonald is a birthday girl tomorrow (Frid.):

And So to Ghana

SC grad Herman Bailey (teaching at Fla. A and M this year) is home for Xmas visiting his parents; next year he goes to Ghana to teach art. Handsome, the gift Judy Bailey Taylor and her Gerald got from her parents. A duplex, no less. Next Wedn. coffee hostess: Ruth Spencer, her honored guests being Florence Draper of Chi and Grace Morgan Jones of Sacramento.

The Girl Friends have no peers when it gaily comes to their annual Sun. before Xmas cocktail party at Wilfandel. Last Sun. was a delightful triumph again for them and the town turned out, eager, chic and merry. I, for one, enjoy it for you do get to hug folk you somehow don't see through the year. Atty. and Mrs. Vince

BEAUTIFUL CALIENTE IN OLD MEXICO. Holders of four tickets enriched their Christmas funds by $18,314 each last Sunday at Caliente Race Track in sharing first-place money in the 5-10 public handicapping contest.

Five winning horses were enough to take first-place share from the gross pool of $108,528. The consolation pool was divided into 141 shares worth $173 each for four horses.

A Negro couple from Los Angeles was one of the lucky four to win first-place money.

Winning numbers were 7-10-2-7-8-7. The crowd of 14,659 sent $380,798 through the mutuels for the 11 races not including the $108,528 in the 5-10 pool. No racing will be held this Sunday Christmas day.

Wilma Rudolph Slated to Run At Sports Arena

Willowy Wilma Rudolph, the super star of the 1960 Olympiad who won three gold medals, will make her first competitive appearance in the United States since her Rome conquests in the second annual Los Angeles Invitational indoor track and field meet at the Sports Arena Saturday evening, Jan. 21.

This surprise entry was disclosed by meet director Herschel Smith, who announced that he secured the entry of America's No. 1 track and field personality.

The pretty sprinting star will be accompanied by her Olympic and college coach, Ed Temple of Tennessee State.

"Skeeter" Rudolph personally was responsible for the greatest American women's track showing since 1932, the Babe Didrikson era. She established an Olympic record in each event in which she competed.

Olympic Champion Otis Davis, who rocketed to a fantastic world record of 44.9 to win the 400 meters at Rome, also announced he would compete in the second annual Los Angeles Invitational Indoor track meet at the Sports Arena.

Davis is the fourth entry—and the fourth gold medal holder—to enter the meet.

ABIE'S CORNER

An Idea

The new Los Angeles Angels of the American League with General Manager Fred Haney, President Bob Reynods and Board Chairman Gene Autry certainly have an excellent opportunity to capture the fancy of the Negro baseball fans by naming Emmett Ashford, the only Negro umpire in Triple-A baseball, to the staff of American League Umpires. Ashford is ranked as one of three best arbiters in the Pacific Coast League. Negro fans are big supporters of baseball and since the National League is way ahead of the American League in the number of Negro players it would certainly be wise if the local franchise holders stepped in, named Ashford to the staff and assure themselves a warm welcome on opening day at Wrigley Field.

When Sanford (Sandy) Stephens, shows up in Pasadena Jan. 1 with the University of Minnesota to play Washington he will become the first Negro quarterback in the history of the Rose Bowl. The 6 foot junior from Uniontown, Pa., who weighs 215 pounds rolled up 164 yards net in 57 running plays and completed 20 of 52 passes for 305 yards and was responsible for 11 touchdowns scoring nine himself and passing for two more. He is also the team's regular punter. His 55 kicks totaled 1,946 yards for a 35.3 average. He returned 16 punts for 111 yards and nine kickoffs for 230 yards.

Stephens, a political science student, also intercepted three passes and returned them for 74 yards in the closing victory over Wisconsin, a victory that moved Minnesota back into the No. 1 position in the national polls and earned the Gophers a ticket in the Arroyo Seco classic.

In addition to Stephens, the Gophers boast a sophomore tackle in Bobby Lee Bell rated as one of Minnesota's all-time finest; Bill Munsey, a 196 pound 5-11 sophomore halfback who carried the ball 51 times for a gain of 225 yards or 4.4 yards per carry, and 20-year-old Judge Allen Dickson, the team's punting specialist, who also had the second best per-play ground gaining record on the Big Ten team. He made 142 yards in 31 tries and was never thrown for a loss.

Prairie View, Arkansas to Vie in Bowl

The once beaten Prairie View Panther football team will oppose Arkansas A and M college in the 33rd annual Prairie View Bowl scheduled in Houston, Tex., on Dec. 31.

Prairie View, perennial host in the nation's second oldest bowl game, ended in a three-way tie and with a 9-1 season record for the Southern Conference championship.

The Panthers also were in a four-way deadlock with Grambling college, Southern University and Florida A and M for the 1960 National Negro College title.

Prairie View's only defeat of the season was to Grambling.

SIGNED — Hank Aaron signed his 1961 contract with Milwaukee. The 26-year-old centerfielder played 153 games last season, batting in 126 runs and slamming 40 home runs for a .292 average.

Santa Anita Race Meet Set Dec. 26

Beautiful Santa Anita Park has scheduled a half-hour earlier start than usual for its banner opening on the holiday Monday, Dec. 26, to usher in its "Traditions of the Turf" winter racing season that will extend 55 days through Mar. 11.

The gates will open at 10:30 a. m. and starting the first of eight races will begin at 12:30 p. m. Featuring the traditional sprint, the $20,000 Palos Verdes Handicap, is expected, as always, to prove particularly attractive.

The many thousands of visitors here for the Pasadena Tournament of Roses and the football game, as well as local race goers, will have an opportunity to see at the regular 1 p. m. post time the $25,000 Breeders' Trial Stakes on Friday, Dec. 30, and the double bill of the $25,000 Malibu Stakes and $20,000 Las Flores Handicap on the following Saturday.

The New Year holiday racing offering on Monday, Jan. 2, will be the $25,000 San Gabriel 'Cap on the spectacular hillside-infield grass course.

Huskies Basketball Team Enter Two Cage Tourneys

After playing eight games in eleven days the East Los Angeles College basketball team was beginning to work as a unit. Coach Dave Taylor planned no rest for his busy charges, as he entered ELA in holiday tournaments at Chaffey College and Glendale.

This week the Huskies were at Chaffey where they faced San Bernardino on Wednesday, and were to meet either Orange Coast or Glendale on Thursday.

Between tournaments East L. A. will go up against the USC Frosh at a neutral site, the Loyola U. gym. This game is set for Friday, December 23, at 6:15 p. m.

On the day after Christmas the Huskies move over to Glendale College where they open the Sam Barry tournament against El Camino. On Tuesday, Dec. 27, at Glendale it will be either L.A.C.C. or Harbor as the Huskie opponent.

Next ELA home game is at Belvedere Junior high on Friday, Jan. 6, with top rated Long Beach in a Metropolitan Conference game.

It has taken Coach Taylor's Huskies eight games to level off their record at four and four. After losing the opening three, ELA recovered to whip Citrus, Trade Tech, Pasadena, and Chaffey while losing an overtime match to Cerritos.

The starting five has shaken down to include Louis Hood and Felix Patterson at forwards, Allan Shapiro at center, Charles Battery and Charles Kennedy at guards. The Green and White record might have been better but for Hood and Battey who missed two and four games respectively. Only against Trade Tech and Chaffey were the Huskies at full strength.

Felix Patterson leads all ELA scorers with 127, closely followed by Chuck Kennedy with 126. Both have a respectable 16 point average. Battey and Hood are right behind with 15 point averages during their brief appearances.

Stokes May Recover

Maurice Stokes, Cincinnati Royals basketball player who was stricken with a brain ailment three years ago, may walk out of the hospital four years from now, according to Jack Twyman, his legal guardian.

Buck Shaw to Coach East

Lawrence T. "Buck" Shaw, who has coached the Philadelphia Eagles to their first Eastern Conference championship since 1949, this week was named to direct the East squad in the 11th annual All-Star Pro Bowl game Jan. 15 at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Announcement was made by Paul J. Schissler, managing director of the charity grid classic, that annually pits the all stars of the Eastern conference of the NFL against the elite of the Western conference. The West holds a 6-4 edge in the 10 games played.

The Jan. 15 game will mark the third time that Shaw, football's famed Silver Fox, has coached a Pro Bowl team. Last January, his Eastern squad lost to the West, 38-21, and in 1955, when he was coaching the San Francisco 49ers, he directed the West to a 26-19 victory.

Prep Point Maker

Richard Levin of Hamilton High, a forward on the school's basketball team, is well ahead of the other top makers at the midway mark.

After five leagues, Levin had 132 points for a 26.4 average. Williams of Manual Arts is fourth with 106 and 21.2 average.

THE TEE

WITH MAGGIE HATHAWAY

We could not believe our eyes when we read in a weekly paper that Thelma Cowan had become the first Negro woman to "turn pro." We hastened to the phone and called Thelma to congratulate her and ask her, "How on earth did you manage to join the WPGA? (Women's Professional Golfers Association) Did you have to file a suit to get in?"

"No," she answered, "I am not a member and I have not filed a suit."

"If you are not in the Women's Golf Association how did you turn professional?" we asked.

"I decided to teach golf in my back yard and later maybe on some of the public courses," she answered. By this time we were pretty hot under the collar.

Thelma was once the four-time winner of the Negro Women's Championship and many times (since she lost her championship) made statements to this writer that she was "too tired to fight."

It is a known fact that the WPGA is "lily white" and will be harder to crack than Men's PGA. Sifford, Spiller and many others have attempted for the past 10 years to become members of the latter organization and the most they have accomplished is that Sifford has been given a "player's card" (not a membership).

When we brought these facts to Thelma's attention she said, "I feel that the fight is over since the Atty. General has decided to help fight PGA."

"But," we reminded her, "didn't you know that representatives of the California Eagle, Bill Spiller and the Western Avenue Women's club brought this situation to the attention of the attorney general, met with him and mapped out these plans?" We also reminded Thelma that when the Western Avenue Women left the Vernondale (all Negro golf club) to fight for integration in the all white municipal golf clubs, she refused to go along. Thelma explained that the reason she refused was because to fight for integration ruined your ability to score and at that time she was the Negro champion.

"I have not been active in Vernoncrest (all Negro) or Rancho (all white club which the city had to threaten with loss of time if they did not accept Thelma) since the integration of golf clubs," she explained.

Let us make it crystal clear for the records, Thelma is NOT a Negro female professional and cannot become a "professional" until she applies to the WPGA in Florida and is accepted. (Can't you just see the Florida white women professionals accepting ANY ONE OF COLOR without the Supreme Court, attorney general, NAACP National Legal Redress Committee and our new President John Kennedy begging, pleading and suing.

Presently the only women golf pros are ALL WHITE. Here are a few names—Louise Suggs, Mickey Wright, Patty Berg, Wiffi Smith, Betsy Rawls.

A few others who shoot in the consistent 70's are: Betty Jameson, Fay Crocker, Marlene Bower Hagg (and her sister) Jackie Pung and many others. We hope to LIVE to see the day when some young Negro girl will play golf well enough and then FIGHT hard enough to become the first Negro women's golf professional.

Lipscomb - Nomelini

Big Daddy Lipscamb of the Baltimore Colts and Leo Nomelini of the San Francisco 49ers are scheduled to meet in a wrestling match some time in January.

'Sassy' Joins Herd Monday On Channel 11

The Ol' Woodchopper', Woody Herman, with his great entertaining unit, and songstress Sarah Vaughan, internationally known as 'The Divine One,' will be featured on KTTV's "Great Music From Chicago" special jazz concert, Monday, January 2, 9 p.m., Channel Eleven.

Assisting artists will be Chicago vocalist Frank D'Rone, Nat "King" Cole's protege, and the Ray Bryant quintet of "Madison" and "Little Susie" recording fame.

"Great Music's" jazz concert will include the following selections:

Muskrat Ramble, played by Woody Herman's Orchestra.

Misty and Linger Awhile, sung by Sarah Vaughan.

Ray Bryant Trio.

I Could Write a Book, sung by Frank D'Rone.

Woody Herman, 1940-'60, by Woody Herman and the Orchestra.

Summertime, sung by Sarah Vaughan.

How High the Moon, sung by Sarah Vaughan.

Jam Session, including Woody Herman, the Orchestra, Sarah Vaughan, Frank D'Rone and the Ray Bryant Trio.

Most Versatile

Herman is one of the most versatile bandleaders in the business. He doubles on clarinet and alto saxaphone, sings novelty and ballad numbers, emcees a show and can, when he wants to, execute a fancy bit of hoofing.

His latest band has been voted tops in the country by the readers of Metronome magazine, is hailed by Time, Parade and other magazines as "the band that brought back dancing."

Singsational Sarah

Dipping her lush voice into the heart of a melody and freeing a choice galaxy of notes, Sarah Vaughan leisurely colors, shapes and releases them in scintillating designs to present a kaleidoscope of

SHOW BIZ

By MAGGIE HATHAWAY

Come with me to dine with Sammy Davis Sr. and his interesting family. Thousands of articles have been written about Sammy Davis Jr. "the greatest showman on earth," but this will be the first exclusive article ever written on the proud father and his family.

When the family invited us up for dinner Sammy simply said, "Come west on Sunset, turn right at the Beverly Hills Hotel and just wind up to the top of the mountain." We did exactly what he said and got lost. We finally went back down the canyon, flagged a cab and asked, "Do you know where the Sammy Davise live?" Oh yes, he knew the Davises, they are the only Negro family presently living in Beverly Hills. When we finally arrived — an hour late — we were admitted into the beautiful $75,000 mansion by Mrs. Rita Davis. Mrs. Davis is a petite, doll-size bundle of endless energy. Sammy Sr. affectionately calls her "Pee Wee." She introduced us to Sandra, their beautiful 20 year old daughter. Their little 7 year old daughter, Suzette, introduced herself and all in one breath said, "I'm Suzette, I just had a birthday on Dec. 15, my uncle Sammy Davis Jr. was born on Dec. 8 and my daddy Sammy Sr. was born on Dec. 12, what do you think of that?" Before we could answer her mother announced that dinner was and had been ready.

Mrs. "Pee Wee" Davis served baked turkey, Hawaiian roast pig (with apple in his mouth) and every known vegetable.

Like the Cool. Yule of Happy FM Happenings

Pete Rugolo, whose birthday falls on Christmas, will be Leonard Feather's expert guest on "The Blindfold Test" over KNOB-FM (98) at 9 a.m. Sunday.

Rugolo is a composer and conductor and currently is music director of the "Thriller" TV series.

Feather will play various unidentified Christmas jazz recordings. The guest will undertake to identify the artists and comment on the performances. This will be among the shows taped for publication in Down Beat, where Feather's "Blindfold Test" has been a regular feature since 1951.

Howard Lucraft will present jazz from Sweden for Christmas Day on Jazz International over KNOB-FM (98) at 7 p.m.

Principal performer will be Arne Domerus in articulate saxophone stylings with the fantastic big band of Harry Arnold.

Lucraft's exclusive Music News spot will be included with latest Hollywood recordings and happenings, plus comments on recent films.

NEW YORK SCENE

Cool Happenings

Well, this week my boy Steve Gonzeles and I have been curtailed. However, not completely, so you should know about the 17 inches of snow that fell to start the week, followed by the 7.8 degrees of cold weather.

Through it all, on Wednesday night I attended the 16th Annual Dinner-Dance of the International Union of Building Service Employees, at The Boulevard in Queens, enjoyed the delicious prime ribs, etc., and the show was highlighted by the sparkling dance and song routines of Norma Miller and her Four Flash Dancers, the sexpot-bosomy, Sabrina and her partner in song, comedian, Jack Wakefield, and a hypnotist.

Charming Elaine Daniel, Susan and Don and others of the gang from Local 32B's Health Center, all contributed greatly to a most pleasant evening.

Show Times

On Thursday, with Steve doing the chauffeur honors, we went to The Apollo to see the Louis Jordan Show, which was swinging, with outstanding song styling by Betty Roche, funny bits by Clay Tyson, the curly-headed young Mr. U.S. Bonds, the Cashmeres and last, but by no means least, Mr. Jordan and his inimitable novelty songs, alto sax solos, the Tympany Five, and a line o' very healthy chorus girls, The Jordanettes. This week its a religion show, headlined by Prof. Alex Bradford, and starting tomorrow through the Christmas Holidays, it will be Jocko and his Rocketship Revue.

Ruth Coleman Visits

Young Miss Ruth Coleman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Coleman of San Francisco, trained into New York from the Emma Willard School in Troy, and after spending the day sightseeing with DoDo, we took her to Idlewild to catch her jet for home and family for the holidays.

Gordon Plays Santa

Last Sunday, I played Santa Claus (with costume, beard et al) as The Yuletiders, Inc. presented "Toyland" at the Dawn Casino, and everyone attending brought a toy for distribution to needy children for Christmas and the girls of the club for granting me this privilege.

Yuletide Parties

Monday night at Branker's Melody Room, we will enjoy the 3rd Annual Christmas Party given by Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer and the Monday Night Camp Fund committee and friends. This afternoon, toys will be distributed at United Mutual Life Insurance Company's Christmas Party For Children.

All that's left now is last-minute shopping, trimming the Christmas tree and awaiting Santa Claus on Sunday. Then we'll all ball for a week or so as the parties and fun continue throughout the holidays. HO . . . HO . . . HO . . . Have a very Merry Christmas, and I'll be seeing you again before the New Year. Okay? Swell . . . And Jingle Bells to you too!!!!!

PHIL GORDON

FANTABULOUS — Terry Gibbs Quartet is set to open at The Summit on Friday, December 23, for a ten-day engagement. Joining the Quartet to provide a real swinging holiday season at The Summit will be the Stan Kenton All-Stars on December 23, 24, 30 and 31.

'Exodus' Advance Success

Otto Preminger's production of "Exodus" had its Los Angeles premiere last night at the Fox Wilshire Theatre, where it will be shown exclusively on a reserve seat basis.

Policy will be one performance each evening, with matinees on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. Daily matinees will be held during Christmas week only. Seats are now available by mail order and at the theatre box office.

Stellar Cast

Based on the runaway best-seller by Leon Uris, "Exodus" features an international cast of stars headed by Paul Newman, Eva Marie Saint, Ralph Richardson, Peter Lawford, Lee J. Cobb, Sal Mineo, John Derek, Hugh Griffith, Gregory Ratoff, Felix Aylmer, David Opatoshu and Jill Haworth.

"Exodus" was produced and directed by Preminger in Technicolor and the new Panavision 70 process entirely on location in Israel and Cyprus. It has already recorded the largest advance in motion picture history.

'Long Lie' Cast Set For Play

After overcoming a difficult opening weekend when three of the leading members of the cast were injured in an automobile accident, the presentation of Samuel A. Boyea's new play, "A Lie Is A Century Long" enters the second week of its limited run at the Beverly Hills Playhouse, 254 South Robertson Boulevard, Beverly Hills.

The production was directed a convict in "Birdman Of Alcatraz." He's being called "One Take" Brown by the directors cause Nauman finds out what they want and let's 'em have it just that way. No retakes! . . . Bernie Hamilton, Frank Sinatra and another actor were sweating it out last week in an isolated cell for a sequence in "Devil At Four O'Clock." This flick is Bernie's biggest break to date, so'm told. . . . Billy Eckstine has purchased the film rights to a new novel called "The Scene." Billy says he plans to co-produce the movie and also appear in it. . . .

In reply to several, (at least two) inquiries in reference to the caricature created for the column by artist Cal Bailey and as to "what are we trying to prove with it," let it go on record that the only thing we might be proving is that the artist and the subject both have a sense of humor, and apparently a lot of people don't. cially, when you think of the years they have been on the job, their families and their reputations.

STRINERS — The entertainment committee which includes Tommy Tucker and Walter Goodlow were out lining up four bracket stars for the annual show coming up soon!

ESSIE BENSON — Fast developing into one of the southland's finest real estate saleslaies, she will soon put in for her broker's license. She operates out of Herman Bailey's W. Adams office!

NUMBERS—The inside behind the big crack-down on the operations is that it was triggered because bankers have been refusing pay-offs on big hits!

RAYMOND BRUCE — KGFJ's public relations man and celebrated disc-jokey was a panel member of KABC's squabble about whether Rock 'n Roll music is good or bad. He took the negative and opened people's eyes to a lot of things which are bad for radio other than Rock 'n Roll.

VALERIE TAYLOR — In passing orchids to the Pasadena NAACP Special Activities Committee, it should be noted that there wasn't a harder worker for their successful Lena Horne show than she was. She sold Lena on the idea!

ISAAC PARKER — Postal employee and a volunteer Community Chest worker just turned in a check for $448 donated by J. Harren, owner of the Auto Photo Company at 33rd and Central. Although Mr. Harren doesn't live in our community, he is interested enough to help see that the local area reaches its goal. And guess who was the first to send him a thank you note . . . Councilman Ed Roybal!

ROBERT McFERRIN — World famous baritone with N. Y. Philharmonic Orchestra and the Metropolitan Opera Company took time out from his busy schedule to give a concert for the Dorsey High students in their school auditorium before an SRO crowd!

ROY GARDNER — He was a big spender in the Congo Room the other eve. He is a former boxing manager and handled some top boxers during his time!

AL HIBBLER — In town to keep a date at the Hollywood Palladium, also kept one at the Town Tavern and delighted the elbow-benders with songs.

JIMMY WITHERSPOON — He won't go into the Birdland with the Count Basie Ork. Instead he heads for London in Jan., for 21 days of concerts!

FLORINE RAY — Social work supervisor in Chicago being shown around to the happy places by Helen Wright and she's weeping because she won't be in town for the terrific League of Allied Arts Nov. 26 affair!

ALTHEA POLK —Curvy and irresistable as ever, flew from Alaska to be with her family during the holidays. She is one of the top Army clerks in the 49th state!

scribe is not a drawing, per se, but a caricature.

Masterful Storyline

And caricatures are Cal's stock in trade, although he is also a fine portrait painter. A caricature, for the benefit of theuninitiated is a "take off" or an exaggeration. Cal is a past master at the art and uses a 'bold stroke' in many instances to get his message across. Whereas, in reality, we probably resemble a portrait of a mobster, Cal figured our readers would appreciate the "tongue in cheek" sketch of us.

We would appreciate a line or two from you as to how it strikes you. And of course, if you are not completely in accord with us, we may arrange to have a gunslinger pay you a call. . . .

A hardboiled editor who is aware that we are making the opening night scene for "A Raisin In The Sun" is insistent that we return to the Eagle office and knock out a review. Let it be said that the people who populated the Huntington Hartford stage made every moment count. The story line by Lorraine Hansberry is masterful, and the cast played their roles with adroitness. It is the best play to arrive in town in longer than we care to remember.

Footnotes

Piano-vocalist Camille Howard is back in town and appearing at Nicolai's in Montebello. . . . Gilbert Simpson is playing center on 20th Century Fox basketball team which also boasts Rafer Johnson as forward. . . . We dug jazz critic Leonard Feather's article explaining the come-uppance of jazz. In olden days, Feather explained, there was the concept that jazz was a form of music at which no self respecting performer could or would want to make a living. The old joke: Don't tell mother I've become a jazz musician. She thanks I'm in Boston shining shoes. But things are looking up now. Perhaps, the scribe says, it may not be too long before some youngster, who somehow got sidetracked into bootblacking for a living, may actually want to say, "Don't tell mother I'm shining shoes. She thinks I'm in Chicago, playing jazz.

May we take this opportunity to wish you and yours a merry little Christmas!

Academy Names Redd Foxx for 'Grammy' Award

This has been the biggest week in the successful career of Redd Foxx, nationally-popular nightclub and recording comedian, currently making it at the Red Flame, 107th and Vermont. Within the space of several days:

1. Foxx was nominated for a National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences' "Grammy" award for his performance on the Dooto Records long-play album, "The Best Laff"; in the category "Comedy Performance—Spoken Word."

2. He was booked for a three-month tour of Japan and Australia, beginning in January.

Several years before recorded comedy became a hot-seller in the general industry, Foxx achieved a "gold record," symbolic of a million-sale, for his "Laff of the Party." But, up to now, a "Grammy" award has eluded him.

"I believe," says Dootsie Williams, Dooto president, "that Foxx has earned this recognition, and I expect him to win this year."

The Grammy Award is similar to the "Oscar" presented annually for best performances in motion pictures and the "Emmy" presented for similar performances on television.

'Long Lie'

by Walter Brough and stars Rex Ingram and Pauline Myers. The three injured actors were: Marvis Hughes, who suffered bruises and lacerations, Morris Buchanan, who sustained a wrenched neck and back, and Rhoda Jordan who was most seriously hurt and hospitalized and who received permission to appear in the opening performances only a few hours before the curtain rose. However, all three will be sufficiently recovered to appear this weekend.

The other cast members are: Jakie Deslonde, Edward Rowan, Mae Henderson, Norris Nyack, and Jack Crowder. Reservations may be made by calling OL. 7-0770.

INSTRUCTIONS—SCHOOLS

Adjusters Train At Local School

The Adjusters and Investigators Training Center, Inc., 601 S. Rampart Blvd., is training hundreds of personnel who work on the millions of claims filed in the United States annually, stated George Roberts, manager.

Roberts said that about one-hundred-million claims are filed every year by insurance agencies, railroads, airlines, finance companies, steamship lines, and others, and the opportunities in this field are unlimited. The demand exceeds the supply of trained investigators, according to Roberts.

The field offers excitement, good pay, and a fine future, according to Roberts, who urges young people to look into a career in investigation.

SHOW BUSINESS

We drank champagne during the dinner, creme-de-menthe after dinner and Sandra surprised everyone with a mince-meat pie that she had baked with brandy.

We then retired to the bar to sample the Davis' 30 year old whiskey (which was as smooth as water) and topped it off with a home-made egg-nog.

As the afternoon wore on we found out that Sammy Sr. had attained success "the hard way." He was born of slave grand-parents and his first job was delivering ice.

He quit this job to work in a cotton seed mill and later accepted work in the New York shipyards.

"Regardless of how hard I worked," he said, "I was never too tired to go and rehearse to get in a stage show. I rehearsed and was hired to work in such shows as 'Come Along Mandy,' 'Yellow Gal,' and 'Shuffle Along,' but the strangest thing would happen to me, every time the show would open, I would become so frightened I would run away, so I never opened.

"Finally in 1919 Will Mastin (who is no relation to me), talked me into working in an act, which consisted of 12 people. Later they cut this act down and this is when the Will Mastin Trio was organized," Davis said.

In 1925 Sammy Davis Jr. was born. He was so talented that his father Sammy Sr. started training him at the tender age of one!

ACLU Wants Action on Rights, Un-American Activities Group

told one: Will the White House and the Department of Justice and the other federal agencies energetically and courageously use their already-existing powers, in southern voting and education and in northern housing: and will northern states and municipalities act to solve the multiplying problems of their own baliwicks?"

Since the first sit-in took place in North Carolina last February, the ACLU report noted, it has been "deeply involved in the protest movement." Through direct legal defense of arrested students, through advice and counsel to groups involved in the campaign, and through numerous public statements, the Union stressed the constitutional right of peaceful protest through picketing and the right of Negroes to be served at eating places open to the general public.

Question Box

Staples

Recently, a gospel quartette called the Staple singers appeared in our community. What is the name of the young lady lead singer, and have any of their songs been recorded?

Sarah J., Selma, Ala.

Her name is Mavis Staples. Recently, an album was released on the VJ label titled "Will The Circle Be Unbroken," and a best seller called "Uncloudy Day."

Charles

Is Ray Charles blind or does he wear sun glasses as a habit?

William D., Houston, Tex.

At the age of six, Charles was struck with an illness which left him completely blind. He attended a school for blind children in St. Augustine, Fla., where he studied music.

Williams

Is it true that singer Joe Williams is scheduled to leave the Count Basie band? What are his chances for success as single performer?

Marilyn R., Saginaw, Mich.

We, too, have heard the same rumor, but we do not know if it is true. As to Williams' chances for success as a single, your guess is as good as ours. We like him best with the band. Ed.

Cartwright

What position did famed journalist and lecturer, Dr. Margurite Cartwright occupy in connection with the University of Nigeria?

Carl T., Wilberforce, Ohio

The Hunter College professor, considered an authority on Africa and its problems, was one of the first members of the Provisional Council of the University.

Harris

Readers have written asking who are the people behind TONE. In November, the editors published a picture of Donald McIlvaine, the publisher. In this issue TONE introduces to its readers Edgar Morton Harris, advertising manager.

"The Man Who Shoots the Stars"

PHOTOG—Isaac "Ike" Sutton is the man probably most liked by most Negro stars. He is a former entertainer with a special feeling for every celebrity he photographs. Sutton and his cameras have photographed practically all the top Negro entertainers within the last 15 years. What are some of his problems? How does he make friends? What are the off stage dispositions of the stars? Mr. Sutton gives you a complete account in the next issue of TONE.

FAMED Olympic 400 meter champion GEORGE RHODEN, quite possibly is the first Negro ever to appear in a television commercial for a major tobacco manufacturer. The 1952 Olympic medal winner was recently interviewed in a KENT cigarette commercial.

HOW CAN a 10-year-old Korean girl in her faraway native land help 1,000 elementary school children learn to read and write? Children of school P. S. 80 in East Harlem will tell you that's exactly what Lee Hyun Yung is doing because they have "adopted" her as their daughter. The children, mostly of Puerto Rican descent, write to Lee whose parents are both dead, in English and send money to help care for her. It's all part of the Foster Parents Plan, Inc. which has more than 1,500 school groups in America helping to support homeless and parentless overseas children. Lee wrote to her "parents" at P. S. 80: "I will pay you back some day for the help you send." A fifth grader replied: "We do not want you to pay us back. We are helping you because we love you."

The field of music has launched many Negroes into successful, money-making careers. Many of these Negroes do not sing or read a note of music. One such person is Chicagoan Granville White, a distributor of Columbia records throughout the Midwest. Promoting almost exclusively the work of jazz artists, White 33, and the father of four children, has held his top public relations post for 14 years.

"Good idea Gibson, . . . Thinking of these on your own time?"

"SANTA CLAUS" the whole year through is John McFerren as he gases up his simulated "reindeer sleigh", bearing "gifts of survival".

NO HOLLY dangles from John McFerren's county store.

The Saddest Christmas Story

By Jerald Claire

CHRISTMAS was never the most exuberant holiday season in the red-dirt counties of Fayette and Haywood, Tennessee, but somehow, after the cotton and bean picking was done, the counties' poverty-stricken inhabitants sighed an "amen" and looked anxiously to the coming year.

Their sustenance came not from their material possessions, for few of the 21,000 Negroes -- and 8,000 whites -- in Fayette had any. For generations, chained to the soil by unbroken bonds of friendship, kinship, and "home," their unfettered and simple lives followed the sun into dusk and moon into dawn.

Year after year old folks died and babies were born in the unbelievably miserable shacks and shanties that dot the red earth which fed and housed these forgotten people who learned to live together, separately, because some are black and some are white.

Today, from the north, east and west, covered vans are rumbling over Tennessee highways bringing food, clothing, and shelter to a beleagured Negro populace in Fayette and Haywood because the good red earth is no longer a protector and provider.

THE EARTH ISSILENT BECAUSE NEGROES DECIDED THEY WANTED TO VOTE.

John Mc Ferren is 35 years old. He is married and is the owner of a grocery store on Route 76, just two miles south of Sommerville, the Fayette County Seat. By default, he is the self-appointed Messiah and 20th-Century Moses on whom it is reported that a price of $2,000 has been placed on his head.

It was to Mc Ferren and the garage beside his store that a group of six University of Chicago students traveled nearly a thousand miles with a van load of food and clothing to add another chapter to America's ignoble volumes on bigotry and intolerance.

The "gifts" which were collected from generous people in Chicago will be distributed before and after Christmas, but they are not gifts of merriment. They are gifts of survival.

In a community which is said to be controlled by a doctor, a lawyer, and a banker, the desire of 21,000 Negroes to vote has cost them their homes, their livelihood and for some, their life.

For Christmas things will not be better. The counties, economically, are expected to collapse. The white and Negro economic boycott against each other is expected to intensify. Mortgages on Negro-owned property and that of white sympathizers will continue to be foreclosed.

William Hard, Gavin Mac Fadyen, Mark Eastman, Leonard Levin, Edward Cohn and Kevin Krown, all white students who were stealthily led out of Fayette County by Mc Ferren and later "escorted" out of Haywood by Sheriff's police who did not believe they were on a "documentary tour for the university" all agree that Fayette and Haywood counties are America's saddest Christmas story. ■

"AUTHENTIC STARS" of the soon-to-be released New York documentary film "Sunday On the River" casually relax on the stern of the SS Peter Stuyvesant.

Sunday on the River!

AN attempt at a "socially meaningful statement about life among Negroes in New York City" is currently being recorded on a twenty-minute documentary film scheduled to be released soon in the United States and Europe.

The film, a prodigious effort -- because of what it expects to accomplish -- is the brainchild of Gordon Hitchens, its scenarist and producer, and Kenneth Resnick, who supervises the camera work of Joseph Blanco, Amatsia Chuini and Joseph Marzano.

It is called "Sunday on the River" because the film, in its four basic parts, introduces the viewer to Harlem on a summer Sunday morning; to an upriver boat trip of a Negro church social group; their picnic at Bear Mountain and their return downriver at the end of the day on the SS Peter Stuyvessant.

Briefly, this is the film. But within twenty kaleidoscopic minutes, the documentary delves deeply into the social and economic crucible that has forged the American Negro, making him distinct, but portraying vividly the unique racial endowments which allow him to make his undeniable contributions to America and the world.

Producer Hitchens has chosen a typical Harlem Sunday and has emphasized worship and recreation because, as he says, "It is our thought that Harlem can be understood, at least partly, in terms of how its Negro citizens go to church, how they relax on a day off and how they take an excursion boat trip to Bear Mountain to escape for one day the heat and monotony of the cramped city.

"We have captured a quality of religious expression that is characteristic of American Negroes -- that of worship through unhibited joyous expression of the senses. This is not to say that Negroes lack spirituality, rather, they supplement and thereby enrich a spiritual with a sensual approach to their deity, the latter conceived of as personal, immediately accessible and benevolent."

Hitchens adds: "Spiritual ecstasy of this sort is perhaps less a matter of dogma than it is a celebration of nature and the fact of being alive."

Adding the musical background to the picture which is framed in the blight of Harlem dwellings, is George Tipton, of the Ink Spots, who sings Negro folk songs accompanied by two guitars.

Decrying the unrealistic and "so-called daring excursions" of Hollywood to portray the Negro in recent "non-stereotype" films, the producers conclude:

"We have tried to find our magic in the natural drama of real people acting out the only roles they have, that of life itself. That's what a documentary film is, an authentic statement about the way people live."

Words of Faith...

By Mahalia Jackson

It is my sincere belief that my success is due to my firm, unwavering faith in the true laws and principles of life as laid down by God. The Bible gives us all of the formulas we need. Because of my early training, in spite of materially humble surroundings, I stuck to the WORD: "Be not weary in well doing, for in due season ye shall reap if ye faint not. Be not anxious in anything, but by prayer and supplication make your request known to GOD and he will see to it."

My constant prayer and unfaltering aim in life has been to lift the hearts and eyes of my fellowman to God through song; for many I hope to have accomplished this. Because of my trust in His word, as I have tried to bless others, He has blessed me. My climb has not been easy, but nothing worth attaining is. I could have become discouraged, but while in the deepest pitfalls of dispair I heard the voice of God through His son say --- "Be of good cheer, for I have overcome the world." ■

string's the Thing!

MOST American youngsters jump at opportunities as fast as Nature fills vacuums. And in the field of music making, the long-time shortage of stringed instrument players is attracting bright youngsters alert to the times.

Last year, more than 50,000 string players joined the ranks of America's amateur musicians. According to the American Music Conference, most of them were of school age.

Is this popularity of strings a fad--or is it a harbinger of a change in attitude towards orchestral music?

Actually, it is neither. Although the number of people playing stringed instruments has expanded only recently, the playing of other orchestral instruments has been increasing steadily since World War II. According to AMC, the number of youngsters playing instruments or receiving instrumental instruction in schools has more than tripled since 1946.

In 1959, more than 9,000,000 youngsters were engaged in musical activities of all kinds.

This rapid growth in the popularity of orchestral music has been responsible for the new surge of interest in stringed instruments. Many of the nation's musical youngsters wanted organized outlets for newly acquired talents. The result has been a sudden increase in the number of school orchestras in the United States.

In 1958, there were approximately 23,000 school orchestras; by 1959, the total had jumped to more than 26,000. Orchestras call for skilled string players--creating the great opportunity that youngsters are responding to.

Learning to play stringed instruments takes a little longer than most instruments. So, when the acceleration in the formation of new school orchestras started, many school conductors found it difficult to fill the string sections.

Music educators and teachers have been taking steps to help fill the string sections. Marion Egbert, educational consultant for the American Music Conference, says:

"A variety of new teaching techniques shows that playing stringed instruments is easier than commonly believed--and that string music is as rewarding and enjoyable as other types. In addition, school instruction in strings has increased noticeably and the formation of summer music workshops and community music education programs is being encouraged nationally." ■

ONE DAY, this small boy with a big bass violin will be bigger than his stringed instrument. But he is big enough now to learn to play and he is obviously off to an excellent musical start.

UNBEATABLE RUM EGGNOG

Major dairies everywhere make excellent eggnog mix available for home delivery or at supermarkets. They recommend adding one cup (8 ozs.) of gold Puerto Rican rum to each quart. If you prefer a thicker, richer beverage, try folding in a cup of whipped cream.

RUM EGGNOG - A COLONIAL RECIPE

Beat 12 egg yolks until light; add 1/2 lb. sugar and beat until mixture is thick. Stir in 1 qt. milk and a "fifth" of gold rum. Chill 3 hours. Pour into punch bowl. Fold in 1 qt. heavy cream, stiffly whipped. Dust with nutmeg. (Serves 20) Egg whites beaten with powdered sugar until frothy can be used, as decoration.

Beauty HINTS

Edith Redd

How can I make my eyes look larger?
Florine P., Roanoke, Virginia

Create the illusion of size by arching the eyebrows just a little lower than regularly, being careful not to exaggerate this effect or straighten the brow too much, since this will give the face a severe expression. Removing just a few of the hairs from the upper edge of the brows and accentuating the lower arch a trifle with an eyebrow pencil will give the desired effect. Keep eye shadow away from hollow section next to the nose; follow shadow by applying eyeliner. Mascara only the tips of the lashes. Use a white pencil eyeliner across the lower inside edge of the lower lid to open the eye even wider.

When cleansing and lubricating the face at night how long should the cream stay on?
Mrs. Carrie S., Grand Rapids, Mich.

You do not have to go to bed with a grease coated face in order to get the proper benefit from your lubricating skin food. All the cream your face will absorb, will be absorbed by leaving it on from twenty to thirty minutes. Then, hold a warm wash cloth over your face to further increase the emollient's action, and to remove the excess cream from your face. Follow by patting with skin freshener.

What methods of hair removal can be performed at home?
Estelle M., Miami, Florida

The hot wax method, and a cold method done with a jelly or cream. Neither method is permanent in its results. Follow carefully and quite literally the directions that come with the product you buy.

I have trouble applying lipstick because of lip hair.
Mrs. Ruby C., Portland, Ore.

So often it is difficult to apply your lipstick properly due to the tiny pore hairs on the upper lip which hinder the smooth application of your lipstick. This can be removed either by electrolysis or methods mentioned in the above question.

What can I do about straight eye lashes?
Mrs. Maxine J., Gary, Indiana

If the lashes are very straight and do not curl even with the use of mascara, use an eyelash curler. Never clamp down tightly on the lashes. A curler should be used by gently squeezing it up and down the length of the lashes. The curler may be used either before or after using mascara.

Little man who wasn't there

By Jerald Claire

He blows—like crazy, like mad, like wild. He blows because he was made to blow! He blows because he is Miles Davis. Sweet, muted sounds. Deep, gurgling penetrating notes that touch the soul and make man know that out of a horn—comes plenty.

He blows and he is gone. Vanishing like an exalted mystic, Mr. Davis is at one and the same time a god and a devil, disappearing from his audience in a manner designed to bring adulation at his reappearance, but in actuality, it is a manner insulting and humiliating.

Perhaps the reader has never attended a Miles Davis concert or show. The only thing one can possibly miss is Miles, himself. On occasion after occasion, before audiences large and small, the great trumpeter blows. And then, before his well deserved applause has ended, Miles, almost contemptuously, fades into the background and off stage, hardly acknowledging the plaudits of his eager, enthusiastic and worshipful fans. Why? Who really knows?

Somehow, one gets the impression that Miles Davis has transcended above and beyond the thousands who have helped to make his name and music a household word—at least one feels that Miles, himself, thinks he has. Then, too, perhaps this great artist feels his continued presence on stage when not playing detracts from his supporting players. Whatever the reason, this unsmiling and apparently ungracious, talented genius who feels he must disappear after each of his own solos, makes his audience feel that they must not only pay homage to his musical wizardry, but to a monstrous ego, too. It is really too much to ask.

There is, however, a reassuring and comforting aspect in most of Miles Davis' appearances. His accompanying musicians, after completing solos of their own, remain on stage.

What a horror it would be to attend a Miles Davis concert and discover that everyone has left the stage! With Miles, however, such an event may not be beyond the realm of possibility. ■

THE MUSIC WHIRL

Nat Cole's greatest!

Mr. Cole believes this album to be the greatest recording of his career. We have no alternative but to agree. The lyrics and melodies of this magnificently designed album immediately catches the young in love and projects in song what they are thinking. Wild is love, the title song starts the production, and moves very effectively with meaning into every passage.

Two lovely ballads stand out as the mood changes periodically. They are "A Beautiful Evening" and "Are You Disenchanted." Nat sings in a mood of emphatic sincerity. The album cover is simply illustrated with photographs of each song. The Capitol album sells for $7.95.

Playboy jazz allstars

Top-notch musicianship takes dominance in this package of stars all in one seemingly big jazz festival. Naturally the climax comes when the "incomparable Ella Fitzgerald brings down the house with her fantastic rendition of "How High the Moon." Here, Ella sings, riffs and scats through 6 minutes and 4 seconds of pure excitement. Special treats are in store for the listener with sounds provided by such greats as Count Basie, Oscar Peterson, Chet Baker, Dave Brubeck, Frank Sinatra, Paul Desmond, Louis Armstrong, Barney Kessel, J. J. Johnson, Stan Kenton, Benny Goodman, The Four Freshmen, the Hi-Lo's, Earl Garner, Ray Brown, and others. This is a collector's item. It sells for $9.00.

First Negro T-Quarterback Plays in Bowl

By Edw. 'Abie' Robinson

I am picking the University of Minnesota in the Rose Bowl on Jan. 2, and you can credit just about every football writer in town for helping me make up my mind.

Ever since the Gophers checked into the plush Huntington-Sheraton Hotel in Pasadena hardly a kind word has been written about a lad called Sanford (Sandy) Stephens, the key man in the University of Minnesota offense, who led his team to eight victories (six of them over Big Ten opponets), was responsible for 11 touchdowns, driving over for nine and passing for two more.

First Negro Quarterback

The reason the L.A. writers are cool toward young Stephens, who incidentally, is a junior and a Political Science major, might well be the fact that he will be the first Negro T-quarterback to lead a Rose Bowl team in the history of the granddaddy of all bowl games.

Judging by the lineage they have been devoting to him, they just don't seem to fancy the idea, so in every instance they have all but ignored the 6 foot, 215 pounder from Uniontown, Pa., who rolled up 164 yards net in 57 running plays and completed 20 out of 52 passes for 305 yards.

Also the team's regular punter, his 55 kicks totaled 1,946 yards for a nifty 35.3 average. He returned 16 punts for 111 yards and nine kickoffs for 203 yards.

Coolness Noted

We haven't had a chance to talk personally with the Gophers but my man who is close to the squad revealed

Man is Shot Over Turkey

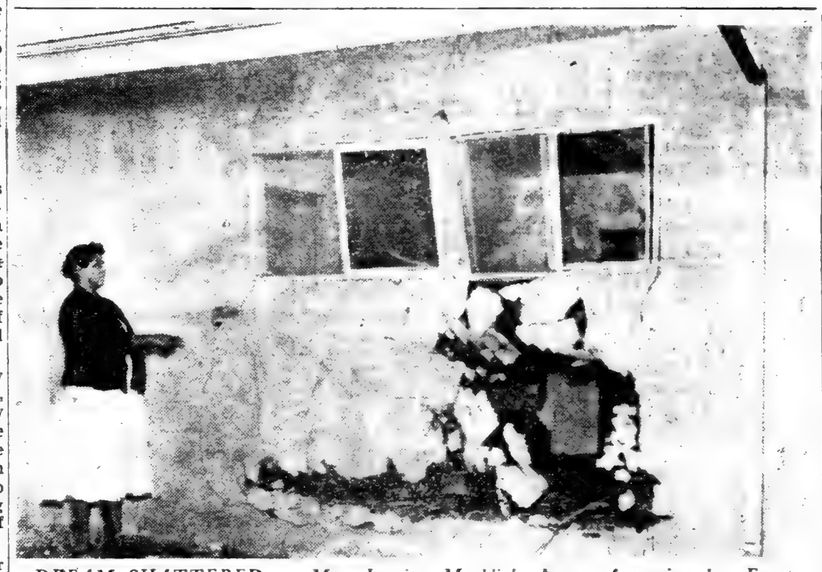
A 22-year-old man who tried to take back a turkey he had given his girl friend for Christmas was shot to death Saturday night at the home of 23-year-old Rose Marie Love.

Clarence Sledge, 22, of 215 W. 42nd street, was shot in the back of the head and in the middle of the back.

Admits Shooting

Mrs. Love admitted the shooting, but claimed she shot when Sledge struck her with a lug wrench.

Raymond Wheeler, 4159 S. Hooper avenue, told Newton Street officers that he was visiting his daughter at Mrs. Love's home, when Sledge knocked at the door and demanded that he be let in.



When Mrs. Love refused to

Hollywood Studios will End Jim Crow Casting

DREAM SHATTERED — Mrs. Juanita Macklin's dream of moving her Exceptional Children's School into its new $75,000 building was shattered early Sunday when an automobile ploughed through the newly plastered wall and came to rest inside the building. Conciliation Through FEP Brings Change

By Maggie Hathaway

Jim Crow casting of "extras" — one of the continuing sores in the motion picture industry that dates back many years to the days when Hollywood was young—is on its way out.

Central Casting, on Hollywood blvd., which heretofore has handled white actors only, will begin, in the near future, to cast all actors — whites, Negroes, Orientals, everybody.

FEP Conciliation

The switch in policy stems from conciliation efforts of the young Fair Employment Practices Commission, plus the energetic efforts of interested individuals and the International Artists organization, formed about a year ago to fight against all forms of segregation in Hollywood.

Segregated casting was its first target.

Among the individuals who pushed hardest for the change in policy are actor Byron Ellis, who filed a petition with the FEP commission containing 500 signatures; Maggie Hathaway, Eagle golf editor who is also a Hollywood extra, and Atty. Edward Maddox, who gave legal advice.

Plan Consolidation

After the petition was filed about three months ago, FEP got in touch with Central Casting and discussed the case with them.

Last week, Ellis advised, the FEP commission wrote to Central Casting, confirming their understanding that as soon as necessary technical arrangements for the change-over could be made, all casting would be consolidated from one central office.

For almost a decade Jasper Weldon has handled exclusive casting of Negro extras for Motion Picture producers, TV and radio. Jasper operates out of his home at 110 E. 99th street.

Artists Organize

Negro actors understandably objected to the Jim Crow set-up. It not only set them apart on a racial basis but also limited the number of parts for which they might otherwise be considered.

A year ago Maggie Hathaway took the lead in organizing International Artists. As president of the organization she took up the issue with Central Casting and also filed a petition, drawn up by Atty.

Loren Miller says...

I'm No Expert

You can't call me an expert because I never had a job as a sports writer in my life. In my private capacity I suppose that nobody can outdo me in picking the wrong man to win an event whether it's in boxing, football, baseball or track. I've even been known to be wrong about who would win a wrestling match although winners in such events are always known in advance. The only thing I do know is that sports events can't be won these days without Negro players.

Loren Miller

For example, Stanford University has been drawing the color line ever since it was established and it wound up the current football season with a perfect record — ten losses and no wins.

The only team in professional football that bars Negro players is the Washington Redskins and although Owner George Marshall hires and fires coaches by the dozen, he can't get any place.

Hit-Run Auto Hits Children's Home

A rampaging hit-and-run driver in the pre-dawn hours Sunday sent a car through the freshly plastered wall of the new $75,000 building destined to house the Exceptional Children's Home, 122nd and San Pedro streets, and effectively crushed the high hopes of Mrs. Juanita Macklin for a Feb. 1 Grand Opening.

The hit-and-run car hit a second auto, which went out of control and ploughed through the building, to come to rest inside.

Driver Injured

Driver of the second car was LeRoy T. Hughes, 2009 Cordett avenue, who is unemployed. He was seriously injured in the accident, sustaining a crushed chest and broken ribs.

The driver of the car that caused the accident sped away, without even bothering to give aid to the injured man.

Mrs. Macklin, executive director of the home, told the Eagle that members of Laborers' Union No. 200 had just finished a $3000 plastering job, inside and out—material and labor donated by the union.

Total damage to the new structure was estimated at between $1800 and $2000.

In addition to the smashed wall, Mrs. Macklin said the plumbing was wrecked, as was also electrical wiring and the floor of the building.

The gaping hole in the wall and the other damage represents a serious loss to the community as well as to Mrs. Macklin, who has struggled mightily to bring the project to completion.

Money, Time Donated

Many organizations and individuals have donated time, money and labor to help construct the home which, once it is in operation, will be able to take care of 100 children.

At present Mrs. Macklin cares for 18 children.

The new building contains four large dormitories, a consulting room, dining room, office, two therapy rooms, a clinic, an isolation room, and many other facilities.

Mrs. Macklin had been busily making preparations for official opening of the new facility. Now that opening will have to await the completion of costly repairs.

France Ignores Protests, Fires New A-Bomb

Overriding the protests of African nations, France again on Tuesday exploded an atomic bomb in the Sahara desert.

This is the third bomb France has fired there. The first was detonated Feb. 13.

The African nations opposed the tests because of fear of atomic fallout.

France denied there was any danger of fallout injuring nomads in the desert or people in nearby countries.

Japan prepared a written protest to the continuing atomic explosions. The Soviet Union also protested the renewed testing, as did Morocco, the Algerian government in Tunis and other nations.

Baby Girl Dies as Blaze Guts Home

A Christmas tree fire, Friday night, at the home of Eddie R. Jackson, 9617 Grape street, Watts, spread quickly to nearby drapes, to the walls, to the roof, and engulfed the whole house.

In less than 20 minutes, according to witnesses, the wood and plasterboard structure was nothing but a mass of charred ruins.

Dies in Flames

In that 20 minutes, little Gwendolyn Jackson, 4, died in the flames. Her two-year-old brother, Charles, was badly burned, but was rescued by firemen who broke out one of the windows in the living room, grabbed the screaming child and brought him outside.

The other five Jackson children — Pamela, 10; Eddie, Jr., 8; Jerry, 7; Sandra, 6; and Curtis, 3 — fled from the burning building to safety. Also escaping the flames were the children's mother, Mrs. Joyce Jackson, and a boarder, William Cardwell.

Mrs. Jackson, sad eyed and distraught, told the Eagle that she was in the kitchen when Gwendolyn rushed in and told her the tree was on fire!

Apparently frightened, the child ran and hid.

Cardwell, said Mrs. Jackson, grabbed a rubber mat and began slapping at the tree to put out the fire. The tree toppled; flames leaped from the burning branches to the drapes, shot up to the ceiling.

Mrs. Jackson and Cardwell herded the five youngsters out of the house. When they tried to get back in to search for the two babies, they were stopped by a sheet of fire, smoke and heat.

Hid Under Bed

When the fire was brought under control, firemen found

Was Dawson's 'No' Cooked-Up Affair?

NEW YORK — (VIP) — Speculation over President-Elect John F. Kennedy's offer of the postmaster-generalship to Democratic Rep. William A. Dawson and his rejection of the Cabinet post has been voiced by prominent Americans of both races and political parties.

In a telephone poll conducted by Vital Information Press, New York syndicate which services the Negro press nationally, opinion was sharply divided as to the motives both of Senator Kennedy in offering and Rep. Dawson in rejecting the historic opportunity for a Negro to hold cabinet status.

Confirmation Problem?

Meanwhile, in Washington, knowledgeable sources raised the issue of whether Dawson's failure to accept the post was attributable to fear that Senate confirmation would be withheld due to opposition by Southern Senators or the fact that a former Dawson congressional secretary was twice indicted in 1952 and convicted and sentenced in 1954 on a federal grand jury charge of peddling influence for the sale of post office jobs.

From Phoenix, Ariz., Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater, who characterized Congressman Dawson as "qualified" and the Kennedy offer as "proper" admitted to a "suspicion" that Dawson's rejection was based "on the fact that he would have had to face the Post Office Senate Committee which is headed by Sen. Johnstone of South Carolina."

Harold C. Burton, senior Negro Republican leader in New York State and district leader of Harlem's 12th Assembly District, commented:

Pre-Arranged?

"If the offer was made, it may have been with a pre-arranged understanding that Dawson would reject it. I can't understand a man of Dawson's political stature turning down what is known to be the biggest political patronage position in the country."

Former Dodger star Jackie Robinson, who figured prominently in the Nixon campaign, said he felt that had the Kennedy offer to Dawson been sincere, the President-Elect would have named another qualified Negro.

"There are many Negroes better qualified than Dawson," Robinson said. "I think Kennedy has made a lot of good appointments. I won't say anything about Brother Bobby—but Mr. Kennedy should remember that the Negro vote put him in office.

'I'm Pleased'

"It was a fine gesture but it is possible they got agreement from Dawson in advance to turn it down. It is a known fact that Dawson will go along with almost anything the party says. Frankly, I'm pleased that he rejected the job. I don't think his acceptance would have helped his race."

In variance with this position was the attitude of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, who termed the Kennedy offer an "important step."

"No matter whether it was motivated by political considerations or a deep moral feeling, the important thing is that it was done," Dr. King declared. He added that Dawson "probably declined because he felt he could serve his country better in his present position."

Honest Offer

President and publisher John Sengstacke of the Chicago Defender newspaper chain said he didn't believe the offer to Dawson would have been made if it had not been sincere.

New York City Board of Education member and New York Protestant Council of Churches President Rev. Dr. Gardner C. Taylor, said:

"I believe it was an honest offer. I profoundly regret that Congressman Dawson did not choose to serve. I think the offer was motivated as part of the thrust of the times. Those in the position of leadership have decided to break the moud and there is awareness of the Negro vote."

Racial Affair

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller who credited the Kennedy offer to "Henry Cabot Lodge's campaign speech" lauded the President-Elect's offer to Mr. Dawson as a "wonderful offer."

James Kilpatrick, Richmond Times-Dispatch editor who recently debated the segregation issue with Dr. Martin Luther King on a national television network, told Vital Information Press that he "had no particular objection to the offer." Kilpatrick added that "it was a strictly racial offer to repay the colored vote."

The southern editor praised Dawson as "very sagacious" for rejecting the job.

Negro Congressman Robert Nix of Philadelphia declared cryptically: "I do not know whether the offer was made or not. I have not talked to either Congressman Dawson or the President-Elect."

Girl Who Won't Talk Receives Death Threat

Vera Lee Mathews narrowly escaped death Saturday night when she refused to speak in private to David Hines while she was visiting Margaret Hill and Violet Profell at 1156 E. 11th street.

Angered at the refusal, Hines went to his room in the same building, got his gun, returned and shot at Miss Mathews. He missed. Escaping into an adjoining room, she locked herself in. He banged on the door and threatened to kill her.

Police found the gun in the back yard of the apartment building. They booked Hines for assault with attempt to commit murder.

Girl's Story Jails Man

After being treated at Central Receiving Hospital and released, Tangie Smith told police she had been forced to take a large dose of narcotics and was left to die in a motel at 4766 S. Main street, Friday.

Miss Smith accused Eunice Sweets, 30, of 134½ W. 70th street and took police to his home. He was placed under arrest.

Sweets denied the charge and told police all he had done was to take the girl and a man to the motel and leave them there.

Women Killed By Gunmen at Liquor Store

A 50-year-old woman, Emilia Garcia, clerk in her husband's liquor store, died without regaining consciousness Monday, Dec. 26, after being shot in the face by one of three bandits who attempted to rob the Garcias' liquor store at 2903 S. Maple avenue.

The shooting occurred Friday night when the gunmen entered the store and after asking for a bottle of wine threatened the owner with a pistol and a sawed-off shotgun.

"Look out Joe!" Mrs. Garcia warned her husband.

At that one of the thugs wheeled around, aimed at Mrs. Garcia and fired.

Early the next morning Hamilton Howard, 40, of 128 E. 103rd street, telephoned Newton Police Station and said he had driven the gunmen's car. In his room police found a sawed-off shotgun. They arrested him and also arrested John Joseph Mendez 21, of 421¾ E. Adams, and Robert Eugene Wilkerson 21, of the same address. The three men were charged with murder.

Kennedy Given 50,000 Vote Edge in 2 Districts

Two Los Angeles assembly districts—the 55th and 62nd—with the largest concentration of Negro voters in Los Angeles gave President Elect John F. Kennedy a whopping majority of 50,904 votes over Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The 62nd led the parade with a Kennedy majority of 25,742 and the 55th chipped in with 25,162 more votes. Only the heavily Mexican populated 51st district which gave Kennedy a majority of 30,661 and the heavily Jewish populated 61st district which ran up a Kennedy majority of 40,521 topped the majority given Kennedy in the 62nd district.

Other assembly districts with substantial Negro populations are the 63rd, the 65th and the 66th districts. The Negro population ratio is somewhere close to 40 per cent in each of them. The 63rd preferred Kennedy by an 11,857 majority; the 65th gave him a majority of 11,279 and the 66th contributed a 13,581 vote margin.

The 55th, 62nd, 63rd, 65th and 66th districts all chose Democratic assemblymen and cast majorities for Democratic congressional candidates. Only the 55th, represented by Vernon Kirkpatrick, and the 62nd, represented by Augustus F. Hawkins, gave larger majorities to Kennedy than they did to Democratic assembly candidates. Kilpatrick won by a 24,119 majority while Hawkins' majority was 25,045.

The 65th district, represented by Assemblyman Jess Unruh who doubled in brass as the Kennedy Southern California campaign manager, gave Unruh a 14,943 vote majority while preferring Kennedy by an 11,279 margin. Don Allen swept the 63rd district by a 19,357 majority and Charles Wilson won the 66th district seat by a margin of 22,766.

Despit the thumping 50,904 vote majority returned by Negro voters in the 55th and 62nd districts, Kennedy lost the state by some 30,000 and managed to win Los Angeles county by a thin 20,000 vote edge. Hawkins headed the drive for Negro votes in the Kennedy campaign.

open the door, he left, but phoned about 10 minutes later.

'Come and Get It'

Wheeler said he heard Mrs. Love tell someone over the phone, "If you want your turkey, come and get it."

Sledge returned in about five minutes and demanded his turkey.

Mrs. Love told him to stand under the window and she would drop it down to him.

This angered Sledge who broke open the door and rushed toward Mrs. Love with the heavy wrench in his hand and started beating her, Wheeler said.

Sledge then pushed the young woman into the kitchen.

Wheeler said he heard Mrs. Love warn Sledge not to come toward her. Her warning was followed by the sharp sound of gunshot. Sledge lay motionless on the floor.

– New Courage in South –

TERROR OF NEW ORLEANS—This little six-year-old youngster, escorted by her parents and U.S. marshals, was one of four who brought terror to hate-filled New Orleans racists, starting Nov. 14. The battle for integration of the first schools in the Deep South continues as the year ends.

SOUTH REPLIES TO SIT-INS—The student sit-ins that swept the country, after starting quietly in Greensboro, N. C., on Feb. 1, marked a strong, new beginning in race relations in the South—the most important development in the United States for Negroes during 1960. The wrecking of the home, in mid-April, of Atty. Z. Alexander Looby, City Council member, in Nashville, was part of the South's reply to the student demonstrations.

–South Africans Speak Out–

BURN HATED PASSBOOKS—In an historic act of defiance, South Africans, in March, burned the hated passbooks, symbol of inferior status, as they staged a nationwide strike. Picture was taken at Orlando, near Johannesburg.

CONGO STORY—Most significant development abroad during the current year, as far as Negroes are concerned, is the continuing story of the Congo, centering around deposed premier Patrice Lumumba, and his advocacy of a strong, democratically elected central government.

Sit-Ins, N'Orleans, Congo, Kennedy Head 1960 News

Three Negro college students in Greensboro, N.C., and four little Negro first grade pupils in New Orleans furnished the two top domestic stories of 1960 in the area of race relations.

It was symptomatic of our troubled times that the stories of what happened in Greensboro and New Orleans topped the news that Negro voters threw their weight around on Nov. 8 and decided who was to become president of the United States.

Spotlight on Africa

It was inevitable that Africa would furnish the top international story of 1960, and significant that the country where the most far-reaching conflict erupted was the Congo, which suffered most bitterly during its years of submission to colonialism.

There, freedom coming like a bolt out of the blue, touched off fratricidal strife, faced the United Nations with its most crucial test, and put new strains on the already strained relations between the United States on the one hand and the Soviet Union on the other.

All of the major issues that are keeping the world in turmoil are joined in the Congo struggle for power—the Africans' fight for independence against its colonial masters, the struggle of backward countries against poverty, ignorance and separatist tendencies, and the world-wide struggle between the Soviet bloc and the West.

Sat at Counter

By contrast, independence came to 40 million Africans in Nigeria in an orderly fashion.

The three Greensboro college students made history by the simple act of sitting down to buy a cup of coffee at a lunch counter on Feb. 1, 1960, where coffee was for sale to the general public. The trouble was that the lunch counter was located in a variety store which solicited Negro patronage in every department except its cafe.

The quiet action of those three students served as the spark that lighted fires of revolt across the South, leaping from town to town, and state to state. As the sit-ins spread, attracting ever more thousands, awakening a sympathetic response in the north, it became apparent that a new movement had entered upon the American scene, bringing to the fore a fresh layer of young leadership, and signaling an unprecedented southwide assault on all phases of discrimination.

Not Little Rock

The fight in New Orleans was not a new fight. The same battle has already been carried on in Little Rock, in Clinton, Tenn., in Nashville, and elsewhere. But it is, also, a different fight.

All the four Negro first graders—all of them girls—wanted to do was to enter two New Orleans schools theretofore reserved for whites. That was like the attempts of the nine high school students in Little Rock in 1957.

But New Orleans is not Little Rock; in addition which it comes after Little Rock. The governor of Louisiana and the legislature are fighting with loud bombast against integration — but the governor hasn't called out the troops, the mobs haven't found ready response, and the Federal courts have stood firmly by their decision.

The particular significance of the New Orleans fight lies in the fact that it is the first city in the Deep South to face the school integration issue head on.

Tangled Story

The story of President Elect John F. Kennedy and the Negro voter is a tangled one. He started out as less than a favorite for the Democratic nomination, far behind Sen. Hubert Humphreys and Adlai Stevenson. Negro voters let Kennedy know how they felt about him in the Wisconsin primaries when he trailed Humphreys by three and four to one in the Negro precincts.

Washington, D.C. voters also turned him down by handsome majorities and when he appeared at a Los Angeles pre-convention rally in Shrine auditorium he got a mixed round of boos and cheers.

Couldn't Take Nixon

What looked like the political handwriting on the wall came when Kennedy forced the nomination of Texas Senator Lyndon B. Johnson as his vice presidential running mate. A Johnson spokesman had been booed so loudly at

–Kennedy Booed, Idolized–

BOOED IN JULY—Sen. John F. Kennedy smiles as he was booed at the packed meeting at the Shrine Auditorium in July during the Democratic convention, when he already had the nomination practically in his pocket.

IDOLIZED IN NOVEMBER—Just before the elections, less than four months after he was booed, Sen. Kennedy was greeted as a messiah when he appeared at the Elks Hall on Central Ave. "Touch him! Touch him!" was the cry as thousands pressed toward him, hands outstretched. The Negro vote proved decisive in Kennedy's election.

MARCHING FOR FREEDOM—Thousands of Los Angeles residents marched from the Shrine Auditorium to the Sports Arena, headquarters of the Democratic Conventino, last July, to make known their demand for "Freedom Now!" Heading the march, being interviewed as they walked, are the Rev. Martin Luther King, center, and Roy Wilkins, to the right of King.

INDEPENDENCE—Cyril Uchuno, Nigeria's secretary of External Affairs, addressed a dinner meeting here Nov. 30 celebrating Nigeria's independence that became effective at the stroke of midnight.

Lumumba Forces Stage Kidnapping

Pro-Lumumba forces in the Congo this week demonstrated that they are as adept at kidnapping as are the forces of pro-Western "strong man," Col. Joseph Mobutu, who last month arrested and imprisoned the former premier, Patrice Lumumba.

In a raid Sunday, 60 soldiers from Stanleyville, Oriental Province capital which is controlled by Lumumba followers, arrested Jean Miruho, president of neighboring Kivu Province, at the capital city of Bukavu, two other members of the provincial government and an army officer.

The ease with which the raid was carried out seemed to substantiate reports that a part of the Congolese garrison in Bukavu is pro-Lumumba.

Bukavu was the scene last week of a six-hour battle between Nigerian and Congolese troops who had imprisoned 52 Austrians on the grounds that they were Belgians in disguise.

Miruho, the provincial president, has shifted his allegiance back and forth between Lumumba and Mobutu as the seesaw struggle for power continued.

In southern Kasai Province, meanwhile, the U.N. reports that some 300,000 Baluba tribesmen are starving. The U.N. was rushing food to the area.

A section of the province has been taken over by Albert Kalonji who has declared it independent. He has given no aid to the starving Balubas.

Man, 122, Dies In W. Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — William Edward "Uncle Dave" Davis, the oldest man in the country drawing Social Security benefits, died here Saturday.

He "calculated" he would have been 122 years old Christmas Day.

Davis said his parents were slaves on a tobacco plantation at Winston-Salem, N. C. and that he was named for the plantation owner.

Tent Colony Set Up for Refugees

SOMERVILLE, Tenn. — The first seven families evicted from their homes in Fayette County took up living in a tent colony near here this week, as a federal judge in Memphis refused to grant a government plea to halt further evictions.

For Christmas, the tent-dwellers, the first of an expected 300 families, were given food by the Fayette County Civic and Welfare League.

From Chicago, meanwhile, it was reported, food and clothing is being shipped in by truckloads.

The tents are pitched on a 200-acre farm owned by Shep Towles, a Negro. The floors are of earth. Inside are beds, kerosene lamps and wood stoves. The families have piled their household furnishings behind the tents.

They get water from Towles' house across the road.

The Fayette County Negroes were evicted after they registered and voted at the Nov. 8 elections — and after the cotton crop had been gathered.

Cal. 'Equal Rights' Statutes

A complete catalogue of California statutes relating to civil rights was issued Tuesday by Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk under the title of "Equal Rights Under the Law."

The format used in the publication is a ready reference listing under the subjects of employment, housing, business services, education and government practices, with key statutes under the separate codes. Copies are available for distribution to individuals and organizations requesting them.

The reference catalogue was compiled under the direction of Mosk and Asst. Atty. Gen. Franklin H. Williams.

"In the past few years California has joined the growing list of states which provide statutory support to the constitutional promise of equal protection and opportunity for all citizens," declares Atty. Gen. Mosk in the foreward of the catalogue.

"In employment, housing business services and public facilities, our legislature has substantially broadened the opportunities available to all regardless of race or religion.

"While we can be proud of these statutes, in cold fact, laws are only printed documents. Whether they become living expressions of constitutional guarantees translated into realistic experiences will be determined by you, the citizen. Knowledge of the law and compliance with it are vital prerequisites for these provisions to be meaningful."

Citizens and Police

In outlining his opposition to a proposed Police Review Board which would investigate complaints against police officers, Mayor Norris Poulson called attention to the fact that the Police Commission has the authority to refer complaints to a Hearing Examiner for investigation and report. These examiners are civilians who are directly responsible to the Commission.

The mayor is technically correct but the ordinance has fallen into disuse because of the timidity of past and present Police Commisioners who insist on permitting police officers to investigate themselves.

We don't know whether or not the mayor intends to prod his police commissioners into action under this ordinance, but we hope so. We're not as sure as he is that the procedure is an effective substitute for the proposed police review board, but we do think that it should be utilized. Present procedures under which all complaints are investigated by police and under which the complainant faces prosecution if police investigators decide his claim lacks merit are wholly inadequate.

The mayor's suggestion that all police officers be insured is a good one. If such insurance were required as the mayor proposes the citizen whose rights were invaded would be able to recover from the insurer in the event that he sued and secured a judgment.

We don't think that every person who complains against police officers has a just case but we do think that wherever there has been an abuse of police authority the offending officer should be penalized and that when a court renders a judgment against an officer there ought to be some assurance that the aggrieved person can recover for the harm that has been done.

Too Little, Too Late

President Eisenhower's Christmas Message with its plea for fair play and tolerance was good enough as far as it went, but the plain truth is that it was too little and too late.

The president has been implored to take a strong stand against racial discrimination and segregation ever since he took public office, and the pressure to take that stand was intensified after resistance stiffened to the 1954 Supreme Court school decisions.

Mr. Eisenhower took refuge in weaseling statements on law enforcement: he refused to condemn the Manifesto signed by more than a hundred southern senators and congressmen calling for resistance to court orders; he carefully evaded any statement that could have been construed as approval of school integration.

The New Orleans situation, that apparently evoked his Christmas Message, can be traced to his own inactivity and to the timidity and equivocation with which he treated the school integration decision.

What he said last week will fall on ears made deaf by six years of constant, insistent and hysterical opposition to the Supreme Court's mandate. The president of the United States could have made himself heard above the din of racism. Future historians will rank the president's failure to speak out on racial issues as the greatest single deficiency of the Eisenhower administration.

Reapportionment Plan

If California legislators are looking for an equitable plan for reapportionment of the south central area of Los Angeles they should adopt the proposal made by a non-partisan citizen's committee to the Assembly Committee on Reapportionment last week.

Under the proposal, four assembly districts would be created in the south central area of the city. Two of those assembly districts would be combined to form one congressional district and the other two would be combined to form another congressional district.

The proposed districts — both assembly and congressional — are contiguous and each of them contains persons with an identity of social, political and economic interests. The assemblymen and congressmen who represented them in Sacramento or in Washington would have the advantage of speaking for united constituencies.

It is quite true that a part of the unity may be traced to the fact that each district now has, or will have in the very near future, a majority of Negro voters. Those voters reside in their communities less from choice than from the pressure that forces them to live in racially segregated areas of our city.

That very segregation shapes their beliefs and attitudes on political, economic and social issues. It is symptomatic of the fact that they are denied economic opportunity and deprived of the free choice of residence. They can never break out of the vicious circles that hem them in until they secure a greater voice in government, local, state, and federal.

The realities of American political life are that Negroes do not win congressional seats until and unless a given district has a majority of Negro voters.

Battleaxe & Bread

By Lester B. Granger

Troubled City

NEW ORLEANS — This metropolis of the bayou country is a deeply troubled city. New Orleans, which for generations has prided itself on being cosmopolitan, sophisticated and far above the hog-maw-and-chittlin' kind of naked race hate for which the Old South is notorious, has suddenly found that "it" can happen here—just as disgracefully and with the same calamitous results as in Little Rock.

During two days in town devoted constantly to interviews, meetings and conversations with leaders of both races, I have not found one single person of optimistic outlook so far as the immediate future of race relations is concerned. This is not to say that they are despairing. On the contrary, theirs is for the most part a realistic determination that sees plainly the obstacles facing social reform but refuses to back away from what they are determined must be a winning fight.

Granger

Many Obstacles

These leaders listed some of the obstacles for my benefit. The biggest, of course, is the uncouth, flamboyantly irresponsible governor with his stooge legislature sitting in Baton Rouge and passing trouble-making legislation as fast as dirty, clever little minds can conceive it. And back of the legislature is the fact of a tight control on the state government by the rural parishes (counties), to your where illiteracy, miscegenation and feeble-mindedness are as familiar today as the boll weevil was some generations ago.

Another important obstacle to progress is the slush fund provided by the legislature for the employment of a staff of lawyers who have nothing to do except figure out new ways for harassing Negro citizens and blocking off intervention by the various departments of interest in the Federal government. The $50,000 available for this purpose can hire quite a lot of crooked legal talent — and such talent is easy to find around the State House at Baton Rouge.

Wishy-Washy Mayor

Still another obstacle is the lack of any firm, determined government in the City of New Orleans. Mayor Morrison is regarded by those with whom I talked as a pleasant man who wants to get along, remain in City Hall and make as few enemies as possible. Consequently, these critics feel, the Mayor enjoys little real respect and wields almost no influence that can be used in this emergency.

A fourth obstacle to recovery in racial relations in the predictable future is the size, leadership and financial resources of the White Citizens Council. It's headed by a brutish, smart, wealthy and completely unscrupulous operator who has set his sights on a political empire like that once headed by Huey Long. Only Huey Long declared "every man a king," while Perez promises only to maintain "white supremacy." He therefore has a smaller following than Long, but what the Negro-haters lack in numbers they make up for in uninhibited obscenity and fantastic exhibitions of depravity.

Low Registration

The fifth obstacle that all of my friends reported to me is the low registration record of Negro voters. They tell me that in a city with more than 200,000 citizens of color, there are only 35,000 colored voters. This is a large percentage compared with most southern cities, true, but in New Orleans there is more education, better organization and less of direct action to discourage Negro voter registration. And the need is so much greater for an informed, united and alert Negro electorate that these leaders consider it a tragedy that more has not been done along this line. And they end their report with the sad comment that in the 35,000 Negro voters group there are probably 25 different factions — a hangover from the Huey Long every-man-a-king kind of thinking.

Well, I responded with feeble jocularity, we never had a Huey Long in Manhattan or nearby but we surely have split leadership—probably far more than 25 different factions in Harlem alone. But jocularity was not what they wanted — and what they wanted, I couldn't supply. As I told nearly 600 guests of both races who comprised a record-breaking dinner gathering on my last evening in town, there isn't any patent formula guaranteed to produce success in a drive against hatred that is a combination of ignorance and fear.

The only thing you can do is to start driving, keep driving and drive until you are through with the job—knowing that if you turn rabbit you will breed a following generation of rabbitty leadership, but if you show dedication and courage, those who take up the job after you will show these qualities in even greater measure. It won't be a Merry Christmas in New Orleans for most but they are working hard for a New Year ahead.

Loren Miller Says . . .

He never will. Take a look at the World Series winners in baseball over the past decade. Or better still, take a look at the losers in the major leagues. The fewer Negroes they have, the lower down they finish.

They Saved Us

If it hadn't been for Negro runners, jumpers and hurdlers, the United States would have made a sad showing in the Olympics last summer. And guess who are the big names in the professional and amateur basketball? Negroes, of course. Who do you think is the best boxer in the whole wide world?

For some reason that escapes me, the example of Negroes in sports has little effect on Americans. The few heavy thinkers who put their minds to it come up with the claim that there's something about Negroes' arms, or legs, or heels, or toes that makes them able to run faster or jump higher or hit a baseball farther or dunk a basketball in a hoop quicker or run better with a football than other people.

That's Nonsense

That's all nonsense. Negro athletes excel in their chosen fields because they are thrust into positions where race can't hold them back once they get the chance to hit a baseball, run, jump, catch a forward pass or bust another guy in the jaw. They've got the same opportunity as their competitors and they're out to hold their jobs. The only way they can do that is to outdo the competition.

I don't expect to be around when it happens but some day somebody is going to hit on the fact that America could get where it wants to be faster by using the skills of Negroes just as those skills are utilized in athletic competition. If somebody gave me the commission I could round up a bunch of Negro lawyers who could do a mighty good job for a corporation that wanted to win lawsuits. They would be about as tough in the court room as Willie Mays and Hank Aaron are in baseball or Wilt Chamberlain and Elgin Baylor are on the basketball court.

Just As Hard

And if I were president of the United States (don't worry, I won't make it) I could pick up a pretty good set of public servants who had at least one Negro great grandfather. Given the opportunity to hold the kind of jobs I could give them, they would hustle just as hard to prove that they were as much better than their competition as Jim Brown does to show that he's the best fullback in the business.

Oh well, it was only yesterday that Negroes were barred from professional and amateur sports. I suppose it isn't too much to hope that the time will come when the example will sink in. America sure could do with a set of diplomats as good in their business as Floyd Patterson is with his fists. We might even bring that Mr. K. down a peg or two.

REGULAR MEETING

'Twas the week before Christmas and all through our world,
Not a creature was thinking, but with billfold unfurled
With dreams was bedazzled, by lights, colored, bepearled.

While our leaders were meeting we, dulled beyond fright,
Verdammter Amerikanschen! See Old Nick is quick.
Und General Hensinger, in Washington, right.
Mit Donner and Blitzen that is the trick;
Soon Deutscher Soldaten and for all, Good Night!

the Shrine meeting that he couldn't finish his statement and Johnson's selection by the Democratic convention loosed a chorus of bitter atttacks from Negro delegates, some of whom went home to sulk in their political tents.

Fortunately for Kennedy his opponent was Vice President Richard M. Nixon whose popularity has been at a low ebb in Negro communities all during his political life. No matter how much they muttered, Negro voters knew all along that they would vote for Kennedy as against Nixon. As the campaign drew to a close a Georgia judge tossed the Rev. Martin Luther King into jail for four months on what is known in court house language as a bum beef.

Deciding Votes

Kennedy called King's wife and his brother and campaign manager, Robert, telephoned the judge. That about did it. Kennedy carried the critical states of Illinois, Missouri, Texas, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey by razor thin majorities — and those majorities came from Negro precincts.

Ironically enough, Negro voters cast the deciding votes for him in South Carolina and North Carolina. The Republican national chairman summed it up after the returns were all in: "We didn't pay enough attention to the Negro voters," he said ruefully.

As the struggle against segregation and discrimination in the United States continued on many fronts and in every section of the country, so, too, the companion struggle for independence (Uruhu!) continued throughout Africa.

Of special significance was the flare-up in South Africa in March, when police opened fire on thousands of unarmed Africans who were protesting against the law compelling them to carry "passbooks." Scores of Africans were killed and hundreds wounded. The day of the massacres has gone down in history as "bloody Monday."

Those demonstrations, which at one time reached the proportions of a general strike, are a prelude to mighty eruptions there, and elsewhere that cannot long be delayed.

Unified Casting

Vince Townsend, with the Screen Extras Guild.

Neither of these actions brought about any change in the situation. In fact, pressure from some sources caused concern among the 50 members of International Artists, so that membership dwindled to 10. Some members reported that they were told they would not receive calls for jobs as long as they continued to belong to the organization.

Under these conditions, the organization disbanded, but the fight continued. Ellis filed the petition to the FEP Commission in October, along with a telegram from Sammy Davis Jr., requesting action.

The FEP Commission took up the case from there and held conferences both with the extras and with Central Casting.

Agreement in principal has now been reached, though no precise date has as yet been set for putting the new policy into effect.

Letters

Dear Editor:

In regards to your article published in the last of October there was an editorial stating that there were over 5,000,000 Negro voters in the United States.

For my information, would you please inform me on what basis you have reached this figure. I have in my possession a letter from the Department of Commerce, by Frederick H. Mueller, Secretary, Washington 25, D.C. stating that there were 107 million civilians of voting age at the date of the November general election.

Of this and out of this group of citizens reaching the voting age, etc., 9,988,000 are Negroes. This estimate included residents of the United States that were ineligible because of confinement in mental institutions and prisons, and those required to pay poll tax, etc., and subject to other barriers such as living in the District of Columbia.

As a continued reader of your paper, I would like this information to impress upon my friends and associates to vote, so will you please inform me of the percentage of Negro vote in this election. I know that it was low, and what percentage would you say, in your honest opinion actually voted? And the number of registered voters?

Yours truly
H. ANDERSON.

Ed. Note: — Because of southern restrictions on voting, failure to register in the north and west and disqualification only about half of eligible Negroes can, or do vote.

Democratic Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., who is honeymooning in Puerto Rico, said Congressman Powell "wouldn't get into this even if he were in the city."

Associate Editor of The Pittsburgh Courier, George Schuyler, said of the Dawson refusal: "I don't know what was in his mind in rejecting the job. It would have been a great thing for the group had he taken it."

The man who started it all —Henry Cabot Lodge—would have no comment on the situation.

In turning down the job, Congressman Dawson was passing up a department which employs half a million people and which, last year, operated on a budget of 3.8 billion dollars.

The Illinois Congressman is known to be of failing health. Rumors had been rife nationally recently that he would resign his post in the House of Representatives.

Charles was taken to General Hospital, suffering from second and third degree burns over the whole of his body.

The children's father had left the house a short time before the fire broke out.

The City Fire Department said the blaze was caused when a light bulb on the Christmas tree created a short.

The fireman who rescued Charles was David Richardson, who climbed through the window.

Another fireman, William G. Lowe, of Station 65, received burns on his hand during rescue attempts.

Rev. M. L. King Expected Here

The California ministers and the members of the Western Christian Leadership Conference will meet here Saturday, Jan. 14, with Rev. Martin Luther King in an effort to complete a merger of the groups which have been assisting in the struggle for civil rights waged by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Gr. Tabernacle Revival to Open On January 8

Rev. G. L. Dedford, pastor of the Macedonia Baptist Church of San Francisco, will conduct a revival at Greater Tabernacle Baptist Church, 4155 McKinley avenue, beginning Jan. 8 and continuing through Jan. 13.

Evangelist Dedford was formerly pastor of Greater Olivet Baptist Church of Los Angeles.

Rev. E. S. Johnson, pastor of Greater Tabernacle, said this week that this is expected to be one of the greatest revivals ever conducted at the church.

Jehovah's Witnesses to Open Assembly Dec. 30

The University congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will usher in the New Year at the Los Angeles Trade-Tech Jr. College. They will hold their semi-annual assembly in the school auditorium, Dec. 30-Jan. 1, where over 2500 delegates will meet for advanced ministry training.

Marcus Johnson, presiding minister of the local congregation, stated that, "entire families of the Witnesses benefit from the Bible discourses and dramatizations which serve in the public interest. Children as well as parents are taught to apply Bible principles in their daily living."

The assembly, sponsored by the Watch Tower Bible & Tract Society of New York, will feature its New York representatives, Ted Jaracz and Russell D. Cantwell as well as many local ministers. Jaracz will deliver the keynote address of welcome at 7 p.m. on Friday which will be followed by a symposium stressing "Personal growth in the Ministry of Peace," conducted by Cantwell.

A public lecture at 3 p.m. Sunday, will be given by Jaracz.

The following students will be honored at the services: Misses Robbie Chappell, Gloria Redman, Margaret Dixon, Thomasine Davis, Donald Bernard, Harry Gipson, Jr., Clarence Moore, Jr., Tavis Watson, and Geoffery McGlover.

Rev. John N. Doggett, Jr. will be speaking at the 8 a.m. service and Dr. T. R. W. Harris, Sr. will speak at the 10:45 a.m. service on the subject "The Greatness of a Religious Experience." Acts 26:13. Special music will be rendered by the choirs.

World Calendars

On Sunday, Jan. 1 from 3-5 p.m. a panel of youth and young adult speakers will present "Calendars of the World," with guest artist Robert O'Neil presenting a dramatic interlude, at the Baha'i Center, 331 S. New Hampshire avenue.

Coordinator of the program is Serrita Carmargo Herbert.

AME Family Celebrates Christmas

On Tuesday evening, December 20, the AME ministers wives of greater Los Angeles and vicinity, sponsored their annual Christmas party. The gala affair took place in the beautiful spacious manse of First AME Church, 1809 Wellington road, the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. Hartford Brookins. It was a colorful and delightful experience and association for all who attended.

Mrs. Brice U. Taylor, president of the alliance, together with her efficient committees, left no detail unattended, in making this one of the finest Christmas parties ever. All who attended were lavish in praise for the warmth, friendliness and sincerity that permeated the party.

Gifts were exchanged, and many games were played and lovely carol singing was led by Mrs. Ralph King. The ladies, whose honored guests were their husbands, were said to have taken extreme pleasure in making their hard working mates feel that their labours are not in vain, and that "the wives" are not unmindful of it.

Election

The Baptist Ministers Union will hold election of officers at the meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 3 at 11 a.m. in McCoy Memorial Baptist Church, 802 E. 46th street.

Clergymen Plan Solemn Rites Stressing Retrospection, Hope

Candlelight meditations, introspection and projection of hope for the future in peace, brotherhood, mutual understanding and the willingness to share one another's burdens, will be the order of the prayer and watch services, scheduled to begin in churches throughout the city Saturday, Dec. 31 as early as 9 p.m.

New Community Church

Several clergymen will assist with five minute meditations as Rev. Anita L. Edmonds, pastor of the New Community Church, 5965 S. Broadway avenue, counts off the last hour of 1960. Rev. C. Martin of Little Rock, Ark. will continue to preach the week long revival now in progress at the church each night at 7:30.

Westminster Presbyterian Church

10:45 p.m. watch service by candlelight will offer meditations and appreciation prayers conducted by Rev. James E. Jones. At 11 a.m. Sunday, the sacrament of baptism will be consummated as well as the holy Eucharist ceremony, at the 2230 W. Jefferson blvd. church.

Bowen Memorial Methodist

A real ole-fashioned testimonial service will be conducted by the Rev. John C. Bain at Bowen, 36th and Trinity streets, beginning at 11 p.m.

First AME Church

Eighth and Towne will offer New Year's eve services beginning at 10:45 p.m. Rev. H. H. Broookins will preach on New Year's Day on "God Will Meet Us at Every Turn." The sacred Lord's Supper will follow.

Grant AME Church

Rev. H. W. Murph will hold candlelight watch service at 11-12 p.m. Saturday at the 105th and Central avenue church. Rev. F. K. Price will speak at the 10:45 a.m. service on Sunday.

Ward AME Church

Rev. L. S. Odom will conduct services at the 25th and Magnolia street sanctuary beginning at 10:45 p.m. Saturday. At 10:45 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 1, Rev. Odom will preach on "A Meritorius Decision," with holy communion following the sermon.

People's Independent Church of Christ

Rev. Maurice A. Dawkins will issue a midnight altar call for prayers for the New Year at the 18th and Paloma street church. The High School and college students will interrupt their annual party in the basement of the church at 11 p.m. to join in the meditation candlelight service. Following the midnight service the party will continue with adults participating with their children for the first festive occasion of the year.

Rev. Dawkins will preach on "Safer Than a Known Way" at the 8 and 11 a.m. services on Sunday.

McCoy Memorial Baptist Church

Starting at 9 p.m. Rev. E. A. Anderson will have the Revs. C. Chambers, W. Duncan, S. R. Russel, E. Brown, A. McCord, L. Walker and A. Fortune as guest speakers during the watch service at the 802 E. 46th street church, Saturday evening.

Holman Methodist Church

Rev. L. L. White will conduct the 11 p.m. hour-long service of gratitude, introspection and retrospection at the 3320 W. Adams blvd. church. The carillon at the church will sound the stroke of midnight and send forth the message of the birth of a new day and the year 1961.

Other Churches

Watch services are also scheduled at Price Chapel AME, Mt. Sinai, Victory, Trinity, St. Andrews and St. Paul Baptist Churches. Also the numerous Catholic and Episcopal congregations will also join in the prayers for more understanding among men and nations and for peace of mind and strength of heart for everyman in 1961.

Experience the spiritual lift gained during the watch service at a favorite church. Join neighbors in the church nearest home.

EVANGELIST — Rev. G. L. Dedford of San Francisco will conduct a revival at Greater Tabernacle Baptist Church beginning Jan. 8.

Bethel Love Feast Set

Bethel AME Church, 1511 W. 36th street, reportedly prepared its congregation for the new year with its closing service of the year on Wednesday evening. A Love Feast was conducted by the newly appointed minister, Rev. Fred E. Stephens for the class leaders, officers and members. This spiritual emphasis service was designed to prepare the group for the sacrament of holy communion which will be consummated at both the 8 and 11 a.m. services on Sunday, Jan. 1.

Preparations are being made at Bethel for the relocation of the church.

Basketball Classic Underway at Arena

The Los Angeles Basketball Classic, now the nation's No. 1 basketball tournament, got under way Wednesday at the Sports Arena with Coach Johnny Wooden's fast rising UCLA team winning convincingly over Michigan State.

While tall, talented and terrific Indiana and California's undefeated defending champion resign as co-favorites in the Dec. 28-29-30 Classic, Wooden's newest version of ths Bruin "Firehouse Five" must be considered as "dark horses" in the 12-game battle for the tall, gold tournament championship trophy.

Rounding out the Classic draw are such other cage powers as Iowa, Michigan State and Minnesota af the Big Ten and SC and Stanford of the Big Five. As a result of early season games to date, SC and Iowa rate high alongside UCLA as teams which could suprise and take it all.

Lakers to Play Benefit

The Los Angeles Lakers returned from a tour that took them to N. Y., Syracuse, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Detroit and back to Philadelphia, playing six games in eight days.

The club will return home to play the World Champion Boston Celtics in a game co-sponsored by the Salesian Fathers Tuesday evening, Jan. 3.

Scheduling favors the Lakers in January, February and March. They have 18 dates at the Sports Arena during that period.

GOPHER — Bill Munsey, Minnesota's most effective ground gainer, carried the ball 51 times for a net gain of 225 or 4.4 yards per try and is one of the team's fastest backs.

GOPHER — Judge Dickson, the University of Minnesota's punting specialist, also had the second best per-play ground gaining record on the Big Ten co-championship team.

HUSKIE—Joe Jones, No. 2 fullback who underwent emergency surgery for appendicitis, is reported in good health but it is questionable if the valuable second stringer will see action

HUSKIE — Ray Jackson, leading ground gainer for Washington, has lost only a total of six yards all season. He scored the Huskies' fourth touchdown against Wisconsin.

Tan Stars Set for Rose Bowl

that the Gophers noted the coolness toward their No. 1 quarterback and seemed to think it's a scheme to get them grumbling among themselves because the Minnesota players, from the coach on down to the waterboy, are fully aware of the lack of publicity that has been given to their players, and especially to Stephens, Bobby Lee Bell, Bill Munsey and Judge Dickson.

Then my man recalled the treatment the press gave the 1947 Illinois team which showed up for the Rose Bowl against USC, which also had a number of Negro players, led by Claude "Buddy" Young. The treatment boomeranged and Illinois went on to rout USC something like 48 to 0.

Coach Jim Owens, whose Washington Huskies have developed into one of the most exciting football teams anywhere with such bread and butter players as George Fleming, Ray Jackson, Joe Jones and Charlie Mitchell, isn't too happy about the position in which the press has put his team.

Despite the fact that he's had quite a few bad breaks, including the fact that his No. 2 fullback, Joe Jones, came down with a kidney disorder, the press has been billing his squad as the invincible team that handed Wisconsin a 44 to 8 defeat in the same Rose Bowl game last year.

It just might be that the Gophers will take the field on Jan. 2 boiling mad and steamed up for victory.

It's a good bet that Minnesota's outstanding players like Dick Larson, Roger Hagberg, Tom Brown, Dave Mulholland, Greg Larson and Coach Murray Warmath are hep to the divide-and-conquer campaign of West Coast writers.

Four Sepia Stars to Play In 3rd Annual Copper Bowl

Four outstanding Negro college gridders will take part in the third annual Copper Bowl football game at Arizona State University Stadium in Phoenix, Dec. 31.

Three will be on the roster of the National All-Stars and one on the South-West. The Nationals will be coached by Charles A. (Rip) Engle of Penn State, who handles the defense, and Pete Elliott of Illinois, the defensive coach.

The South-West will be coached by Jim Sutherland of Washington State and Everett (Sonny) Grandelius of Colorado. Sutherland will handle offense, Grandelius, defense.

Cliff Roberts, Illinois tackle, is the heaviest man on either squad. He stands 6'3" and weighs 260 pounds. He's a three-letter winner from Philadelphia, Pa. He was the first player to accept a Copper Bowl bid.

Two other National All-Stars are halfbacks—Marshall Starks of Illinois and Willie Jones, of Purdue. Starks is 21, 5' 11" and 190 pounds. His home is in Rockford, Ill. Jones is also 21, 5' 11" and weighs 193 pounds. His residence is Robstown, Tex.

Burrell's Choice

Starks was recommended to Copper Bowl officials by Bill Burrell, Illoins' Most Valuable Player in the Big Ten last year and also in the Copper Bowl. He now is playing Canadian professional football.

Starks was named to the third all-Big Ten and was sixth among Big Ten scorers. Jones made second all-Big Ten and was voted Most Valuable back by his Purdue teammates.

The lone South-West Negro player is Cleveland Jones of Oregon. The halfback stands only 5'3½"; weighs 148 pounds. He has spearheaded the Oregon offensive and defensive teams for the past two years.

CHOSEN — Wilma Rudolph, who will appear in the L.A. Invitational on Jan. 21, was named top International "athlete of the year" in Europe. She's America's Olympic triple gold-medalist and world's fastest woman.

Rafer Johnson Athlete of Year

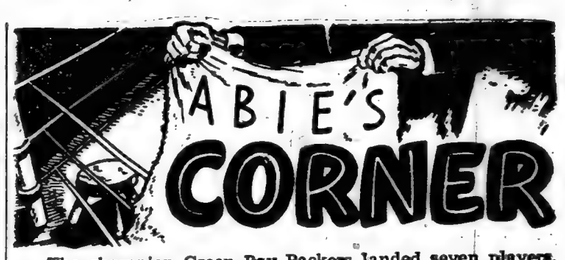
Rafer Johnson, who set a new Olympic record of 8,392 points in the decathlon at Rome, Saturday was named Southern California Athlete of the Year by the Helms Hall board of athletics.

Johnson also holds the world record in the decathlon with 8,683 points piled up in the National AAU championships at Eugene, Ore., last summer.

Hole-in-One Tourney Set For LA Open

A $1000 hole-in-one tournament for spectators will be conducted during the 35th annual $50,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament Jan. 5-9 at Rancho, Pres. Don Sorenson, of the sponsoring Los Angeles Jr. Chamber of Commerce, announced Tuesday.

A 120-yard shot will be set up on the driving range near the 18th hole at Rancho. Any fan firing an ace will receive the $1000, or, if more than one ace is scored, the prize will be split.



Lesser prizes of golf balls, golf clothes and equipment will be given to persons coming close to the hole.

Tab will be three shots for $1. Irons will be provided at the course, so it won't be necessary for spectators to bring along their own sticks unless they wish.

The hole-in-one tournament is an innovation for the L.A. Open. It has been tried elsewhere in the country and has been popular.

Pre-season tickets for the Open, good for all five days of play, are priced at $7.50 and are available at all Southland golf courses and driving ranges and the Jr. Chamber office, 404 S. Bixel.

Entries are mounteing for the event and are expected to top 500 before dreadline.

The champion Green Bay Packers landed seven players, including three who will be playing for the first time, on the Western Conference squad for the All-Star Pro Bowl game against the Eastern Conference Jan. 15 at the Coliseum.

Packers also have their coach, Vince Lombardi, who'll be aiming to run the West's victory skein to seven against four for the East in the eleventh annual charity classic.

Seventh for Richter

Los Angeles Rams have four players chosen on the squad of 34 by the seven Western division NFL coaches—Les Richter, Jon Arnett, Eddie Meador and Jim Phillips.

For Richter, named both as linebacker and offensive center, it will be his seventh Pro Bowl. Halfback Arnett will be in the classic for the fourth straight time, while both defensive back Meador and end Phillips are playing for the first time along with 11 more.

The Baltimore Colts matched the Packers with seven players, led by rifleman Johnny Unitas, Player of the Game in the West's 38-21 victory last January.

Iron Man Nomellini

The fast-finishing Detroit Lions landed six, San Francisco 49ers five, Chicago Bears four and Dallas Cowboys one.

The 49ers have the Iron Man of both West and East squads in 36-year-old Leo Nomellini,262-pound defensive tackle, who will be representing the West for the ninth time.

While 21 of the 34 players of the West are veterans of the game compared to 26 of the East, the Westerners have the most aggregate Pro Bowl appearances, 72 compared to 65 for the East.

Also, the 13 West first timers are far from NFL rookies for they include such as Bart Starr, Henry Jordan and Jim Taylor of the Packers, Nick Pietrosante, Alex Karras and Jim Gibbons of the Lions, Bruce Bosley and Charles Krueger of the 49ers, Andy Nelson of the Colts, Johnny Morris of the Bears, and Jim Doran of the Cowboys along with Meador and Phillips of the Rams.

City Officially Welcomes Angels

Los Angeles' new entry in the American League, the "Angels," received an official welcome from the Board of Supervisors at ceremonies in the Hall of Administration, with the new baseball team's executives present.

Board of Supervisors' Chairman Ernest E. Debs welcomed Gene Autry, chairman of the Board of the "Angels", Robert O. Reynolds, president, and Fred Haney, general manager.

"We are a home-owned team starting fresh and hope to make a good showing in a tough league our first year out," Autry told the Board, adding:

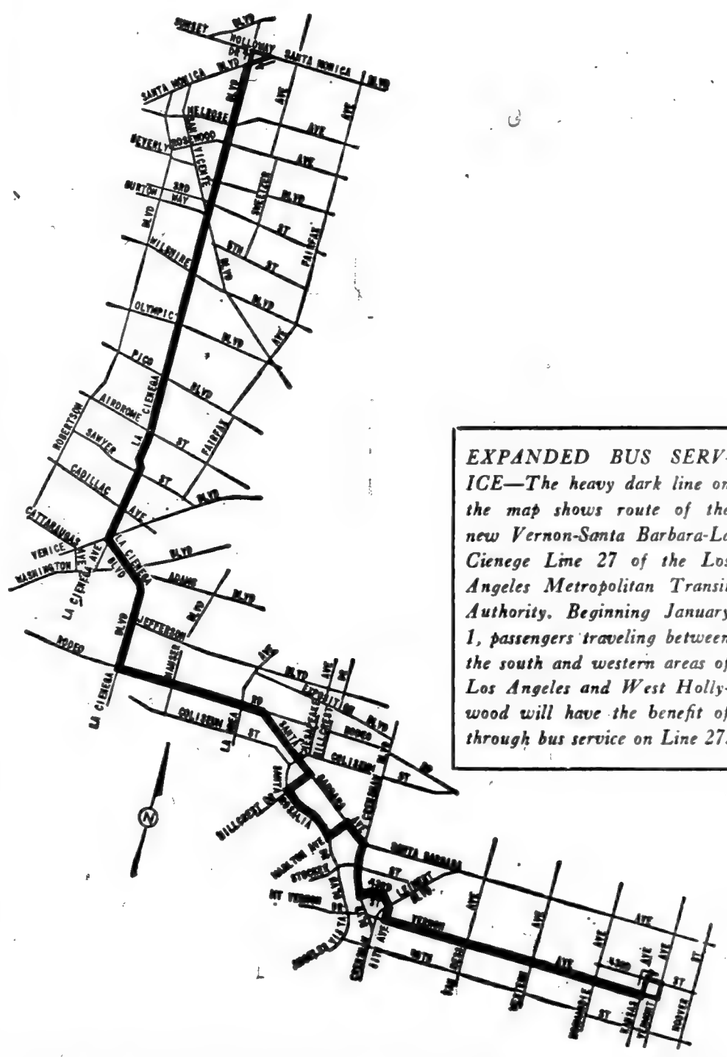
"Our primary concern is giving the fans the kind of baseball they want to see, and I can assure everyone that our team, under the able guidance of Fred Haney, will be hustling and giving their all. They're all proud to be members of the first American League team to move west."

Duel at Sports Arena

Big Pancho Gonzales and Lew Hoad will battle in Jack Krammer's 1961 World Series of professionals at the Sports Arena on Jan. 19 and 20.

The pros will play three single matches and one double each evening in their only West Coast appearance.

Classic Top Player



Clarence Childs, All-America halfback at Florida A&M University, and quarterback Don Smith of the Langston University Lions were voted the top performers for their teams in the 28th annual Orange Blossom Classic by the working press in the Orange Bowl Stadium in Miami. FAMU defeated Langston 40-26.

P.R. MAN A. J. CLARKE — If any members of the community feel honored at being given passes for "Raisin in the Sun" — don't. When Eagle editor Grace Simons arrived at the theater with an escort Thursday night, prepared for a treat, she was bluntly informed that the passes don't mean a thing if there's a paying customer in the offing. Passes had been handed out by "Raisin" press agent A. J. Clarke!

GREEN EYES—Those narrow minds who voiced suspicion at the manner in which the Rinkeydinks gave away a cool grand, their second in one year. The pretty bank clerk at Security-First National at Western and Washington told Fred Griffin, the noted pharmacist, that it couldn't have been won by a more deserving lady because she was pressed for funds due to an operation on her mother. The Rinkeydinks are one of the few groups that give more than they receive—and in the community where it counts!

EVELYN GRIFFIN—Perhaps it's because she came from a family of four beautiful sisters but whatever the reason, you

Backstage at "RAISIN IN THE SUN" . . . The magnificent cast graciously accepted our congratulatory mouthings with the possible exception of the celebrated CLAUDIA McNEIL, who has settled comfortably in the role of LENA YOUNGER and gives it monumental impact.

Miss McNeil brushed aside our kudos on her performance and sternly reprimanded us for being the reporter who dared to make the allegation that her temperament while working on the film version of "Raisin" was uncalled for.

"You may as well know that you have a distinction," Miss McNeil lashed at us, "and that distinction is being the only reporter in my 20 years in showbusiness who has had anything adverse to say about me."

And whereas we had sauntered into the actress' dressing quarters to pay our compliments, we were suddenly enmeshed in a verbal conflict with her. Although several members of the transfixed onlookers told us we "held our own" in gentlemanly fashion, we were suddenly a little tired of it all.

Softening the blow, so to speak, talented DIANE SANDS and DOUGLAS TURNER greeted us like ol' buddy buddy. Both of them have that certain magic that spells out STAR. They gave inspired performances that will be talked about for months to come.

We told Doug this was the first time we had witnessed the play, but felt that his performance as the YOUNGER lad must have matched that of SIDNEY POITIER or OSSIE DAVIS. He replied that had we seen the other actors, we would still realize that he is giving a completely different characterization of the part, preferring to play it his way instead of aping the others. Smart boy!!

Incidentally, the play is sold out for the balance of its L.A. run, thanks to Miss McNeil and the others and they could have stayed for a much lengthier period.

Surely you won't deny that GLORIA LYNNE and GENE McDANIELS were the big vocal finds of 1960 and will receive the "big star" treatment in 1961 . . . ELLA FITZGERALD purchased a home on Sierra Drive in Beverly Hills! . . . Nothing but rave

EAGLE CHRISTMAS PARTY—Old St. Nick showed up at the 2101 W. Vernon address of the California Eagle office twice on Christmas Eve and once the day after Christmas. Atty. Herman O. English was "Old Man Whiskers" the first time. He hosted a Christmas party for the entire staff. Ruth Cunningham was the second visitor from the North Pole. She brought three huge boxes of groceries, each containing a turkey and other supplies. The day after Christmas the Eagle had its third visit from Santa, this being Rev. H. Belfield Hannibal with his car loaded with toys from Saint Michael Church in Studio City and Holy Nativity Church in Westchester. Since Atty. English had contributed to the joy of Eagle staffers, it was fitting that they, in turn, should spread joy in the community. This they did on Saturday. Pictured from left: Executive M. Hedrick, A. D. Sandra Hoskins Plans for Graduation and Marriage

Mrs. Barney Hoskins and daughter Sandra are more than busy these days planning two big events in Sandra's life — graduation next month from UCLA and her wedding Feb. 11 to Alonzo Wilkens III, at beautiful church rites to be directed by Mrs. Harrietta Flowers Williams.

Many pre-nuptial courtesies are planned for the popular bride-elect. Among the early hosts were the Dave Arbors, parents of the groom-to-be, who had a Christmas Day dinner at their Harvard blvd. home as a family get-together honoring the young couple.

Early January hostesses include Miss Iva Washington who will serve a luncheon at her Kingsley drive home for Sandra and her bridesmaids on Saturday, Jan. 7, and on Sunday morning, Jan. 8, Mrs. Bessie Burke and her sister, Mrs. Ethel Bruington, are co-hosting Sandra's first shower at breakfast in the Wilfandel Club House.

The prospective groom arrived Friday for the holidays from Moses Lake, Wash., where he is stationed with the United States Army Air Force.

Through Friends, Eagle Staff is Able to Brighten Three Families' Homes on Xmas

By
Edw. "Abie" Robinson
and Verdell Young

Thanks to the Les Ami Club, the Just Friends Club and the Chi Delta Chapter of Alpha Chi Omega, three families had Christmas dinners in their own homes Sunday.

Eagle baskets of food that were given to them brought near tears mixed with wide, happy smiles to the faces of 23 children and their parents.

Beautician Ruth Cunningham had arranged to have the baskets delivered to the Eagle office Friday night, following a request relayed to her by staff member C. Marie Hughes, after it was learned that the three homes would have little to eat while most others were feasting.

The Eagle's Edward "Abie" Robinson and photographer Verdell Young distributed the baskets Saturday.

(To make the children's eyes shine even more brightly, the Rev. H. Belfield Hannibal, vicar of St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Firestone Park, stopped by the Eagle office Monday, with a car filled with toys and other gifts.

(He had run out of names of youngsters who might otherwise be forgotten. Did we know of any?

(We supplied him with the names of the three families to whom we had given baskets, and the family of Mrs. Joyce Jackson, whose little girl, Gwendolyn, was burned to death when their home at 9617 Grape street, Watts, burned down Friday night).

There was Mrs. Lucille Washington, 13031 Willowbrook avenue, and her family of eight who had little in their cupboard until we arrived Saturday morning with a basket of food that contained a turkey and an assortment of staples and other food that made the bare shelves look like a small grocery store.

Mrs. Washington beamed as if she had just been given a new lease on life, and the youngsters' big eyes sparkled. When they said goodbye and closed the door behind us, we heard happy voices and laughter.

Mt. Nebo Grand Lodge to Support Exceptional Home

Mt. Nebo Grand Lodge, F. and A. A. Y. Masons, 253 W. 61st street, has selected for 1961 the theme of "Doing It in the Community Where It Counts."

After their recent tour of the building program currently under way at the Exceptional Children's Home, they have voted to make this their most important charity project of the year and started their program off by presenting Mrs. Juanita Macklin, executive director of the school, with a check last Sunday afternoon.

James Smith, deputy grandmaster of Mt. Nebo Lodge, is spearheading the project. Following a visit to the school, in which representatives were accompanied by Stella Burrell, grand secretary of the Order of the Eastern Star, and Bertha Kirby, worthy matron of Ruth Chapter No. 4, they decided that there are many avenues through which their organization can help the school.

Mr. Smith, who was recently elected to his post in the lodge, will work out an all-year program so that his group can sponsor various activities to raise funds to meet the needs of the school.

Ira Bolton is grandmaster of Mt. Nebo; Rosa Hays, grand matron of the order of the Eastern Star; Carolyn Deverouax, Heroine grand matron; Pearl Reaves, national officer, and Weltha Bolton, Daughter of Isis. All are working in the interests of the project.

Bill Smallwood

Tom Bradley's birthday today (29) will get a tribute tonight at the Delta dance. Fulbright scholar and Phi Beta Kappa Diane Lewis (Ursula Phelps' daughter), home from Cornell for the holidays, is spending her first Yuletide here in five years. Montana McNeely's home was the scene for Alpha Delta chapter of Gamma Phi Delta's Xmas party. Effa Manley gave her annual birthday party last night (28) for old buddy Elliot Carpenter.

Xmas Eve party hosts: Hazel and Rocky Washington. Marilyn Holder to undergo major surgery. The Thirteen Aids and guests are midday lunching Frid. at the Bev. Hilton. Ruby Barbee Wilson had a bad fall, injuring her foot.

Ghana Visitors

The Mal Whitfields and two kids are visiting here from Ghana. Billy Durosseau put aside his medical books at Howard U. and jetted to the coast for the holidays; he finds the nation's capital captivating. Today (29) is anniversary champagne time for Clara and Louis Love. The Jimmy Lees having their customary New Year's Eve party.

Ethel Branham found a wonderful promotion at her office awaiting her recent return from Africa and Europe. Former local schoolmarm Diane Watson, teaching now in Okinawa, spent Xmas fortnight between Singapore, Hong Kong, Manila, Bangkok and Tokyo; wonder if she saw Gladys Martin in Tokyo.

Helen Garrott, who thrives mightily on incessant giddyyap, takes a deep breath and is off again as she chairmans the forthcoming art exhibit via the National Urban League's local lineup. Sue Harbin Bailey in town from Carmel holidaying with her mate Cal. Louise Beal made it to town for merry Yule from her studies at S'Diego State College for Women.

Huss Aplenty

Frid. is Dr. and Mrs. Roy Andrew's choice for their party night. Linda Graham's night-after-Xmas party was for Steve Curry, home for Xmas from West Point candidate training school in ole Virginny. Rosalie Young due home from Mexico City and the also-there Buddy Clays (Mary) will be flying in shortly, too. And Dr. and Mrs. Warren Brooks (Aurelia) jet home next week

Party Honors Althea Clark

Althea Polk Clark, from Alaska, who is visiting her parents and daughter for the Christmas holidays, was entertained with a buffet dinner party in the home of her mother and father on Halldale last Monday night.

Scores of Mrs. Clark's friends attended the affair. She will take a Jet flight to Detroit on Saturday morning before returning to Alaska.

Among the guests attending the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Amos Gavine, Sidney Jackson, Verner Deckard, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Greitier, Mr. and Mrs. M. Talbert, Mr. and rs. Geo. Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. A. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. Art Johnson, Homer Woodrow, Mr. and Mrs. John Calhoun, Leona Robinson, Sylvia Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. William Hollingsworth, Mr and rs. Major White, John Lee, Esterline Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ward, Olivia Page, Bernice Young, Mr. and Mrs. Major White, John nie Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clark and Tom Wynn.

ANNUAL XMAS CHEER—Members of the Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Auxiliary's Christmas committee are shown preparing baskets with toys, food and clothing to bring cheer to several families who might have gone unnoticed. This is an annual project of the group and supplements their many other community projects. Shown from left: Maggie Rawls, chairman; Kate Evans, co-chairman; Ethel Sheen; little Jimmy Rawls who isn't a member of the committee but brings in a lot of toys; Jessie Russell and Lenora Hynes. Also a member of the committee is Irene Towls. (Adams)

Students Give Xmas Baskets

Some fifty East Los Angeles College students returned to the campus from their vacation to pack boxes and deliver them to some 200 needy families.

This community project was adopted by ELAC five years ago when 35 food baskets were filled. The amount of the college contribution has increased each year to the present 200.

Deltas Annual Ball

The Delta Sigma Theta Sorority will hold its annual White Christmas Ball at the Hollywood Palladium on Thursday, Dec. 29, from 10 p.m. until 2 a.m.

Dorothea Foster

To end one of the two most joyous holiday weekends of gay affairs of the year, Les Amis hosted a gala Christmas party at the beautiful and spacious home of ERNESTINE PACK. Incidently, the girls are looking forward to their January meeting in San Diego at the home of MRS. JOHN JOHNSON.

DR. AND MRS. WAYMAN McCOO hosted a holiday party on Saturday evening while MAEDELLE WORTHAM served eggnogs on Christmas morning.

The Fun Lasted

Also, LOUISE and ALLEN GEORGE gathered a few around the wassail bowl and later served a delicious dinner.

DR. and MRS. JOHN SOMERVILLE poured eggnog on Monday morning from 11 to 1 p.m. Naturally the fun lasted well past the appointed hours.

LORENZO SPENCER was in the honor spot at his birthday dinner given by his charming wife, VAINO.

While RUTH CUNNINGHAM helped the Eagle staff pack and distribute baskets on the night before Christmas eve, she raved happily about the party of the Just Friends Club.

Big Stocking?

Happy wasn't the word to describe the faces of VERNA RICHARDS and HATTIE SMITH, who welcomed their mom from Springfield, Ohio and announced that she liked California so well that she will remain.

MARGARITE HOLLAND seems to be a very happy lady since Santa left a beautiful set of luggage in her stocking.

JEANETTE and PETE PETRIE gave their son, JAMES, a new Valiant for Christmas.

MARGARET and RICHARD JOHNSON completed their Eastern tour just in time for the holidays and started into the swing of things by entertaining their Garden Club in their Fontana ranch home.

Of Travelers

Speaking of traveling and travelers, BERNARD and CORIS ROBERTS spent Christmas in Las Vegas, while JOYCE and WILLIAM WALKER and their daughter PATRICIA, spent their holidays with their parents in Oakland.

ATTY. ADOS NICKOLSON of Chicago is enjoying the California sunshine and our gay holiday party life, of both of which we have had plenty. ALICE and STONEY JACKSON are spending the holidays in Palm Springs; and newlyweds JOAN and WALLY ANDERSON of San Francisco spent the holiday with JOAN'S dad, JOSEPH, and her twin brother JOSEPH, JR. and sister PEGGY who just returned from teaching school in Nantes, France.

The attractive trio dining at Puccini's were OLIVIA PERKERSON, JESSIE MAE ROBINSON and petite L'TANYA GRIFFIN, who is spending the holidays in Los Angeles from New York. The trio will depart Friday for Phoenix, Ariz. where they will spend the New Year's Weekend.

Starting 1961 Right

Yesterday, DR. and MRS. GEORGE SEELY poured cocktails froom 4 until 6, and later that evening the Country Clubbers held their annual Christmas dance at the Nikabob Restaurant.

Also, IRMA and CARL WATSON hosted a delicious buffet and had a holiday chitchat with some long time friends.

To bring 1961 in right, the Couple Club's annual New Year's eve party will be held at the home of ETHEL and AL MADDOX.

MINNIE MEYERS is having many friends and relatives in on New Year's day at the ranch home of her parents in Perris.

HESTER and JOE CAVALIER are making elaborate plans for their annual New Year's day party, while JAMES and GWEN MOORE will be entertaining friends at their Pacoima home.

Among the many balls of the season the Hilltoppers will hold their New Year's eve ball at the Ambassador Hotel.

Looking forward to Jan. 12 when the Rinkeydinks will host their annual ball and I understand JOE MALBROUGH is designing some fabulous gowns for the girls to wear.

Xmas in Alaska: Al Walker, who is there for 18 months with other engineers from his aircraft company, hard at work on a missile project.

Former local newscribe Corrine Adams Claybrooks (she wed a Chica. medic, lives there now) will be in town soon; she's to be a grandmama this new year a-comin' up. Tony Hill packing his bags for his customary Jan. trip to Chi.

Ethel Bruington and Bessie Burke have selected the second Sun. of Jan. for their luggage shower breakfast at Wilfandel to lend joy to bride-to-be Sandra Hoskins who becomes Mrs. Alonzo Watkins in mid-Feb., as you know by now. Shirley Gibbs planes in shortly from her KaySee holiday. Chuck Davis planes out for Atlanta and Morehouse. Valena Broussard went to St. Loo. Ethel Bowles holidaying in St. Loo.

Terri Jones, the six-year-old Pasadenan who will be the first Negro child to represent Jackson School in the Rose Parade, is the granddaughter of L. A.'s Helen Duckett Robinson. Terri will sit with a Japanese boy on the float.

GIFTS FOR THE NEEDY—Depositing Christmas gifts in one of the boxes for the Pacific Lodge Boys Home and the Avalon Community Center are Colonel William T. Bradley, district engineer for the U. S. Army Engineer District, Los Angeles, and Barbara Jean Harrington, secretary, Finance and Accounting Branch. An annual affair, these gifts include toys, clothing, money, canned goods, groceries, etc., to the institutions which are part of the Community Chest program. Colonel Bradley is a resident of San Gabriel, residing at 8345 Josard road, while Barbara lives at 1725 Park avenue in the Echo Park district. (U. S. Army Engineer photo.)

Wm. Freelon Holds Lavish Xmas Party

William Freelon, who operates the cafeteria in Exposition Park, held his annual Christmas party in his beautiful home at 1201 Longwood on Christmas night.

Scores of friends, as well as his staff, attended the festive occasion and enjoyed Caterers James (Jimmy) Jackson's and Harvey Gill's wonderful buffet dinner of dishes of all descriptions which adorned a long table brightly arranged in the traditional Christmas manner.

A four spout champagne fountain ran continuously throughout the evening. Guests also enjoyed cocktails. Serving as waiters for the affair were Robert Aubrey Jr. and Ernest Stringer, the bartenders were Hubert Ledoux and James Jackson.

Among the guests attending were: O. Estill, John H. Jackson, Lucille Thomas, Adaris Williams Florence Hunt, Judith Knight, James Willis, Joe Durel, Mr. and Mrs. W. Chauncy, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. W. Thronts, Mr. and Mrs. H. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Aubry.

Also Margaret Varnado, Celie Smith, Betty Davis, G. Porche, Mary E. Taylor, Carl Lockheart, G. Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Obie Paddo, George Milton, R. S. Lewis, Betty Davison, H. Miller, Mary Jones, Mackie Martin, C. L. McPherson, Adrienne Dungery Betty Sloan and Maggie Hathaway.

Fifth Annual Student Art Show Slated for Foshay Junior High

On Wednesday, Jan. 4, James A. Foshay Junior High School, 3751 S. Harvard blvd., will hold its fifth annual student art show in the auditorium of the school.

The art work will be grouped into 10 categories with a 1st, 2nd and 3rd prize ribbon awarded in each category. First prize winners will receive art materials. Four grand awards will be presented, divided into the following divisions:

A five dollar purchase award; PTA award, consisting of five dollars of art materials; Rembrandt award, consisting of five dollars of art material; and an associated teachers' award.

Judges for the four grand prizes are: Dr. Vincent Lanier, associate professor of art education, University of Southern California; Hugh R. Foley, principal of Foshay; Mrs. Lycurgus Johnson, president of Foshay PTA; and Miss Esther Tutunjian and Miss Janet Quirsfeld, associate art teachers from U.S.C. doing student teaching under the supervision of Mrs. Wildred Hough, chairman of the Art Department at Foshay.

Judges for the 10 subject categories are: Mr. Albert Porter, art supervisor, Los Angeles City School District; Mrs. Melanie Blocker, art teacher at Carver Junior High; Mrs. Margaret Works, art teacher at Dorsey High; Mrs. Phyllis Oster, art teacher Los Angeles City Schools now on sabbatical leave; Mrs. Elizabeth Vaughn, school librarian at Foshay and an authority on African art; and Mr. George Venable, head counselor at Foshay.

Eagle Staff Enjoys Spreading Christmas Cheer

the home of Mrs. Arnola Hayward, the scene was a little different, yet much the same.

When we came walking up to the porch, with a basket full of food, everyone stood still and stared at us. One of the children ventured the question:

"Is this for us?"

When we said, "Yes," they had no reluctance about showing their joy and appreciation—and another family was made happy through the help of the Eagle and Mrs. Cunningham's fine organizations.

Over at the third and last home, we found Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Olden and all the members of their family in their neat little apartment. Olden was cutting the children's hair, and when we announced that we had brought a basket for the family, he said, with a quiet smile and glistening eyes:

"I just had faith and hope and went about cutting my little boy's hair."

We agreed that this was one of the best assignments we had worked on this year, and prayed that in 1961, through our wonderful organizations, we could make every day like Christmas for families such as these in our community, who only need a little help when they are down on their luck.

It was two days later when the Rev. Hannibal came into the Eagle office. He had been working with churches in Studio City and Westchester, and had played the role of St. Nick all day Christmas and on Monday.

We were glad to give him the names of our new friends so that he could complete Santa's kindly chores, and we want to take this method of saluting the Rev. Hannibal who gave up his holiday with his family to bring cheer to other families.

We certainly hope that these people, and others, will find time to visit him at his church, 1772 E. 83rd street.

Negro History Week Chairman Plans General Committee Meeting for Event

General meeting of the various committees and chairmen participating in the thirty-seventh annual observance of Negro History Week (Feb. 12 through Feb. 19) will be held on Tuesday evening, January 3 at the home of Dr. Roy D. Andrews, general chairman, at 3955 Mt. Vernon Drive at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Vassie D. Wright, president of Our Authors Study Club, the Los Angeles Branch of the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, in making the announcement said this year's theme, "Freedom and Democracy for the Negro After 100 Years," (1861-1961) will depict progress the Negro has made during this period in the week-long activities being planned.

Community response has been heartening, she said. This year's activities will be diversified and encompass many phases of the development of the Negro economically as well as culturally since slavery.

A Centennial luncheon and a beautiful souvenir journal which will chronicle the Negro's history in America will be two of the highpoint features of the celebration.

Historians who might enhance the journal and persons interested in placing advertisments therein are urged to contact Mrs. Wright immediately at RE 5-6442. January 31 is deadline for all advertising material, Mrs. Wright said.

Events Planned

Mrs. James Davis, president of the Centennial PTA Chapter, presided over the recent meeting of the group's brief business meeting.

Plans were discussed for starting a local blood bank, and a fund-raising Donut Sale for the near future.

Thirty-Eight Join Family Reunion Party

At their first reunion since their golden wedding anniversary in 1956, thirty-eight members gathered to welcome Rev. and Mrs. John H. Payton from Phoenix, Arizona. They were accompanied by their daughter and her husband, Hazel and Kermit Brown.

The reunion in the form of a family dinner was held in the home of Nolan and Georgia Payton, son of Rev. and Mrs. Payton.

Among the relatives attending were John and Lorraine Payton, Ethel and Boyd Pickett, Sally Anne Payton, Sherrie Benson, Essie Benson, Flossie Taylor, Rudy and Cynthia Taylor, Verbest Palmer, Meryyn and Harriette Beasley and their three daughters' families Charles and Barbara Ruth Bartholomew and son, Jacquelyn Taylor, Kathleen and Gray Cole and Izora Smalley and family.

Guild Presents $3,000 Check to Urban League

Presentation of a check for $3,000 by Wanda Wiley, Guild president to Dr. Leroy Weekes, Urban League Board vice-president, and Wesley Brazier, executive director, highlighted the holiday breakfast attended by 150 Urban League Guild members and friends Sunday in the Regency Room of the Sheraton West Hotel.

Speaker of the morning was Dr. Marion Holmes, professor of art at UCLA. Also on the program were Mrs. Marnesba Tackett, Judge Bernard Jefferson and Miss Berenice Booker who sang a Christmas carol. Marian Wilson, first vice-president, reported on two recent awards given to the Guild.

Associate members welcomed into regular membership of the Guild by Ellynore Adams, membership chairman, were: Charlene Hampton, Elois Irons, Ella Morrison, Thelma Wallace and Lucille Ward.

New China Club Will Play Host New Year's Eve

Angelenos wishing to make the New Year's Eve Champagne Flight to the New China Club in Reno, Nevada, may make reservations as late as noon Friday, Emerson Smith, vice-president of the DeVoe Travel Agency, said this week.

Profitable Package

In issuing his "last call for a lucky New Year's Eve," Smith added:

"This flight to Reno shapes up as one of the best entertainment buys of the year. Under the sponsorship of New China Club owner Bill Fong, Angelenos are being offered a package that includes champagne and food aloft, dinner in Reno, free refreshments in Reno, free presents for the ladies,cash refund, and souvenirs for everyone."

The New Year's Eve flight is the first of a series being sponsored by Fong and the New China Club, Reno's famed interracial casino.

Cheaper Than Walking

Cost of the flight—$30 plus tax—is actually less than half the cost of usual first-class air trips to Reno. All flights will be made by luxurious Convairs, with pretty stewardesses in attendance.

For additional information, call Emerson Smith at the DeVoe Travel Agency, 2610 Crenshaw blvd., REpublic 1-1168.

Adjusters Train At Local School

The Adjusters and Investigators Training Center, Inc., 601 S. Rampart Blvd., is training hundreds of personnel who work on the millions of claims filed in the United States annually, stated George Roberts, manager.

Roberts said that about one-hundred-million claims are filed every year by insurance agencies, railroads, airlines, finance companies, steamship lines, and others, and the opportunities in this field are unlimited. The demand exceeds the supply of trained investigators, according to Roberts.

The field offers excitement, good pay, and a fine future, according to Roberts, who urges young people to look into a career in investigation.

NEW YORK SCENE

HAPPY NEW YEAR TO YOU ONE AND ALL!!!

Well, its just a series of parties, dances, dinners, visitors, gift delivering and work here as everywhere in the U. S. during the Christmas Holiday season. I am back at 136th St. Liquors earning a few year end shekles, working side by side with the manager, Phil Grossman, Henry, the owner, and all the boys, Billy Mason, Kenny Keene, Harold Irving and Al Butterfield. We are having a ball and seeing some pretty frightening sights as we serve the 'juice' to the revelers.

Faces and Spaces

The Monday Night Camp Fund Third Annual Christmas Party at Brankers was a huge success, with a full-complliment turnout of bar-owners, liquor salesmen, bartenders and barmaids, hostesses, resort-owners, entertainers and just nice, interested people like: Rose Yuen, of the Renney, Fannie Pierre, of the Dawn, Frankie Bizell, Walter Beeman, Allen Peterson, Madeline & Harold Jones, Rose Simmons, Addie Pullen, Tondelayo, "Cookie," etc. TV star Lonnie Sattin rendered a few fine songs, and Rudy Rutherford and the combo kept the music swinging or relaxed, for the benefit and dancing pleasure of all. Mr. & Mrs. George Palmer and all of the Camp Fund Committee acted as hostesses and served the turkey, ham, potato salad, baked beans, and other delicious food, while the beverages flowed freely (and for FREE) all through the night. It was real fun, and most gratifying to be there and to emcee the festivities.

Sammy Davis Tops

Sammy Davis, Jr. is 'cooking' at The Copa, and keeping Jules Podell happy by packing the house and sending them all away smiling. Count Basie, Joe Williams & Co. are winging along, but swingingly, at Birdland, on their last engagement together before, it is reported that Joe Williams will be leaving Basie to start on his own, as a single. We certainly wish the best of everything to Joe, as he is one of the 'boss' vocalists in the country and deserves top billing and money, along with the Johnny Mathis, Billy Eckstine, Nat Cole, Sammy Davis, Jr., and others, group.

Counting Our Blessings

Santa Claus was very good to me this year, and I think 1961 is going to be even better, so I'll be able to get around a lot and keep all you misplaced New Yorkers, now in sunny California, informed of the many happenings on the New York Scene, as well as letting the local gentry know that lack-of-activity was not why you may now be living in L.A. or points thereabouts. New York is still the ONLY CITY IN THE WORLD, so there . . . But the West Coast is fast trying to sneakp up on us, and I love you one and all out there for just having so much heart!!!

Now don't hate me so much you don't even want to wish me a HAPPY NEW YEAR like I did for you. I was only TELLING IT LIKE IT ARE!! 'Byne for now, FRIENDS AND LOVED ONES. Let's really make 1961 'choice'!

NOTICING—When you catch doctors like L. C. notices pouring in for the "Only in America" play that bowed in locally the other night. But we've got to see the hunk of theater to find out about the part that describes a "Negro Vertical Plan" to offset segregated schooling in the south. The writer lampoons the situation saying it's alright for Negroes to stand up but not "sit in" so they can go to integrated schools where the desks are remved. Huh???? . . , Yeah, it kind of wrecked us, too:

END OF AN ERA — Screen extras celebrated their victory over segregated casting when they appeared for registration at Central Casting on Hollywood blvd. Tuesday morning. Negroes Register At Central Casting

By Maggie Hathaway

Jan. 3, 1961 will go down in history as "freedom day" for Negro screen "extras" in Hollywood, for it was on that day that what had come to be known as the "peonage system" of Jim Crow hiring finally crumbled.

On Tuesday morning 155 joyous and jubilant actors and actresses made their first appearance at Central Casting, 5504 Hollywood blvd., to register at the newly unified agency.

Hunt for Central Casting

From the days when Hollywood was young up to the last day of last year, Negro extras were called for acting jobs through a segregated set-up headed for almost a decade by Jasper Weldon, who operated out of his home at 110 E. 99th street.

When they arrived at Hollywood and Western, many of the actors couldn't find the "casting office", and stopped pedestrians at the bus loading zone, waitresses in the corner drugstore and anyone who would listen, asking, "Where is Central Casting?"

Some of the pedestrians, who had never heard of Central Casting, were delighted at meeting real live actors.

"Do you people work in pictures?" "Are you going to make a picture on Hollywood blvd. today?" "Are you really movie stars?" "Can we have your autographs?"

The extras finally found the "casting" building and headed for the elevator. The Negro woman operator congratulated them and wished them luck.

Greeting them at the Central office were Jasper Weldon, along with Doug Dakin, top casting director, and several photographers.

The laugh of the day came when, asked routine questions about name, age, etc., not a single one of the actors and actresses would admit to being over 39.

Completing Details

Neither Weldon nor Dakin would make a statement to the press about the new casting policy. Dakin said, "Call me later, or else call 'Duke' Wales, public relations director for the producers."

When we finally located

Loren Miller says . . .

Times Change

The world does move and times do change even if the movements and the changes are so slow that they escape the naked eye. Take the case of Robert C. Weaver, President-Elect Kennedy's choice to head the Housing and Home Finance Agency. Weaver got into public life away back there in 1934 when he became a "Negro Advisor" on housing affairs to the then Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes.

Loren Miller

Ickes, a free wheeling liberal, had been president of the Chicago branch of the NAACP at one time during his tempestuous career. He wanted to see to it that Negroes got their "fair share" of the jobs created by the construction of public housing and proportionate share of the new housing units. It is easy to see now that this philosophy was a New Deal variant of the Separate But Equal rule.

Negro Advisor

Nobody saw anything wrong about Weaver being appointed as a "Negro Advisor" and even the most equalitarian minded New Dealers didn't dream of suggesting that a Negro be named to head the federal housing program. As a matter of fact the governmental housing agencies were loaded up with bankers and real estate brokers who were on the ragged edge of relief and with social workers who had dreamed dreams and seen visions of federal assistance to the ill fed and ill housed of the land.

The bankers and brokers who escaped the relief rolls by getting appointments to head the housing agencies took their prejudices with them and the social worker underlings were so happy at winning FDR to their side of the housing program that they were content to acquiese in the Jim Crow schemes of their superiors. The federal government became an active

Tulane U. Students Blast La. 'Jackals'

Close to 100 white students of New Orleans' Tulane University spoke out in anger and contempt this week against their governor, their legislators and the "packs of marauding jackals" who have instigated rioting, harassment and violence to prevent four Negro six-year-olds from attending "white" schools.

The students' names are printed on a well written brochure entitled, "Toulanians Dissent."

Unreality

The article states:

"The public affairs of the state have taken on, in the past two months, an aura of unreality which, by comparison, makes Alice in Wonderland appear stark realism.

"The governor and the legislature reveal themselves masters of Orwellian doublespeak — to hate the Negro is to love him; to discriminate against the Negro is to accord him equality; peaceful protest includes the hurling of rocks and eggs, telephone harassment, rioting in the streets and constant threats of violence; both major political parties, both presidential candidates and the federal judiciary are communist-inspired and the national capitol is seething with subversion; teachers who obey federal court orders are to be investigated for subversion and disloyalty; the people of Louisiana who elected Kennedy electors did not really do so and the vote of the electors should be changed; the press calls peaceful protest criminal mischief and rampant vandalism peaceful protest.

Ignorant Bigots

"In such an atmosphere one feels impelled to succumb to the general irrationalism and lash out with the same intemperate, unconsidered, epithet-hurling one sees and hears on every side. Yet, what does this accomplish?

"Does it help to assert that the legislators are ignorant bigots with one eye to quieting their own inadequacies by persecuting the Negro and the other to any modicum of political or economic advantage which the melee may bring within reach?

"Does it help to notice that the state judiciary abandons all semblance of judicial decorum and lends itself to the patently farcical segregation struggle? Is it of any use to recount the idiocies of the chief executive who engages in debate with a newsman, asking him if he would want his four-year-old daughter to marry a Negro?

Defend Vilification

"Can it be believed that the mayor of a city of 600,000-odd souls asserts in a news conference that telephone cam-

Weaver Made Housing Chief By Kennedy

When Robert C. Weaver assumes his job as administrator of the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency he will be backed up by an executive order abolishing all racial discrimination and segregation in publicly assisted housing, the Eagle learned this week.

Weaver, whose appointment was announced by President Elect John F. Kennedy Saturday, will direct the affairs and shape policy for the Federal Housing Administration, the Public Housing Agency and the Urban Renewal and Redevelopment Agency over which the HHFA has jurisdiction. The non-discrimination order will be aimed at all agencies and will be signed by the then President Kennedy.

DIES SUDDENLY—Dr. N. Curtis King, founder of Rose Netta Hospital, died suddenly at his Shangri-La ranch near Elsinore last Thursday of a heart attack.

Well Known Doctor Dies of Heart Attack

Dr. N. Curtis King, prominent South Los Angeles doctor who founded and for many years operated the Rose Netta Hospital, 4412 S. Hooper avenue, died suddenly Thursday at the age of 66 of a heart attack at his Shangri - La ranch near Elsinore.

Funeral services will be held this Thursday (today) at 1 p.m. from the Angelus Funeral Home, with the Rev. Lloyd Galloway, pastor of Lincoln Memorial Congregational Church, officiating.

Lincoln Memorial Burial

The Rev. L. M. Curtis, who was pastor of the Macedonia Baptist Church when Dr. King was a member, will also participate in the services. Burial will take place in Lincoln Memorial Cemetery.

On Wednesday commemorative services were being held in Elsinore where Dr. King had made his home for some time, in between two extensive world trips, during which he was depressed by the pitiful poverty and disease he witnessed in Africa and elsewhere.

Dr. King, throughout his many years here since 1929 and before that at Newnan, Ga., combined the skill and competence of the well trained doctor with the friendliness and sympathy of the old-style practitioner.

Forgot Bills

Those who knew him best tell of the many occasions on which he would treat whole families who had health problems but little money, and just forget to send in a bill.

Tent Dweller Is Wounded by Shot from Auto

SOMERVILLE, Tenn. — One of the Negro sharecroppers evicted in the Tennessee vote battle was shot last Wednesday as he lay asleep in his new "home" in the tent village near here.

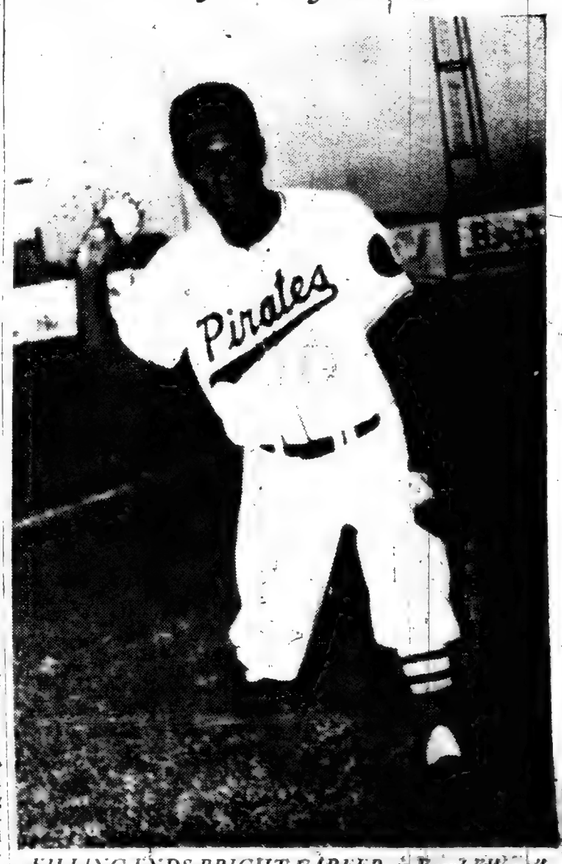
Early B. Williams, first "settler" of "Freedom Village," was shot in the arm by someone firing a shotgun from a passing car early in the morning.

Sheriff 'Unavailable'

Sheriff C. E. Pattat could not be reached. He was reported out on an investigation and "unavailable for an indefinite period."

Williams was one of the growing number of sharecroppers who, together with his wife and children, was put off his land after he had registered and voted in the Nov. 8 election.

The Southern Conference Educational Fund, meanwhile, has appealed to Pres. Eisenhower and to Sens. Estes Kefauver and Lyndon Johnson to visit Freedom Village in Fayette County, Tenn.



The organization has also urged Gov. Buford Ellington and Atty. Gen. Rogers to pro-

KILLING ENDS BRIGHT CAREER — Frank "Waco" Jackson, Pittsburg Pirates pitcher who was "definitely on his way to the Major Leagues," was hit by a stray bullet early Monday morning at a hot-dog stand in Compton. The former Centennial High athlete was killed instantly.

'Waco' Jackson, 'On His Way' to Big League, Slain

Frank "Waco" Jackson, 21-year-old Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher who was headed straight for the Major Leagues, was shot and killed early Monday morning during a quarrel in which he had played no part.

The former Centennial High School CIF basketball player, who was signed by the Pirates in 1959, was an innocent bystander who went outside a cafe to see what was happening and was struck by a stray bullet as he turned to go back inside.

Funeral Saturday

The killing took place at the Hot Spot, 11624 S. Wilmington avenue, shortly after 2 a.m. where Jackson and several of his friends had stopped off to get a hot dog.

Identity of his assailant is not known. He and another man who was with him fled after the shooting.

Funeral services for the promising player, who was liked by everybody and who had made an impressive showing during his brief period with the Pirates, has been scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday from the Ashley-Grigsby Mortuary Inc., 9920 Central avenue.

'On His Way'

Chet Brewer, former baseball player who is at present the West Coast scout for the Pirates, told the Eagle that both he and Branch Rickey, the ball club's general mana-

Brown Urges Stronger Laws Against Bias

SACRAMENTO — Governor Edmund G. Brown Tuesday urged the state legislature to "extend our laws against discrimination in housing" and to establish the "principle that an established pattern of discrimination is a proper basis for disciplinary action by state licensing bodies."

The governor did not spell out his proposals for extending legislation banning housing discrimination but state leaders of the committee that led the fight for fair employment legislation have readied a bill that would put enforcement of housing laws under

Hawkins Heads Top Committee

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins (Dem.) Tuesday took over the task of heading the important Rules Committee of the Assembly.

He is the first Negro to head this committee which clears appropriations for interim investigating bodies, in addition to handling other legislative matters.

Hawkins was elected to the 62nd Los Angeles district in 1934 and has served in the legislature ever since that time.

Senators Propose Rule Changes to Curb Debate

WASHINGTON — Democrats zigzagged toward a redemption of their platform pledges to curb senatorial filibusters and to break the House Rules Committee's power to bottle up civil rights legislation as Congress organized this week. Prospects are that there will be little change in Senate rules and that the House Rules Committe will be left with all of its power but that a Mississippi congressman will be ousted to make way for a more liberal member.

Vice President Richard Nixon gave the move to change filibuster rules a boost with a ruling that the Senate may change its rules at the beginning of each session and that filibusters may not be mounted against such changes. Under present rules a filibuster may be halted by two thirds of senators present and voting and it seems likely that the power to curb debate will be changed to give three fifths of senators present and voting the right to choke off talkfests after reasonable debate.

Colmer Ouster

The congressman slated to be purged from the House Rules Committee is William Colmer of Mississippi who bolted the Kennedy ticket last fall and campaigned for the election of an "independent" slate of electors. The present Rules Committee is composed of eight Democrats and four Republicans but Colmer and Chairman Howard Smith, Virginia Democrat, have consistently voted with the Republican minority to stymie all legislation unacceptable to them.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn is understood to be backing the ousting of Colmer but that move will not solve the problem. Under House rules, the Rules Committee has entire jurisdiction to determine what legislation is sent to the floor of the House for a vote. When he is opposed to any legislation, Smith simply refuses to call a meeting of his Committee and has disappeared for weeks at a time. He could pursue the same tactics even with Colmer's ouster.

African States Meet to Plan Joint Policies

CASABLANCA, Morocco — A four-day "summit conference" of seven African-Asian nations to set up a neutralist, anti-imperialist bloc was scheduled to get under way here Tuesday.

Nations represented in addition to Morocco are Ghana, Guinea, Mali, United Arab Republic, Algerian Nationlists, Ceylon and Libya.

King Mohamed V of Morocco was greeting the presidents, foreign ministers and other representatives and had arranged an impressive reception for his guests.

Among those attending are Pres. Kwama Nkrumah of Ghana; Pres. Sekou Toure, of Guinea; Pres. Madibo Keita of Mali; Pres. Gamal Abdel Nasser of the UAW; Premier Ferhat Abbas of the Algerian Nationalists; Foreign Minister Abdel Quadir al Allam of Libya; and Alwin Perera, Ceylonese delegate who is ambassador in Cairo.

Subjects on the agenda were reported as the worsening situation in the Congo and the "indecision" of the U.N., coupled with strong support for imprisoned premier Patrice Lumumba; support for Algerians against the French; and protest against the explosion by France of its third atomic bomb in the Sahara last week.

From Peking, Chinese Premier Chou En-lai sent cabled greetings, pointing out that his government has always given "firm support to the peoples of Algeria, the Congo and other African countries in their struggle against colonialism." He also called for release of Lumumba.

Not represented at the conference were India, Indonesia, Ethiopia, Nigeria and Tunisia. Tunisia is currently feuding with Morocco over Mauritania. Some of the other nations said they would send observers.

UN Slaps Belgium For Aid to Mobutu

Beligum, paralysed by nationwide strikes over the Congo-caused austerity program, was given a rebuke Monday for open military intervention in the Congo. Belgium was accused of aiding "strong man" Col. Joseph Mobutu's troops that were sent to attack Lumumba followers in an unsuccessful attempt to regain control of Kivu Province.

With an easy disregard for international commitments, Mobutu had asked, and apparently had been granted, permission to fly paratroopers into the Belgian-administered U.N. trusteeship territory of Ruanda-Urundi because there were no adequate — and available — landing fields in Kivu Province.

Machine-Gunned

The Mobutu forces accordingly had flown to Usumbura, capital of Ruanda-Urundi, and from there were escorted to the Congo border by Belgian troops.

At the border they were met by a machine gun barage from Lumumba troops and a number of Mobutu's paratroopers were wounded.

One reports says that 30 of them were taken to a hospital in Usumbura. Other reports said a number of Mobutu's men were captured.

The U.N. representative in the Congo, Rajeshwar Dayal of India, said in a report to Dag Hammarskjold, U.N. secretary general, that about 100 of Mobutu's men crossed into Kivu Province from Ruanda-Urundi at dawn Sunday.

Calls for Disarming

In his protest to Belgian, Ambassador Walter Loridan Hammarskjold charged that Belgium had violated the hands-off resolutions of the United Nations by permitting Mobutu's troops to pass through the Belgian-administered trust territory.

He said he found it difficult to believe that troops could have landed by plane and then been transported to the border of Kivu Province "without the knowledge of the responsible authorities of Belgium in the trust territory."

He asked Belgium to "take immediate and effective measures" to see that there is no repetition of such an incident and further demanded that Belgian authorities disarm any other Congolese troops entering the trust territory.

Country Divided

The thwarted attack on Kivu Province underlines the fact that Mobutu and Pres. Joseph Kasavubu, who work together, are in effective control of only a portion of the territory of the Congo.

The two large northern provinces of Kivu and Oriental are under the control of followers of the legally elected premier, Patrice Lumumba, who has been imprisoned by Mobutu in Thysville, south of Leopoldville. The southern province of Katanga, the industrial and mining heartland of the country, is controlled by Moise Tshombe.

Plan 'New Deal'

A clash was reported Saturday in the northern area of Tshombe's domain, near Nyemba, during which 10 rebelling Baluba tribesmen were said to have been killed by U.N. Nigerian troops.

Despite the divided authority, however, Kasavubu has called for a political roundtable conference Jan. 25, to "modify the basic law" of the Congo.

It is assumed by correspondents in Leopoldville that this indicates that Kasavubu intends to disregard the elections just prior to the granting of independence last July 1, and install some kind of a new parliament with his protege, Joseph Ileo, as premier.

Meanwhile on Tuesday representatives of five more nations comprising the U. N. Congo Conciliation Committee arrived at Leopoldville, bringing the number to nine.

Countries now represented are Ghana, India, Pakistan, Sudan, Senegal, Nigeria, Malaya, Ethiopia and Liberia.

Business Firms Increase, Says Dun, Bradstreet

The business population of Los Angeles County increased 10 per cent during the past five years, according to statistics released by Dean D. Maddux, regional vice president of the Los Angeles office of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

Basing his facts on a comparison of physical counts in the January, 1961 and January, 1956 editions of the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book, Maddux reports that Los Angeles County has 83,732 business firms listed in the 1961 Reference Book while in the 1956 edition, 76,336 firms were listed.

According to Maddux, business concerns in all part of the United States are asked by Dun & Bradstreet for copies of their financial statements each January. This year, requests are being sent to approximately three million business concerns — to the corner grocery store worth a few thousand dollars as well as to businesses worth millions.

4 Scholarships To be Offered For Oratory

Four scholarships for the winner and runners-up in the oratorical contest scheduled as part of Negro History Week activities will be presented by Our Authors Study Club, the sponsoring organization, Mrs. Vassie D. Wright, president, announced Monday.

Negro History Week will be observed Feb. 12-17.

Theme of the oratorical contest which is open to all high school seniors will be, "The Negro's Role in American History."

According to Miss Estelle Edmerson, John Adams Junior High School instructor and chairman of the Oratorical Contest Committee, students entering the contest will be judged on the content, general effectiveness and delivery of their speeches. The contest will take place on Friday, Feb. 17 at 8 p.m.

Central Casting Opens Its Doors

"Duke" Wales, he surprised us by treating us "downright human," and gave us a "right to the point" statement.

"We are going to complete the details for castisg Negroes and Orientals through Central as fast as we can.

"At present," he continued, "it is too soon to say if there will be a Negro aide or not. That will be left to the executives at Central to decide."

No Hitches

We said there would be no protests from our group so long as the treatment was impartial and fair.

"Don't worry," he replied. "Everyone will be happy."

The change-over from the segregated casting set-up was brought about through the conciliation efforts of the year-old Fair Employment Practices Commission, after a petition was filed with that agency several months ago.

The petition, containing 500 names, was filed by Byron Ellis, actor and officer of International Artists, and Maggie Hathaway, Eagle reporter, actress and president of International Artists.

'Mistake' Killing Listed as First 1961 Homicide

Frank Smith, 44, of 2633 Halldale avenue, was arrested Sunday on suspicion of a murder "by mistake" in what police listed as the first homicide of the new year.

A mechanic, John T. Hawkins, 40, whose address was given as W. 52nd street, was shot at a bar at 4376 S. Main street.

Smith said he had a dispute with another man, Willie B. Marshall of 1162 E. 25th street, and was hitting him with the butt of the gun when someone grabbed him and the gun went off accidentally, killing Hawkins.

NAACP to Install Officers Sunday

Dr. St. Paul Epps will install the newly elected officers of the Los Angeles Branch NAACP at the Bel-Vue Community Presbyterian Church, where he is pastor, 675 E. 118th street, on Sunday, Jan. 8.

The installation meeting is scheduled to begin at 3 p.m.

Officers to be installed are are follows:

Edward D. Warren, president; Atty. Loren Miller, first vice president; Atty. James Akers Jr., second vice president; Dr. H. Claude Hudson, third vice president; Mrs. Patricia Elmore, secretary; and Dr. Frederick N. Spann, treasurer.

Members of the Executive Committee are: James Allen, Dr. E. H. Ballard, Mrs. Sadie Brewer; Dr. J. B. Carter, Ralph Davis, Dr John S. Gary, Joseph E. Grimmett, Beacham Jackson Jr., Carl J. Local Delegate To Attend Meet At White House

John A. Jackson, executive director for the Stovall Foundation, will leave by plane on Saturday, Jan. 7, for Washington, D. C.

Jackson was appointed by Governor Brown as a delegate to the first White House Conference on the Aging. He is the only Negro resident of Southern California to attend the conference as an officially appointed delegate and will participate in the conference section on local community organizations.

He will be accompanied by his wife, Mary, and their three children, Jeanette, Douglas and David.

The Jacksons have also been invited to attend the presidential inauguaration.

Funds Welcomed

SCEF, in addition, has asked that letters and telegrams be sent to Pres. Eisenhower, Sen. Kefauver, Gov. Ellington and other representatives seeking action on behalf of the victims of hate who have no homes, no jobs, no food, no money—because they dared to mark ballots in the presidential election.

SCEF asks that money for tents and food for Fayette County victims be sent to John McFerren, Route 4, Box 133, Somerville, Tenn.; and that donations for similar victims in Haywood County be sent to O'Dell Sanders, 307 W. Margin Street, Brownsville, Tenn.; or to the SCEF, Inc., 822 Perdido Street, New Orleans, 12, La.

The NAACP national office in New York has been sending assistance since last July 6 and to date has provided $7,300 worth of food which is distributed twice monthly by the Memphis NAACP.

The Memphis NAACP has also distributed additional truckloads of clothing and other supplies from NAACP branches, other groups and individuals from across the country.

Judge Williams Is Transferred

Judge David W. Williams, who has been assigned to the Van Nuys court during the last half of 1960, has been transferred to a Courthouse misdemeanor trial court.

Announcement of the shift was made by Judge Gerald C. Kepple as he undertook the post of presiding judge of the Municipal Court.

Willowbrook Youth, 16, Held For Murder

A 19-year-old youth, Joe Vernie Foster, of 1816 E. 124th street, was shot to death Saturady afternoon in the aftermath of a fight that broke out at a party last Thursday night.

Sheriff's officers said that Robert Lee Crosby, 16, of 1737 E. 122nd street, admitted the shooting, but claimed Foster had a gun and he shot in self-defense.

Named 'Butch'

When police arrived at the scene of the shooting, at the rear of 1752 Palm Lane, Willowbrook housing project, two of those involved in the fights said that it was "Butch" who lives on 122nd street, who did the shooting.

While the officers were talking to Arthur Thomas Gibson, 20, of 1735 Palm Lane, and Fred Dupree Jr., 19, of 1542 E. 122nd street, Crosby returned to the scene and gave himself up.

He told police he had thrown his gun into a garbage pail. He said he had come to Palm Lane to return the gun "someone" had given him after the fight at 1960 130th street, Compton, the previous Thursday. He couldn't recall the name of the person or the exact address.

'Foster Fired Twice'

He said that he was accosted by Foster, Gibson, Dupree, and Joe Nathan Edwards, 20, of 1738 E. Palm Lane.

Foster, he said, pulled out a small gun and fired twice, but the gun did not go off. Fearing that Foster was out to "get" him, he fired the gun he had in his hand, Crosby said.

Officers said they were convinced, after investigating, that the quarrel was not a gang fight.

Arrested in addition to Crosby were Gibson, Dupree and Edwards, and Lee Otis Sanders, 22, of 1643 E. Palm Lane; Roosevelt Murray, 23, of 1700 E. Palm Lane; and two youths, 16 and 17 years old.

"Dollar-A-Shot" polio immunizations will be available to the Southwest Community on Thursday, Jan. 12, from 6-9 p.m. at the Southwest District Health Center, 3834 S. Western avenue, the Rev. R. Wolf, chairman of the Southwest Health Council, announced this week.

Man, Woman Held As Bunco Suspects

A man and woman were picked up Tuesday afternoon by police as suspects wanted on numerous bunco charges.

Arrested were Mary M. Grier, 34, of 718 W. 79th street, and a man who was identified only as Williams.

John W. Frower, 506½ E. 46th street, told officers the pair engaged him in conversation in front of a phone booth at 4513 S. Avalon blvd. Williams, speaking in a broken accent, claimed he was from the West Indies and that some girl had just taken him for $50, Frower said.

He asked Frower if he could help him locate the Seaman's Club. It was then Miss Grier walked by and Williams offered her a dollar if she would assist them. He pulled out a roll of bills.

Miss Williams told officers she had never seen Wiliams before. The officers, however, suspected them of being bunco artists. In questioning Miss Grier, police found an identification card made out to "Mrs. Williams" in her wallet.

Order Landlords To Halt Evictions

The New Year dawned chill and forbidding to the growing population of hungry, homeless Negro sharecroppers at the tent colony outside Somerville, Tenn., Sunday morning.

As a result, however, of two separate decisions Friday in Concinnati and Memphis, there was some hope that evictions of at least some of the other 700 families of Fayette and Haywood Counties might be halted.

Injunction Granted

The Cincinnati court granted a Justice Department plea for a temporary injunction against 37 Haywood County landowners to prevent evictions scheduled for Jan. 1.

In Memphis Judge Marion S. Boyd signed an order temporarily restraining Fayette County landowners from "intimidating, threatening, coercing . . . their Negro sharecropper tenants for the purpose of interferring with the right of such persons to vote."

The landlords deny that the voting issue is involved in their refusal to renew the leases of the Negroes, some of whom have farmed the same land for the past 25 years. They claim that the evictions were necessitated by the introduction of machinery.

Claim Fifth Amendment

Two of the white group, however, sought refuge in the Fifth Amendment at the non-jury trial before Judge Boyd, while two white witnesses testified to pressure being applied against them when they refused to follow the anti-Negro edicts.

A Negro witness, James Avery, 48, father of three children, told the court that after registering to vote May 20 he was told by Thomas Crowder Chapman Jr. to make arrangements for a new place to farm in 1961. Avery said he was not able to find a place in Haywood County.

Charles W. Scott, Stanton constable, and Miss Mary Ware, Haywood County landowner and supply company bookkeeper, both refused to answer questions "on the grounds that any answer I give might tend to incriminate me," when they were placed on the stand by John Doar, Civil Rights Division attorney.

Refused to Sign

Mrs. Esther Green, a white woman, said she refused to sign a petition presented to her by Shelby Dixon, Stanton cotton ginner, pledging to take economic action against Negroes who registered. Dixon, she said, visited her farm in the fall of 1959.

He asked her to pledge that she would not help any members of the NAACP, the Haywood County Civil and Welfare League (a Negro voting rights group), "or anyone else that the central committee doesn't approve of."

"That was too broad," Mrs. Green said. "I told him it didn't sound right and I didn't want to sign."

Won't Speak

Issac Smith Carter, a white man who lives on a farm near Dancyville, testified that farmer Robert K. Archbell "wouldn't speak to me any more" after he told Archbell he would have nothing to do with reprisals against Negroes who voted.

The injunction was sought by Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers against 45 landowners, 24 merchants and one bank.

Among charges in the complaint were:

Termination of leases or sharecrop arrangements; termination of employment; refusal to sell necessities; refusal to extend credit or lend money; refusal to renew insurance policies; circulating lists of Negro registrants to help merchants penalize them; refusal to deal with merchants accused of selling to Negroes who registered; and the coercing of suppliers.

Laws Urged Against Bias

the supervision of a state committee against discrimination.

Added Powers

Under the proposal, the present Fair Employment Practices Committee would be given additional jurisdiction and would be empowered to act in all cases where discrimination is charged in employment, housing and places of public accommodation. Washington and Oregon on the Pacific Coast and a number of eastern states now have such laws.

The proposal to give state licensing agencies the power to take disciplinary action against licensees who persist in discrimination also has the backing of the committee and bills to effectuate that power will be offered in both houses. The bill is also aimed at real estate brokers who refuse to offer housing for sale or rent to non-whites.

Old Age Assistance

Other items of particular interest to Negro voters in the governor's message were his suggestions that old age assistance be tied to a cost of living formula with increases for the aged as prices went up and his proposal that the legislature take a "hard look" at the aid to needy children program.

For various reasons, Negroes constitute a disproportionate number of mothers getting aid for children and there have been strong demands to curtail the program. The governor indicated his belief that the welfare of children must be considered as the prime objective.

Stray Bullet Hits Pittsburgh Pirate Pitcher

ger, were of the opinion that Jackson, "a quiet, nice boy," was "definitely on his way to the Major Leagues."

Jackson was in Los Angeles between seasons. He pitched his last ball game for the Los Angeles Braves three weeks ago and struck out the first 10 men who came up to bat for the Los Angeles Coasters.

The young athlete, who was born in Haynes, La. and came to Los Angeles in 1948, was signed by the Pirates in 1959 and turned over to their Idaho Falls club in the Pioneer League.

Class A

Last season he chalked up the surprisingly good .354 ERA (earned run average) record, and was hiked to a Class A rating.

Jackson and three of his friends — Louis Sherrill, 22, of 3438 S. McKinley avenue; Thomas Minter, 24, of 231 E. 97th street; and Albert Thomas Jr. — went to the Hot Spot about 2 a.m. Monday.

The man who later pulled a gun and fired the fatal shot was sitting at a table when Sherrill, who was standing at the counter, looked around and saw the man staring at him.

"What are you staring at me for?" Sherrill asked.

"I'm not," was the reply. "I'm staring at my friend who's got my money."

Pulled Gun

Jackson's friends went outside. The man at the table told his friend to take him home, but when he got outside, he started bickering with Sherrill again, then pulled his gun.

Jackson, hearing the commotion, opened the screen door to see what was happening. When he saw that one of the men had a gun, he turned to go back inside.

At that moment, four shots rang out. One of them hit Sherrill in the lip. A second shot hit Jackson in the back. He reeled and fell to the floor, dead.

Thomas, thinking the bullets were blanks, chased the suspect and hit him with a beer bottle. The stranger fled.

Jackson, who lived at 1801 E. 105th street, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Hazel Grigsby, and five brothers and sisters — Frances and Carolyn, and Willie, Charles and Allen.

Meany's Adviser Was Pal of Batista

NEW YORK—Charges that the adviser on Cuban affairs to AFL-CIO Pres. George Meany is one of Ex-Dictator Batista's henchmen were made here recently by William Worthy, reporter for the Baltimore "Afro-American," according to a report in the "National Guardian."

Worthy, who recently visited Cuba, stated that Eusebio Mujal Barniol, former secretary-general of the Cuban Conferedation of Labor (CTC), and now an aide to Meany, fled when Batista was overthrown, taking with him the funds of the organization he headed.

Owned Rranch

Worthy reported the following:

During Batista's reign, Mujal acquired a 6,093-acre estate, pig farm and cattle ranch, valued at $4,000,000. The estate included a town, an aqueduct, an electrical plant, silos, pasteurizing plants and modern pig-breeding facilities.

Mujal never explained how he got the estate. His only ostensible income was a $24,000-a-year salary from the CTC. For tax purposes his estate was valued at $70,000.

When Fidel Castro called from the hills for a general strike in the cities to overthrow Batista in the spring of 1958, Mujal went on television to warn that anyone who struck would lose his job.

After Mujal fled, the Revolutionary Government found that he had taken almost all of the union's retirement fund, leaving CTC bankrupt. Revolutionary officials say that they can only guess at Mujal's wealth because records show that he sent money to foreign banks regularly.

Mujal went first to Brazil and later to Washington, where he joined Meany.

New Lighting

The 35-year-old street lighting system on Broadway between Santa Barbara avenue and 43rd place will be replaced by a modern electrolier system.

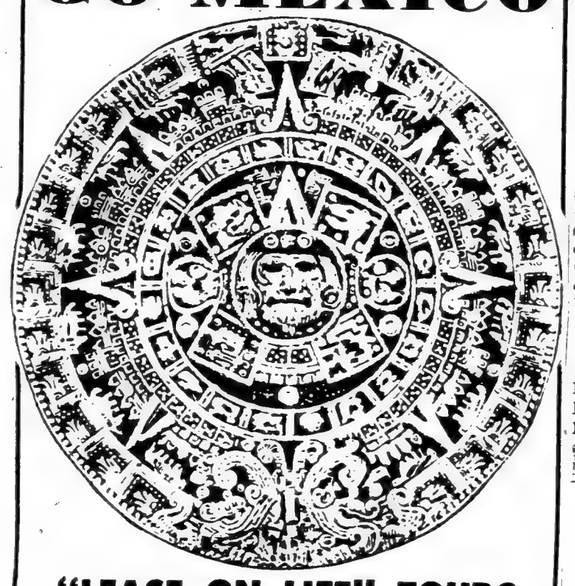
'Spartacus' Party will Aid Stovall Home

A "Spartacus" theater-party to be held Sunday evening, Jan. 8, at the RKO Pantages Theater, Hollywood, will benefit the Stovall Home for the Aged, a non-profit organization opened in 1956 at 4000 E. Fairmont street.

The entire theater has been taken over for the "Spartacus" theater-party, according to Dr. Leroy R. Weekes, theater-party chairman, and the event will have all the trappings of a premiere.

Woody Strode, former UCLA and Los Angeles Ram football star, plays an important supporting role in "Spartacus" and is serving as an honorary member of the theater-party committee.

Reservations or additional information concerning the "Spartacus" theater-party may be obtained by calling REpublic 2-2424 or REpublic 4-5968.



Thieves Rob 2 Churches

Burglaries at two churches were reported to police last Tuesday by church officials. Hardest hit was Providence Baptist Church, 3703½ Trinity. Among items taken were a typewriter and electric clock valued at $85.

All People's Church, 806 E. 20th street, was robbed of Christmas packages and $3.60 in change. With no signs of breaking and entering in evidence, it appeared the church was opened with a key which was lost about six months ago.

Water and Power keep pace with Los Angeles' dynamic growth!

Every week Los Angeles' population increases an average of more than 1,000. Our City now is third most populous in the nation, and is still growing. This means new homes, business, industry...and all must have ample water and power ready when needed.

Meeting this ever-increasing demand is the job of your Department of Water and Power. Despite sub-normal rainfall of the past two years, while water demands increased...despite a tremendous growth in use of electricity...there was plenty of water and power for all needs.

These rising requirements were met by planning and building ahead. For example, in the 1959-60 fiscal year, your DWP invested over $52 million in new water and power facilities. Still it continued to be completely self-supporting from its revenues, imposing no cost or burden on the taxpayers. In fact, the DWP contributed more than $6 million to the general city funds of Los Angeles during the fiscal year.

In the table are financial highlights from the DWP Annual Report for 1959-60. The complete report will be mailed upon request. Write Water and Power, Division 402, Box 3669 Terminal Annex, Los Angeles 54.

YOUR LOS ANGELES DWP DEPARTMENT OF WATER & POWER

FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS OF THE ANNUAL REPORT

During the fiscal year 1959-60, current revenues met all operating costs and paid for part of the multi-million dollar construction program. The remaining cost of construction was financed by issuing revenue bonds, to be repaid by future Department earnings. Here's what was received and how it was used:

WHAT WAS RECEIVED	WATER	POWER
Total income	$37,611,637	$115,025,559
HOW IT WAS USED
For operation of the water and electric systems	21,013,780	66,331,055
For interest on debt	3,200,239	8,723,306
To provide for depreciation	7,197,613	16,758,626
Net income (Total income less above three items)	6,200,005	23,212,572
Part of net income transferred to general City government	1,520,000	4,844,000
*Remainder of net income used to repay bonds and to pay part of construction costs	4,680,005	18,368,572

*Besides current revenues, funds borrowed by issuing revenue bonds in the amount of $12 million for water and $15 million for power were used for the large construction program to meet growing needs for water and electricity.

The Important Newspaper

The Weaver Appointment

President Elect Kennedy's appointment of Robert C. Weaver as head of the Housing and Home Finance Agency is one of the most important he has made. As head of the Agency, Mr. Weaver will administer the public housing, urban renewal and redevelopment programs and the mortgage insurance system of Federal Housing Administration.

The new appointee is well qualified for the job. He was one of the first appointees in the first New Deal housing agency; he served as New York's rent administrator under Gov. Averell Harriman and he now heads New York City's urban renewal and redevelopment agency. He is an acknowledged authority on urban housing with numerous articles and books to his credit. Even more important, he is a Negro and is the present chairman of the national Board of the NAACP, and chairman of the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing.

Ever since the inception of the housing program the thrust of federal policy has been in the direction of bolstering and intensifying residential segregation. FHA began its career by requiring imposition of racial restrictive covenants as a condition of loan insurance; it still tolerates and encourages discrimination by builders and developers.

That the Public Housing Authority connives at racial segregation in public housing is evident from the record which shows that 80 per cent of such housing is operated on a segregated basis. The urban renewal and urban redevelopment programs have been used, and are still being used, to clear Negroes out of redeveloped and renewed urban areas.

The practical result of a quarter of a century of federal policy has been the intensification and spread of urban residential segregation.

Nobody knows the intricate story of residential segregation and the manner in which it is furthered by governmental agencies better than Mr. Weaver. He has been an active participant in the long fight against that evil.

Of course, the new administrator won't be able to reverse governmental policies overnight. He will take charge of an agency staffed by employees who are steeped in old practices and who owe an emotional allegiance to time tested devices that eventuate in residential segregation. In addition, he will have to buck the pressures of the real estate and home building lobbies with their almost fanatical beliefs in racial myths. Every change he proposes will meet the opposition of the Dixiecrat-Conservative Republican congressional coalition.

The reversal of racial policies by federal housing agencies will, of course, immediately benefit the non-white population but it will have equally important meaning for Americans as a whole. Urban growth, redevelopment, and renewal are being strangled by residential segregation and unless that cancer is rooted out our cities will stagnate.

Quite apart from racial problems, Mr. Weaver will bring to his new duties a technical competence and an understanding of urban housing problems that has been lacking in the Eisenhower administration. We can expect a bold and imaginative approach that will stimulate home building and produce shelter for America's ill housed millions.

Reduce South's Power

Gordon Tiffany, director of the Civil Rights Commission, is on sound ground when he urges reduction in congressional representation by states which disfranchise Negro voters. The Fourteenth Amendment provides for such reduction but its mandate has never been implemented.

If the Tiffany proposal were adopted Mississippi would lose one half of its present congressional delegation. That representation would be increased as Mississippi lowered barriers against Negro voters.

The "good people" of Mississippi who excuse their failure to speak out, and act, against disfranchisement of Negroes would regain their voices if they lost representation in Congress.

Disfranchisement of Negroes is not as extensive in other southern states as it is in Mississippi but every one of them would lose congressmen under the Tiffany proposal.

Soft words will never persuade the Dixiecrats of the error of their ways. Loss of Congressional seats would.

W. H. Terry, Good Citizen

The death of W. H. Terry removes another of the dwindling band of pioneers whose work and sacrifice has made an indelible impress on the Negro community of Los Angeles and on the city itself.

He was a self effacing man, a contractor, who stuck to his job but who was always on hand to play an honorable part in civic and community affairs.

Los Angeles is a better city for what he did and all of us enjoy a greater measure of freedom because of the part he played in making our city a better place in which to live.

Battleaxe & Bread

By Lester B. Granger

Remember when we cheered the advent of "good old 1960?" When we joyfully waved goodbye to dreary 1959 and predicted all sorts of goodies to be coming our way in the New Year?

Granger

There was no reason—no sensible reason, that is — for the optimism. It was just the incurably wistful and wishful thinking of the human animal that what's ahead can't possibly be worse than what's behind and that any change is apt to be for the better. There's no justification for such a belief, of course; as witness, nuclear research, tail-fin cars, Levittowns, Frank Lloyd Wright architecture, Nazism and Communism, White Citizens Councils, beatniks, and all the host of small and big changes that have marked shifts in the political, economic, scientific and social structure.

What's Ahead

So, before we call "good old 1960" a complete stinker and joyfully hail the entrance of 1961, let's take a realistic look at what's ahead and see what needs to be done in order to make some of our optimism come true.

For instance, there are jobs — and what happens to jobs will determine what happens to the fortunes of possibly a hundred thousand colored families in these United States. The outlook for 1961 isn't good. And it could remain not-so-good for some years to come, unless something is done to change the pattern.

The nation passed the four million unemployed mark weeks ago and is heading deep into the five million range. Forecasters are warning that the six million mark will be reached by Spring unless steps are taken jointly by government, industry and labor to ward off a serious recession. Remember 1949? Well, this can be even worse.

International Outlook

There are international affairs — and the interest of American Negroes in world affairs has stepped 'way up since New Africa came on the scene. The scene doesn't look good—not for 1961 or 1962 or some years beyond—and we'd be silly to kid ourselves. The free nations have gotten tired of remaining constantly on the qui vive; consequently the various alliances against Comumnist imperialism have weakened.

Soviet Russia, aided by inexperienced and short-sighted new or neutralist nations of Africa and Asia, has given what may well be the death blow to the United Nation's capacity for defending the peace. Sekou Toure has given Russia a comfortable moorage for political and economic expansion designs. Communist China will undoubtedly precipitate fresh aggression against her weak Asian neighbors during the year ahead—and chances are that the Big Four of the free world will find excuses for looking the other way when it happens.

We're not likely to have another Korea right away, only more of Viet Nam and Laos and Cambodia. But that'll be enough to sap the enthusiasm of free nations for freedom's defense. Look, therefore, for further weakening of the posture against Communist aggression.

New Orleans Pattern

Moscow is reported to anticipate "pleasanter relations" with the new Administration. If that happens, it's bad news for all of us, and it probably won't happen. Moscow's idea of pleasant relations is when the Reds have their own way — and even the short-witted among us are beginning to understand that when the Reds have their way the rest of us who hope some day to develop a decent form of society will be on our way out. So look for more barroom diplomacy from K. and Co.

The Bourbon South will continue to be a disgrace to American government, an impediment to the development of a third of our nation and a threat to American security in world affairs. Because the representatives of Bourbonism maintain their grip on the Congress through control of key chairmanships, there will be slight tendency on the part of the Presidency to risk sabotage of its over-all program by bearing down heavily on civil rights.

Louisiana is showing the rest of the mutinous South how to finagle and delay, obstruct and intimidate — and make the citizens pay for it —in slowing down the integration crawl. Other states will take the hint. Look for more, not less, of the New Orleans-style demonstrations. Look for more gradualism in enforcing the Constitution, but look for the Kennedy administration to be more imaginative in initiating and advertising the small gains.

Cabinet Issue Dead

There will be no more talk for a long time about "a Negro in the Cabinet." The innocent among us will applaud the President-elect for "offering" the Postmaster General's spot to Bill Dawson and will feel reproachful that the venerable political boss of Chicago declined it.

The more sophisticated will recognize that the offer was like asking your grandmother to dance, knowing that her friends will like the gesture and that the old lady will decline, so everybody will be happy. Look for the Democrats to make the Republican record of job-dispensing look bad by contrast. They will hand out more jobs and better ones to reward the faithful and proselyte further among the unconverted. And the proportion of Negro Democrats will increase, and their party influence will remain where it is—at lower levels and in restricted areas.

HAPPY NEW YEAR, EVERYBODY!

Loren Miller Says . . .

partner in the promotion of residential segregation.

Kept His Head

During his service in the housing agency, Weaver did his best to see to it that Negroes got their "fair share" of both housing and jobs. That was about all he could do but he never lost his belief that residential segregation was the basic evil that doomed Negroes to inferior housing and slum sections of the cities.

During the long legal battle over racial restrictive covenants, Weaver did the spade work on facts, figures and statistics designed to persuade the Supreme Court that judicial enforcement of such covenants ran counter to the constitutional command for equality. Later he helped found the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing. He became one of the mainstays in the NAACP fight against governmental assistance to discriminatory builders and developers.

A New Day

The changing times were reflected in Weaver's appointment as Rent Administrator by Governor Averell Harriman of New York in 1958. He wasn't a "Negro" rent administrator or a "Negro Advisor" to the rent administator. He was the rent administrator. When Rockefeller ousted Harriman as New York's governor, Weaver lost his job. He found another: as chairman of the New York City Urban Redevelopment Commission. Again he wasn't chairman of the "Negro" commission and he wasn't just a member of the City Commission. He was the chairman of the New York City Redevelopment Commission.

Now Weaver has been named to head the nation's Housing and Home Finance Agency. He's not its advisor, or one of its underlings. He's going to be the man who heads the tremendously important agency that is in direct charge of the nation's entire housing program. What he does in the next few years will shape the face and the future of America's cities, and the lives of millions of urban dwellers.

It's a far cry from a "Negro Advisor" on housing affairs to head of the nation's housing program. Weaver is where he is because he wouldn't let go of the American dream and because the American dream has expanded to a point where it has a place for Negroes who share it and work to expand it.

You can't always tell what makes a man tick until you meet his wife.

Blow Seen for Housing Bias In Appointment

launched the federal public housing program.

Harvard Grad

Weaver, who holds three degrees from Harvard, is a long time foe of racial residential segregation. He supervised preparation of an "economic brief" in the famed Race Restrictive Covenant cases and is the author of a book, "The Negro Ghetto," and numerous articles attacking segregation. He is present chairman of the national Board of Directors of the NAACP and is one of the founders and chairman of the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing.

It will cost Weaver $1500 a year to take the HHFA position since his New York job paid that much more than the federal post offers. He told newsmen Sunday that he will resign from his NAACP post as chairman of the Board but will continue his membership.

Washington Born

Born in Washington, D.C., and educated in its public schools, Weaver took his A.B., A.M. and Doctor of Philosophy degrees from Harvard where he majored in economics. After leaving his housing post, the new appointee served in the War Production Board and the War Manpower Commission.

He left public service after World War II to accept a job in Chicago as director of the Marshall Field Fund and moved on to the Whitney Foundation. He also worked for the Ford Foundation for a brief period.

Cabinet Post

Political rumor has it that Weaver will be one of the top contenders for the cabinet position as Secretary of Urban Affairs if the Kennedy administration is successful in getting Congress to establish such a post.

Weaver's long and well known opposition to residential segregation is expected to stir up opposition to his appointment by southerners who have stymied all efforts to insert non-discriminatory amendments in housing legislation.

End FHA Bias

The order which will be issued by the new president will require admission of Negroes to all public housing projects and will require affirmative covenants of nondiscrimination by builders and lending agencies which build housing for sale or rental under the FHA program. It will require similar covenants from private developers who secure benefits under the urban renewal and urban redevelopment program.

During his presidential campaign, President Elect Kennedy said repeatedly that discrimination under federal housing programs could be "ended by a stroke of the pen." The Democratic party platform contained a plank pledging the party to end such discrimination.

After arresting a man for picking a woman's pocket in a department store, Tokyo police proceeded to arrest the lady. She had been so busy shoplifting that she had not noticed that she had been robbed.

paigns of organized vilification and intimidation are within the rights of 'peaceful dissent'?

"Is it credible that packs of marauding jackals destroy property and inflict bodily injury with impunity, while college students are arrested for distributing protesting but non-inflammatory literature opposing segregation? Assuredly, to state these things is to labor the obvious; yet perhaps the mere putting them on paper relieves the inner tension and makes possible a sober analysis of the situation . . .

"It is, possibly, difficult for one who has not lived in the South to appreciate the facility with which the southerner can toss aside the accumulated findings of 50 years of social science and assert, in the face of overwhelming evidence to the contrary, that the Negro is "obviously" inferior, but, withal, a happy creature —see how they sing and dance!

Prefer Death

"It is quite common to hear white men and women state that they would prefer their children dead to seeing them going to integrated schools. And the tragic fact is that these attitudes are most prevalent in the very areas where education has made the slightest inroads . . .

"Of course, in the city of New Orleans a considerable body of moderate opinion persists; opposition to school closure and willingness to accept 'token' integration.

"But these moderate groups are, like their counterparts the world over, the most insistent upon the forms of 'democracy' and the processes of law; they lack the organization and numbers of the frenzied segregationists (though one group of white mothers voluntarily transports eight white children to the integrated school and receives, for its trouble, constant telephone harassment).

"Where one such group contributes to pay the salaries of the teachers in the integrated schools, its segregationist counterparts contribute to the cost of mass rallies, hate literature and all the accoutrement of rabid violence. And at the center of the discord are the politicos, at once the instigators and the beneficiaries of the public convulsions.

"The legislature sits in continuous special session at an estimated cost of $14,000 per day. The sessions are almost wholly occupied by a parade of politicians before the microphones, denouncing all moderation as subversion, castigating reason as communism, and vowing undying devotion to our 'southern way of life' —including open and mandatory racial discrimination and the accompanying exploitation of poor-white and Negro alike.

"And most ironically of all, it is now proposed that the state sales tax be increased by one percent to finance the continued opposition to the inevitable. The people of the state are asked to subject themselves to a painfully regressive tax measure in order to enable the politicians to completely destroy the education system which holds the only hope of enlightenment for the great mass of those people.

"Does history record a more bitter satire?

"This is the dilemma which Louisiana faces—the impossible conflict of reason and unreason. The U.S. Supreme Court has, in effect, declared that ignorance, prejudice, bigotry and venality will no longer be acceptable as the basis of state legislation relative to public education.

"Yet these four hosemen of the modern racist apocalypse presently hold sway in Louisiana. The issue, at this writing, remains in doubt, but the gloom is virtually unrelieved.

Death Takes Curtis King

ects, he was best known for the founding of the Rose Netta Hospital and the many hours he spent there during the '40s and the early '50s.

Dr. King is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Rose Marie Terry, a teacher at the 102nd Street School; a brother, C. S. King, who lived with him at his ranch; and his former wife, Mrs. Rosa Mae King, who married Dr. King in 1925 and who for four years held the position of superintendent of nurses at Rose Netta.

Practiced in eGorgia

Born in Princeton, Ky., and educated in Cairo, Ill., Dr. King worked his way through college at Roger Williams University in Nashville and completed his medical work at Meharry, graduating in 1924. After interning at Tuskegee, he went to Georgia and began practice in Newnan, Ga., where after establishing himself by dint of arduous work, he finally founded the Curtis King Hospital in that city.

At Newnan he specialized in and became an authority on the treatment of venereal disease. In 1929 he, his wife and daughter left the South and headed for Los Angeles.

For years he was in charge of the South Los Angeles Veneral Clinic; he served for three years in charge of the 102nd Street Clinic; was a panel physician for the Los Angeles General Hospital; examining physician for the Selective Service Board; member of the 28th Street Clinic, and examining physician for the State Boxing Commission.

Blood Bank

In 1942 an interracial blood bank was set up under Dr. King's supervision at the completely integrated Rose Netta Hospital.

He was a member of numerous medical, civic and other organizations, including the Los Angeles County Medical Ass'n; the National Medical Ass'n; Southern California Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Ass'n; member of the board of directors of the Los Angeles County branch of the American Cancer Society; a 33rd Degree Mason; and a member of the South Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

On Thursday Dr. King telephoned from Elsinore to his daughter, who lives at 9418 Zamora avenue, saying he hadn't been feeling too well since Christmas, but that he expected to come in to see her the next day.

In mid-afternoon she received another call saying that an ambulance had been summoned to take her father to the Good Samaritan Hospital for observation.

Shortly after that, Dr. King suffered a severe heart attack and died before the ambulance arrived.

It's Not Our Fault - It's the 'Typo' Gremlin

In order to explain to readers what is meant by a "typo," the Rockville (Ind.) Tribune ran the following explanation:

"One of my newspaper friends relates that recently there was a discussion, with perhaps some ugly words, going on in his office concerning a 'typo.' A customer overheard some of the remarks and wanted to know what it was.

Law of the 'Typo'

"The answer is that it is an abbreviation of the words 'typographical error'—an ugly mixing of letters or words in a line that is as annoying as it is unintentional.

"The Law of the Typo works like this:

"1. Most of the time, the typo will appear in a story or ad that is important. Typos rarely appear in stories or ads you don't care about.

2. Typos are sneaky. Sometimes four or five will appear in one issue of a publication. After much swearing, checking, probing, detective work, you'll have the typos so frightened that they go away. You think they are gone for good. But they are not. When you've forgotten all about them, back they come.

One in a Million

"3. If you write a story about, say, Mrs. Winterbottom and her friends and it comes out fiends, you can be pretty sure that after you have calmed Mrs. Winterbottom down and promised her that the typo was one of those one-in-a-million-years type of thing, the very next story you write about her will have another typo in it.

"Perhaps something like her husband was seen looking at the new window downtown will be the way you write it, only after the typo has crept in, it will read that her husband was seen looking at the new widow downtown.

The Typo's Cousins

"4. The typo has some cousins and they are no improvement over the typo. One is the headline on the wrong story. If usually works this way — a very important local personality dies and over his obit appears this headline: 'Improvement Seen in Local Affairs.'

"5. Another cousin of the typo is the wrong cutline under a picture. You'll run a picture of a pretty girl in a bathing suit and somehow the cutline will read, 'The Humane Society announces that this little pet is looking for a good home and a kindly master.'

"6. The typo is as much a part of American life as the mosquito and about as hard to kill."—The American Press, December 1960.

"THE WORLD OF SPIRIT" — Rev. S. S. Heyliager, pastor of the Maor-Emeth Foundation, will speak on the "World of the Spirit," at 11 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 8, at Baces Hall, 1528 S. Vermont avenue. The lecture is one in a series of lectures held at Baces Hall each week by the Foundation.

Christian Education Workshop Opens Jan. 10 at First Baptist

Rev. Roy L. Thompson announced this week that Dr. Herman Waetjen, professor of New Testament studies at the USC, will lead Christian Education workers in a study of the formation of the New Testament at the annual workers series, which will be held at First Baptist Church, 760 S. Westmoreland avenue, on Jan. 10, 17, 24, and 31, and the sessions will begin at 7 p.m. with a special presentation of the latest developments in the use of Audio-visual aids.

tOher courses will be offered in the areas of Administration, Foundations of Teachings, Adult Work, Youth and Children's Work.

The Workshop Series is sponsored by the Department of Christian Education of the Church Federation of Los Angeles and the Southern California Council of Churches. Mrs. Wallace G. Frasher is the director of the department and Rev. Roy L. Thompson is serving as the dean of this workshop series.

Rev. Townsend Dies at 91 in Little Rock

Rev. V. M. Townsend, Sr., D.D., of 2123 Cross street, Little Rock, Ark., the father of Atty. Vince Monroe Townsend, Jr., 3662 S. Arlington avenue, died at his Little Rock home on Saturday, Dec. 31. He was 91.

On last Thanksgiving Day, Rev. Townsend, Sr. then in his 91st year, retired from the active ministry of the AME Church, at the Northeast Arkansas Conference, in Wynne, Ark. He served for 63 consecutiev years as an Itinerant Elder in the AME Church.

A special celebration was given his retirement at the Conference, and his son, Atty. Townsend, was the principal speaker for the occasion.

Rev. Townsend, Sr., served for more than 50 years as a Presiding Elder in the AME Church, and attended and participated in the last 16 consecutive General Conference Quadrennial sessions.

Just six days after his 91st birthday party, Rev. Townsend Sr. contracted a cold, which quickly developed into pneumonia, from which he never recovered.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Essie Cox Townsend, two daughters, Mrs. Mary Dinkins of Arkadelphia, Ark., and Mrs. Thelma Lewis, of Washington, D.C., and his son, Vince Monroe Townsend, Jr., of Los Angeles.

$1000 Pledged To First AME Building Fund

By Sarah Nelson

A capacity audience witnessed new faith and vows in religion at historic First AME Church, 8th and Towne avenue, on New Year's day. The pastor, Dr. H. H. Brookins, delivered the message, the sermon topic being "God Will Meet Us at Every Corner."

Among the recent distinguished pulpit guests were Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr., who pledged $1000 to the building fund for the new church edifice; and Dr. J. Russell Brown, of Chicago, secretary of the AME Church, who administered the New Year's Day communion. There were four accessions at this service including one convert.

The spirit of the service ran high with the official family endorsing the proposed program for 1960-61, the highlight of the year to be a combined Men and Women's Day effort which will be held early this year, terminating on the fourth Sunday in February. The membership is eagerly looking forward to a successful culmination of this gigantic project. Dr. H. H. Brookins has demonstrated his ability to revolutionize the program of the church and yet preserve its fine traditions.

LAST RITES HELD— Funeral services were held for pioneer contractor Woodford Terry, in the chapel of Angeles Funeral Home, which was one of the buildings he constructed.

Martin L. King To Confer Here With Ministers

Ministers from all over the state will meet on Jan. 14, for an all-day conference with the Rev. Martin Luther King, at Zion Hill Baptist Church, 51st and McKinley avenue.

Among the items on the agenda will be the completion of plans for the presentation of issues to the state legislature during the coming session. As well as continued non-violent pressure for civil rights.

Angelus Rites Conducted for W. H. Terry, 89

A virus infection was fatal Tuesday, Dec. 27, for Woodford H. Terry of 1152 E. Adams blvd. Death came two weeks after he was admitted to the hospital for treatment of the ailment which had kept the 89-year-old building contractor inactive.

Funeral services for the Birmingham, Ky. native were held on Dec. 30 at the Angeles Funeral Home. Interment followed at Lincoln Memorial Park.

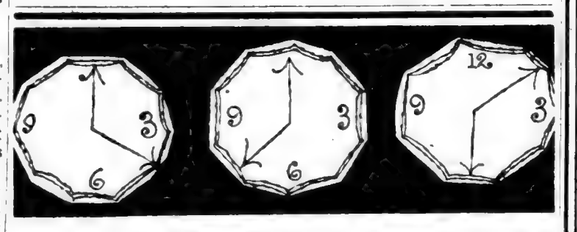
For more than 35 years Mr. Terry operated a general contracting business in Los Angeles, where he has lived for 52 years. Among the buildings he constructed were the Angelus Funeral Home, the Hudson-Wydell Building on Central avenue, the Jones Mortuary in Pasadena and the homes of several professionai and businessmen in the area.

Though born in Kentucky, Mr. Terry was raised in Tennessee. He was married for more than 50 years to Jessie L. Terry who survives him. He was the father of public relations man, Frank Terry of Los Angeles; Mrs. Juanita Barbee of Washington, D.C., who is office manager for Congressman James Roosevelt; and Mrs. Buelah Goodman of New York City.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.



Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!". And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Witnesses Hear of God's Interest in Man's Affairs

The University congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses and others who assembled at the Los Angeles Trade-Tech Auditorium last week heard Theodore Jaracz of New York speak on the subject, "Is God Interested in the Affairs of Man."

God's interest in man was scripturally outlined by Mr. Jaracz as he cited such vital provisions made by God for man's need. "Among the simple but necessary things needed by man," he said, "are the air we breathe, the sun for heat and light, water and food and the Bible as a divine guide."

Individual Account

He quoted passages from Revelation, chapter 11 and 12 t further stress God's interest in man by putting peace disturbers on judgment, adding, "God has determined to destroy those that are destroying or ruining this earth, therefore we have reached the stage where each individual must give an accounting as to where he stands in his love for God and His Kingdom."

The district minister urged the assembled delegates, "not to follow the course of indifference to the Creator's righteous purposes since He is still interested in the affairs of men.

Live in Peace

"God has purposed to eliminate selfish men and preserve only righteous persons who desire to live in permanent peace under God's kingdom for which Christians are taught to pray," Jaracz said.

A baptismal ceremony was held by the Witnesses in which many in the local congregation participated, demonstrating interest in God by making a dedication to serve Him.

Jim Brown, Top Ball Carrier, to Play Jan. 15

The eleventh annual All-Star Pro Bowl game between the Western and Eastern Conferences of the NFL at the Los Angeles Coliseum Jan. 15 will mean just that—the greatest players of the two divisions as chosen by the men who know best, the 13 coaches.

Many all-star games are misnomers, but not the Pro Bowl. Just take a quick look at the 1960 NFL leaders who will be arriving next weekend to prepare for the charity classic under coaches Buck Shaw of the East and Vince Lombardi of the West:

Ball carrying — Jim Brown, Browns, (East), 1257 yards on 215 attempts, 5.8 average. Also the 2-3-4-finishers, Jim Taylor, Packers, (West), 1101 yards; John Crow, Cards, (East), 1071 yards; and Nick Pietrosante, Lions, (West), 872 yards.

Passing—Milt Plum, Browns, (East), first in percent completed, 60.4; first in average gain, 9.19 yards; first in percent of interceptions, 2.0. Also No.s 2-3, Norm Van Brocklin, Eagles, (East), the Mr. Everything of pro football this season; and Johnny Unitas, Colts, (West). Player of the Game in the 1960 Pro Bowl.

Pass Receiving — Ray Berry, Colts, (West), 74 receptions for 1298 yards and 10 td's. Also the 2-3-4-5 receivers, Sonny Randle, Cards, (East); Jim Phillips, Rams, (West); Jim Gibbons, Lions, (West); Jim Retzlaff, Eagles, (East).

Scoring — Paul Hornung, Packers, (West), 176 points, new NFL record.

Punting — Jerry Norton, Cards, (East), 39 punts, 45.6 average.

Punt returns — Abe Woodson, 49ers, (West), 13 returns, 13.4 average.

Interceptions — Norton, Cards, (East), 10 interceptions returned for 96 yards.

That gives the Pro Bowl seven of the eight NFL leaders, and if that isn't enough, of the 44 All-Pro 1960 players, as chosen by Associated Press and UPI, 43 of 'em will be in the game either on offense or defense.

GEORGE FLEMMING—His fine defensive and offensive performance was a big factor in Washington Huskies' 17 to 7 victory over Minnesota in the Rose Bowl. Also accounting for bad moments as far as the Gophers were concerned were Huskies' Ray Jackson and Charlie Mitchell, a pair of lightning fast backs who picked up yardage when they needed it most. Bright spot for Minnesota was shifty "Sandy" Stephen who ran and passed with tremendous poise. He looked especially good in the second half when he engineered the Gophers' only touchdown.

Pro Tennis Clinic Set For Sunday

Opening weekend action in the 43rd annual Los Angeles Metropolitan Tennis championships will be suspended for 90 minutes Sunday (Jan. 8) so that competitors in the event will be able to view the 1:30 p.m. pro clinic which will be conducted by Jack Kramer's troupe of touring professionals on Griffith Playground Tennis Center's exhibition court.

The free net clinic and the 1961 edition of the Met-Net are co-sponsored by the Recreation and Park Department and the MTA.

USF and St. Mary Cagers Play Here

Two of the most exciting basketball teams on the West Coast, University of San Francisco and St. Mary's come to Los Angeles this weekend to open the 1961 West Coast Athletic Conference basketball season against Pepperdine and Loyola.

USF, fresh from the championship in the WCAC holiday tourney, is paced by three sensational shooting sophomores and junior deadeye Bob Gaillard. The latter was Most Valuable in the tournament, all-WCAC last year, and has been getting excellent support from Henry Johnson, a transfer from East LAJC; Ed Thomas, a former prep all-American up from the Frosh, and Lloyd Moffat, an exciting two-haid set-shot artist from Washington, D.C.

Negro Sports Stars Picked for Awards

Danny Murtaugh, manager of the World Series-champion Pittsburgh Pirates, was named "Man of the Year" by Sport magazine this week. The announcement of the 14th annual award was made in the new (February) issue of the magazine.

The magazine also announced its 14th annual "Top Performer" awards in 12 sports.

Here they are:

Big Television, Radio Time for L. A. Open

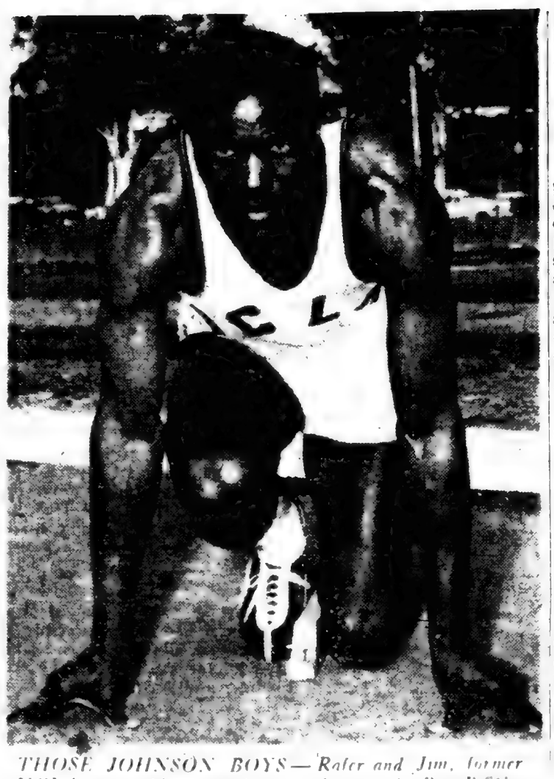
Extensive television and radio coverage has been set for the 35th annual $50,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament, Pres. Don Sorensen, of the sponsoring Jr. Chamber of Commerce, announced this week.

Station KTTV has been granted television rights to the first $50,000 golfing event ever played in Los Angeles. Bill Welsh and his staff will call a portion of each day's play in the Jan. 6-9 competition at Rancho.

Radio coverage will be the largest in tourney history with a total of 50 broadcasts to be heard on KBIG. Chief announcer Roy Storey also reports several of the broadcasts will be heard on a Western network.

There will be 10 radio broadcasts daily, starting at 8 a. m. and concluding at 5 p. m.

Dodgers Schedule 31 Exhibition Tilts



The Los Angeles Dodgers have scheduled thirty-one 1961 Spring training exhibition games, E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, vice-president and general manager, announced last week.

Seven major league teams will visit Dodgertown, Vero Beach, Fla., home base of the Dodgers. In the order of their appearance they will include the Kansas City Athletics, Milwaukee Braves, New York Yankees, Minneapolis Twins, Washington Senators, St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago White Sox. This is the most extensive home-base schedule ever arranged for the Dodgers.

Lakers vs. Hawks

St. Louis Hawks, the Western Division leaders, move in against the Lakers tonight (Thursday) and Friday night at the Sports Arena.

The Lakers are making an 11-game home stand at the Arena. The Lakers' box office will be open daily from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. during the home games.

THOSE JOHNSON BOYS—Rafer and Jim, former UCLA star athletes, made news last week. Big Brother Rafer won the Sullivan Award, the best honor an amateur athlete can receive. Johnson had a total of 1,011 votes to runner-up Wilma Rudolph's 1,079. The former great Bruin decathlon champion is under contract to 20th Century Fox Studio.

JIM JOHNSON—Brother of Olympic decathlon champion Rafer Johnson, was selected in the first round of the National Football League draft last Tuesday. The ex-Bruin was chosen by the San Francisco 49ers. He can make it as an offensive end or defensive back.

Robertson vs. Baylor

Oscar (Big O) Robertson, the new NBA star, will be at the Sports Arena for the first time on Saturday, Jan. 14. Oscar's the top scorer, play-maker etc. of the Cincinnati Royals, and will duel the Lakers' Elgin Baylor.

Publicity Head Here

Irv Kaze, publicity director of the Hollywood Stars Baseball team and now head of the publicity staff for the L.A. Angels of the American Baseball League, arrived in town from New York last Monday.

George Washington Carver, the renowned scientist, lost his life savings in the failure of an Alabama bank. When told he was $70,000 poorer, Dr. Carver said mildly, "I guess somebody found a use for it. I was not using it myself."

Dodgers Play 77 Home Tilts In Coliseum

E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, vice-president and general manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, announces the club will play a 75-date, 77-game home schedule in 1961 at the Coliseum.

The schedule includes 59 single night games, one Saturday day game, one holiday day game (May 30), two twilight-night doubleheaders and 12 Sunday afternoon games.

The club will open the season with a three-game series—all nights—with the Philadelphia Phillies April 11, 12, 13.

Before moving to the road, the Dodgers will play a total of 15 home games, entertaining the Phillies, World Champion Pirates, St. Louis Cardinals, Cincinnati Reds and San Francisco Giants.

The Pirates will be at the Coliseum for the first weekend of the season, including a Friday night game, a Saturday Ladies Night and a Sunday afternoon game (April 14, 15, 16).

The first visit of the Giants is set for a pair of midweek night games April 25, 26.

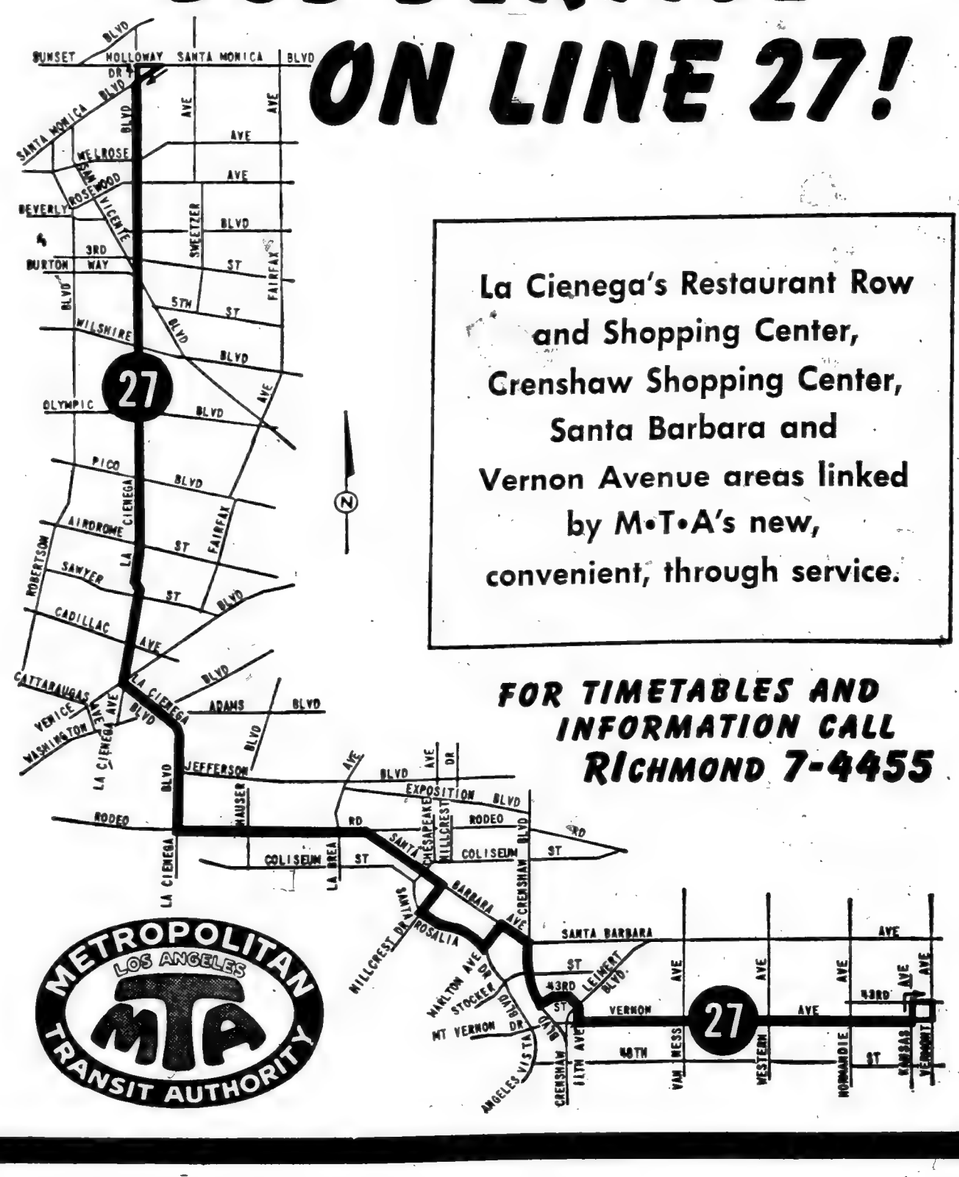
Each of the National League visiting clubs will be in Los Angeles four times during the year.

Yo-Yo Classes To Get Under Way At Playgrounds

Youngsters 15 years of age and under will be eligible to attend yo-yo instruction sessions slated to get under way the week of January 23-28 at municipal playgrounds.

During the first two weeks of the three-week twirling school, instructors will teach boys and girls 10 basic twirling maneuvers which will be featured in the 1961 yo-yo contests.

District champions will compete in city-wide finals slated for Queen Anne Playground, 1240 West blvd., on Saturday, Feb. 25.



Motorcycle Racing

J. C. Agajanian announced that his first 14-event motorcycle program at Ascot Stadium in Gardena is slated for Sunday afternoon, Jan. 15.

Races begin at 2:30 p.m.; practice laps at 12:30. The cycling will be headlined by the 15-lap main event.

METROPOLITAN LOS ANGELES MTA TRANSIT AUTHORITY

Avery Brundage, International Olympic Committee president, and his recent proposal to bar gold medal winners from defending their titles in the Olympic Games by not permitting them to compete again is about as silly as the program he sanctioned to develop American amateur athletics.

Brundage, during his years in office as head of the Olympic Committee, has made few recommendations to improve and develop greater interest in amateur sports. The grey headed brother has stood still. While the professionals have grown into a million dollar business annually, amateur sports have fallen off and in many cases died out.

Boxing is a good example. In a city as large as Los Angeles there is not a single amateur boxing club of any stature. At the present rate of interest in amateur boxing, the United States can't hope for many more Olympic champions if major cities like Los Angeles, New York and Chicago lose interest.

The showing of our athletes in the past Olympic games was a strong indication that other countries are not only developing more interest in amateur sports but in many instances are far ahead of us.

Brundage's idea is aimed at uprooting professionals from amateur sports. Even if what he claims is true that a few pros slip in as amateurs, it isn't going to improve the Olympic Games by not allowing a champion to defend his championship. In fact, he couldn't figure out a quicker program to completely wreck the games.

Amateur sports in America as we know them serve to prepare an athlete for professional status. For instance, if professional track meets were popular in this country, promoters would be making Wilma Rudolph big fat offers but they would not have before her Olympic Games performance because they just hadn't heard about her.

Without a doubt — and Brundage knows it — Wilma was the individual star of the games and was the principal American who saved his face and perhaps his job.

He was so unaware of Wilma's athletic ability that his committee refused to permit her name to be posted in previous American meets, when her coach Ed Temple of Tennessee State sent in her credentials, but when she established the new time of 11.3 in the 100-meter and the new mark of 23.2 in the 200-meters the committee did an about-face. We certainly hope that our new government will show some interest in amateur sports as they are currently being handled in this country. For the spirit of competition among our amateur athletes is dying a slow death and the reason for this can be traced to men like Brundage and their far-from-progressive amateur programs.

ATA Ranks Ashe No. 1 Net Star

Arthur Ashe, Jr., of Richmond, Va., is ranked as the No. 1 player in the Men's Singles and Junior Singles.

This is a feat unprecedented in the annals of the American Tennis Association for a junior player to win the top spot in both events. Perhaps it is unequalled in the history of the game.

The top spot in the Women's Singles went to a newcomer, born of Polish parentage in Nicaragua, Mimi Kanarek of New York, N. Y. N. Y. and Gwen McEvans from Wilberforce are third and fourth respectively.

American Tennis Association released this week by its president, Dr. Hubert Eaton of Wilmington, N. C.

Following Ashe in the Men's Singles are two former champions, George Stewart of Washington, D. C. at No. 2, and Wilbert Davis of New York at No. 3 with Wilbur Jenkins of St. Louis, Mo., in the fourth spot. Darnella Everson of Detroit, Mich., garnered the second ranking in the Women's Singles, Arvelia Mitchell of New York, and Gwen McEvans from Wilberforce are third and fourth respectively.

Medical, Dental, Pharmaceutical Auxiliary Holds Gay Formal Ball

The Los Angeles Breakfast Club has been the setting for scores of social affairs during 1960 but it took the Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Auxiliary to come up with one that is certain to be memorable for the 2,500 who attended last Friday's annual ball.

Margaret Rene was chairman and Laura Fowler co-chairman. They were assisted by members of the Ball Committee and did a magnificent job in making the affair a success.

Usually after Christmas, people seem exhausted from all the hustle and bustle that goes with the Dec. 25th day. However guests arrived for this affair sparkling as proudly as the brightly decorated ballroom. The women were breath-taking in their richly designed creations and the men were equally suave in their bow ties and dark formal suits.

The gay spirit and the jovial atmosphere which prevailed as guests started arriving was more noticeable this year than in any previous year, partly because the delightful dance music provided the background for a brilliant and sophisticated affair.

The annual dance also served as a salute to the many friends of the organization who have supported their many community undertakings such as their popular Medical Variety Show, Alma Wells, scholarship project, Life Membership in the NAACP. The Medicals and the Auxiliary also contributed this year to the American Cancer Association, United Negro College Fund, Community Health Association, United Nations Association of L.A., County Conference on Human Relations, County Conference on Christians and Jews, Y.M.C.A., Red Cross, Urban League, Legislative Needs, the Los Angeles County Heart Association, the National Council of Negro Women and the March of Dimes, as well as distributing Christmas baskets to needy famiiles.

The organization's service record to this community can hardly be topped as indicated by the number of their activities and by the fact that each project is handled in a practical and down-to-earth manner.

Dr. Roy D. Andrews, D.D.S., is president of the Association and Mrs. Hilda Allen is Auxiliary president. Both gave a lot of attention to teamwork this last year and the result has been gratifying.

At the annual Yuletide ball, on the dance floor and in the patio and cocktail lounge of the spacious Breakfast Club, we spotted Dr. and Mrs. Chris Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. George Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Evans, Dr. Artis White, Dr. and Mrs. Roland Nickens, Mr. and Mrs. J. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Duckett, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Hines, Mr. and Mrs. Eason.

Also Dr. and Mrs. George Price, Dr. James and Shirley Jones, Dr. and Mrs. Larry Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Spaulding, Dr. and Mrs. Shedrick Jones, Atty. James Akers, Walter Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Miles, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Tierney, Mrs. L. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Rudie Minifield.

Others were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stiger, Dr. and Mrs.

Dootsie Williams and Sister Hold Reunion after 40 Years

Although the cool but thrilling sounds of sleigh bells and the warm, heartening sounds of Christmas carols are to be heard no more in the land for a year, the joyous spirit of the holidays still lingers on in the unusual story of Dootsie Williams, wealthy recording company executive, and Mrs. Corinne Hunter of Miami, Fla.

They are brother and sister, born in Mobile, Ala. But not until a few days before Christmas had they seen each other in more than 40 years. The reunion occurred at the Union Station in Los Angeles when Williams and his uncle, James Clark, went to meet Mrs. Hunter.

The joy of the reunion continues for Mrs. Hunter who, as she declares, "is living up" every minute of her scheduled three-week visit with her brother, "and I'm seriously thinking of moving from Miami to live in Los Angeles."

"The last time I saw my sister," Williams explains, "I was only three years old. When our family separated, she was taken to Florida and reared by relatives while I remained in Mobile for a short time before my mother brought me to live here."

Actually, Williams was unaware that his sister, who had married prosperously in Miami, was alive until retired Southern Pacific chef Clark, through a chance conversation with another trainman, learned that Mrs. Hunter still survived.

Finding her, however, wasn't easy. Many long-distance telephone calls were placed to Mobile, Florida, and Chicago before she, an expert silk finisher married to a successful businessman, was located in Miami.

Williams immediately invited her to spend Christmas with him—and she accepted.

The next dramatic episode occurred at the railroad depot when Williams and Clark arrived to await Mrs. Hunter's train.

She is Williams' only living close relative, but he had no photographs of her, and neither he nor Mr. Clark knew what she looked like. She had sent word, however, that she could be identified by a plum-colored coat.

"As I waited," Williams said, "I began to feel like I was on a blind date. Uncle Clark and I eagerly scanned the faces of every lady who left the train, searching for some form of recognition. Now . . . it seems a propos that my sister would be the last one to get off!"

Mrs. Hunter is a buxom, statesque, effervescent lady who, like her brother, laughs easily and heartily. On seeing each other at Union Station, they acted just like . . . well, just like long-lost brother and sister.

Speechless, they fell into each other's arms.

The eyes of both were suddenly clouded with mist and Mrs. Hunter cried unashamedly.

"Thank God," she said softly, "I've found by brother at last."

For the moment, Williams seemed too dazed to speak.

But later he did say:

"It's amazing how quickly we've made up those 40 years of being separated. It seems now like Corrine and I have been together all along. We get on just that well!"

NANCY ROWLAND — Popular L.A. High student and historian of the school's Neptunettes (a girls' swim club) was entertained with a sweet 16 birthday party. She is a B-1E student and has been swimming for eight years.

Sweet Sixteen Party

Nancy Rowland, just turned 16, and her popular parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Rowland gave a delightful dancing party at the Pacific Town Club Thursday evening.

Some 150 young people and friends of Nancy were present to join in the festivities, which will be a memorable occasion in her young life.

The club was brightly decorated in green and gold and the same color scheme was carried out in decorations in the dancing area. The huge table was laden with refreshments.

Pretty Nancy was elegant in a party frock of burnt orange peau de soie with matching accessories, and graciously received her guests as they arrived.

The Latin Jazz Quintet provided music for the evening and set the pace for a most entertaining affair.

Libby Clark Is Breakfast Speaker Sun.

Libby Clark, public relations consultant for Coca Cola Bottling Company and former newspaperwoman, will be principal speaker Sunday at the January meeting of the Women's Sunday Morning Breakfast Club at the Clark Hotel at 9 a.m.

Recently returned from Africa where she covered the independence celebrations of Nigeria and visited Ghana, Liberia, and Senegal, Miss Clark will give a detailed account of her trip in conjunction with exhibiting pictures and handicraft from the various countries.

African dignitaries in the area will be guests. A high point feature of the program will be the presentation of original African music and dancing.

National President At Ball

Among prominent national figures arriving in town for the holidays and particularly the annual Yuletide Ball of the Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Association of Southern California and its Auxiliary were Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Terrence of Opelousas, La.

Dr. Terrence is the national president of the National Medical Association. He and his lovely wife were the house guests of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Allen. Mrs. Allen is serving her fourth term as president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Association.

The Terrences were the guests of honor at the annual ball which was attended by top bracket socialities from San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, San Diego, Santa Barbara, Pacoima, Fresno and Bakersfield.

Parent Education Series Scheduled at L. A. High

Mrs. Steven Rowland, president of Los Angeles High School Parent-Teacher Association, announces that a series of parent-education lectures has been scheduled to begin Wednesday afternoon Jan. 11th from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in room 224 of Los Angeles High School.

Mrs. Sylvia L. Bogen, well known teacher and lecturer in the field of child study and parent education, will lead the discussions. The general topic of the series is "Attaining Peaceful Co-existence with our Teen-Agers." The specific sub-topic to be discussed at the first lecture will be "Understanding Typical Behavior Patterns within the Family."

Subsequent lectures will be held at the Memorial Hall Auditorium of L.A. High School, Olympic at Rimpau.

The dates are as follows: Jan. 18, 25, Feb. 1 and 8.

The series is being sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Associations of Hollywood High, John Burroughs Junior High, Virgil Junior High and L. A. High.

Parties Ring In New Year

Parties ringing in the New Year and ringing out the old sprouted out in all sections of the southland. Dr. and Mrs. Julius Hill of St. Andrews place invited some 25 guests into their lovely home and enjoyed the traditional New Year's menu of black-eye peas, cornbread and chitterlings.

Over on Broadway in the Masonic Hall the Cooperettes Social Club ushered in the New Year on Sunday and the guests wore colorful paper hats and the festivities lasted until the wee hours of the morning.

Dr. and Mrs. Chris Taylor entertained with a drop-in soiree in their beautiful Grayburn street home in Leimert Park. Dr. and Mrs. E. Stratton lured personalities to their hilltop home in Baldwin Hills on Saturday night to enjoy a superb evening of champagne and excellent foods.

Mr. and Mrs. Ovit Pierce entertained friends with an after-the-game cocktail sip with Mr. Pierce reaching way down in the cellar and pouring vintage of 20 years ago. The Royal Dragon Club brightly decorated the DMC Hall for their party on Sunday night and, in addition to delicious foods, they had the excellent Ship Mates Combo featuring Ginger Smock, Al Mitchell, Art Maryland and Leroy Morrison whose music made it a delightful dancing New Year's party.

In Santa Monica, the Bay Area Chapter of the National Council of Negro Women, Inc., held their New Year's party in the cozy home of Ida Dooley. Members invited their husbands and friends to a buffet and gift-giving.

One of the largest celebrations was held in the beautifully decorated dining room of the Playroom. Beautiful Christmas trees adorned the walls, vari-colored tinsel hung from overhead and a snow white tree shone brightly from the corner of the room. Noisemakers were jammed together elbow to elbow.

Club Holds Dance

The Centurions Car and Social Club ushered in the New Year with a swinging dance at the Aeronautical Ballroom last Friday night.

Guests enjoyed dancing to the music of Leroy's Latin Quintet and his Seven Sons.

Townsends Observe 23rd Wedding Anniversary

Atty. and Mrs. Vince Monroe Townsend, Jr., of 3662 S. Arlington avenue, quietly observed their 23rd wedding anniversary Sunday, Dec. 25, Christmas Day.

Atty. Townsend, and Mrs. Townsend, the former Lilyan Elizabeth Mansfield, of Columbus, Ohio, were married Dec. 25th, 1937, in Brooklyn, N.Y.

The observance consisted of a quiet family dinner at the home of the Townsends, with their immediate family and a few intimate friends.

Among those attending the dinner were: Mrs. Bessie A. Johnson, Mrs. Tommie Lee Reeves, and Mrs. James W. Parker, long time friends of the Townsends. Also present were: Mr. Bowling Mansfield, brother of Mrs. Townsend; his wife, Elizabeth; daughter, Judith; son, Robert; and their grandson, David.

Following the dinner, many beautiful gifts were opened, some representing the Christmas occasion, others the anniversary observance.

During the evening, the Townsends were visited by many friends and well-wishers, who brought congratulations and best wishes for the future.

SAMMY DAVIS SR.

By Maggie Hathaway
Ed. Note: This is the second and conclusive article on the life of Sammy Davis Sr.

Sammy Sr. taught his little son Sammy Jr. some of the most intricate routines and at the age of 5 Sammy Jr. was starred in a Warner Bros. production called "Rufus Jones for President," co-starring Ethel Waters.

Monte Corbitt was one of the members of the Will Mastin Trio and when he left the act to become a business man in Detroit, little Sammy Jr. was placed in the act thus becoming a part of the Will Mastin Trio. Sammy Sr. revealed that the trio was living on 5th street in the Morris Hotel when Sammy Jr. was drafted into the Army. "One day," he said, "I actually went hungry for 72 hours, then Leonard Reed booked us in a show at Shepps Playhouse."

Later Sammy Jr. rejoined the act and it sky-rocketed to success. After becoming one of the most sought after acts in the show world Sammy Davis Sr. retired in July, 1957.

Before retiring Sammy Sr. married Rita "Pee Wee" Davis in Dec. 1951 and he proudly remarked, "Pee Wee was the best thing that could have happened to me. She changed my entire life."

Mrs. Davis was a nurse in New York City and "accidently" met her husband through a girl friend (Carolyn Carrington) on a visit to Sammy Sr.'s home.

They adopted their two children and moved to Beverly Hills in June, 1960. Sandra, their eldest daughter was born in Morristown, N. J. She attends City College and her favorite sport is basketball. Sandra laughingly said, "My brother Sammy Jr. is my favorite male singer and my favorite female vocalist is Peggy Lee." Mrs. Davis had not had a chance to say very much but managed to reveal that her hobbies were cameras and she attended Hollywood Photograph Studios. She sadly remarked that she had to

CHAZZ CRAWFORD'S SOUNDTRACK

This scribbler saw the last days of 1960 still clocking off news. Maybe none of the items was as staggering as your week, but here's a playback on some of the last minute happenings that held our interest:

Actor FRENCHIA GUIZON held a house rocking open house Christmas day and took home movies of the proceedings with a motion picture camera that was a Yule gift!

A gal named BELLE BARTH, currently working the Cloister, was putting down some of the roughest humor heard around these parts in a week of BLUE Mondays, and informed her audience, "If I embarrass you, tell your friends." . . . Queen DINAH WASHINGTON and youthful Latin actor RAFAEL CAMPOS were carrying on a scorching romance out Ciro's way! . . . LENA HORNE mentioned that a script was being prepared for her to return to the Broadway stage again . . . Socialite CONSTANCE WASHINGTON, a member of the VOICES OF HOPE Choir Of The Hour was buying all new frocks to go with her new svelte shape. She shelved over 35 pounds the Metrecal way!

The word came that MARILYN MONROE has gone back to Joe DI MAGGIO, in the event you care! . . . Enterprising BOB THOMAS, the personable clothes salesman for ZEIDLER & ZEIDLER is toying with the idea of a big time promotion around the time spring has sprung! . . . We made a personal call to the Public Relations man for "Raisin In The Sun" and got this response from his recording device: Raisin In the Sun is a complete sellout for the balance of it's run. It may return on February 6th. If there is any other matter you care to discuss, please begin talking when you hear the beep!

THE LEON BRATTONS' New Year's eve splash saw the year in on an Afro-Cuban note with drummer LOUIE POLIEMON BROWN serenading the exclusive mob on hand with his bongos and timbales . . . Had a philosophical chat with LITTLE RICHARD, former Rock and Roll Star, who is now an Evangelist. Richard

TOP QUALITY ENTERTAINMENT—And how could you miss with Sonny Criss. Brilliant young star with his trio is one of the attractions that are making the opening weeks of Club Town Hill a major success.

FOREMOST JAZZMAN—Chico Hamilton and his quintet have been accepted as one of the most unusual voices in jazz today. Jefferson High School's famous son delights numerous fans with brief weekend appearance at Sunset Strip's Club Renaissance.

NEW YORK SCENE

I do hope that all those bad heads are not quite so light by now, as the New Year has been royally welcomed by one and all. And may this be a most happy and prosperous one, with progress and accomplishment our byword.

Passing of Friends

It is most regretfully that I report the passing of two fine people this week; Mrs. Rosalie Wilson and Mrs. Freddy Johnson (Louise Woods). Mrs. Wilson was like a mother to me for years and made the best cakes in the world. Louise was the wife of my music coach, a beautiful girl, (both physically and spiritually), the possessor of a gorgeous trained lyric soprano voice, and a young woman on the threshold of a sparkling career. She had done cabaret and Broadway shows (Mr. Wonderful and Bells Are Ringing), had traveled throughout Europe, and her unfortunate demise in her early thirties seems such a waste(unless the Man Upstairs has an awful need for good sporanos in his heavenly chorus).

With lovely Laura Prescott on my arm, I went to Birdland to catch Count Basie, Joe Williams & Co., along with John Handy and his group. The house was packed to the rafters on that Wednesday night, and Basie was cooking with gas as he swung the chandliers loose and Joe Williams sang the songs, "Baby Won't You Please Come Home', 'Everyday", "Its A Wonderful World", and many others, to the complete pleasure and satisfaction of the enthusiastic onlookers which included LaVerne Baker, Nat Cole, Sammy Davis, Jr. (currently at the Copa), Rose Hardaway and others. Starting tonight it will be Quincy Jones and his orchestra, plus the singing, swinging Gloria Lynne and the Earl May Trio. I'll report on that show after I see it.

'Chazz' Soundtrack

plans to write a best seller this year based on his life!

Learned that jazz thrush HELEN HUMES is now playing cocktail drums and singing with the NINA RUSSELL trio! . . . Enjoyed exchanging small talk with tailor ERNIE COTTON, who is not only boss man with a needle, but one of the nicest guys in threadsville . . . A luscious new vocallure, NANCY WILSON, (is she JACKIE'S sis?) got the biggest play album-wise over at this reporter's turntable. She really COOKS. The LP is on Capitol, the label that is perhaps responsible for unearthing more fine talent than any other.

Our good friends COLUMBIA and RCA VICTOR also had quite a year though with well timed releases on rosters that included MAHALIA JACKSON (Col.), JOHNNY MATHIS (Col.), LAMBERT, HENDRIX & ROSS (Col.) and MIRIAM MAKEBA, DELLA REESE and BELAFONTE on RCA. All blockbusters!

The new surge of syndicated shows integrating Negro actors into the television episodes is bringing about a more realistic picture on the tube. The possible exception is the highly rated "Untouchables" show that has yet to our knowledge to employ a Negro actor even in a street scene. Are they trying to tell us that Negroes were non-existent during the prohibition, bathtub gin era??

Central Casting is setting up machinery to include Screen Extras in all various racial groups under one roof. The move was brought about by petitioning Negro extras who complained to FEPC that discriminatory tactics were being used in the old casting system. Writer MAGGIE HATHAWAY played a big role.

Sunday and the elbow to elbow mixed gathering certainly enjoyed it without incident. Earl Bostic, incidentally, set the stage for Hal Zigler's great production!

DR. LINCOLN SHUMATE — Several top medics down South Los Angeles way are toying with the idea of getting him to head a new medical center in that area!

HAZEL SIMPSON—Pulled out of the gas station at Adams and Western the other eve and promptly tied up traffic with her sleek Bonneville loaded with ranch fresh eggs!

JOE MALBROUGH — He is kicking off the New Year by selling $39 dresses for five bucks at his Exposition and Western Avenoo shop!

ELIHU McGEE — He accounts for the fact that the Congo Room upstairs at Vernon and Central is the swingingest bistro on the famed avenoo!

TOMMY TUCKER — During the past three months he has held more conferences with bankers, builders and loan company officials than the newly elected president. Behind the confabs could be a new and modern hotel!

H. CLAY JACKE — Dapper attorney, who looks more like a Wall Street banker, just closed out the year getting his 12th straight acquittal and will defend a white client on a murder come Jan. 5!

BETTY PERKINS — A smooth chocolate brownskin from Santa Monica operates her fathers' Neighborhood Store at 50th and Normandie!

SOUL JAZZ—Direct from New York, tenor saxaphonist Tony Ortega and his Quartet appear nitely at the Black Orchid on West Washington blvd.

VERSATILE — Milt Bruckner, one of jazz' greatest influences, is presently appearing nitely at Club Masque on Washington blvd.

RECORDING ARTIST—Trumpeter Russell Jacquet leads weekend and Sunday morning jam sessions at Compton's Club Starlight.

FIREBUG — That 7-year-old who caused a 2 alarm fire on W. 37th place, by setting the neighbor's garage on fire and starting a blaze at his parents' home is nursing a hot seat this week!

LILLIAN BREWSTER — Cute and curvy police clerk pulled up at Henry Lezine's Mobilgas station in a flashy Corvette and the males screamed, "An angel on wheels!"

JESSIE ROBINSON—Topflight postal official and his pretty wife tossed a little ringing in of the New Year in their spacious Compton home!

SITTING DUCKS — Neighborhood groceries, liquor, drug stores, etc. operated by one or two people are being terrorized by a band of thugs who live in one section of the city and operate in the other. If Negro officers were working the Robbery Detail at Wilshire, Newton, Hollenbeck, University and 77th, they could put a halt to this growing menace because they can spot a thug at the drop of a hat!

JUNE WARE — Pretty and wealthy property owner in Leimert Park was rushed to University Hospital when she came down with pneumonia!

BALLINGER KEMP — Wifie presented him with a baby for Christmas!

DODIE EVANS — Pretty coffee cream brownskin wifie of Dr. Ted Evans in Pasadena was real chic in a Bob Steward creation at the MDPA formal!

HORACE HAMPTON—Gentleman farmer in Laton, Calif., just east of Fresno, in town on his yearly visit with friends and relatives. He owns a fruit and vegetable farm!

SHOW BUSINESS

quit her studies because she was never able to get the family dinner on time.

At this point Suzette, the baby, invited us to visit with her and her doll family. Enroute to the nursery we saw a room that resembled The London Shop. Whose room is that? we asked. "Oh," she hurriedly answered, "just daddy's, he has about a hundred suits in there." We took a quick glance and noticed about 200 pair of shoes, 50 caps, hundreds of hats and 200 of the most beautiful French pleated shirts.

After Suzette had showed us her doll collection she remarked, "My favorite doll is Pitiful Pearl and my brother Sammy has sent me many dolls from foreign countries. I just finished writing a Xmas letter to him." 'May I read it' I coaxed. When Suzette presented the letter, it was the cutest little writing that we had seen in many years and this is what Suzette wrote to her famous brother Sammy and his wife, May Britt:

"Dearest brother and sister. Thank you for the money you gave me. I bought a leather jacket, dress, sweater, skirt, suspenders and a doll-outfit. I liked your telegram. Much love. Your sister, Suzette." As we finished reading this letter Suzette suddenly asked, "How do you spell elephant?" Oh, we said, "Go and ask daddy." That was our cue to hastily depart with a "Happy New Year."

Race Bars Tumble Down At Georgia University

Courts Tell Governor to Keep College Doors Open

ATLANTA — The walls of law, custom and prejudice that have excluded Negroes from the University of Georgia for 175 years came tumbling down this week as two Negro students were enrolled after three topsy-turvy days of legal backing and filling by the governor, the legislature and the courts. The two are 18-year-old Charlayne Hunter and 19-year-old Hamilton Holmes.

When the dust settled the federal courts had had the last say. In quick succession, Federal District Judge Wm. A. Bootle ordered the two students admitted, first denied and then granted a motion for a stay to permit an appeal from his order and Tuesday issued an injunction forbidding the state auditor from withholding funds for the university's operation.

Stay Issued

Judge Bootle's stay order issued Monday was in effect only a few hours before it was overturned by the federal Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. During the few hours it was in effect the university halted admission proceedings for the students but as quickly resumed them when the Court of Appeals acted. Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook caught an airplane and went to Washington Monday night to ask Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black to overrule the Court of Appeals but the justice turned the plea over to the full court which issued an order Tuesday morning denying the request without comment.

Meanwhile Gov. Ernest Vandiver was riding off in all directions at once. Elected on a solemn promise to "save" the state from integration, he got down on his gubernatorial hands and knees Monday to

'Indian Prince,' Woman Jailed For Burglary

A man who claims he is an Indian Prince and a white woman were arrested on suspicion of burglary last Thursday after they were seen huddling together, allegedly discussing some "hot" merchandise, at the Intermission Club, 4370 W. Adams blvd.

The woman, Helen Roberta Reece, 26, also known as Bobby Dumas, allegedly offered the arresting officers who were taking them to jail $2000 in cash if they would let her out of the squad car at the next red light.

Found $1000

Arrested along with Miss Reece was Rudolph La Marr, 50, who sometimes uses the name of Ali Raschid, and who lives at 3431 S. LaBrea avenue. La Marr said he works at the Tatum Service Station at 27th and Western.

Officers observed the two in close conversation at the Intermission Club. La Marr had been named as a suspect in a previous crime involving the theft of a motor car.

At La Marr's home, police found more than $1000 in cash, a number of men's suits without labels, two cashmere sweaters with fur collars and extra collars, all of which were believed to have been stolen, together with a supply of white, yellow and red pills, resembling benzedrine tablets, seconal and nembutal.

A Real Prince

They also found a hypodermic syringe.

La Marr claimed he had a legal right to use both the name of La Marr and that of Ali Raschid, asserting that he was in reality a prince from India. He said he had earned the $1010 police found in his apartment.

When police searched Miss Reece's apartment, after obtaining her permission, they found an assortment of appliances, including a TV set, a beige telephone and several suits with the labels removed. One of the suits bore a cleaning tag in the name of "Swank," a known dealer in "hot" merchandise.

Elderly Woman Warned

A Ku Klux Klan threat to "get out—or else" was telephoned Monday night to an elderly woman in Pasadena.

Recipient of the threat, according to Pasadena police, was Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Washington, who is close to 80 years old, and who lives with her son George Washington and his wife Madeline at 829 N. Summit street.

Race Epithets

About 10 p.m. the phone rang. A man's voice at the other end of the line said he was from the Ku Klux Klan and in language liberally sprinkled with ugly race epithets wanted to know if she was white, or what.

He warned her, the Eagle was informed, to move out of her home—or it would be burned down.

Police said the caller also threatened to burn a cross on the Washington lawn.

Crack Pot?

Police inclined to dismiss the call as a "crack-pot" threat, but nonetheless they

Gov't Won't Give Aid to Tent Colony

NEW YORK — The federal government will not use any of its surplus food to help feed Tennessee sharecroppers facing the rigors of winter in a tent village near Somerville.

The Federal Agriculture Department ruled that there is no "urgent need" among the families at Freedom Village who were evicted from their farms after they were bold enough to register and vote in the Nov. 8 elections.

(The government has, however, appropriated $1,00,000 to aid Cubans in Miami.)

The finding of the federal agency was in sharp contradiction to statements of NAACP workers on duty in Tennessee. They report that the need for food, clothing and shelter is "acute."

It is so acute, in fact, that the NAACP this week issued its second nationwide apeal to all its branches in 45 states asking for contributions to aid the displaced sharecroppers in Fayette and Haywood Counties.

The new appeal asked all NAACP units to send at least $50 from their treasuries to Jesse Turner, NAACP Memphis Branch president, 236 S. Wellington street, Memphis, Tenn.

The first appeal last summer brought more than $8000 which has been used to send in packages of food, clothing and later tents to the families who have no homes, no jobs and no way of earning a living.

They and their children are huddled in tents, lighted by kerosene lamps, heated by stoves. Their house furnishings are stacked behind the tents.

Loren Miller says . . .

133.4 Million Phones

Don't get me wrong. I'm not opposed to telephones. Really, I'm not. They're mighty handy things to have. Like when you want to know what Jackie Robinson hit the year he joined the Dodgers, why you can phone The Times sports desk and get the figures without moving away from the TV Or you can call UL 8900 and get the mechanical answer that it is now 9:42 and 30 seconds. But there's a limit to all good things, including telephones.

Loren Miller

That awful truth came home to me when I read in the papers last week that there are 133.4 million phones in the world. Figure that five persons have access to each phone and you're hit with the sickening fact that 667 million people may call you the next minute. You can take whatever comfort there is in knowing that one million of the phones are out of order, that another one million homeowners haven't paid their bills and can't call out and that 1.4 million others are on vacations and away from their phones. But that still leaves 650 million people poised at their instruments with the power in their hands to ring you at any moment of the day or night.

Gigantic Conspiracy

Millions of these people are already banded together in a conspiracy which makes the Communist Conspiracy look like the handiwork of amateurs. They have a list of every good TV and radio program in the whole world and the devilish part of it is that they know the minute and the hour you settle back to look at or listen to those programs.

Worked 14 Years On Broom Brigade

Lennie L. Andrews, of 1535 Western avenue, San Bernardino, who worked for the Santa Fe Railroad as a car cleaner for nearly 14 years before he was fired last March, was his own best witness when he took the stand Monday at the first public hearing conducted since the establishment of the California Fair Employment Practices Commission.

DUE HERE—Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., will arrive here Saturday to report on sit-ins and help West Coast ministers form Christian Leadership Conference.

Andrews claims he was fired after he filed a complaint charging discrimination with the FEP. That complaint was filed last Feb. 15. He was fired on March 30.

Testimony Buttressed

Over objections from the counsel for the Santa Fe, Andrews told of his lengthy service during eight years of which he was lead man, of his education which included a five-year automobile-mechanics course, his service with the Navy in this country and overseas, his repeated efforts to obtain promotion to mechanic and of the insulting language to which he was subjected by an official of the company.

His testimony was buttressed by that of fellow employees, union officials, and FEP investigator Murray Brasky, who investigated An-

Electrical Fire Critically Burns Ray Johnson

Firemen wearing gas masks rescued electrician Ray Johnson, 38, of 2352 Virginia avenue, from the basement of an office building at 607 S. Hill street Tuesday.

Traffic was halted for more than an hour as firemen from nine companies battled the blaze and billowing smoke to rescue Johnson, who suffered third-degree burns over most of his body.

He was taken to Central Receiving Hospital. Treated there also was fireman Albert Dubin, who was overcome by smoke.

The fire apparently was caused when Johnson's drill touched a high voltage conduit and sent sparks into materials stored in the basement.

Dies from Knifing At Friend's Door

"Alice, let me in! I think I'm cut!" Timer Calen, 54, a laborer who lived at 1533½ E. 23rd street, called out to Alice Binion, 48, of 1138 E. Adams blvd. last Thursday evening.

Miss Binion, who had been arguing and fighting with Calen a few minutes before, refused to open the door. Instead she went to the phone and called Calen's son, Clezell Calen, of the 23rd street address.

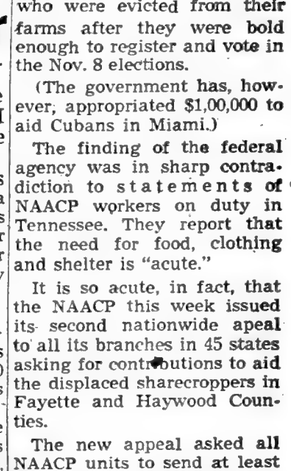
At Foot of Stairs

Then she opened the door and saw Calen lying at the foot of the stairs, bleeding. She called an ambulance.

When police arrived they found the walkway heavily splotched with blood. They examined Calen, but could find no pulse. His heart had stopped beating. He had been stabbed in the abdomen.

The officers were met by Calen's son, who told them that both the suspect and the death weapon were in the house.

Miss Binion told police that Calen, her boy friend, had wanted her to go with him to 24th and Long Beach to have a drink, but that she had refused and they had begun to quarrel.



Cut Him a Little

She said she "cut him a little bit and closed the door on him and wouldn't let him in."

She said she couldn't remember where she got the knife from, or where she had put it.

She claimed that Calen had beaten her on previous occasions and that when they

Pennsylvania Court Won't Hear Baptist Inc. Wrangle

By Barbara Mounts

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled this week that it does not have jurisdiction over the disputed issue of who is president of the National Baptist Convention, Inc.

The Pennsylvania Court decided that since the organization was incorporated in the District of Columbia, the case can be heard only by the courts there.

The case arose as a result of the dispute that erupted violently at the Philadelphia Convention of the organization last September.

Two ministers claim the presidency — the Rev. J. H. Jackson, pastor of Olivet Baptist Church of Chicago, who has been president for seven years, and Dr. Gardner C. Taylor, pastor of Concord Baptist Church of Christ, Brooklyn.

Prior to the decision, Dr. Taylor made public a letter he had sent to Dr. Jackson on Dec. 12, inviting him to a conference in which the two might settle the dispute amicably. He says he has received no reply to his proposals.

Rev. P. J. Ellis, of Morning Star Baptist Church here in Los Angeles who is president of the local Baptist Ministers Union, said Tuesday that he doubted seriously that Dr. Jackson would meet with Dr. Taylor since Rev. Jackson considers himself the duly elected head of the group and sees no reason for such a meeting.

Following the decision of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, Atty. I. W. Crippins, counsel for the defendants, said that absolutely no evidence has been presented in the case to date.

Dr. Taylor said: "We will decide in a few days as to how we will proceed in upholding Baptist principles of free choice upon which we stand. I thing we should seek

Stovall Home Benefit Party Fills Theater

A near capacity crowd filled the Hollywood Pantages Theater Sunday night to attend he Spartacus "Theater Party." The show which was a fund-raising event for the Stovall Foundation was an outstanding success.

Benefits for the special showing of this spectacular motion picture will be turned over to the non-profit Senior Citizen's Home.

The benefit committee was headed by Chairman LeRoy R. Weekes, M.D., vice-president of the foundation; Gerald L. Stovall, M. D. president, and John A. Jackson, executive director of the Stovall Home for the Aged.

Woody Strode's significant role thrilled the audience with his superb performance of "Draba" which will long be remembered by the huge crawd that attended.

Deerfield Park Loses Fight to Bar Negroes

CHICAGO — A federal district court decision upholding the right of Deerfield Park, a Chicago suburb, to condemn land and halt the building of an integrated housing development was upset by the United States Court of Appeals for the eighth circuit last week.

The circuit court ordered a against the Village Board to trial on the $750,000 damage prevent unlawful harassment claim of Modern Community of Progress' construction pro-Developers and its Illinois sub- gram, and also asked $750,000 sidiary, Progress Development damages.
Corp., with instructions that if proof sustains the pleading, the court can enjoin state condemnation of the two sites.

Progress Development Corp. bought 22 acres in Deerfield in 1959 after a long search by local builders. Chicagoland citizens backed the formation of the subsidiary following meetings arranged by the American Friends Service Committee, at which the story was told of successful integration in Concord Park and Greenbelt Knoll in the Philadelphia area, and the Princeton, N.J., community.

Arrangements were made for bonds to be placed for land improvement. Thus 51 lots on two sites were recorded. Sewer and water were put in for 39 of the lots, and two models were under roof in November 1959, when news of Progress' sales policy became public.

After a number of public and private meetings and public furor, the Deerfield Park District took steps to condemn both sites for parks.

On December 22, 1959, violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and the U.S. Civil Rights Act was charged in a suit filed in the federal district court in Chicago. It sought an injunction against the Park District's proceeding with condemnation of the properties in Deerfield, and an injunction

Builder Told He Must Sell Home to Negro

HARTFORD, Conn. — The state has ordered a Hamden real estate developer to sell a house to a Negro who was rebuffed in previous attempts to buy.

The directive came from a three-man tribunal that judged the case on behalf of the State Civil Rights Commission. The complaint came from DeWitt Jones, a New Haven Negro.

Jones said he was turned down because of his race when he tried to buy a house in the Benham Heights development in Hamden. The case is the first to test the 1959 amendment to the state's law against discrimination in housing.

The tribunal ordered the developer, Albert Swanson, to sell Jones a house within 30 days. Swanson's attorneys said they will seek a Superior Court injunction against the order.

A man is never a failure until he has failed at something he really likes.

U. N. Council Will Meet on Congo Crisis

The steadily disintegrating conditions in the Congo were due for another hearing in the United Nations, probably to start today, Thursday, as supporters of imprisoned Premier Patrice Lumumba continued to extend their control over new areas.

The U. N Security Council meeting was called for by the Soviet Union, charging "fresh acts of Belgian aggression." The specific acts referred to dealt with Belgium's use of her protectorate, Ruanda-Urundi, as a base for Belgian-backed Col. Mobutu's forces in their ill-starred New Year's Day attack on Kivu Province.

Hatchet Man Captured

In that attack, it has now been revealed, Mobutu lost a good portion of his men killed, wounded or captured.

Among those taken prisoner was his security chief, Maj. Gilbert Pongo, the man who brought Lumumba back to Leopoldville as a prisoner.

Pongo, Mobutu's chief hatchet man, taken to Stanleyville in Lumumba's territory, cabled Pres. Joseph Kasavubu appealing for Lumumba's release "in the interest of national unity."

He also denounced his former chief, Mobutu, for plotting with the "colonialists."

Tshombe's Troubles

Lumumba forces meanwhile have captured control of the northern section of mineral-rich Katanga Province and have set up a new "independent state" there, known as "Lualaba."

Forces loyal to Lumumba also hold Oriental Province and most of Kivu Prvince.

Moise Tshombe, Belgian puppet who heads Katanga Province, was having diplomatic difficulties in addition to his trouble with Lumumba's men.

Sunday, in Elizabethville, he canceled a scheduled visit to the United States, angrily telling newsmen that the United States felt his presence here at the present time would not be "opportune."

Tshombe also denounced the U. S. consul in Elizabethville, William Canup, who he said denied him a visa.

The earth's population of approximately three billion averages out at about 100 humans per square mile of fertile soil.

Somebody's Face Is Red

Thunderous threats of massive intervention in Laos to battle seven batallions of Communist North Viet-Nam troops that had crossed the border subsided last week to less than a whisper.

It was suddenly found that no North Viet-Nam troops had in fact invaded Laos, nor were they expected to.

Lame excuses from Vientiane, capitol of Laos, said there may have been some shouting at the border as if an attack was imminent, and that the Laotian border posts apparently panicked and reported the invasion as a fact.

Then, possibly to cover up embarrassment over military reverses, officials announced the invasion under way.

A plaintive report in the Chicago Daily News from Vientiane said that "nobody here knows for sure what is going on—at least not until two or three days after it has happened," and added that no correspondent has been allowed to visit any battle zone.

NAACP Defends 1700 Sitdowners

NEW YORK — Defending students arrested in connection with sit-in protest demonstrations and speeding up legal activities for school desegregation in several states are the major objectives of the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund for 1961.

Thurgood Marshall, the fund's director-counsel, announced this week.

Approximately 1700 students were arrested and convicted during 1960 sit-in demonstrations for whom attorneys for the Legal Defense Fund have filed suits. Marshall said some 75 Negro and white lawyers throughout the country are now engaged in defending the students.

Original School Cases

As the new year begins, cases include renewed legal action in two of the original five cases which resulted in the Supreme Court's 1954 decision outlawing segregation in public education.

On sit-in demonstrations, Marshall said:

"Most of them (the Negro students) have been charged and convicted for crimes such as disorderly conduct, trespass, interfering with business and parading without a license.

"The only crime they have committed was to protest in an orderly and peaceful manner the denial of their right to sit at lunch counters," he pointed out. "To protest against injustices is the foundation of our American democracy."

The first sit-in case to be appealed to the highest court reached the U. S. Supreme Court Dec. 31, when Legal Defense Fund attorneys filed three petitions in behalf of 15 Negro students arrested last spring in Baton Rouge, La.

Customer Shot At Gas Station

A filling station attendant was accused of shooting a customer early Friday morning after the customer threatened him with a knife.

James Newton Robinson, 35, of 260 E. 87th street, sold Robert Butler, 20, of 861 W. 66th street, two quarts of oil. After Robinson closed the car hood he was told by the driver of the car to collect his money from the man on the passenger side of the car.

When he went around to collect, Butler reportedly started cursing him and accused him of slamming the hood down and jumped out of of the car with a knife in his hand.

He started toward Robinson who told him to halt. The attendant backed away as Butler kept coming toward him, pulled his gun and fired.

Willie Yarbrough, 953½ W. 62nd street, driver of the car, told police he accidently blew the horn as he drove into the filling station. The attendant, he assumed, resented this and so he slammed down the hood after he put in the oil.

Police found a .22 caliber revolver and a small pen knife at the scene. They also found a carving knife with a seven inch blade in the purse of Margaret Ann Gray of 449½ W. 74th street, a passenger in Butler's car.

way down—and up. There are blacks training whites and whites training blacks.

No Negro Streets

"I even watched as I walked along the street as the people passed by. Nobody paid any attention to whether a person was light or dark.

"I tried my best to see if there wasn't some race feeling. But there was nothing. Nothing at all. In the offices, there were dark Cubans and light Cubans. In the houses—they were all together. Negro families next door to white families. There was no 'Negro street,' no 'white street.'

"I talked to a mother of eight—a dark-skinned Cuban—and asked her what the revolution had done for her. She lived in a trashy, barn-like house. Under Batista she paid $25 a month. Now she pays $5 for the same house.

On the List

"But she's on the list for a new house. 'We'll get a house,' she said.

"Before she did day work. She was the only one in the family who could get a job. Now her husband and her two sons are employed and she stays at home. Proudly she told of her three children who are studying for careers—one to be a nurse, another a teacher, another a secretary.

"At the American Consulate," Mrs. Cox continued, "they said that 90 per cent of the people are against Castro, but I don't know where they were. We didn't see them.

Free to Go Anywhere

"No," she replied to a question, "we were free to go anywhere, to talk to anyone, people in the street, anybody—and we did.

"People we had never seen before invited us to their homes, brought us flowers.

"Everywhere we found warmth, enthusiasm for Fidel. No-one calls him Castro. They love him, they love him like a brother.

Year of Education

"Fidel called for 4000 volunteer teachers. Ten thousand answered the call. They will get no pay. They're teaching the children — and their parents — in the countryside how to read and write. This year, 1961, is the "Year of Education." By Jan. 1, 1962, they want everybody to know how to read.

"I never saw such happy people, and they're well dressed even in the countryside.

"We stayed at the Havana Riviera. Before the revolution no dark faced people could stay there. They couldn't rent a room. They could only work as menials. Now everyone is welcome.

We'll Die First

"Homes are springing up everywhere. We went into one home we passed in Pinar del Mar. It was the home of a Negro couple. There were flags on the door, and Fidel's picture. In every room of the house there was a picture of Fidel. Before, they told us, they lived in a house made of pasteboard boxes with the bare ground for a floor. They pay $20 a month for the two-bedroom house. It will belong to them in 15 years.

"People are not jittery about an invasion," Mrs. Cox reported, "but they are on the alert. They expect it to come, though they don't know when.

"She quoted a child in the street, a dentist, many whom she met all voicing the same sentiment. 'Let them come,' they told her. 'We'll die before we'll give up what we've got'."

Mrs. Cox said she was the only Negro woman among the 400 who took the trip with the Fair Play group. Only five of the total number were Negroes. She was the only person who went from Los Angeles.

Sharpening Focus On Rights Keynote Of NAACP Meet

NEW YORK — "The year 1960 must be set down as the one in which the civil rights issue moved into the sharpest focus since World War I," Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, told the 52nd annual meeting of the association's 225 delegates here this week.

He pointed to "lively and exciting years" ahead if the appointment of Robert C. Weaver, the association's national board chairman, to the post of administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency "is an indication of the temper and direction of the new administration."

Mood for Movement

The "mood for movement" by Negroes toward justice and equality, he continued, was reflected by NAACP activities during 1960.

That mood was reflected in an increase in membership by 65,000 to 386,808, an increase in financial support and a series of undertakings, including the sit-in demonstrations, "withholding of trade" campaigns throughout the South, aid to persecuted sharecroppers in Tennessee and a series of favorable legal decisions.

While there was a spirit of optimism based on the past year's achievements, stress was placed during the conference upon the mountainous barriers that still confront Negroes throughout the United States.

Labor Discrimination

Herbert Hill, labor secretary, in a review of the five-year record of the AFL-CIO, asserted that the merged labor federation has not taken action "on its own initiative" to reduce racial discrimination among member unions.

He declared that AFL-CIO affiliated unions are "guilty of discriminatory racial practices" in four categories: outright exclusion of Negroes, segregated locals, separate racial seniority lines in collective bargaining agreements and exclusion of Negroes from apprenticeship training programs controlled by labor unions.

In his summary remarks, Jack E. Wood, Jr., special assistant for housing, declared housing discrimination remains "the most pervasive area of civil rights denial" and stated it would be one of the principal targets of the NAACP during the coming year.

Asks 'Aggressive Effort'

Successful accomplishment of school integration "no longer rests principally with the courts, but depends largely upon the aggressive effort of the Negro community to secure the benefits of what the courts have declared as law," said NAACP General Counsel Robert L. Carter.

He also stressed cases in which the association has been forced to defend itself from southern investigating communittees, legislators and unjust courts.

Carter cited the cases of Father Theodore R. Gibson, president of the Miami NAACP, sentenced to six months in jail and fined $1200; Medgar Evers, NAACP field secretary in Mississippi, sentenced to a month's imprisonment and fined $100; and the disbarment proceedings against Samuel W. Tucker, NAACP counsel in three Virginia cases.

Legal Victories

Legal victories included the U. S. Supreme Court decision stating that Arkansas school teachers do not have to list outside organizational ties; and the Supreme Court decision in the Tuskegee boundary case which had threatened to bar 400 Negroes from voting.

Wilkins pointed out that the association, through its Memphis branch, has supplied food, clothing and, recently, tents to Tennessee sharecroppers.

Commenting on school desegregation he declared that four little Negro girls entering newly-integrated schools in New Orleans, "upset the whole white race in the State of Louisiana" and observed that Louisiana, "through its shameful performance may have speeded school desegration by awakening the country to the menace of extreme segregationists."

The NAACP leader vowed there will be no let-up in the pressures for complying with the 1954 Supreme Court decision, and asserted that tensions will disappear "only when justice and equality are the order of the day."

Decision Awaited On Oil Co. Bias

ALBANY, N. Y. — The New York Court of Appeals reserved decision this week on a bid by the Arabian Oil Company (Aramco) to set aside two lower court rulings that it has no right to question job applicants about their religion.

The oil company's appeal was opposed by the American Jewish Congress, which accused Aramco of serving as the "tool and agent" of Saudi Arabia in screening Jews from employment both in Saudi Arabi and in the United States.

NAACP Joins Fight

Shad Polier of New York, chairman of the AJCongress Commission on Law and Social Action, asked the court to uphold decisions calling on the New York State Commission Against Discrimination (SCAD) to probe charges that Armaco's job practices violate the State Fair Employment Law.

In a friend-of-the-court brief signed by Thurgood Marshall, the NAACP supported the American Jewish Congress position.

Armaco's attorney argued that the company asks job applicants to state their religion because it must comply with a ban on the entry of "undesirable persons, including Jews" to Saudi Arabia, where Armaco conducts its operations. Chester Bordeau, counsel for Armaco, also said that American political interests in the Middle East require that the company be granted an exemption from the state anti-discrimination law.

Acas as Tool

Polier countered by charging that Armaco uses the religious question on its job application form as a device for barring Jews not only from employment in Saudi Arabi but also from jobs in its New York City operation, where the company has more than 800 employees.

"No American court can require Saudi Arabi to admit Jews," Polier said. "But this court can and should bar Aramco from acting as the tool and agent of a foreign power in violating the laws of the state."

He said that Charles Abrams, a former chairman of SCAD, and Mrs. Caroline Simon, a former member of SCAD, had both proposed that Aramco hire employees without discrimination, subject only to receiving a Saudi Arabian visa. However, even this procedure — which would be acceptable to AJCongress— has been rejected by Aramco, he noted.

Arbitrary Exclusion

Polier further charged that Aramco "uses the possibility of travel to Saudi Arabia as a formula to disguise the fact that it is actually honoring a commitment to its business partner — Saudi Arabia — to exclude Jews from any part of its payroll or domestic."

Under this formula, the AJCongress leader said, "Aramco has arbitrarily designated all positions in its employ with the exception of a limited number of employees at the lowest levels as requiring work in Saudi Arabia. It then claims a bona fide occupational qualification exemption for all positions since Jews cannot obtain visas to Saudi Arabia."

Breakfast Club Initiates Fund To Aid Student

By C. Marie Hughes

The Women's Sunday Morning Breakfast Club's monthly meeting had its usual overflow crowd Sunday at the Clark Hotel.

Libby Clark, well known public relations consultant, was the principal speaker. She gave a detailed report entitled "A Portrait of Africa" and gave interesting highlights of her trip to Africa last October when Nigeria achieved its independence.

Many Achievements

Among the many achievements in the past year by the Breakfast Club were a cash payment of $500 for a life membership in the NAACP, a pledge of $100 a year for sickle cell research, $1000 to the Children's Hospital, $1000 to the Orthopaedic Hospital, "adoption" of two African children from Kenya and the giving of Christmas packages to 89 children.

Mrs. Theresa Lindsay, club president, emphasized that without the consistant cooperation of the enthusiastic and energetic members, these things would be impossible.

African dignitaries and representatives from the Coca Cola Bottling Company were among special guests seated at the head table.

New Project

The talented club regulars, an intricate part of the Breakfast Club, furnished the musical background which was well received and enjoyed by the audience.

A new project materialized at Sunday's meeting when Joan Watkins, a young intelligent Negro student attending Whittier College, made an appeal to the club for funds to further her education at Fisk University in Nashville as an exchange student.

Hardly had she voiced her appeal before the audience began responding. Before the meeting closed a start had already been made toward providing Miss Watkins with the money she needs to go to Fisk University.

Afro-Asian Group In Neutral Block

Eight Afro-Asian nations, meeting in Casablanca, Morocco, last week, formed a neutralist bloc and issued a manifesto calling for the immediate release and reinstatement in power of imprisoned Premier Patrice Lumumba of the Congo and the disarming of the "illegal bands" of Congo "strong man" Col. Joseph Mobutu.

Members of the group threatened to withdraw all their forces from the United Nations troops in the Congo unless their demands are met.

Their combined forces, including 2300 Ghana troops, 3240 Moroccans and 750 Guineans, account for approximately a third of the total U. N. force. No date was set for withdrawal, however.

The "Casablanca Charter" nations also pledged all-out support for Algeria independence and approved enlistment of "African and other volunteers" in the Algerian independence army.

They further agreed to cooperate in political, economic and military fields to promote or safeguard their own independence.

Represented at the four-day conference were Ghana, Guinea, Mali, the United Arab Republic, the Algerian Government in Exile, Libya and Ceylon, as well as Morocco.

Mayme Lewis Made Director Of GOP Youth

Mayme G. Lewis, public relations expert and active Republican leader, has just been named director of the board of the Los Angeles Young Republicans for the year 1961.

The announcement was made by the president, Phil Curran, last Tuesday evening at the Statler Hotel during the monthly Executive Committee meeting.

As the director, Mrs. Lewis will serve as chairman of the "First Voters Committee" for Los Angeles County. The county organization which she will cover has 48 clubs with a membership of 3600.

Mrs. Lewis is coordinator of the Young Republicans Unlimited, an organization founded following organizational efforts of the Republican Community Advisory Committee of which Paul R. Williams is chairman. She is also director of the Republican Community Service Center.

Mayme "G," as she is known, is a native of Kansas City, Mo., where she attended school. She completed her training here at USC in Office Management and Business Control. Listed among several major firms with which she has been associated are Union Oil of Southern California, Gulf Oil Company, Union Mortgage Company and the Consolidated Realty Board of Southern California.

started arguing she thought he was going to beat her again.

The argument, she said, started inside the house, continued out on the porch and in the yard. She said that Calen started hitting her, and she shoved the knife towards him in an effort to keep him away from her. She didn't recall actually cutting him.

After he stopped coming towards her, she turned, ran into the house and closed the door.

Redcap Wins Award in Car Contract Case

Alfred Gray, 2701 Halldale street, a redcap at Union Station, won a $1400 judgment last week against General Motors Acceptance Corporation and Chieftain Pontiac.

Gray, through his attorney, David J. Lee, of the new law firm of Lee, La Vigne and Davis, charged concealment of $500 in finance charges in connection with the purchase of a 1956 Pontiac from Chieftain.

He further asserted that the car was repossessed after he had been paying on it for 17 months, despite the fact that he was ill at the time and offered to pay all amounts due.

At the trial, Atty. Lee contended that the contract was illegal and void on its face. Judge Arnold Praeger sustained his contention.

Gray was not required to take the witness stand.

NEW DRIVING CLASS

A new class in driver education designed to help adults learn how to drive an automobile safely and also to assist students to pass the State examination for driver licenses will open at Belmont-Metropolitan Adult School, 1575 W. Second street, on Jan. 31.

STARVING—A young Baluba child, one of 300,000 who face starvation, is being spoon fed by a Belgian nurse at a refugee camp in South Kasai Province in the Congo.

Democracy, French Style

Reports from Algeria stated that DeGaulle wasn't taking any chances on last week's vote.

Waldo Drake, of the Los Angeles Times' European Bureau, reported that the French army had been directed to haul some one and a half million illiterate tribesmen to back country polls and "advise" them to vote "yes."

Just to make it easy, when they arrived at the polling places, the Algerians found two piles of small paper squares on open counters. White squares were marked "yes," purple squares "no."

The voter picked up one of the squares, went behind a small curtain, put the paper in an envelope and then dropped it in the ballot box.

Driver Held; Vet of 2 Wars Killed by Car

Police booked John H Allen, 68, of 461 E. 43rd street, on suspicion of manslaughter when the car he was driving struck and killed Eugene E. Hall, 71, of 512 E. 46th street, about 6 p.m. Sunday.

Hall, who fought in both the Spanish American War and World War I, was crossing the street at 46th and Avalon blvd. when he was struck down. Hall was born in South Carolina, spent most of his early life in New York and moved to Los Angeles in 1921.

He had been receiving medical care at Sawtelle Veterans' Hospital.

UN Chief Talks Only to White South Africans

JOHANNESBURG — Albert Luthuli, former head of the banned African National Congress, said Sunday that U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's mission will fail unless he confers with nonwhite leaders.

Luthuli said he wants to meet with Hammarskjold who so far during his visit to South Africa has talked only to white politicians.

Luthuli spoke from his home in Natal Province, where he is confined by the government.

Nigeria Ousts French Envoy

LAGOS, Nigeria — Nigeria ordered the French ambassador and his staff last Thursday to leave the country within 48 hours.

The action was taken in protest against France's atomic test program in the Sahara which Nigeria considers a "grave insult."

French planes and ships have been banned and transit facilities withdrawn.

Miss Reece seemed especially put out about being charged with the theft of the telephone. "You would hardly call it stealing," she commented. "I put a $10 deposit on it."

The Governor's Message

Governor Brown's message to the legislature urging extension of "our laws against discrimination in housing" is good as far as it goes. But it doesn't go very far.

Discrimination in housing is so deeply rooted in custom, law, and public attitude that its removal requires specific legislation and we won't get that kind of legislation without strong support from the governor's office.

The only specific recommendation made by the governor was that the legislators enact laws providing that "an established pattern of discrimination is a proper basis for disciplinary action by state licensing bodies." Under that principle, a real estate broker who refused to sell or rent housing for racial reasons might be disciplined by the State Board. That isn't enough.

California needs legislation of the kind now in effect in Colorado, Oregon and eastern states forbidding discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing, whether such shelter is publicly assisted or privately owned.

There was a time when the nation could afford to let the private house owner discriminate in sales or rentals but that time has gone. We are becoming a nation of city dwellers and nowhere is that trend more marked than in California.

The cities are the people and orderly urban growth requires that residential segregation be eliminated. Its elimination is essential for city planning, urban redevelopment and urban renewal, and it cannot be eliminated without strong laws.

Tractors and Civil Rights

The claim of Tennessee plantation owners that they are ousting Negro share croppers because of the advance of mechanical farming is an obvious fraud. It is significant that these ousters were begun only after Negroes had won their fight to register and vote in two Tennessee counties where they are in the majority.

What the plantation owners are after is the retention of political control. They are afraid that Negro voters will oust their stooge county officials and replace them with men who will enforce the law.

Enforcement of the law would diminish the many pronged rackets by which Negro croppers are cheated out of their earnings and kept poor and poverty stricken.

In the long view, mechanization of agriculture is inevitable. The tractor will replace the mule-drawn plow and the reaper will pick the cotton now gathered by hand. That process, no matter how orderly, is bound to work hardships on cropper families.

However, the Tennessee counties aren't ready for wholesale mechanization and the fact that the ousted families are those whose heads registered to vote butresses the government's case that the present issue is the right to vote.

Get a Good Halfback

As it must to all states, integration came to Georgia last week with a federal court order to admit two Negroes to the state university. The order is being met with the usual threats of closing of the state institution.

Georgia can't close its university. It is going to have to bow to the court order. Our suggestion is that it give in gracefully and get out and recruit a few good Negro football players. A star Negro halfback will at least get the state a spot of favorable publicity and distract attention from the fatuous threats to eliminate college training for all Georgians.

The Devil for the Witch

The Kennedy administration has been getting a lot of mileage out of planted stories that the Democrats are preparing to redeem their platform pledge to curb the power of the House Rules Committee by ousting Rep. William Colmer of Mississippi and replacing him with a "liberal."

It turns out that what the Democrats are preparing to do is to swap the Devil for the Witch. Colmer's replacement will be Rep. Carl Elliott of Alabama to whom the "liberal" tag has been attached.

Colmer's ouster and replacement by Elliott will leave the Rules Committee as firmly stacked against civil rights legislation as ever. The record shows that the Alabaman hasn't cast a good civil rights vote in his entire career. It is more than safe to assume that he will use his new position to enhance his position with Alabama segregationists.

Of course, Elliott will probably cast desirable votes on medical care for the aged, minimum wage and aid for education as long as such bills are purged of any language that might give any comfort to the cause of integration.

The sum of the matter is that the Democrats have decided to leave control of the Rules Committee in the hands of the South.

Battleaxe & Bread

By Lester B. Granger

ROMA — Rome is different, and don't let anybody convince you that it isn't. And when you add up all the differences, it comes out that Rome is one of this world's few truly civilized great cities.

Rome has charm and beauty and sparkle, for Rome is no more Italian than Milan, Venice, Florence or Naples. Milan is a big factory city with a cathedral; Venice is Coney Island with a million pigeons at feeding time in St. Mark's Square; Florence is museums and "such - like"; and Naples . . . ? Well, "Naples is Naples" as one American-Italian visiting there put it a couple of years ago, "and Naples isn't really a city at all. It's an accident that happened to a lot of people!"

Granger

Philosophical Shrug

Rome's charm, I think, lies in the fact that it's been here for going on 3,000 years and has been an important world center for more than 2,000 years; but it has never allowed itself to get the big head about it—not since the barbarians came in and knocked the bejabbers out of its army and its citizens and destroyed what was left of the old Roman Empire.

Since then its citizens have tended to cross their fingers when things go well and shrug philosophically when they don't, without exhibiting the shaky jim-jams such as New Yorkers and Parisians experience when their cities are in trouble.

Maybe this is a good thing, maybe it isn't, but this philosophical balance in the midst of turbulence is a blessed change to this refugee from Manhattan's stress and strain. For two weeks, that is. Then, after the International Conference of Social Work winds up on the 15th, I head back for Manhattan and beyond.

Smart Students

Last night I had dinner with two young Americans — both New Yorkers, students at Bennington College and studying in Paris this year. Like smart students they spent their Christmas vacation in Roma.

One I was happy to see, because Cecille Miller has been someone special to me ever since before she entered Manhattan's Brearley School to succeed brilliantly and send her mother, Mrs. Daphne, Miller, and her aunt an uncle, Judge and Mrs. Darwin Telesford, into spirals of expectation and speculation about "what'll that child do next?"

Well, last night she consumed a huge dish of pasta, which had a long name but was a glorified edition of lasagna — with cheese yet — a solid helping of saltimbocca, a good dollop of Brolio Rosso and a dessert that had cream and stuff oozing out of it. Saltinbocca was my suggestion, not only for its flavor but also for its name, which means "jump into the mouth." It's veal, sliced thin, with an overlay of delicately spiced ham and with a delicious wine sauce. I don't know whether Cecille's jumped or flew, but it got where it belonged in a hurry.

Love This Town

At Pancrazio's the fortunate guests eat in a cellar over 2,000 years old — the remains of an old Roman theatre that was there under the Caesars. A three-man combo produced music — violin, guitar and a soulful tenor who guessed what the ladies wanted and gave it to them. I mean song, of course, with dramatics and ogling.

It was perfect, that evening, what with youth (my two student guests), age (the cellar and me), the music and the food. And I don't know another place in the world where the combination could be had. If I seem to be going overboard about Rome, pay it no mind. For I'm already way out there. I really love this town as one that has never let me down, in summer, winter, spring or fall. And thank God the Olympics are long gone, the spring visitors haven't arrived and I and 2,000 other members of the International Conference can have Our Town all to ourselves.

Loren Miller Says . . .

The moment you get comfortable you can expect one of these conspirators to grab his phone, ring you up and chortle that he just wanted to chat with you a moment. Of course, the caller prefaces the hour-long conversation with the statement that he'll only take a moment but don't let that fool you.

These conspirators also have your eating habits down to a split second and the days on which you're apt to have a good meal. Right after the second bite you can depend on one of them to call. It used to be that you could fend off such a caller with the false promise that you would call him back. But that doesn't go any more. The rules of the organization forbid extending any such leeway to the victim. Now he announces with preconceived cunning that he is just leaving his home and must talk to you right then and there. And he does while the steak gets cold.

No Hiding Place

There's no relief in sight. If you get a silent number one of the conspirators snoops it out and passes it around to his henchmen and by week's end the telephone is ringing as gaily and ghoulishly as ever. To borrow a phrase from the old spiritual: there's no hiding place down here.

I know from bitter experience that these conspirators are out recruiting new members night and day. I understand that they now have Youth - For - Telephone - Call clubs and that they latch on to babies right out of swaddling clothes and teach them the tricks of the trade from the day the little brats can jam a sticky finger into the holes on the dial. Moreover, the phone companies are now installing phones on trains, in automobiles and in helicopters, so that every conspirator can ply his trade without let or hindrance.

Don't Call Me

The worst is yet to come. It won't be long before phones are hooked up to TV screens and these caller-inners can not only force you to talk to them but can look you dead in the eye and prevent you from making the excuse that you were just walking out of the door. Or they can nail you while you're forking up a bite of steak, fix you with a beady glance and in effect dare you to go ahead and eat your meal.

I'm a Kennedy man but I don't look for any relief during his administration. I don't think he's got the nerve to venture that far out on the New Frontier. He wouldn't dare to offend the millions of conspirators with a law to curb their nefarious practices. I'm at the end of my wits. I don't know what to do nor where to turn. Meanwhile don't call me. I'll call you.

The Washingtons, who have lived in Pasadena for more than 20 years, moved into their present home only a few months ago.

The area is one of mixed population—Negroes, white and Oriental—with a fair sprinkling of racially mixed families.

Monday night's call was the first hostile act that the family has experienced, and police advised that so far there has been no attempt on the part of the caller or anyone else to carry out his threat.

Judge Reduces 'Human Kite' Damage Award

The $135,000 damage award granted Alphonso (the Human Kite) Woodall by a jury on Nov. 22 for injuries suffered during the filming of a TV show, has been reduced to $70,000 by Superior Court Judge Reginald L. Bauder.

If Woodall does not accept the lower amount a motion for a new trial by defense attorney Warren Lane will be granted, Judge Bauder said.

Woodall originally sued for $150,000 damages from the Wayne Steffner Productions, Inc. and Jerome Wheelo, driver of the car which pulled his kite.

Santa Fe Hearing Major FEP Test

drews' complaint from Feb. 10 to May of last year.

Andrews told of his repeated requests for promotion, starting back in 1949, how white men who had just been hired were advanced despite their lack of experience, and how, on one occasion in 1959 he had been told, with emphasis, by L. P. English, a Santa Fe superintendent, that he would never be given a promotion.

Lazy, No Good

He quoted English as saying that he was "lazy, no good, not worth a damn" and so incompetent that the foreman "had to lead me around."

He also quoted English as saying that he was "too damned smart," and that he "had him on his list."

Early Jackson, a car cleaner who is the father of 14 boys, told the hearing that he was present when English gave Andrews the tongue lashing. He, too, said that English told Andrews he was on his "list." He was more specific than Andrews in qualifying the kind of list referred to.

Tells Santa Fe Policy

Brasky in his testimony, told of the company's hiring policy and said there was evidence that white men had been hired and upgraded, although they did not have Andrews' qualifications or experience.

He also said that management had told him that in California the Santa Fe does not hire Negroes as brakemen, firemen or clerks. That statement brought loud protest from the Santa Fe Counsel who sought to have it striken from the record.

Brasky's report was turned in to the FEP office for further evaluation, after which the complaint against the Santa Fe was filed.

Denies Charges

Robert B. Curtiss, attorney for the Santa Fe, in his opening statement denied that Andrews had been refused promotion because he is a Negro, or that he was fired because he had complained to the FEPC. He said, instead, that the immediate cause of his being fired was the fact that he had fallen asleep on the job. Andrews had not been upgraded, said Curtiss, because his supervisors did not feel that he warranted upgrading.

Andrews told in detail the circumstances on the occasion when he was supposed to have fallen asleep and emphatically denied the accusation. He countered with the accusation that the railroad had changed the transcript of a company trial which upheld his dismissal to show that he had admitted being asleep.

Curtiss also attempted to block the hearing by calling for a dismissal of the complaint. He claimed that the FEPC did not have jurisdiction since the case had been submitted to the Railroad Adjustment Board under the National Railway Labor Act before the FEP had filed charges against the Santa Fe and that the Railway Board had accepted jurisdiction.

Took Case Feb. 15

Charles E. Wilson, chief counsel for the FEP, pointed out that the FEP Commission had taken jurisdiction on Feb. 15, long before the case had been submitted to the Railroad Board.

John Anson Ford, commission chairman, emphasized that if the commission did not take jurisdiction in the case it would "abdicate its responsibility," and added that "if this commission does not invoke state law in this case we would leave unprotected an important area of human rights."

Hearing officer Malcolm Peattie, of Sacramento, denied the motion for dismissal, and the hearing proceeded.

Curtiss then sought to restrict the scope of the hearing by protesting against inclusion of testimony regarding events prior to September, 1959, the date the FEP Commission was established.

After Wilson pointed out that the history of the case was pertinent to the complaint, Peattie ruled in his favor and the case again proceeded, with Andrews reviewing his experiences with the Santa Fe from the time he was hired.

Charges against the union, which was named as joint defendant, were dropped when the union agreed to abide by any decision of the commission.

Georgia Gov'r Huffs 'n' Puffs, Then Yields

beg the state legislature to change a 1956 law ordering the university closed in event of integration.

Reverses Couree

Apparently disturbed by mutterings from the wool hat counties to which he owes his election, Vandiver ordered the university shut down late Monday night as he issued a blast calling the court order "harsh and vicious" and an "act of tyranny." He was equally outraged at Judge Bootle's Tuesday order forbidding the cutting of university funds.

The governor sent the judge a stinging telegram of protest but kept his official skirts clean with the gratuitous advice that "my respect for lawful procedures and my oath as governor preclude any act of defiance on my part."

Asks Repeal

In his plea to the legislature to repeal the university closing law, Vandiver virtually acknowledged defeat of his segregation promise with the statement that the 1956 law had been turned "from a source of hope to an albatross. If allowed to remain, its effect will be to close the doors of Georgia's hallowed halls, to cease bringing learning and enlightenment to over 7500 young men and women . . ."

Georgia has another law which requires closing of grade schools in event of integration and Atlanta schools are under an order to begin integration next fall. The governor said that retreat on the university closing law would not disturb grade school legislation. He has said that he will propose a "freedom of choice" constitutional amendment which will not "force any child to associate" with children of another race. Lawyers said that it is obvious that the proposed legislation is unconstitutional.

Students Calm

Students at the university took the integration order as a matter of course with a few exceptions. Some 500 of the 7500 in attendance gathered to boo the Negro students at registration but most of them expdessed only mild curiosity. Another minority registered a vigorous protest against the closing order.

Hamilton will pursue premedical studies at the university while Miss Hunter entered the school of journalism.

Merrit Winners

Scientist Patricia Barth and sprinter Wilma Rudolph have been selected by Mademoiselle Magazine among the "Ten Young Women of the Year" for merit awards for 1960.

Miss Barth's discovery of cancer patterns and Miss Rudolph's unprecedented win of three gold medals at the Olympic Games earned them recognition.

Youth Center To be Erected

Disturbed by the steady increase in juvenile delinquency in Los Angeles County, a Citizens Committee has been formed to aid Paradise Baptist Church in erecting a Youth Center to direct the leisure of all youth in the area of 51st street and S. Broadway avenue.

Rev. A. J. Iverson, the minister of Paradise Baptist Church outlined the need for such a Youth Center at a recent luncheon meeting of business and professional citizens in the Clark Hotel.

Following an hour discussion of the pressing needs for such a Youth Center the group chose Atty. Everette M. Porter, former member of the California Adult Authority as general chairman of the committee and the Honorable Goodwin J. Knight as co-chairman.

The first effort toward raising $50,000, needed for equipment in the Youth Center will be the Citizens Committee Inaugural Banquet in the International Room at the Beverly Hilton Hotel, Tuesday Feb. 21 at 7:30 p.m. ways to save the denomination from long and costly litigation and protect the good name of this part of the Christian church. I hope we can find such a way."

In his letter proposing the peace talks, Taylor said that as Christian ministers each has an obligation to probe prayerfully for a solution to the difficulty. He further suggested that two or three men sharing his and Dr. Jackson's respective views be included in the conference, with unity of the denomination its ultimate goal.

MISSIONARIES NEEDED—Robert Lewis, center, outlines the territory where the need for missionaries is great to Jehovah's Witnesses Sondra Venus and Billy Edwards.

Jehovah's Witnesses Hail Unity of Congregations

Is it possible for people from all nations, kindreds, races and tongues to have one thought on all matters in this divided world? According to Robert Lewis who has recently returned from his missionary assignment in Mississippi, it is not only possible but it is being done right now by Jehovah's Witnesses who may be found in 179 different lands, colonies and islands of the sea. He now serves the Metropolitan Congregation.

"The oneness and togetherness of Jehovah's Witnesses is one that does not exist in any other organization on earth." Lewis said. "By cooperating and working together the Witnesses are teaching people of good-will to have unity of mind and live peaceably wherever they may live. This they do by congregating together, by a study of God's word, the Bible, and by living according to the Divine Will, making them a different, united people in this split-up world."

Walter Dunlap Last Rites to Be Held Sat.

Walter C. Dunlap died late Jan. 9 from complications which developed following surgery for a fractured hip sustained when he fell while taking a shower in the hospital cottage where he had been undergoing treatment for a nervous disorder. He was 74.

For more than 20 years he served as a waiter on the Southern Pacific railroad and was interested in the problems of railroad workers. He was born in Fort Madison, Iowa and had been a resident of Los Angeles for 21 years.

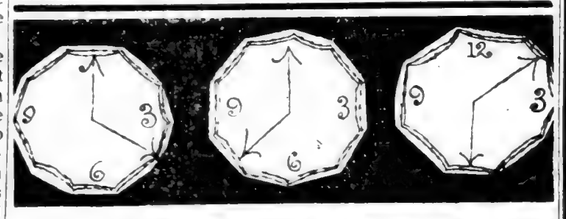
Funeral services will be held in the chapel of the J. S. Williams Funeral Home at 10 a.m. Saturday. Father Llewellyn Williams of St. Thomas Episcopal Church will officiate.

Mr. Dunlap is survived by his widow, Irma Dunlap; his daughter, Mrs. Star Shepherd of Minneapolis; his sister, Mrs. C. Marie Hughes; and brother, Garrett Dunlap and four nieces and a nephew, all of Los Angeles.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.



Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Rev. Martin L. King, Jr. to Meet with Western Ministers

The Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and internationally known civil rights leader, will confer with local ministers on Saturday, Jan. 14, from 1-5 p.m. at Zion Hill Baptist Church, 51st and McKinley avenue.

The conference will bring together ministers from Southern California and representatives from other sections of the state who have been meeting regularly for several months laying the ground work for organization of a Western Christian Leadership Conference. It is anticipated that the Western Christian Leadership group will be formally organized at Saturday's meeting, according to Dr. L. Sylvester Odom, coordinator of the local group.

Dr. Odom stated that all ministers of all denominations are expected to hear Dr. King in his first hand report on the critical conditions in the deep south. It is anticipated that pastors will bring contributions from their churches to assist Dr. King in carrying out the vital work of his leadership group.

Rev. King will speak at the Woodland Hills Methodist Church, on Sunday, Jan. 15.

Attract Support

Dr. King will be the honoree at an informal reception at the Wilfandel Club Saturday evening sponsored by the local conference committee. In commenting on the coming conference, Dr. Odom stated: "It is our hope that the proposed Western Christian Leadership Conference will attract the support of the entire ministry of Southern California, and that this group will be able not only to lend valuable assistance to the Southern Conference but also will be able to help other groups in alleviating the social problems in California and throughout the Western states.

16 to be Baptised At Price Chapel

Baptismal rites for seven converts and nine babies will be conducted at Price Chapel AME Church, 213 E. 43rd street, at 10:45 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 15.

Rev. Jerry W. Ford will preach on "Come Home."

At 7:30 p.m. the Senior Choir, directed by Eugenia Clark, will present a special program around the theme: "Making a New Start."

MOURNED — Mrs. Alice Griffin, 88, mother of Floyd and Larry Lawrence, died Jan. 5.

Alice Griffin's Funeral Held

Mrs. Alice Griffin, 82, 3416 S Budlong, the mother of Floyd and Larry Lawrence, stepped into eternal light on Jan. 5 after years of combating the infirmities which accompany old age. In spite of her years she remained active and interested in current events and her church.

Funeral services were held at the Angelus Funeral Home on Tuesday, Jan. 10, with interment in Evergreen Cemetery. Rev. Frank Bowdan of the Pentecostal Apostolic Faith Church officiated at the service.

Mrs. Griffin was born in Little Rock, Ark., but had lived most of her life in Los Angeles. In addition to her two sons she is survived by a sister, who lives in Chicago.

Doris Akers,

The N. P. Greggs Gospel Choir will present Doris Akers and the Sky Pilot Choir at 3 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 15 at the People's Independent Church, 1025 E. 18th street.

The building fund of the church is expected to receive a boost from the concert.

Handsome vocalist JESS DAVIS is up for an acting role on a popular television show! . . . Over the weekend we checked the new revival of "Carnival Island" out at El Capitan. And it still MOVES on the new premises. But the defects are still there, too! Rather than review it, per se, we will hit on it lightly. The book or plot needs bolstering if they expect a Broadway debut or even a comfortable run here, but let us hastily add that it has a great potential. Mundane in spots, it breaks into boisterous merriment at others. It has the help of ALBERT McNEIL'S choral direction, JIMMY FIELD'S choreography and dancers and a hell-bent and working cast. Castwise, JEAN DURAND, with the bald pate gets top billing, and rightly so. The chap exudes sex and charm, and is enough of an actor to use the proper restraint instead of hamming it the way some of the others are inclined to do. Jean apparently has that particular bone structure that enables him to go bald as a billiard ball, and with or without that gimmick he delivers strongly. He'll get somewhere. You watch! Other notables who contribute heavily are GEORGIA CARR, DELORES PIPER, CARLETON JOHNSON, MAURICE BUCHANAN, CHESTYN EVERETT, JAY LOFTLYNN, FELICIA K. WOOD (a living doll) HOWARD ANDERSON (Rochester's brother, and we think we got his name right) and the GOOD LORD only knows where we put our program although JAY LOFTLIYNN made sure we had at least a couple in our hands before we left the theater . . .

AWILDA THURMOND — Cool coffee cream complexioned clerk in Nat Diamond's Furniture Store with curves to match her pretty looks is heading for the altar!

REDD FOXX—That L. A. to N. Y. telephone call from his West Coast broker had people back stage in the Apollo Theater all shook up. They wouldn't believe the comic when he told them he had hired a broker to handle his wealth. Now they call him the loaded Foxx!

RAY MILLS — Midnighters and early morning commuters have made his Ray's Kitchen just about top spot for the ham-and-egg bit!

RUTH BOWEN—Jets in this week to check up with her client Dinah Washington and also take in the Rinkeydink formal. Her New York agency handles several box office personalities!

JEEP SMITH — Since he left town several months ago leaving wife, daughters and band and hasn't returned,

PIANO ARTISTRY—The lovely and talented GUILDA WILLIAMS opened at the INTERMISSION ROOM, 4370 West Adams boulevard, just east of Crenshaw, for limited engagement but promising some of the most refreshing entertainment our town has heard. Featured at the piano bar, Miss Williams renders all of your favorites in her own pleasing manner.

Baritone To Appear January 21

The great American baritone, William Warfield, who will sing at Philharmonic Auditorium on Saturday, Jan. 21, has truly earned the title of "musical ambassador" for the United States.

For four out of the last eight years, Warfield has toured the world under the auspices of the U. S. State Department. His first tour was as "Porgy" in George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," which was introduced to wildly enthusiastic European audiences in 1952. Again in 1955, Warfield toured Europe as soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Two solo recital tours, made for the State Department in 1956 and 1958, took Warfield around the world many times. He sang in Africa, the Near East and Asia, as well as Europe. Early purchases are suggested.

NEW YORK SCENE

If I sound a little smug and difficult as I scribe this week, you must forgive me because I just got my new 1961 Rambler, and then bid fond farewell and Godspeed to the old faithful Green Hornet, which I was fortunate enough to place in loving hands for its remaining days of driving service. Let us pray!!!

Also there is now only a small bit of finishing touches to the painting of my aunt's apartment to be done, and this labor of stupid volunteering will bite the dust. Amen!!! Thanks to my boy Steve Gonzales for all his kind help and artistry during the painting.

Happy Holidays

Margaret Glanville was the charming hostess at a swinging New Year's Day party at her plush coop apartment on Fifth Avenue. She had delicious egg nog, plenty of alcohol, tasty appetizers, and finally, peas and rice, Brazilian food, roast pork and a swinging home-made cheese cake. Her guests from Philly, Washington, D. C., New Jersey and New York, consisted of lovely ladies and dapper gentlemen, and everyone had a ball

Gordon Making It

WNEW's production supervisor, Bob Hodges, was kind enough to recommend me for a job cutting some Dubonnet Wine commercials, so I had to make some audition tapes with three 'choice' gals, all using French accents; one from Paris, Yvonne Constant, and two local girls, Gretchen Walther and Zelda Sears. I also personally recommended Louise Stubbs and Mary Louise for the job, and they in turn made tapes with some Frenchmen.

Talented Team

The next day I got a call that I had been selected for the job, and later one from Louise Stubbs that she too had been chosen. Next a.m. we both did the jobs for real, as I cut four commercials, two with a most lovely French gal from Tunisia, Danielle Clary, and two with WNEW French dj, Jean Michel, while Louise did three with Jean Michel.

Something New

It was wonderful experience, and nice money, and perhaps Louise and I have begun a new trend which may open horizons for the future.

Big Apple Jumps

Count Basie closed at Birdland, prior to his current stint at the Apollo Theatre, and the closing was a 'gas,' with Frank Sinatra and the Clan

Happy Happenings in the Entertainment Whirl

WE WENT STROLLING—Cameras in hand through some of our favorite spots we found swinging scenes like this everywhere, from the left, at the RENAISSANCE (haven't you been there yet?) vocalist GENE McDANIELS whispers (because Chico Hamilton was on stage) with KATIE REGAN, BUDDY ROBBINS and GINNIE QUINN—at the BIT (wow, it's a coffee house and always crowded) we saw LES McCANN (the ultimate in chitterling jazz) with three queens who each smiled so prettily when we passed that we had to stop and say "hi"; that's FAYDELL JONES? BARBARA BRYANT and ERNESTINE WILLIAMS. . . . When we got to the CLUB TOWN HILL we were too late to hear the joke but got a shot (bourbon and photo) of VERN STEVENSON (top disc jockey and M. C.), CARLTON (N. A. A. C. P.—Attack), RICHARDSON, JIMMY (musician's Uion), CLARK and our host, DOUG STONE. Orchids to Doug and Hugh for opening a really imaginative place. In the rumor stage, CLUB TOWN HILL planning a Gourmet dining room addition. We're in favor of that all the way so reserve us some Lobster Tails. Well, next week we stroll again, see you at your favorite club. (Young photo)

DIG THIS — That gal friend of a local Musician Union official who is trying to worm her way into a social club shouldn't attempt it via the back door. Just make out an application. The group favors Uncle Toms and particularly the kind that fail to fight for better wages!

JUANITA MACKLIN — Exceptional Children's director celebrated with her friends on Xmas day showing them how the Plasterer's Union presented their new unit with a $3,280 job. Monday she was in tears. A drunk motorist smashed into the building and wrecked entire east wing!

EARL GRANT — He is as close to Sammy Davis, Jr., in the running for Mr. Show Business as two and two and the way he upset the plush opening night crowd at the Crescendo last week proved it. During the first show he sported a wild black velvet two button coat, black pants and black patent leather shoes. In his second show he was dapper in a purple velvet coat lined in red satin, lavender pants and moccasin styled shoes!

EASTSIDERS — Merchants and liquor owners are disturbed over the increasing number of robberies and are wondering why Negro officers aren't assigned to the Robbery Detail!

CARDS — They streamed in Xmas, from such wonderful people as Opal Jones, Bob and Virginia Johnson, Claire C. Williams, The Green Bay Packers, Corinne Simmons, Jeri and Robert Woods, Geo. A. THE TEE

WITH MAGGIE HATHAWAY

Now that we have finished one of our hardest integration fights in Hollywood it is nice to get back to the "Tee," so come and take a trip with us to the famous $50,000 L.A. Open held at Rancho Golf Course.

The first day was Pro-Celebrity Day and we went straight to the 7th hole to watch Bob Hope, who was drawing one of the largest galleries. Bob hit a terrific tee shot straight down the middle of the fairway and scored a par on the hole but we noticed his caddy was packing his bag. When we asked why Bob was not going to play any longer the caddy said that Bob was ill and thought he had better quit.

We caught Mickey Rooney on the 16th hole and watched him out-drive some of the pros. We would be willing to bet that Mickey can get as much distance as Ben Hogan. On the 18th hole Mickey quit because he could not get a shot which he had hooked out of the trees.

The next three days we spent following Charlie Sifford and Ray Boots, our two Negro professionals. (We don't know why more did not attempt to qualify.) Charlie did not have to qualify because the PGA officials exempted him.

We arrived at the Rancho club house at noon and were told that the weekly press had to park on Motor Ave. on a lot that was set aside for them. After parking, a shuttle bus picked us up and carried us to the golf course. When we entered the press room there was a Negro sheriff on the door and he informed us that the reason we had to park so far away was because they only had 125 parking spaces and 125 players had registered for those spots.

We were given a lovely desk and we were served ham sandwiches, sunkist orange juice, coffee, beer, "Cokes" and pie. There were 50 top sports reporters (I sat next to Sid Ziff of The Mirror), 40 typewriters, 40 phones and two TV sets. Every time we would return to the press room after walking 18 holes, most of the reporters would ask, "Did you see anything exciting?" "Any one trampled on yet?" There were 10,500 spectators and the Junior Chamber must be complimented for handling them so expertly; not one spectator was injured.

Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla. won the top money ($7500). He shot 67-70-71-67. Charles Sifford shot 70-69-73-70 to take sixth place which netted him $900.

The last two days of the tournament Sifford's gallery consisted of 500 fans mostly Negroes. We have never seen him putt so well. We couldn't help noticing that there were three doctors following Sifford. Dr. Wells Forde, Beal and Bailey. Sifford's Atty. Herman English along with Mrs. Sifford and Charlie Jr. were also in the crowd. We later saw Atty. English take a few shots at the "hole in one" for $1000 and his ball landed a few inches inside the "glorified circle".

The Junior Chamber will not sponsor the LA Open next year because the national PGA tournament will be played in Los Angeles. We were informed that this tournament will be played on a private course. Question for the Atty. General —"Is PGA going to allow our Negro professionals to participate in its California tournament?"

Pro-Bowlers Drill

Probably the two greatest football teams ever assembled for one game launch practice this weekend for the Eleventh annual All-Star Pro Bowl game scheduled Sunday, Jan. 15, at the Los Angeles Coliseum with the kickoff at 1 p.m.

The Eastern Conference squad under the guidance of canny Buck Shaw, who will be coaching his farewell game, will drill at Southern Cal's Bovard Field, while the West, under Vince Lombardi, will work out at Wrigley Field.

First practices are set for Saturday afternoon with twice-a-day drills commencing Sunday morning.

The game has oodles of angles. No 1, of course, for Lombardi and his eight Green Bay Packers on the West squad will be revenge on Shaw and his eight Eagles for the 17-13 victory Philadelphia scored in the recent World Championship thriller.

Also, Norm Van Brocklin, the Mr. Everything of pro football this season, will be playing his final game in the stadium where he launched his pro career as a Ram in 1949.

While Shaw has not announced his starting backfield, the betting is that John Crow of the Cardinals, Tommy McDonald of the Eagles and Jim Brown of the Browns will open with Van Brocklin.

Lombardi is expected to go with Johnny Unitas of the Colts at quarterback. Paul Hornung of the Packers and Lenny Moore of the Colts as halfbacks and Packer Jim Taylor at fullback.

Bruins, Trojans Cage Teams Tangle

UCLA is nearing the midway point of the current basketball season and the jury is still out on the Bruins. Is this one of John Wooden's top teams, a team of championship potential? Or is it a team which blows hot and cold, especially in the shooting department?

The answers could be supplied this weekend (Jan. 13-14) when the question-mark Bruins and SC's high-flying Trojans host two more doubleheaders in the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

On Friday, the Bruins face Arizona's Wildcats, always a Border Conference cage power, at 7 p.m. while the Trojans take on Washington's Huskies in an important Big Five clash at 9 o'clock. Then, the next night, SC and Washington go at it again in the opener and UCLA battles California's aroused Bears, who were soundly defeated twice by the Trojans at Berkeley last week, in the nightcap.

Off the opening weekend of conference play, the Trojans are now the team to catch. The Bruins, who split their two-game series at Seattle, are rated even with California and Stanford, which was idle last week, as the dark-horse entries in the early running.

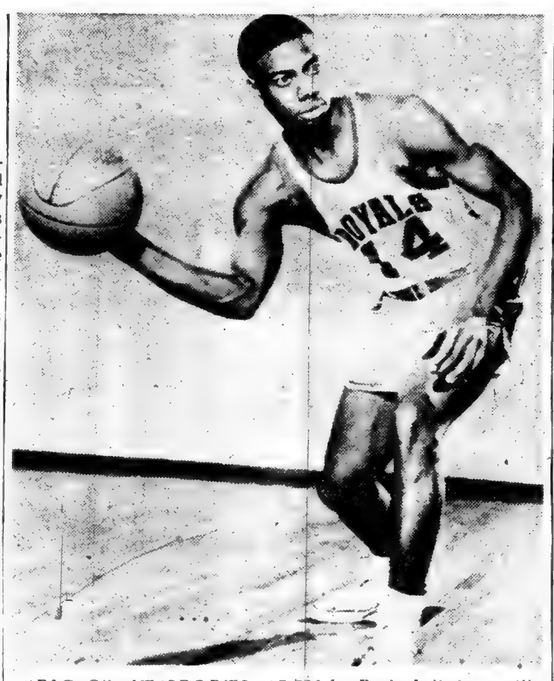
Apache Senior Is Voted Team's Top Cage Player

Coach Ted Berner of Centennial Senior High School has announced that Roy Walker, a senior student, has been voted the most outstanding defensive player on the school's varsity basketball team.

Playing in the Kiwani's Third Annual Invitational Basketball Tournament in San Bernadino recently, Walker broke the tournament rebound record of 68, and won the All-Tournament Trophy as one of the five outstanding players of the three-game session.

The Apaches, having defeated Riverside Poly 52-42, and Redlands, 58-56, were barely eased out of first place by Antelope Valley, who eked out a 43-42 score in the final tournament game, leaving Centennial as second place trophy winners. However, the Apaches upheld a long-standing tradition of the school, and again brought home the sportsmanship trophy.

Walker, an outstanding scholar as well as an athlete,



National Hockey League Boasts First Tan Player

Southern California sports fans may get a chance to see Willie O'Ree, the first Negro to play in the National Hockey League, who made his debut with the Boston Bruins in Chicago last December. A native of Fredericktonf New Brunswick, he appeared in a game against the Chicago Black Hawks and commanded considerable attention for his play at left and right wing.

O'Ree, while playing with Hull-Ottawa of the Eastern Pro League, scored 15 goals and 10 assists.

Jack Dempsey, who successfully sponsored two meetings last September between the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Boston Bruins at the Sports Arena, will bring the Cleveland Barons and the Vancouver "Canucks" hockey clubs here for games on Feb. 1 and 2.

The clubs are tops in their leagues, the West Coast and American Ice Hockey Leagues, respectively.

"BIG O" AT SPORTS ARENA—Basketball fans will be seeing the two best basketball players in the world in the same game this Saturday and Sunday.

Big 'O' Leads Royals Against Lakers Saturday

The National Baasketball Assn. has never been labeled a "rookie's paradise."

Not many of them have been able to stand up under the "initiation." In recent years, however, there's been one each time who's made it big. Real big.

Two seasons ago it was the Lakers' Elgin Baylor. Last season it was Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain of the Philadelphia Warriors. It's no mystery who the big guy is this time.

Of course, it's the "Big O."

His effect on the NBA was heard like an explosion in Cincinnati and felt like one in other cities of the league.

The "Big O" is really Oscar Robertson and he is expected to detonate in the seventh NBA city — Los Angeles — Saturday morning (Jan. 14) at the Sports Arena when he makes his local debut with the Cincinnati Royals.

And if he doesn't blow the roof off the Arena Saturday he gets a second opportunity Sunday night.

Abe Saperstein's thirty-fourth annual edition of Globetrotters shapes up as one of the greatest in the series of wonder squads that have thrilled 72 countries on six continents with amazing ability and hilarious byplay. Two brilliant newcomers have been added to the stellar array of veterans in Govoner Vaughn, a great star from the University of Illinois, and Frank Burks from the University of Wisconsin.

They have fitted in most admirably into a unit already comprising the peerless Meadowlark Lemon, comedian supreme; Murphy Summons, the dribbling marvel; set shot wonder and captain, Clarence Wilson; six foot eight inch Joe Buckhalter, and the other crack holdover specialists, Charles ("Tex") Harrison, Jackie Fitzpatrick and Ernest Wagner.

Vaughn came to the Trotters after three brilliant seasons at Illinois, where ihs total of 1,001 points made him the third highest scorer in the school's history. He led the Illini in scoring last season with 411 tallies for a 17.9 and ranked fourth nationally in best free throw percentages. Govoner, who gained much all-star recognition, hails from Edwardsville, Ill., where he paced the high school to state runner-up laurels in 1956.

Like Vaughn, Burks was a prep phenom, scoring nearly half his Wells High School team's points in Chicago competition, setting several scoring records and being named all-state. Games are scheduled Jan. 29 and Feb. 5 at Sports Arena.

Royal Social and Charity Club Entertains One Thousand Guests at Annual Formal Ball

By WINI ORR

Bowing before a near one thousand guests, the Royal Social and Charity Club entertained recently at the Mayflower Ballroom in Inglewood.

The Royals were organized eight years ago and enjoy an active annual calendar of events. The club long ago adopted the Foundation for the Junior Blind as its annual charity endeavor to which they contribute.

The ladies chose white as the color for their gowns, although the fabrics were varied. Some chose satin beaded with seed pearls, others peau de soie and still others rich brocade.

The president, Arizola Bell, was elegant in an ice blue brocaded sheath with matching pumps.

Most of the gowns followed the same pattern which was in the regal manner of sheathed skirts in front with full overlaying train from the waist in the back, dropping just inches below the hemline. The fitted bodice with spaghetti straps was highlighted with the club's colors in a yellow rose corsage with royal blue ribbon. The ladies wore royal blue slippers and white gloves.

As a token of their esteem, the club presented its president with a gift.

Introduced by Wini Orr, club and social coordinator, the members bowed as follows: Peacola Williams, Nadine Fairley, Eunice Parker, and Martha Dickerson.

Officers are: Trudie Whickham, sick and condolence; Ora Townsend, parliamentarian; Mamie Heath, critic; Maggie Possey, social hostess; Cleo Bradley, reporter; Ann Jackson, sergeant-at-arms; Johnie Mae Ford, business manager; Hattie Newboy, treasurer; Lillian Baty, financial secretary; Bessie Myers, corresponding secretary; Bernice Young, recording secretary; Celeste King, vice president; and Arizola Bell, president.

Two of the members who were unable to attend the dance due to illness were Ora Townsend and Celeste King.

Doll League Club Seats Officers

New officers of the popular Doll League Club Inc., were installed by Atty. Frank LaVigne in the beautiful West 20th street home of club member Nellie Brown last Saturday night in a very gay atmosphere.

This year's president is personable Lulu Bendy, charter member of the Doll League, and she announced that she and her officers, as well as the members, will be striving to make their forthcoming social events much more interesting and impressive. Extensive work and thought will be given particularly to the group's annual Christmas party and their winter formal at which time they request their guests to bring dolls and toys to be given underprivileged children.

Realizing the fact that to get the best possible toys and dolls for some 2500 children isn't going to be an easy task, club members elected suce officers as Euvalda Morris, Ruth Ball, Helen Smith, Emma Adams, Faye Wagner, Gladyce Clarke and Fannie De Mann to assist Mrs. Bendy.

AKA Sorority Slates Annual Benefit Affair

Members of the graduate chapter of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority are enthusiastically making plans for their annual benefit subscription, Fantasia Americana, to be held at the International Room of the Beverly Hilton Hotel on Friday, March 10.

Derotha Allen and Norma Earles are co-chairmen for this year's event and plans have been made for "something new." This year's affair will have a Latin American theme and promises to be the most fabulous affair held, beginning with the invitations that will soon be in the mail. Invitations are limited to the seating capacity of the hotel and recipients are urged to accept their bids early.

Proceeds from this affair will be used to further the Health project, which is concentrating on Sickle Cell; scholarships, and other community services.

Income Tax Class

Dorsey Adult School announced a class in Income Tax to begin Tuesday, Jan. 17. The class will meet for 10 weeks from 7 to 9:30 p.m. 9:30 p.m.

Les Petites Officers Installed

Les Petite Femmes held their annual Installation Party at the lovely home of their treasurer, Mrs. Bonzell Chouteau, 1712 E. 124th street.

The 1961 officers installed by Mr. Kenneth Terrell are: President, Mrs. Althena Townsend; vice president, Mrs. Evelyn Byrd; treasurer, Mrs. Bonzell Choteau; secretary, Mrs. Bernice Hilson; business manager, Mrs. Patricia M. Elmore and chaplain, Miss Marjorie Fraiser.

The very simple installation service delivered by Mr. Terrell was attended by the other members of the club: Mrs. Berle Wilson, Mrs. Rita Jean Wright and Mrs. Harriet Terrell; and guests. Highlighting the ceremonies was the surprise champagne communion of appreciation and greetings to outgoing president, Mrs. Evelyn Byrd.

Mrs. Townsend paid tribute to the outgoing president thanking her in behalf of the club's past activities, which are known to the Los Angeles scene by many. She promises to do her best to fulfill the office duties of the office just vacated with all the vital interest, and verve she possesses in furthering the club's steady growth for 1961.

A lovely table was spread and everyone enjoyed the evenings entertainment.

Ottawa Visitors Arrive in City

Mrs. Hardiman Cureton, nee Pat Flowers, and young sons, Hardy Jr. and Karl, arrived from Ottawa, Canada last week. Mrs. Cureton is stopping with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Flowers.

Both Pat and Hardy Jr., will participate in the Hoskins, Wilkins wedding scheduled for February.

EN ROUTE TO SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA—Shown stopping over briefly at the Los Angeles Airport last week is Mrs. Ella Stewart, of Toledo, Ohio, second from left. She is the former president of the National Association of Colored Women and is en route to attend a conference in Australia. She is the only Negro Woman delegate from this country and will also visit many other foreign countries. She was greeted by Mrs. Ernestine Holloway, left, and Mrs. Retha Beck who is shown welcoming Mrs. Fred Taylor, Mrs. Stewart's traveling companion. (American Airlines Photo.)

Tempelite Club Feted with Party

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Thomas' beautiful south Los Angeles home at 2351 East 119th street was brightly decorated when they entertained members of the Tempelite Club during the holidays.

Secret pals were revealed, greetings were exchanged and visitors introduced.

James R. Villareal, president of the club, acted as master of ceremonies for the evening. The hostess served a delicious turkey dinner.

Debuteers Club Maps Plans

Willie Gandy, president of the Sir Debuteers Social Club, presided over the group's first meeting of the New Year last Sunday in his suburban home in South Los Angeles.

The meeting was highlighted with many important events which the club will participate in during the year in addition to their regular events, which includes their annual Spring Frolic. Informally, they listed four times they will hold getacquainted parties and perhaps the biggest event coming up soon is the opening of their new Social Club at 89th and Avalon.

The club has a spacious patio and will be opened to the public some time next month. It has been completely remodeled inside and out. Tentative plans call for an elaborate invitational to all club officials at which time Walter Goodloe, public relations and promotion director for Sterling Liquors, will be asked to serve as host and introduce the Sir Debuteers and tell plans of the new club.

The Sir Debuteers' first big public dance will be held some time in July and they expect to announce a sensational attraction for the occasion.

ANNUAL BENEFIT SUBSCRIPTION—Members of the Ways and Means Committee of AKA Sorority are ready to receive reservations for the Fantasia Americana. Sorors Norma Earles, Derotha Allen, co-chairman of the affair, and Janie Johnson, Inez Brown, reservations, are discussing seating arrangements. (Adams).

Luggage Shower Attended by 75

More than seventy-five smartly dressed young ladies were guests of Mrs. Bessie Burke and Mrs. Ethel Bruington on Sunday morning at a breakfast luggage shower held at the Wilfandel Club House, honoring Miss Sandra Hoskins.

The popular bride-elect Miss Hoskins and Mr. Alonzo Wilkins III are scheduled to wed on Feb. 11.

Among those attending were Mrs. Aurora Hoskins, bride's to be mother; Mrs. Bernice Arbor, mother of the groom to be. Also Mesdames Inez Roberson, Teresa Daniels, Patricia Cureton, Patsy Watson, Jackie Grant, Karleen Downs, Brenda Moore and Sandra Speights.

Dorothea Foster

Darling Dotie who usually pens this interesting and informative column weekly has requested a leave of absence since family duties are now demanding all her time. However, Dottie will always share a warm spot in our hearts here at the Eagle and the welcome back sign will always be hung for her return.

OUR GUEST

Winsome Wini Orr, who turned out her first social column way back when the U-Car ambled noisily down Central avenue and when Western avenue was known as "way across town," has never gotten for away from the social end of things in this fast growing city of ours. Despite the fact that the Westside, Compton, Pasadena, Santa Monica and Venice have outgrown the Eastside, she has the uncanny ability of keeping her finger on social happenings, as any good newspaper woman would—Editor.

Like an Old Shoe

Guest writing for the Eagle is like looking through your closet and finding an old pair of shoes that not only fits as well as ever, but feels so good.

The year 1961 is getting off to a rollicking start with half the population on liquid 900 diets; apprehension and anticipation at the coming inaugural; speculation as to the outcome of the Cuban situation (and I have a REAL curiosity where this question is concerned as my one and only off-spring is stationed at Guantanamo Base).

And How They Fly

But, as the saying goes: "Life goes on." There's turmoil a-plenty in one household what with CRAIG JANUARY preparing to take off for the Dodger training camp in Florida; brother JOHN packing on the other couch getting ready for his scholastic invasion of Mexico; and mother, PORTIA CRAIG, shopping like mad in her haste to plane out on the 17th for Washington, D.C. and the Presidential Inauguration of John F. Kennedy and the accompanying festivities.

— First lady of journalism in our town, CHARLOTTA A. BASS due home any minute from her trip to Mexico City. ANN MALBROUGH who, with son KEVIN and sister WILMA WILLIAMS flew home for a family re-union in Tennessee, rushing into town just in time to get changed for her Rinkeydink Club Dance.

— JOE MALBROUGH who stayed home to tend the store busy getting the gowns ready for the usual spectacular appearance of the club. Incidently, he has an idea that will soon be put into practice, namely, renting gowns of a uniform color to clubs. He plans to feature several styles and of course vary them frequently. Should certainly relieve some who can't stand the tariff on the kind you have to take with you.

— Speaking of ideas, that's no idea the JEEP SMITH band has, but cold business since Jeep has turned over the Jeepsters to the direction of MARTIN "FUZZY" GOWER; they are as swinging as ever.

— Glimpsed LADY CLAIRE WILLIAMS, JUANITA GREEN and ALICE CREECY of the Ladies of Paradise Club enjoying the Royal Social and Charity Club Dance at the Mayflower.

— Fun chatting with GLADYS and GENERAL WOODS whom I hadn't had the pleasure of seeing in ages.

— BEA DEVAUGHN making progress like crazy after her long siege of illness and grateful to so many of her friends that she hasn't been able to thank personally. Bea says she will never be able to show her heartfelt gratitude and appreciation to all of her friends who made a long and painful convalescence almost a pleasure.

EUGENE KNOX making his plans to drive to New Orleans for Mardi Gras, and enplane from there to Columbus, Ohio to visit his family. BILLY PARKER and KELSO BARBOUR making many a cup of tea a real event as the tea gets cold and the conversation warmer.

As we go to press I have no choice but to comment on the University of Georgia. Closing the doors will not close the education gates for the Negro, because it looks like he is here to stay. But it seems they would realize so many of their own are being deprived of that which is so important: a little book learning.

Sunday night at the fireside and through the medium of TV and the courtesy of the General Electric Theatre, SAMMY DAVIS, JR. in "Memory In White" with the apropos remark of RONALD REAGAN, a memorable portrait. Just wish they could have chosen a different title, or was it a timely one?

How are we to forget — MABEL JONES, one of the truly fine fashion commentators battling like a champ an illness that has her medics baffled.

Lest I forget to mention it, I am now a staff writer for the new monthly publication "Angel City," a neat little mag of our city and folks.

Christmas trees down, lights out, gifts packed away — all indicative that the holidays are over and so back to normal.

LIBBY CLARK driving her new little compact car into the new year. Carnival Island moved to Hollywood and I do wish the cast success. In case you hadn't heard, this is the fast moving musical that Nick and Edna Stewart wrote and which started in their Ebony Showcase only to be thought to be bigger than the small house.

Best of luck to you all in '61.

National Drifters, Inc. Grants L.A. Group Charter

Among the Southland's newest organizations to announce their program for the 1961 season are the Drifters, Inc., Los Angeles Chapter. Following the National convention of Drifters, Inc., held in Indianapolis in 1959, permission was granted to members to organize a local chapter.

In October, Betty Garrett of Indianapolis installed the chapter in this area. Other new West Coast chapters to be installed were in the Bay Area, including San Francisco, Oakland, and Berkeley.

The civic-minded Drifters are life members of the NAACP and the Urban League and their charity projects are designed to support those who have the most need in their communities.

The home of Juel Collins was the setting of the group's last monthly meeting which was presided over by their president, charming Edwina Holloman.

The president, along with Margaret Love, held a conference with representatives of the California Eagle to explore the best possible methods of serving the community.

Funds to be raised for projects selected by the group will come from an elaborate rummage sale to be announced at a later date.

Keystone in Second Year

Members of the Golden Keystone Club celebrated their second year with a lavish holiday party in the home of William and Mary Hostin on West Pico. The club members are former residents of Pittsburgh, Pr., and the party and the celebration was attended by wives and friends of the club.

The group has been working closely with the 28th street YMCA and has participated financially in the campers program.

At a recent meeting of the group and under their president Joe Walker all members have pledged their full support to charities which the club selects as projects during 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Hostin proved to be a delightful host and hostess to the second annual affair as the club and their guests enjoyed cocktails, buffet and dancing throughout the evening and they ushered in the New year on a festive note.

Slates Classes

The YWCA-Woodlawn Center is offering a series of classes to adults in Charm, Crochet and Knitting, Dramatics, Dressmaking, Modern Dancing and Draperies and Slipcovers.

Fans of Gaiety Hold First Meet

Beatrice Moman was hostess to the first meeting of the 1961 season last Sunday when the Fans of Gaiety Club met in her home. This marks the last meeting before the group's annual election.

Mrs. Moman, in addition to serving a wonderful Spanish dinner following the meeting, was declared winner of the club's prize which was a canned ham.

Before the close of the 1960 season the Mary Ann Bayliss home was the scene of the group's annual holiday party at which time they exchanged gifts.

Guests attending the meeting at the home of Mrs. Moman included husbands and friends of the members. The only member absent for the meeting was Jeanett Collery, because of illness.

More, Anon

S'Diego's Al Montgomery and wife, Kay, weekended in town, put up sumptuously at the Statler. They have some merry plans for the next fort-night or so which should be delightfully provocative; some of their local cronies will dash down to S'Diego to take part but gladly. Of it all, more anon.

Drew Medical Auxiliary in Regular Meet

The Women's Auxiliary to the Charles Drew Medical Society held its regular monthly meeting last Saturday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. George Sealey, with Mrs. Zrelda Sealey and Mrs. Winifred Toney as hostesses.

Mrs. Irene Bledsoe, Health Chairman who worked with Mental Health, Polio and Los Angeles Tuberculosis Societies during the holiday season, gave an interesting report on the project and cheer the group brought to many patients during the Yuletide season.

Several new members who recently took up residence in the city were present to join the Auxiliary. The new members and their husbands were guests of the society. They included Mrs. Ann Bobo and Mrs. Joyce Bobo, wives of two brothers, both physicians.

Mrs. Lillian Alexander, widow of a physician from New Jersey and former president of the National Medical Association's Women's Auxiliary, spoke to the group.

All of the new members were officially welcomed by the Auxiliary and following the meeting the members and their guests enjoyed a delightful social hour.

Westside Society Schedules Meeting

Mrs. Leo L. Lott, president of the Westside Benevolent Society, announced that the group's first meeting for the New Year is scheduled for Jan. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Bethel AME Church. Members are urged to attend and bring a friend. The church is located at 1511 W. 36th street.

CENTENNIAL

Centennial Senior High School's debate squad, under the direction of Mrs. Maple Cornwell, has been invited by the University of Southern California to its 25th Annual Invitational High School Forensic Tournament, to be held Friday and Saturday, Jan. 13 and 14, at the Bovard Auditorium.

Representing the Apaches as championship debaters in Friday's session are James Page, Clarence Broussard, Larry Moss and Ira Hawkins.

"On Saturday, 12 of our 50 forensic people have been invited to represent Centennial, because of their outstanding tournament record," Mrs. Cornwell stated.

Those featured in Saturday's event will include: Clarence Broussard and Katie Smith as extemporaneous speakers, Larry Moss, Allen Gantt and Margaret Higgins in impromptu speaking, and Emily Blake, James Page and Vivian Clark in oratory. Suzie Claude will represent the school in dramatic interpretation, Jerome Ferrell in humorous speaking, and Robert Warren, Ira Hawkins and Gloria Foley will compete in oratorical interpretation.

GOMPERS

Gompers Junior High School is presenting its Winter '61 Father-Son Night on Thursday evening, Jan. 19. The program will take place in the Activity Room from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The activity-packed evening starts at 6:30 p.m. with a round robin volleyball tournament featuring four teams. The teams will consist of fathers, faculty men, A9 boys, and an All-Star team. Each team will play each other once. Fathers are urged to participate.

A social period will follow at 7:30 p.m. during which refreshments will be on sale. Apple pie a la mode, coffee or milk will be available. The Gompers Junior High School Swing Band will play for the entertainment of the group.

HOOPER AVENUE

Hooper Avenue P.T.A. Child Welfare Chairman Mrs. Otis Pearson and Co-Chairman, Mrs. James Matthews, reported on their Christmas program which many families in the community enjoyed during the holidays.

The Executive Board reported that all the children attending Hooper received gifts, fruit and nuts. In addition each room held parties with mothers assisting the teachers.

Mrs. Hugh Howell, P.T.A. president, attended the recent Parliamentary and President Workshop at the Southeast Health Center at 49th and Avalon. She also, along with members, attended the Fremont Council meeting at Russell Elementary School.

Parents are being urged to support the Hooper Ave. P.T.A.

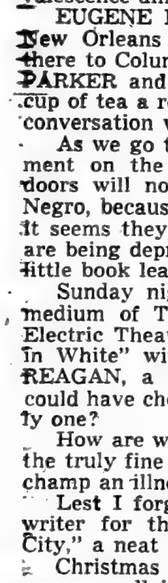
Bridge Club Installs New Club Officers

The Rainbow Bridge and Charity Club had its first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. Juanita Jackson. Officers for the year are; President, Leona Powell; vice president, Elizabeth Johnson; treasurer, Alberta Boone; recording secretary, Wallacesteen Gilmore; financial secretary, Leona Walton; business manager, Jewel Rawls; corresponding secretary, Ruby Clarke; reporter, Henrietta Capers; parliamentarian, Louise Horne; sergeant-at-arms, Juanita Jackson; social hostesses, Paline Knight, Mattie Mc Calibb and Beatrice Williams.



Honorary members are Gertrude Dailey, Maxine Reed and Mariam Canty. Members on leave of absence, Robbie Wilder.

Beautiful trophies were presented to Mrs. Gilmore and Mrs. Johnson by the club for outstanding work in furthering the high goals that made it possible for this club to triple its giving to charity this year.

Plans are in the making for the May Festival. Bridge was played.

Wilton Demos Meet

Wilton Place Democratic Club members attended a special meeting last Monday, in the home of Mrs. Gussie Kizzie, 3509 Country Club Drive. Plans were announced for the installation dinner and appointments of committee chairmen and representatives were made.

Dorothea Foster

Darling Dotie who usually pens this interesting and informative column weekly has requested a leave of absence since family duties are now demanding all her time. However, Dottie will always share a warm spot in our hearts here at the Eagle and the welcome back sign will always be hung for her return.

OUR GUEST

Winsome Wini Orr, who turned out her first social column way back when the U-Chr ambled noisily down Central avenue and when Western avenue was known as "way across town," has never gotten far away from the social end of things in this fast growing city of ours. Despite the fact that the Westside, Compton, Pasadena, Santa Monica and Venice have outgrown the Eastside, she has the uncanny ability of keeping her finger on social happenings, as any good newspaper woman would—Editor.

Like an Old Shoe

Guest writing for the Eagle is like looking through your closet and finding an old pair of shoes that not only fits as well as ever, but feels so good.

The year 1961 is getting off to a rollicking start with half the population on liquid 900 diets; apprehension and anticipation at the coming inaugural; speculation as to the outcome of the Cuban situation (and I have a REAL curiosity where this question is concerned as my one and only off-spring is stationed at Guantanamo Base).

And How They Fly

But, as the saying goes: "Life goes on." There's turmoil a-plenty in one household what with CRAIG JANUARY preparing to take off for the Dodger training camp in Florida; brother JOHN packing on the other couch getting ready for his scholastic invasion of Mexico; and mother, PORTIA CRAIG, shopping like mad in her haste to plane out on the 17th for Washington, D.C. and the Presidential Inauguration of John F. Kennedy and the accompanying festivities.

— First lady of journalism in our town, CHARLOTTA A. BASS due home any minute from her trip to Mexico City. ANN MALBROUGH who, with son KEVIN and sister WILMA WILLIAMS flew home for a family re-union in Tennessee, rushing into town just in time to get changed for her Rinkeydink Club Dance.

— JOE MALBROUGH who stayed home to tend the store busy getting the gowns ready for the usual spectacular appearance of the club. Incidently, he has an idea that will soon be put into practice, namely, renting gowns of a uniform color to clubs. He plans to feature several styles and of course vary them frequently. Should certainly relieve some who can't stand the tariff on the kind you have to take with you.

— Speaking of ideas, that's no idea the JEEP SMITH band has, but cold business since Jeep has turned over the Jeepsters to the direction of MARTIN "FUZZY" GOWER; they are as swinging as ever.

— Glimpsed LADY CLAIRE WILLIAMS, JUANITA GREEN and ALICE CREECY of the Ladies of Paradise Club enjoying the Royal Social and Charity Club Dance at the Mayflower.

— Fun chatting with GLADYS and GENERAL WOODS whom I hadn't had the pleasure of seeing in ages.

— BEA DEVAUGHN making progress like crazy after her long siege of illness and grateful to so many of her friends that she hasn't been able to thank personally. Bea says she will never be able to show her heartfelt gratitude and appreciation to all of her friends who made a long and painful convalescence almost a pleasure.

EUGENE KNOX making his plans to drive to New Orleans for Mardi Gras, and enplane from there to Columbus, Ohio to visit his family. BILLY PARKER and KELSO BARBOUR making many a cup of tea a real event as the tea gets cold and the conversation warmer.

As we go to press I have no choice but to comment on the University of Georgia. Closing the doors will not close the education gates for the Negro, because it looks like he is here to stay. But it seems they would realize so many of their own are being deprived of that which is so important: a little book learning.

Sunday night at the fireside and through the medium of TV and the courtesy of the General Electric Theatre, SAMMY DAVIS, JR. in "Memory In White" with the apropos remark of RONALD REAGAN, a memorable portrait. Just wish they could have chosen a different title, or was it a timely one?

How are we to forget — MABEL JONES, one of the truly fine fashion commentators battling like a champ an illness that has her medics baffled.

Lest I forget to mention it, I am now a staff writer for the new monthly publication "Angel City," a neat little mag of our city and folks.

Christmas trees down, lights out, gifts packed away — all indicative that the holidays are over and so back to normal.

LIBBY CLARK driving her new little compact car into the new year. Carnival Island moved to Hollywood and I do wish the cast success. In case you hadn't heard, this is the fast moving musical that Nick and Edna Stewart wrote and which started in their Ebony Showcase only to be thought to be bigger than the small house.

Best of luck to you all in '61.

National Drifters, Inc. Grants L.A. Group Charter

Among the Southland's newest organizations to announce their program for the 1961 season are the Drifters, Inc., Los Angeles Chapter. Following the National convention of Drifters, Inc., held in Indianapolis in 1959, permission was granted to members to organize a local chapter.

In October, Betty Garrett of Indianapolis installed the chapter in this area. Other new West Coast chapters to be installed were in the Bay Area, including San Francisco, Oakland, and Berkeley.

The civic-minded Drifters are life members of the NAACP and the Urban League and their charity projects are designed to support those who have the most need in their communities.

The home of Juel Collins was the setting of the group's last monthly meeting which was presided over by their president, charming Edwina Holloman.

The president, along with Margaret Love, held a conference with representatives of the California Eagle to explore the best possible methods of serving the community.

Funds to be raised for projects selected by the group will come from an elaborate rummage sale to be announced at a later date.

Keystone in Second Year

Members of the Golden Keystone Club celebrated their second year with a lavish holiday party in the home of William and Mary Hostin on West Pico. The club members are former residents of Pittsburgh, Pr., and the party and the celebration was attended by wives and friends of the club.

The group has been working closely with the 28th street YMCA and has participated financially in the campers program.

At a recent meeting of the group and under their president Joe Walker all members have pledged their full support to charities which the club selects as projects during 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Hostin proved to be a delightful host and hostess to the second annual affair as the club and their guests enjoyed cocktails, buffet and dancing throughout the evening and they ushered in the New year on a festive note.

Slates Classes

The YWCA-Woodlawn Center is offering a series of classes to adults in Charm, Crochet and Knitting, Dramatics, Dressmaking, Modern Dancing and Draperies and Slipcovers.

Fans of Gaiety Hold First Meet

Beatrice Moman was hostess to the first meeting of the 1961 season last Sunday when the Fans of Gaiety Club met in her home. This marks the last meeting before the group's annual election.

Mrs. Moman, in addition to serving a wonderful Spanish dinner following the meeting, was declared winner of the club's prize which was a canned ham.

Before the close of the 1960 season the Mary Ann Bayliss home was the scene of the group's annual holiday party at which time they exchanged gifts.

Guests attending the meeting at the home of Mrs. Moman included husbands and friends of the members. The only member absent for the meeting was Jeanett Collery, because of illness.

(Inez). Alpha Phi Zeta Chapter of Zeta Phi Beta met Sat. as Esther Muldrew, Margaret Rainey, Irma Richardson and Mary Rollins enacted roles as hostesses. This Sat. is Founder's Day luncheon time for the Zetas at an intimate restaurant out La Cienega way. Speaker will be soror Rosalind Meeks. Leontyne King: And thanks to you, especially.

More, Anon

S'Diego's Al Montgomery and wife, Kay, weekended in town, put up sumptuously at the Statler. They have some merry plans for the next fort-night or so which should be delightfully provocative; some of their local cronies will dash down to S'Diego to take part but gladly. Of it all, more anon.

IA to Chi: Opal Jones, whose address while there will be Hull House. Mil Blount could have well used seven league boots last Sat. With friends she attended a matinee of Raisin In The Sun, swished on to BevHills for cocktails, dined at Dave Chasen's THEN made the curtain for A Lie Is A Century Long! Some anxious moments over at Tess and Gil Lindsay's; her mother has been quite ill these past few days or more.

Tall, lean Bernie Harper in town for seven weeks of nonchalance. Last time I saw him (at an astonishing party) his entrance got such a thunderous ovation I thought for an instant he'd arrived with the U.S. Cavalry. Owner of a well cushioned checking account, Bernie maintains the effete look and on him it looks darn good. Freda and Rene DeKnight were in town very briefly enroute to Honolulu.

Westside Society Schedules Meeting

Mrs. Leo L. Lott, president of the Westside Benevolent Society, announced that the group's first meeting for the New Year is scheduled for Jan. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Bethel AME Church. Members are urged to attend and bring a friend. The church is located at 1511 W. 36th street.

CENTENNIAL

Centennial Senior High School's debate squad, under the direction of Mrs. Maple Cornwell, has been invited by the University of Southern California to its 25th Annual Invitational High School Forensic Tournament, to be held Friday and Saturday, Jan. 13 and 14, at the Bovard Auditorium.

Representing the Apaches as championship debaters in Friday's session are James Page, Clarence Broussard, Larry Moss and Ira Hawkins.

"On Saturday, 12 of our 50 forensic people have been invited to represent Centennial, because of their outstanding tournament record," Mrs. Cornwell stated.

Those featured in Saturday's event will include: Clarence Broussard and Katie Smith as extemporaneous speakers, Larry Moss, Allen Gantt and Margaret Higgins in impromptu speaking, and Emily Blake, James Page and Vivian Clark in oratory. Suzie Claude will represent the school in dramatic interpretation, Jerome Ferrell in humorous speaking, and Robert Warren, Ira Hawkins and Gloria Foley will compete in oratorical interpretation.

GOMPERS

Gompers Junior High School is presenting its Winter '61 Father-Son Night on Thursday evening, Jan. 19. The program will take place in the Activity Room from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The activity-packed evening starts at 6:30 p.m. with a round robin volleyball tournament featuring four teams. The teams will consist of fathers, faculty men, A9 boys, and an All-Star team. Each team will play each other once. Fathers are urged to participate.

A social period will follow at 7:30 p.m. during which refreshments will be on sale. Apple pie a la mode, coffee or milk will be available. The Gompers Junior High School Swing Band will play for the entertainment of the group.

HOOPER AVENUE

Hooper Avenue P.T.A. Child Welfare Chairman Mrs. Otis Pearson and Co-Chairman, Mrs. James Matthews, reported on their Christmas program which many families in the community enjoyed during the holidays.

The Executive Board reported that all the children attending Hooper received gifts, fruit and nuts. In addition each room held parties with mothers assisting the teachers.

Mrs. Hugh Howell, P.T.A. president, attended the recent Parliamentary and President Workshop at the Southeast Health Center at 49th and Avalon. She also, along with members, attended the Fremont Council meeting at Russell Elementary School.

Parents are being urged to support the Hooper Ave. P.T.A.

DORSEY P.T.A.

Dorsey Adult School announces a series of lectures entitled "Toward Better Family Living" to be given by Dr. James S. Simkin. This lecture series is co-sponsored by Baldwin Hills P.T.A., Mrs. Irwin Haus, Parent Education Chairman; and Windsor Hills P.T.A., Mrs. E. E. Hughes, Parent Education Chairman.

The lectures will be held from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. with the first three scheduled for Wednesdays at Windsor Hills School and the last three scheduled for Thursdays at Baldwin Hills School. Registration will be held at 9 a.m. at Windsor Hills School on Jan. 11.

Dates and titles of lectures are as follows:

Jan. 11 — What Makes a Good Home?

Jan. 18 — Everybody Else Does!

Jan. 25 — Discipline, Respect, Responsibility.

(These three lectures will be held at Windsor Hills School.)

Feb. 2 — Teaching Values.

Feb. 9 — Preparation for Adolescence.

Feb. 16 — Goals and Achievement.

(These three lectures will be held at Baldwin Hills School.)

Drew Medical Auxiliary in Regular Meet

The Women's Auxiliary to the Charles Drew Medical Society held its regular monthly meeting last Saturday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. George Sealey, with Mrs. Zrelda Sealey and Mrs. Winifred Toney as hostesses.

Mrs. Irene Bledsoe, Health Chairman who worked with Mental Health, Polio and Los Angeles Tuberculosis Societies during the holiday season, gave an interesting report on the project and cheer the group brought to many patients during the Yuletide season.

Several new members who recently took up residence in the city were present to join the Auxiliary. The new members and their husbands were guests of the society. They included Mrs. Ann Bobo and Mrs. Joyce Bobo, wives of two brothers, both physicians.

Mrs. Lillian Alexander, widow of a physician from New Jersey and former president of the National Medical Association's Women's Auxiliary, spoke to the group.

All of the new members were officially welcomed by the Auxiliary and following the meeting the members and their guests enjoyed a delightful social hour.

Bridge Club Installs New Club Officers

The Rainbow Bridge and Charity Club had its first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. Juanita Jackson. Officers for the year are; President, Leona Powell; vice president, Elizabeth Johnson; treasurer, Alberta Boone; recording secretary, Wallacesteen Gilmore; financial secretary, Leona Walton; business manager, Jewel Rawls; corresponding secretary, Ruby Clarke; reporter, Henrietta Capers; parliamentarian, Louise Horne; sergeant-at-arms, Juanita Jackson; social hostesses, Paline Knight, Mattie Mc Calibb and Beatrice Williams.

Honorary members are Gertrude Dailey, Maxine Reed and Mariam Canty. Members on leave of absence, Robbie Wilder.

Beautiful trophies were presented to Mrs. Gilmore and Mrs. Johnson by the club for outstanding work in furthering the high goals that made it possible for this club to triple its giving to charity this year.

Plans are in the making for the May Festival. Bridge was played.

Wilton Demos Meet

Wilton Place Democratic Club members attended a special meeting last Monday, in the home of Mrs. Gussie Kizzie, 3509 Country Club Drive. Plans were announced for the installation dinner and appointments of committee chairmen and representatives were made.

BEAUTIFUL CALIENTE IN OLD MEXICO: Three lucky ticket holders who selected all six horses correctly received $24,210.40 for the winning shares last Sunday at Caliente Race Track in the 5-10 public handicapping contest.

Consolation 5-10 awards of $272.20 each went to 89 ticket-holders who picked five horses in the 5-10 series. Winning numbers were 9-12-5-7-5-2.

The 5-10 pool grossed $107,602. The longest price horses in the 5-10 were Golden Orbit at $18.20 and Mabel Bell at $10.

Apprentice jockey Jesus Quesada who rode his first winner on Saturday on a recognized track scored two in the 5-10.

Attendance was 15,196. Mutuel handle for the 11 races, $419,414, not including the grossed 5-10 pool of $107,602.

GREG JACKSON

14-Year-Old Lad Stars in Three C.I.F. Sports

By Edw. 'Abie' Robinson

Loyola University and Notre Dame scouts should cast their peepers in the direction of Bellflower and the campus of St. John Bosco, a private school for boys, during baseball, basketball, track and football practice. A 14-year-old, 5'-8½ and a 140 pounder just might interest them.

The growing lad of 14 has been cutting some fancy capers in the Junior Varsity sports since he arrived on campus two years ago. He won starting berths on the baseball team as a short stop and pitcher; in basketball as a forward, and in football as a hard running back and in the classrooms as a strictly "A" student.

A shoulder injury cut short his activities last November and for a while it looked like football was a bit too rough for the kid who is popularly known on the campus as Greg Jackson, but one of his most enthusiastic supporters, his mother, Mrs. Doris Jackson, had other ideas. She bundled him into the family station wagon and hauled him over to Dr. Julius W. Hill, the noted bone specialist who is known as the best bone man in the country among college and professional athletes. Dr. Hill took a look at the shoulder and told mother to go home and sleep because everything would be alright That was back in November but the injury didn't take any starch out of young Jackson because when basketball season rolled around he had won himself a starting position on the school's team in the powerful C.I.F. League.

Dr. Hill thinks Greg will grow in a hurry and by college age should be in the neighborhood of 6 feet and 170 pounds. With his speed and versatility he should excell in all three sports.

The chance of Greg putting on poundage is very good. His mother and father own the Baby Beef Market at 3007 S. Central and it is no effort at all for the youngster to wade through three thick New York cuts at one sitting and to chase it with an apple pie and a few cartons of milk.

Two Women Die In Closed Room

Two women, who tried to keep themselves warm in their unheated room by burning charcoal in a metal can, were found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning on the morning of Friday, the 13th. They had been dead for many hours.

The two women who were found fully clothed on the bed in a small room at 1616 E. 23rd street were Mrs. Bernice Thompson, 46, and Mrs. Mary Lou Stansell, 40.

Utilities Cut Off

According to one report, both gas and electricity had been turned off for some time. Mrs. Thompson, to whom the room was rented, was reportedly on relief.

Police, after breaking into the apartment, found an iron kettle on top of the can containing burned charcoal sticks.

'Lover,' Friend Jailed

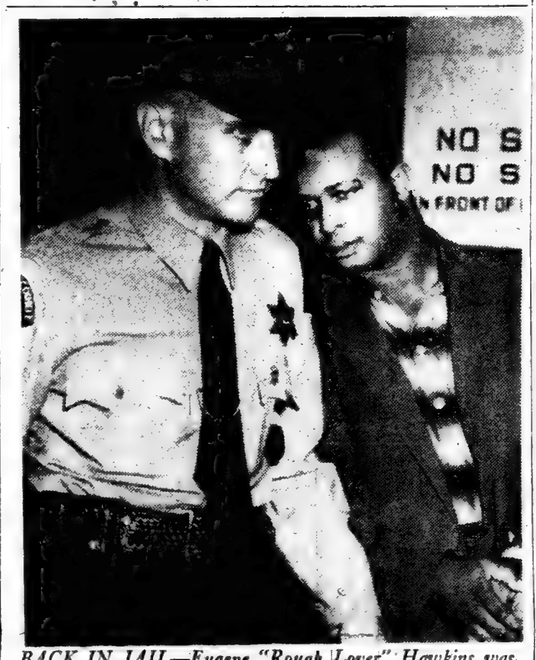
The man police arrested Tuesday for the daring robbery attack early Saturday morning on Aileen Eaton, wife of Olympics boxing promoter Cal Eaton, was none other than that well-known character, Eugene "Rough Lover" Hawkins.

He was taken to jail with bail recommended at $100,000. He already has some $90,000 to $95,000 bail bonds outstanding on prior arrests.

Finger Bitten

Police were hopeful that this time they have a case they can make stick against Hawkins, who is known for having an uncanny way with women and also with the law. They're hoping. He already has chalked up against his record six pages filled with arrest notations.

The single piece of evidence that may prove Hawkins' undoing is a bite on one of his fingers—a human bite—received, police believe, in another robbery Monday a week ago.



In that escapade, the victim was Mira Griss of West Los Angeles, who bit down hard when her assailant put his hand over her mouth to prevent her from screaming. She bit so hard, she almost bit off the finger.

Girl Friend Arrested

Deputy Dist. Atty. Anthony Joyce said Tuesday that doctors report Hawkins' injury is from a human bite Hawkins claims he slammed the car door on his hand.

Arrested along with Hawkins

BACK IN JAIL—Eugene "Rough Lover" Hawkins was back in jail Tuesday, with bail on a charge of beating and robbing Olympic boxing promoter Eileen Eaton expected to be $100,000. Police believe this latest arrest may keep Hawkins behind bars for a long time.

Loren Miller says . . .

First Anniversary

It has been almost a year since the four students sat down in that Greensboro variety store and asked for a cup of coffee. The waitresses were amazed: "You know we can't serve you," they said. The Negro counter girl was horrified: "You are dumb," she shouted, "that's why you'll never get anywhere. You know you're not supposed to sit down here."

Loren Miller

The four would not be moved. They just sat there until the store closed. Nobody served them. Nobody molested them. They just sat. That night—Feb. 1, 1960—the reporters sent out a story to the newspapers of the country. Not a long story. Not an heroic story. Just a story saying that four Negro students had sat down in a white variety store counter and had not been waited on. Some newspapers printed the story. Some didn't. None of the dailies gave it a banner line.

Almighty Tired

After all, it wasn't much of a story, then. Four Negro students had sat at a white variety store counter but students were always doing things, engaging in stunts. Like panty raids. Like throwing water out of upper stories of dormitories. This, too, wuld pass. And besides that, maybe they were Reds. Reds were always stirring up trouble.

Only the Negro students in other colleges and universities in the South understood what had happened. They under-

2 Students Return In Uneasy Truce

ATHENS, Ga. — The two Negro students who captured, yielded, then re-captured a beachhead in the first integrated school in Georgia's history were quietly attending classes this week, while six Klansmen faced court action for their part in a stone-throwing riot at the university a week ago.

Charlayne Hunter, 18, and Hamilton Holmes, 19, were walking gingerly in their exacting roles, but they were finding smiling and friendly encouragement from a number of their school mates at the Athens campus, and strong backing from some 300 of the school's professors.

Rioters Subdued

The hostile students who were among the 2000 who shouted racial epithets, shot off fire-crackers and hurled stones at Miss Hunter's dormitory last Wednesday night, in the company of known Klansmen, were noticeably subdued when classes started Monday.

Their new mood was attributed to a firmly worded statement from Joseph A. Williams, dean of students, that

Critically Hurt Gunman Faces Felony Charges

The Santa Monica district attorney's office Friday filed a four-count complaint against William Edgar Boyd, 28, who allegedly shot his wife in the abdomen, then engaged in a furious half-hour gun battle punctuated with the use of tear gas by 20 Santa Monica policemen. Bail was set at $25,000.

The battle occurred about 1:40 p.m. Wednesday after Boyd accosted his wife at the door of a shack occupied by Hubert Franklin at 1738 21st street, pushed her inside, threatened to kill her and bashed her over the head with a .22 rifle. He then shot her twice. When police arrived he barricaded himself in the house and opened fire on the officers.

Wife Escapes

During the confusion, Mrs. Boyd escaped from the building followed later by Franklin. The officers ordered Boyd to surrender. The demand was met by rifle fire. Officer Earl Grugett lobbed a tear gas grenade through a window and was cut by flying glass. Two other tear gas shells were thrown into the shack along with shotgun blasts. Twelve slugs lodged in Boyd's body before he slumped semi-conscious against a rear door. Officers dragged him outside.

He was taken to the prison ward of General Hospital where he remains in critical condition. He was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to kill.

Bride of Two Months

Mrs. Boyd went into shock on the operating table and five pints of blood were administered to check internal bleeding. Her condition was considered as fair.

According to reports, Mrs.

Hulan Jack Sentenced, Will Appeal

NEW YORK — Manhattan Borough President Hulan E. Jack was given a one-year suspended sentence here Monday for letting a contractor pay $4400 for remodeling his Harlem apartment.

The sentencing automatically removed him from his $25,000-a-year position, the highest municipal post held by a Negro.

General Sessions Judge Joseph A. Sarafite used harsh terms in rendering the sentence. He accused Jack of a "betrayal of trust," and said that if it were not for his loss of office, "this court would jail you because of the seriousness of your offenses."

Jack, however, declared later that "I am convinced of my innocence," and said he would appeal the conviction.

Jack was sentenced to one year for conspiracy and one year for violation of the city charter. Both terms, which would have run concurrently, were suspended.

Senate Votes To Bury Ban On Filibuster

WASHINGTON — The south won the battle to preserve the filibuster last week when middle western Republicans ganged up with Dixiecrats and far western Democrats and recorded a 50 to 46 vote to send proposals for a change in Senate rules to the Rules Committee. President Elect John F. Kennedy maintained a studied neutrality in the fight, California senators voted against the referral.

Referral of the proposals for change to the Rules Committee means that even if the Committee does render a favorable report on changes to shut off debate by a simple majority as proposed by some senators or by a three fifths majority as proposed by others the report itself would be subject to a filibuster.

Johnson Gambit

Ostensible architects of the fancy shuffle that sent the proposed rules changes to the Rules Committee were Democratic Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Minority Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois but political observers said it was the brain child of Vice President Elect Lyndon B. Johnson.

Referral of the proposed changes in the Senate filibuster rule to the Senate rules committee is a "signal from those who voted for it that the 87th Congress does not intend to act seriously on any civil rights legislation," NAACP Secretary Roy Wilkins charged.

"By burying (this issue) in the rules committee," the NAACP wire stated, "this Congress is laying the basis for blocking any action to change the rules at the beginning of the 88th Congress in January 1963."

Issue Buried

The fear of the NAACP and of liberal senators of both parties who fought for a change in the rules this month is that in January, 1963, the then president of the Senate, Vice President Johnson, may not rule that the Senate can change rules by majority vote

Seek Funds For Tenn. Tent Colony

The NAACP frankly wants money — a lot of it. But it doesn't want that money for itself. It wants it for the fund that is being collected to send to the relief of the sharecroppers in Tennessee who are housed in the "Freedom Village" tent colony in Fayette County.

The local branch asks that money — folding money, quarters, dimes and nichols—be brought to a mass rally called for the People's Independent Church, 1025 E. 18th street, Sunday, Jan. 29 at 3 p.m. That's Rev. Maurice A. Dawkins' church.

Money Only

Edward D. Warren, branch president, said the appeal is being made for money only, and not for foodstuffs and clothing. The money will be used to purchase what is necessary, thus saving shipping costs for bulk packages. Money is also needed, he said to buy more tents for the refugees.

A cheering note came from Washington with announcement that the AFL-CIO has allocated $2000 to aid the Tennessee sharecroppers.

In New York, meanwhile efforts are bing made to co-

Rev. King Hopeful Kennedy will Aid Civil Rights Fight

The Rev. Martin Luther King, in a whirlwind weekend, told the ugly truths about segregation to two large, predominantly white audiences, helped launch officially the Western Christian Leadership Conference, attended a reception in his honor at the Wilfandel — and was instrumental in collecting some $1400 to aid the fight in the South.

At the start of his activity, he was met at the airport by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, and then immediately upon arriving in town held a press conference at the Ambassador.

Odom President

To newsmen he expressed optimism over civil rights prospects under Kennedy and foresaw the end of massive resistance in the Deep South.

The Leadership Conference, which had been in the organizational stage for some time, was set up as a fully functioning entity, with Rev. King making the keynote address at Zion Hill Baptist Church Saturday afternoon.

The Western Conference seeks to promote the struggles of Negroes in this area and to coordinate that work with the herculean efforts being made by its counterpart in the South, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, of which the Rev. King is the head.

The Rev. L. Sylvester Odom, pastor of Ward AME, was elected president of the new

Sugar Ray Denies He's Baby's Dad

NEW YORK — Sugar Ray Robinson, former boxing champ, denied Friday that he is the father of a boy born Feb. 9, 1953 to Mrs. Barbara Trevigne, a singer and dancer.

Mrs. Trevigne claimed the child was born as the result of a tryst with Robinson in a New York Hotel May 10, 1952.

At the paternity trial, both George Gainford, Robinson's former manager, and Charles L. Austin, financial secretary at the Pompton Lakes camp, testified that Robinson never left the camp where he was in training for a bout with Joey Maxim June 25.

'FREEDOM' IN TENNESSEE—Sharecroppers Walker Allen and his wife registered and voted in the Nov. 8 election in Tennessee. Evicted from their home, they now live in a tent in Fayette County's "Freedom Village." Their children, shown with them, are among 55 youngsters in the tent colony. The NAACP has launched a second drive to bring them aid.

President Asked to Halt Aid to Biased Colleges

WASHINGTON — An end of federal assistance to publicly supported colleges and universities which discriminate on racial grounds was urged by the Federal Civil Rights Commission this week.

The commission said it had found "that the federal government has been a silent partner in the creation and perpetuation of separate colleges for Negroes."

Calling for fund cut-off action by Congress or the executive branch of government, the commission said:

"The Supreme Court has held that the federal government is prohibited by the Constitution from maintaining racially segregated educational institutions. It is not sound policy for the federal government to subsidize the unconstitutional operations of others; to do indirectly what it is not permitted to do directly."

Five of the six civil rights commissioners joined in the recommendation. Three of the six joined on a companion proposal that federal funds be withheld from private institutions which practice discrimination. The other three took no part in this.

The report went to President Eisenhower, President-elect Kennedy and to Congress.

Much of the lengthy document titled "Equal Protection of the Laws in Public Higher Education 1960," dealt with six southern states, referred to as "the resistant states."

The commission labeled Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina the hard-core states of segregation, saying that when the report was drafted Negroes were not enrolled in a single one of the 49 public higher educational institutions in those states.

Motel Owner Spots Shotgun, Calls Police

Mrs. Mattie Springfield, owner of a motel at 1428 E. Adams Blvd., told police she answered the buzzer at the cashier's window early Monday morning. A man told her he wanted to see the man who had rented Room No. 9 earlier in the evening.

As she opened the office door to see if he was going to the right room she saw a man in a car pointing a sawed-off double-barrel shotgun at her. She stepped back into the office, slammed the door and called police.

The man who rented the room earlier had told Mrs. Springfield that someone was coming "to get him" but she thought the person was coming "to pick him up."

Suspects are two male Negroes about 37 years old, round faces with broad features. One had reddish processed hair. They have not been apprehended.

Urban League Member Drive Opens Sunday

Sunday, Jan. 22, has been proclaimed "Urban League Sunday" in local churches. It marks the beginning of the league's 1961 membership campaign drive.

The goal of the campaign this year is 5,000 new members, acording to Mrs. Thomas A. Boger, general campaign chairman. Renewals of previous memberships will also be solicited by more than 250 volunteer workers. The drive will run until Friday, March 3.

Chairmen of the corps of volunteers are: Church, William Bailey; Labor, Eugene Pickett; South Los Angeles, John Kelly; Urban League Guild, Mrs. Lucille Ward; Fraternal, William Henry; Social and Pleasure Clubs, Phil Rhoten; and Civil Service, Richard A. Warren. Tom Hawkins is publicity chairman.

BURNS FATAL—Pallbearers carry the remains of William Perdue Cardwell, who rescued four children from their burning home last Dec. 23 and died from burns received during the rescue. The funeral was held at the Utter-McKinley Broadway Mortuary Saturday. (Sheffield Studio.)

Man Who Saved 4 Dies from Burns

Burns received when he helped rescue four children from a burning house during Christmas week cost William P. Cardwell his life. He died Jan. 10 from third-degree burns sustained when flames from a Christmas tree raced through the frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Jackson, 9617 Grape street in Watts.

One child was burned to death and another was so severely burned that he died later.

Cardwell, 46, was born in Manhattan, Kansas. He had lived in Los Angeles for 28 years. He was a tile-setter by trade and had served in the Armed Services during World War II.

Funeral services were held on Saturday at the Utter-Mc Kinley Broadway Mortuary with Rev. Arthur Smith, a vice-president of the firm, performing the ceremony for the heroic man. Interment was in Paradise Cemetery.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Vivian Cardwell; brother Percy, both of Los Angeles; and a half-brother M. Cottrey of Oxnard.

Flying Tackle Nets $35 Fine

Thomas Gillespie, assistant manager of the Mellinger Co., 1717 Westwood blvd., was found guilty last Tuesday of battery and disturbing the peace. He was fined $35 and given a five-day suspended sentence and one year's probation.

The charges against Gillespie stemmed from an encounter he had last Dec. 21 with Isidro de Rieras, photographer, 34, of 1018 E. 42nd place, at the Mellinger Co. office.

Rieras had gone there to reclaim a $5 deposit he had made on a correspondence course which he found unsatisfactory.

Gillespie refused to make the refund and when Rieras said that he was taking down his remarks on a tape recorder in his briefcase. Gillespie made a flying tackle at him, twisting his wrist and otherwise injuring him, Rieras claimed.

Gift Return Request Gets Police Action

Early Sunday morning, John Williams Daniels, of 5917-7/8 E. Compton, went to the home of Mrs. Jennie Reyes, 4276 Leimert blvd., and demanded $10 he had paid for Christmas gifts he had given her and her son, police reported.

Mrs. Reyes, who had armed herself with a gun after Daniels had broken into her apartment New Year's Day, grabbed the gun, went into the living room and asked who was there.

Daniels came to the front door and demanded that she let him in. She refused. He then went to the side of the house and broke the glass in a window and started to climb in.

Mrs. Reyes called police and started shooting. Daniels grabbed her and dragged her out to the street just as the police arrived.

He denied he had broken into the house. He claimed all he did was to knock at the front door and after the shooting started went around the side of the house. When the second bullet was fired he lunged in through the window and grabbed Mrs. Reyes, cutting his wrist in the melee.

Loren Miller Named Veep at NAACP Meet

NEW YORK — Loren Miller, publisher of the California Eagle, attorney and housing expert, was raised to the post of vice president of the NAACP at the association's recent annual meeting here. He previously served as a board member.

Two new members were named to the National Board, Chester I. Lewis, attorney and president of the Witchita, Kans. NAACP; and Joseph G. Kennedy, of San Francisco, attorney and president of the NAACP Northern California Area Conference.

Hudson Re-elected

Dr. H. Claude Hudson and Mrs. Daisy Bates were among those re-elected to the board.

Roy Wilkins was re-elected executive secretary.

Dr. Robert C. Weaver, recently named administrator of the Federal Home Finance Agency by President-elect Kennedy, was re-elected chairman of the board, but will resign Jan. 20 to take up his new duties.

Dr. Channing H. Tobias will continue to serve as chairman emeritus.

Other top NAACP officers re-elected include Arthur B. Spingarn of New York, president; Bishop Stephen Gill Spottswood of Washington, vice chairman; Alfred Baker Lewis, Old Greenwich, Conn., treasurer and Dr. Harry J. Greene of Philadelphia, assistant treasurer.

Miller has served on the board since 1956. He is also a member of the NAACP National Legal Committee.

Roybal Opens Campaign Mon.

A kick-off campaign meeting to re-elect Edward Roybal to City Council will take place next Monday, (Jan. 23), in the California Room of the Alexandria Hotel, 5th and Spring Streets at 7:30 p.m.

Roybal asked his friends in the 9th Council District to help him in his re-election and to take part in this most important organizational campaign meeting where the issues of the campaign will be outlined to meet the needs of the district.

Negro History Planners Slate Full Week Feb. 12-19

Plans are moving along swiftly for this year's celebration of Negro History Week, Feb. 12-19, once more under the sponsorship of Mrs. Vassie D. Wright's Our Authors' Study Club, the Los Angeles chapter of the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History.

A general Planning Committee meeting, of which Dr. Roy D. Andrews is chairman, has been scheduled for 3 p.m. this Sunday at Holman Methodist Church, W. Adams and Fourth avenue.

Oratorical Contest eliminations will be held, also at Holman, at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 23.

A Youth Sing has been scheduled and youth choirs throughout the city are invited to participate, with rehearsals set for Saturday, Jan. 21, and Saturday, Jan. 28, at 4 p.m. both days at Price Chapel, 213 E. 43rd street, under the direction of Mrs. Eugenia Clark.

On opening day, Feb. 12, Bob DeCoy is arranging a giant motorcade from 12 noon to 3 p.m., with business, fraternal, social and civic organizations invited to enter automobiles.

WRONG ADDRESS

Lumumba Bound, Beaten with Guns

Patrice Lumumba, imprisoned premier of the Congo, was secretly transferred from Thysville prison to Elizabethville Tuesday.

Bound together with two of his supporters, he was beaten sickeningly.

Africans, ordered by Belgian officers, beat him in the face with rifle butts.

Reported Transferred

Earlier reports said that he was transferred, handcuffed and under close guard, from the jail in Thysville to another jail in Elizabethville, capital of Katanga Province and the headquarters of his arch rival, Belgian puppet, Moise Tshombe.

That report came from officals of the Belgian air line, but the government in Leopoldville professed to know nothing of such a move.

If he has been shunted from one prison to another, the reason for the action has not been made clear.

Troops Unreliable?

There is speculation, however, that it evidences the growing unreliability of the troops of the central government who reportedly let him go free for a brief period last Friday during an army mutiny at the Thysville prison.

Tshombe in Katanga, however, doesn't seem too easy about having Lumumba in his bailiwick, for coincidental with the report of Lumumba's arrival at Elizabethville came another report that Katanga authorities had arrested some 100 of Lumumba's supporters.

In Kivu Province, Lumumba's men were also reported as giving Belgian soldiers, who aren't supposed to be in the Congo, a hard time. Three of them are said to have been killed in a border fight and 16 captured.

U. N. Move Defeated

In the United Nations, meanwhile, efforts by Asian-African nations, backed by the Soviet Union, to have the Security Council find Belgium guilty of violating its trusteeship over Ruanda-Urundi, failed of passing, but the issue may still be brought before the General Assembly when it convenes in March.

Willowbrook to Act on Sale of School Bonds

On Tuesday, Jan. 24, the voters of the Willowbrook School District will be asked to approve the sale of bonds to qualify the district to accept state funds to construct seven new classrooms at Anderson and six at Mona Park Schools to relieve double session classes.

The voters are being asked to authorize $125,000 in bonds, $65,000 to b sold immediately and $60,000 to be held in reserve for sale as required to maintain eligibility for state funds in the next two years.

A two-thirds majority of the voters must approve the bonds.

Polling places will be open at the school cafeterias at each of the five district schools from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. —Lincoln, Marian Andtrson, Carver, Mona Park and Willowbrook.

Andrews' Rehiring Asked of Santa Fe

Lennie L. Andrews, who was fired from the job he had held for 14 years as a Santa Fe car cleaner after he filed charges of bias with the FEP Commission, should be reinstated with nine months' back pay and promoted at the first opportunity, the Commission was told after five days of testimony here Friday.

The four hearing commissioners took the case under advisement, but are not expected to arrive at a decision for three to four weeks.

'Boy!'

"Andrews was fired because he had the audacity to file a complaint with the FEPC," Charles E. Wilson, chief counsel for the Fair Employment Practices Commission, said in his summation.

He also claimed that Santa Fe's Barstow yards, where Andrews worked, treat Negroes much as they are treated in the South. As confirmation, he pointed to the fact that on the witness stand railroad officials repeatedly referred to Negro employees by the offensive designation of "boys."

In demanding reinstatement of Andrews, Wilson also accused the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe of being guilty of two violations of the Fair Employment Practices Act — first, failure to promote Andrews and second, firing him after he had filed a complaint.

Lazy, Shiftless

Santa Fe attorney, Robert B. Curtiss, denied both accusations, claiming that Andrews was not promoted because he was lazy, slow and shiftless, and didn't deserve advancement, and that he was fired because he fell asleep while on duty.

Andrews denied that he had been asleep. He did, however, admit to being in an empty car one night last March when he had no duties to perform.

Taking cognizance of that fact, Wilson pointed out that a reprimand or demerits would be in order because of the infraction of rules, and also recommended that Andrews be docked one month's salary from the back pay that he maintained is due him.

Clean Record

To buttress his claim that the firing was unfair, Wilson brought out through testimony at the hearing that others who had been fired for sleeping (even if the accusation were true, which is denied) had substantial prior records of demerits.

Andrews had not received a single demerit during the nearly 14 years that he served the railroad.

On the question of Andrews being lazy and shiftless, his leadman, Louis Johnson — a witness called by the company — testified that he had no criticism of Andrews' work.

Most of the time Andrews worked for the Santa Fe he had been either a regular or substitute lead man over the coach cleaners, Wilson stated.

He also pointed out that on one occasion Andrews had saved the life of a man who had just lost a foot in a railroad yard accident, that he had completed a correspondence and shop course in diesel engines and that on two separate occasions he had been recognized by the company for safety suggestions.

Andrews filed his complaint with the FEPC in mid-February 1960. When Santa Fe officials received a copy of the complaint they requested and were given 10 days in which to investigate. It was at the end of that period that Andrews was fired.

Charges against the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, which was originally named along with the railroad, were dropped through a consent order issued just before the hearing was convened. The union agreed that it would reinstate Andrews to membership, without penalty, if he is re-hired by the railroad.

If the commission finds the Santa Fe guilty of discrimination, the case could be settled by compliance on the part of the company. Otherwise the Commission is empowered to appeal to the courts for an enforcement order. The railroad could appeal such an order to a higher court.

Author to Tell Facts on Cuba Sunday Night

Dr. Paul M. Sweezy, co-author of "Cuba, Anatomy of a Revolution," and visiting professor at Stanford University, will speak at Channing Hall, 2936 W. 8th street, Sunday night on "The Truth About Cuba."

The meeting, which is scheduled for 8:15 p.m., is being held under the auspices of the Los Angeles Chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee.

The Rev. Stephen H. Fritchman, co-chairman of the committee along with former attorney general Robert W. Kennedy, will preside. Martin Hall, chairman of the local Fair Play chapter, will also speak.

Cuban revolutionary songs will be sung by some members of the choir of the First Unitarian Church. A question-and-answer period will follow the talks.

Sweezy, who is co-editor of the "Monthly Review," spent considerable time in Cuba this past summer.

Dancefloor Tilt Brings Gunplay

Charles Wilford Jones, 32, of 1316½ W. Olympic blvd., was arrested Monday after reportedly shooting Robert Nash, of 1507 W. 37th place. Jones claims Nash started to argue with him while he was dancing with a girl and cut him.

Nash was shot after Jones claimed someone put a gun in his hand. Jones was taken to the hospital for treatment and later booked.

Nash told police he didn't pull a knife on Jones because he never carried a knife. He said a man by the name of Morgan and Jones were trying to frame him because he had moved from Morgan's apartment owing him some money.

He thought Morgan had been the cause of the trouble and had used Jones to start the fight.

Bullet Fired At Bar Gets Man Booked

A man identified as Fred Philpot, 36, of 979½ S. Mariposa, came into a bar at 2305 S. Maple, Sunday night and showed the owner a gun. Archie Plummer told police Philpot said he was having a little trouble with a man called "Big Mac" and was carrying the weapon for protection.

He left the bar and came back a little later and claimed the man at the nearby liquor store refused to serve him. After hearing a shot Plummer returned from the kitchen where he had gone to wash dishes in time to see the suspect put the gun in his pocket and walk out the front door.

Several customers were in the bar at the time of the shooting, but no one was injured. A small hole was found in the wall but officers were unable to find the bullet.

Philpot was caught a few minutes later at 24th and Maple and booked.

Ex-Mailman Knifed to Death Near 'Hilltop'

Clifton Lee Harris, of 1360 E. 48th street, a former mailman who worked out of Kearney Station at Central and Vernon, died of knife wounds received during a fight at the Hilltop Cafe early Sunday morning.

Harris was found, still alive, sprawled on his back in the roadway near the curb across the street from the cafe, but there was a large and spreading pool of blood just outside the Hilltop at 5423 S. Broadway.

Murderer Escapes

Police said that the murderer escaped and that his identity is unknown, though he is believed to have been a friend of the slain man.

Harris had been slashed in the back, chest and arm. He was taken by ambulance to Central Receiving Hospital where he died.

Witnesses said that Harris and his assailant were arguing about money while they were in the Hilltop. Harris reportedly told the other man, "We've been friends too long to fight over a $10 bill!"

Collapsed

But they continued to fight, nonetheless, in the cafe and out into the street.

Police believed that Harris received the fatal wounds just outside the cafe and then must have staggered across the street before collapsing.

Harris worked at Kearney from June, 1957 to Jan., 1959, as a temporary substitute.

The Important Newspaper

The Eisenhower Years

Although his administration was marked by a series of striking and favorable advances in the field of civil rights, President Eisenhower will get little credit for the fateful changes in race relations that occurred between 1952 and 1960, the years of his presidency. The irony of it is that had he not muffed the chances presented to him he might have become the same kind of a legend in the lore of freedom as the first Republican president.

The difference between the two men lies in the fact that Abraham Lincoln had the political sixth sense to seize Civil War opportunities to strike down the institution of slavery while Dwight Eisenhower was blind to corresponding opportunities to strike a death blow at the Jim Crow system.

The Supreme Court epitomized its decade long undermining of the Separate But Equal doctrine with the School Cases in 1954. In the wake of that dramatic decision, the president missed his chance of greatness. He could have summoned the nation to a great moral crusade to accept the decision and to have done with the immorality of racial segregation but he vacillated until a violent storm of opposition blew up and then managed only a meaningless summons to his countrymen to obey the law.

The southerners even turned his plea for law obedience against him by passing a series of obstructionist laws and bidding for their obedience. These obstructionist laws finally came to flower in Little Rock and still the president could find no words to kindle the American spirit. He took refuge in the ultimate legalism of sending troops to enforce rights which he was unwilling to proclaim as great moral principles.

He was to repeat that pattern when his party leaders introduced civil rights legislation in Congress. At one point he professed ignorance of the meaning of one of the most important passages in administration sponsored legislation. Always he put his support on careful, naked legal grounds. He was a lover without passion.

When the Sit Downs swept the South and laid bare the moral issue that underlies the Negro's quest for civil rights, Dwight Eisenhower stuck to legalisms: the issue was one for the courts, he said.

It was only toward the end that the president rose a mite above his careful legal position. He found a few spare words to praise the New Orleans white family that had to flee its native city because its child attended an integrated school. In his last message to Congress he spent two lines on the observation that there were moral issues involved in the segregation question.

The kindest, and at once the harshest, thing that can be said of Dwight Eisenhower is that he never understood the general domestic issue of our times. Men who fail to understand evil fail their times as much as those who promote evil.

Pretty Sorry Outlook

The Senate vote to refer the proposal to set limits on debate to the Rules Committee means that there is little chance for a curb on the filibuster at this session of Congress.

The vice of the referral of proposed rules change to the Rules Committee lies in the fact that no changes can be reported out until after the inauguration. If the Rules Committee does propose changes Johnson will be in the Senate chair and he is almost certain to rule that changes in rules are themselves subject to unlimited debate. Thus there will be a filibuster against the attempt to end filibusters!

The vote to refer was close, 50 to 46. The 50 votes came from Middle Western Republicans, Dixiecrats and Far Western Democrats — the same grouping that emasculated the civil rights bills of 1957 and 1959.

Architect of this scheme to subvert the 1960 Democratic platform was Vice President Elect Lyndon B. Johnson who worked through his stooges, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield and his partner of many years, Republican Leader Everett Dirksen.

The nub of the matter is that Johnson is still running the Senate, a fact underscored by his selection to head the Democratic Caucus even after he assumes the vice presidency.

A Johnson dominated Senate isn't apt to produce much by way of civil rights legislation.

Overruling the Mob

The difference that time brings even in the South can be measured by the course of events that took place when Autherine Lucy entered the University of Alabama five years ago and what is happening in the case of the two Negro youngsters who are now attending the University of Georgia.

Georgia University officials panicked in the face of another mob last week. The two students were suspended "for their own protection." But Judge William Bootle would have none of that fuzzy attempt to substitute mob law for constitutional rules. He ordered the students re-enrolled

The students are back. It is our guess they'll stay there.

Battleaxe & Bread

By Lester B. Granger

ROME — This morning at six-thirty I opened my eyes for the tenth consecutive morning to hear rain splashing in the narrow street outside my cell-like room. Ordinarily I might have used the half-hour before required rising to relax a bit before taking the bus and "metro" out to the Exposition grounds where the International Conference of Social Work is being held.

But not in this bed, which was undoubtedly designed by apprentice sausage-makers. Its mattress feels as if it is composed of giant squashy sausages tied loosely together, so that the occupant of the bed rolls about trying to find a stable resting place for his weary bones. And he doesn't go to bed, either, until he is weary, for my bed does not encourage idling around. You get into it when you are good and sleepy, and when you are through sleeping you get up.

Granger

Dingy Archway

Or perhaps the bed was designed especially for this purpose by the Knights of the Holy Grail, who have owned the Hotel Columbus for centuries and who still occupy the building's first two floors.

When I was brought to this hotel two squares from St. Peter's Church, on Via della Conciliazione that runs directly into the church's piazza, I had a brisk argument with the cab driver to the effect that this could not possibly be the Hotel Columbus where the conference's officers were quartered.

It looked like the entrance into the courtyard of a second-rate Parisian pension. You simply walked through a dingy archway into the courtyard and wandered left until you found the actual hotel entrance. And when you found it, it still wasn't much.

Real Italian

Well, my driver won, because my forty-seven words of Italian didn't allow me to carry the argument very far, as I limped out of the cab. (Yep, my knee has gone off again with a misplaced cartilage!) and went in to register.

Actually, I found myself in far better circumstances than if I had landed at the plush, chrome-plated Excelsior on Via Veneto, or even at the Metropole, favorite of American tourists.

The Albergo Colombo, as the natives call the Columbus, is cheaper, for one thing; it is "vermomente Italiano" in accommodations, service and the fact that not a half-dozen of the staff speak English.

True, the water is never hot, ranging from lukewarm to fairly warm; and true, its elevator carries only two passengers with the operator. True, the "reading" light by my bed is a 20-watt affair and the total wattage in all the lights of the room and bath combined wouldn't exceed 250 . . . but who cares? If you want to live like a New Yorker, whyncha go back where you came from? New York, for instance!

Love This Town

But I'm not going anywhere until I have to, for as I've remarked before I love this town. Who cares about a little drippy weather, or even pouring rain, when a bus ride in Rome is a constant adventure? Where in New York or California would you find a taxi driver giving a traffic cop a stiff argument, shaking his finger in the other's face, holding up traffic the while and then driving away without bumps on his head or summons in his pocket? This I saw yesterday morning, with my own two eyes!

And the buses themselves—lumbering through a morning traffic unbelievably jammed with tiny cars, motor bikes, scooters, bikes and trucks, all competing on even terms for space to squeeze by.

And the arguments that go on between passenger and bus driver, when the former is carried on extra square after he has signaled he wants to get off. Then he lets the bus driver have it, and the driver reciprocates in kind, with all the explosive force of Latin temperament. Jaws jut out, eyes flash, fingers point, fists wave — until one is sure either or both disputants will be scalped.

Then the liquid stream of fiery invective dies down. The passenger alights. When on the sidewalk he turns and grins and waves at the driver, who returns the greeting as he pulls off.

I wouldn't go so far as to say this always happens. Sometimes somebody must forget the act and bust somebody on the snoot. But it hasn't happened yet; and I've watched at least a half-dozen times. So even if there were no conference, being in Rome would still be important to me, for it's one of the few western cities that have rejected standardization. God bless the Romans—and, as I've stated — I love Rome!

stood because they, too, were tired. Tired of the law's delays, tired of token integration, tired of second class citizenship, tired of the talk of a distant rosy future, tired — almighty tired — of the quibbles of judges, tired and worn down by barren promises. And suddenly the Sit Down movement swept the South.

Movement of Truth

Just as suddenly, everybody understood what the Sit Downs meant. In that flashing moment of truth, the whole world knew that the sit-downs weren't student stunts like panty raids and water tossings and that they weren't led inspired or Communist led. Somebody said that the students had sat down that they might grow tall and there was revealing truth in that catch phrase.

They had sat down that they might grow tall — tall in the eyes of their fellows, tall in the eyes of those who had demeaned them so long, tall in the eyes of the whole world, but above all tall in their own self respect, tall in their own self esteem, tall in their own dignity, tall like free men are tall. They had, to put it simply, challenged the morality of the Jim Crow system.

No Debate

And that, I think, explains the greatness of the sit down movement. You can debate the constitutionality of a fair employment ordinance; you can question the legal wisdom of a Jim Crow law; you can test a discriminatory rule or regulation by the applicable constitutional and legal principles.

But there can be no moral justification for denying a man food or drink because of his race or color. You cannot make a case for the righteousness of saying to a man that he may not stay his hunger or quench his thirst because he is black or brown. You may say the law requires these things; you may shout that custom decrees them: you may argue that your business will be ruined unless you follow the old ways but you can never square your actions with morality.

New Holiday

Something of the same kind happened on a larger scale when Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote Uncle Tom's Cabin. After its publication nobody could keep the slavery question cabined and confined to questions of the value of slaves as property or the loss in cotton crops or the legal quibble as to whether or not the Constitution protected slavery. Slavery had become a moral issue and it was doomed. Make Jim Crow a moral issue and it must collapse.

The sit downers took a mighty step in that direction. I think we ought to declare February 1 a national holiday.

Gunman Faces Felony Charges

Boyd told police that her husband became infuriated when she refused his requests to sign annulment papers and relinquish ownership of the family car. A bride of two months, Mrs. Boyd lived with her mother and three children by a previous marriage.

Three policemen were named as victims of the battle, with wounds of varying degrees, none of them serious.

Gene Hawkins Held in Jail in Eaton Robbery

was his latest girl friend, Marian Kritzer, whose car he was driving when he attacked Mrs. Eaton.

The attack on Mrs. Eaton, who is a fight promoter in her own name, occurred early Saturday morning as she entered the driveway of her home at 800 Tremaine avenue.

A stranger approached her and asked directions. Mrs. Eaton, who has been around boxers and knows a bit about fighting, said she knew it was a hold-up, but nonetheless, the man knocked her unconscious.

Gagged, Tied

When she came to, she was gagged with a handkerchief. Her stockings, which had been ripped from her legs, had been used to bind her legs and arms. She reported that the robbers got away with jewelry, clothes and money for a total value of $3200.

Two men were with the man who first approached her. They warned her not to scream, but she ignored them and yelled. That was when she was hit over the head from behind.

Both Mrs. Eaton and Mrs. Griss identified Hawkins.

Police reported that Hawkins and Mrs. Kritzer lived in her Hollywood home at 3296 Hillock. They had, however, checked in at a hotel in Hollywood at 9876 Wilshire blvd. as "Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Clark."

'Fingers' Prospects

Police believed that Mrs. Kritzer was Hawkins' accomplice in his most recent ventures. They believed that she "fingered" wealthy women with whom she was associated in a card club, and that Hawkins picked up from there.

Hawkins, who specializes in knocking women about and beating them until they are bruised and bloody, has some 60 counts chalked up against him in the past two years.

Atty. Joyce estimated that crime—up to now at any rate —has paid off handsomely for the 27-year-old lover-boy. He said that Hawkins' "take" amounts to something like $100,000 a year.

Hawkins was out on bond on two counts of forgery committed about two months ago. Two weeks ago he was picekd up on a hit-and-run count when he nearly ran down a policeman.

He has so many accumulated arrests for drunk driving, driving after his license has been revoked, wreckless driving and other assorted accounts that the judge can send him up for more than four years on those charges alone. He is awaiting sentencing on those charges.

Also pending is trial on another arrest, due to come up the end of this month, involving extortion, first and second degree burglary, two counts of assault with attempt to rape, grand theft of money and grand theft auto. There were three victims — two women and one man.

All the windows in the room and in the connecting bath were tightly closed.

Mrs. Katie Jemmett, of the same address, called police after she had been unable to arouse either Mrs. Thompson or Mrs. Stansell.

Broke Into Room

The officers slit the front door screen and forced open the door in order to effect an entry.

Mrs. Jemmett said she had not seen either of the women since the previous day when she noticed them in the yard. Both, she said, seemed somewhat unsteady on their feet.

Mrs. Thompson, who is survived by a son, Charles Thompson, of 10422 Alabama street, will be buried from the chapel of the J. S. Williams Funeral Home, at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. Stansell is survived by her mother, Mrs. Lois Pirtle, 1251 Adams blvd. Mrs. Stansell will be buried today, Thursday, from Walker Temple on E. 25th street, at 10 a.m., with arrangements being handled by Angelus Funeral Home. Burial will be in Paradise Cemetery.

Rev. King Founds West Conference

organization, and Rev. Maurice A. Dawkins chairman of the board.

Wanted to Know

Rev. King made his weekend trip to Los Angeles at the invitation of the Rev. Fred Doty, pastor of the Woodland Hills Community Church, whose members have become concerned about the repeated shameful incidents in the South, such as in New Orleans and at the University of Georgia, and sought first-hand information about the developing struggle.

Rev. King addressed the packed church Sunday morning and in the evening addressed another overflow crowd at Canoga Park High School on the "Future of Integration." The school meeting was also held under the auspices of Rev. Doty's church.

A number of students attended the evening meeting and many of them were among the hundred odd persons who flooded Rev. King with written questions after his talk.

Deliberate Crawl

The $1400 in donations was collected, after appeals by Rev. King, at the Leadership Conference and the Wilfandel reception.

At Friday's press conference, the Southern leader expressed confidence that "we will get much more forthright action in the present situation (under Kennedy) than in the past eight years."

He characterized the present pace of integration as an "all deliberate crawl," and pointed out that in six years only six per cent of the Negro children in the South have been placed in integrated schools. This, he said, is token integration, brought about through evasive schemes and representing bad faith.

No New Party

Because of his belief that Kennedy will use the power of his position to tackle the civil rights question, Rev. King said he was not thinking in terms of calling for the formation of a new, independent party in the South.

"We must work through existing parties," he said, "using legal, moral and political pressure to bring those parties to take a forthright position on civil rights."

Pointing out that the "President has the power to do a great deal," he added that "if we use the necessary pressure, the administration will have to do something."

Like Tidal Wave

He said that the developments in New Orleans and Georgia indicate the "gradual death of massive resistance in the Deep South," and that the "whole attempt to block integration is as futile as trying to hold back a tidal wave."

Rev. King credited the student sit-ins with giving new courage and a new sense of dedication to Southern Negroes. As for Southern whites, he said many of them now feel that integration is inevitable and that they must accept it. There is also a significant number, he added, who feel that integration is not only inevitable, but is also morally right.

NAACP Seeks Funds for Tenn.

ordinate the work of five organizations, all of which have been aiding the Tennessee victims.

The organizations are the NAACP, the National Sharecroppers' Fund, the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and the National Committee for Rural Schools.

Another Meeting Planned

Need for coordination of the efforts is seen in the fact that here locally CORE has established a "Freedom Village Emergency Committee" to aid the tent dwellers, and advises that it has already invited Tennessee leaders John McFerren, of Fayette County, and Odell Sanders, of Haywood County, to come here some time in February to address a CORE-sponsored mass meeting.

CORE apparently didn't know what the NAACP was planning, and vice versa.

The New York move has as its aim the elimination of the duplication of efforts and a pooling of resources so as to give the most support possible to the Tennessee victims.

At present, 13 families are living in the Tent Colony where they are housed in surplus army tents and are living under primitive conditions, without jobs, money, homes.

They were evicted from the farms they have share-cropped for many years after they registered and voted in the Nov. 8 elections.

Senate Stalls

at the opening of the session.

Johnson has held in the past that the Senate is a continuing body and is governed by the same rules from session to session. If he so rules in 1963, and if the Senate does not vote to overrule him, any change in the filibuster rule would be subject to the existing two-thirds requirement.

Thus, a filibuster could be conducted in 1963 against the motion to change the filibuster rule. If by any chance the Senate rules committee should bring forth a report at this session or in 1962 calling for a change in the present rule, the adoption of such a report will require a two-thirds vote of Senators present.

The NAACP wire called the referral to the rules committee a repudiation of both Republican and Democratic platform pledges.

Synagogue Bombed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Terrorists dynamited the city's main Jewish synagogue early Sunday morning.

It was the fourth incident in recent months of the bombing of religious institutions.

Ga. Riot Fails, Tension Fills Univ. Campus

"Students attending and taking part in riots and demonstrations will be suspended or expelled."

That declaration was made after Federal Judge W. A. Bootle in Macon pooh-poohed the university's contention that the two Negro students had been suspended "for their own protection" and ordered their re-admission on Monday morning.

Klansmen Charged

The judge said that he had been informed that the reason law and order had broken down was that adequate police protection had not been provided. This was an obvious slap at state officials.

The six Klansmen, arrested after their part in last week's riot, were bound over for trial Tuesday on charges of carrying weapons to a public gathering. They were released under bonds of $500 each.

Police also disclosed Tuesday they had arrested a man believed to be the gunman who disarmed a campus guard and fled after seeking out Miss Hunter's dormitory Sunday night.

Police on Guard

Contrary to the situation when the riot occurred, this week Athens detectives, the police and agents of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation were continually cruising the streets of the sprawling campus. More than 30 state highway patrol officers—about a third of the state's total number—were on active duty.

Both Miss Hunter and Homes were accompanied by armed bodyguards as they proceeded from class to class.

A number of the students in Miss Hunter's dormitory greeted her in friendly fashion and attempted to make her feel at ease. Although subdued by the gruelling experiences, the attractive coed flashed her engaging smile at those who spoke to her pleasantly on campus.

The day after the riots, some 300 faculty members petitioned the school for return of the two Negro students. They declared that the faculty "will not retreat from the responsibility of standing steadfastly by the rules of law and morality."

The school was unusually quiet, as the second "Battle of Georgia—almost a hundred years after the Civil War "March Through Georgia,"—seemed headed for a victory for integration.

WELCOME TO THE FIRM—Leon Harrison extends a cordial welcome to Mrs. Fannie E. Benjamin as she enters the office after joining the Harrison-Ross Mortuary staff as managing director and vice-president. (Jack Davis)

Mrs. Fannie Benjamin Joins Harrison-Ross Mortuaries

Leon H. Harrison, president of the Harrison-Ross Mortuaries announced last week that Mrs. Fannie E. Benjamin has joined the firm as managing director and vice-president. Mrs. Benjamin has served in various mortuaries for over 30 years and is well known in community club, church and fraternal circles.

Other appointments announced by Harrison were LeRoy D. Johnson as personnel director and Richard H. Johnson, who will serve as an insurance advisor and mortician.

True Friend

Harrison-Ross offers those seeking solace a kindly and understanding service similar to that of a tried and true friend. The service is so designed as to alleviate the depression generally associated with funerals.

The pastel colored fleet with its flower car and singing chapel are regular features of the Harrison-Ross service.

Mrs. Benjamin is an organist of note and is the first American Negro to be elected to serve on the board of the Los Angeles Chapter of the American Guild of Organists. She has served as organist at People's Independent Church of Christ for 30 years.

Rev. L. S. Odom Elected to Head New WCLC

Rev. L. Sylvester Odom, pastor of Ward A.M.E. Church, was elected to the presidency of the newly-formed Western Christian Leadership Conference.

Ministers of many denominations and from major cities of the Western States, met Saturday Jan. 14 to elect the organization's first full slate of officers.

Equal treatment under the law and the freedom to persue happiness and employment in any chosen field without segregation, won the combined support of ministers of the west as they organized in support of Rev. Martin Luther King and his Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

On a lecture tour, Rev. King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, assisted in the development of the organizational structure and served as keynoter at the opening session.

Results of the Conference election placed the Rev. Maurice Dawkins as chairman of the Board of Directors. Vice-president-at-large were the Revs. Edward Stovall of Berkeley; P. J. Ellis of Los Angeles, and F. M. Lockridge of San Diego. Elected Regional vice presidents were the Rev. Samuel McKinney of Seattle; M. C. Williams of Denver; O. B. Williams of Portland; T. C. Coles of Las Vegas; L. K. Williams of Albuquerque; Casper Glenn of Tucson; and J. W. Ford of Los Angeles.

The Rev. James Hargett was elected secretary and Rev. C. W. Arnold, assistant secretary with Rev. John Doggett treasurer.

Additional Posts

The following ministers were elected to the Board of Directors: Revs. M. L. Scott, Owen De Vaughn, P. J. Ellis, Isaiah Scipio, F. D. Ferrell, L. G. Degeddingseze, James Edward Jones, Hillery Broadus, Welford Wilson, Roy Thompson, Seth Toney, R. A. C. Foster, H. A. Green, J. L. Richard, John Dorn, Joseph Williams, S. O. J. Evans, M. M. Jefferson, and A. A. Peters.

Additional posts went to Rev. W. H. Warfford, chaplin and Rev. A. T. Broadus, historian. Rev. Marvin Robinson of Pasadena was elected to fill the post of administrative coordinator-at-large.

Regular coordinators elected were Rev. Claude McKinney, Northwest Pacific area; Rev. Joseph Griffin, Intermountain Pacific area and E. V. Hi., Southwest Pacific Area.

1st AME Building Fund Guild to Seek $700,000

After 88 years, the oldest Church among Negroes in the city of Los Angeles, girds for relocation. The spirit of the people at First AME Church spells "Forward for God." On Jan. 10, a large number of women met at the Wilfandel Club under the chairmanship of Mrs. Paul R. Williams, for the purpose of conducting the pledge program for $700,000.

A well organized plan was outlined by Rev. H. H. Brookins to the women who overwhelmingly endorsed and committed themselves to it. With $100,000 already pledged without effort, the five year plan is designed to include every member of the church, according to Sara Nelson, reporter for the church, the "fever" of building seems to have gripped every organization and member of the church.

Plans for the future include activity in which the members will, on Feb. 26, observe Men and Women's Day for local and connectional budgets, so that the relocation program can take front place in the program.

The Pastor, Dr. Brookins, announced that the second Sunday in February, which is the day on which the African Methodist Episcopal Church was founded, will be "Loyalty Day." All members of the church will be requested to first worship and return and stay home until a member of the guild has visited them after the worship service and secured their written pledge to the program.

McCarty Opens Revival Week

A week of revival services will open at McCarty Memorial Christian Church, 4101 W. Adams blvd., Jan. 22, at 10:40 a. m. with the minister preaching on "This Jesus."

Church officers have set up this special effort to strengthen spiritual life of members as well as to present the Christian message to the community. Rev. Kring Allen, pastor, lists challenging topics for each of his sermons in the series. He is recognized as a most effective preacher, thoroughly prepared by training and experience.

Mrs. Marion Downs Pierce will be song leader at the 7:30 services each night in the week. The choir under the direction of John Herrod will present special music at the Sunday morning services on Jan. 22 and 29.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

ABIE'S CORNER

Wilma Rudolph, the No. 1 personality to emerge from the 1960 Olympiad at Rome, and every other still-active U. S. track and field gold metal winner headline a strong field for the second annual Los Angeles Invitational Indoor meet Saturday evening, Jan. 21, at the Sports Arena.

In addition, a crack mile cast will match the great Jim Beatty, who recorded the world's fastest mile (3.58) in 1960, and such distance running stars as Ernie Cunliffee, Archie San Romani Jr., Bob Holland and George Larson.

Wilma, who captured three gold medals at Rome in a fantastic display of sprinting, shares the spotlight with three other U. S. gold medalists from Rome and another from Melbourne and Helsinki.

Her own school, little Tennessee State, offers one of them — broad jumper Ralph Boston who shattered the almost indestructible record of Jesse Owens with his jump of 26 ft. 11¼ inch.

Also there's Don Bragg, world record holder in the pole vault (15 ft. 9½ in.) as well as Otis Davis, who broke a world standard in the 400 meters at Rome. The other Olympic gold medal winner is shot putter Parry O'Brien, a silver medalist in Italy after winning gold awards at Melbourne (1956) and Helsinki (1952).

Wilma will be making her first Los Angeles appearance and also will be competing for the first time in this country since her triumphs in Europe. Her oposition will include Tigerbelle teammate Martha Hudson and Irene Robertson, another Olympian.

Virtually every event will present an Olympic team member or standout performer.

To Defend Golf Crowns

Joe Roach and Pete Brown willdefend their amateur and pro titles, respectively, in the eighth annual North-South Golf Tournament Feb. 20-24 at the Miami Springs course.

Roach, a native Miamian, has won the crown the last fours years and is a former National Negro links champion. Brown, from Jackson, Miss., dethroned Harrington last year and captured the Asbury Park title recently.

Ted Rhodes, four-time National Negro pro champion, and Charles Sifford, current National titleholder, will give the young Mississippian a tough battle.

Richard Gardner will be among those who are expected to give Roach, now of Los Angeles, a run for the big trophy.

Laker Cagers To Attend Cage Clinic

A free basketball clinic featuring the incomparable Elgin Baylor and other stars of the Los Angeles Lakers will be sponsored by the Municipal Sports Division of the City Recreation and Park Department at the Sports Arena in Exposition Park from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. Saturday, Jan. 28.

Emphasizing that admission to the event will be by ticket only, Dudley C. Shumway, supervisor of municipal sports in the Recreation and Park Department, said that the Sports Arena's doors will be open at 10 a. m. Jan. 28. Hoop enthusiasts of all ages are invited to atend the clinic, he added.

Free ducats can be obtained from recreation directors at municipal playgrounds throughout Los Angeles or by calling MAdison 4-5211, Station 505, to request them, Shumway said.

Jordan Edges Jefferson in City Cage Tilt

The Jordan High basketball team, with eyes toward the school's annual fall Athletic Banquet sponsored by Jordan High School's Youth Service, scored an impressive 54 to 51 victory over Jefferson High in the feature game of the city high school Basketball Tourney at Venice High last Saturday.

Sharp shooting John Anderson, a guard, drilled in 18 points in the final quarter to pull his team into the lead after Jeff had led late in the game 37 to 36. Anderson accounted for 10 field goals for 20 points.

This was the fourth of a total of eight games scheduled.

In other games Roosevelt surprised Marshall, 66-57; Dorsey nodded Canoga Park, 53 to 50 in overtime and Poly turned back Venice, 61 to 42.

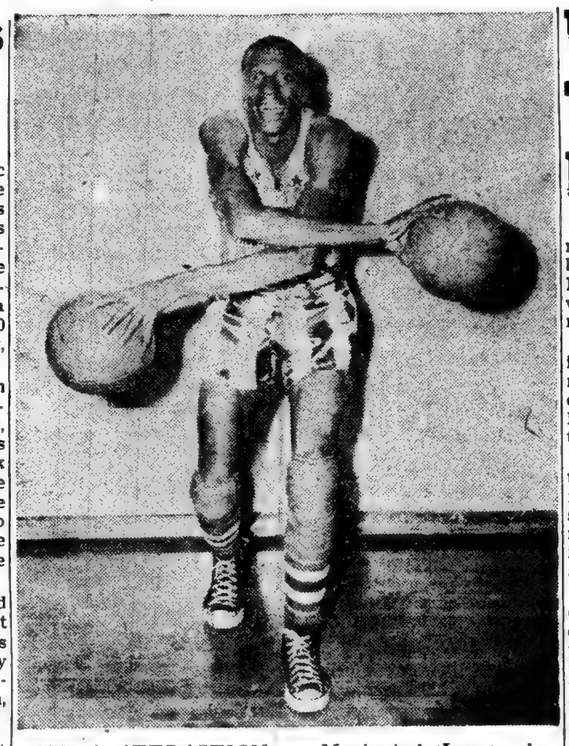
The tourney moves over to L.A. State College gym games on Jan. 21, 23, and 25.

Indoor Mile Race Is Top Feature

An International mile race featuring Istvan Rozavolgyi, Hungarian freedom fighter, and Terry Sullivan of Rhodesia, Africa's first sub-4m. runner, against outstanding Americans will be the highlight of the Second Annual Los Angeles Indoor Games at the Memorial Sports Arena Feb. 11.

Meet Chairman Glenn Davis has the assurance of Dan Ferris, National AAU Secretary, that both Rozsavolgyi, world's No. 1 1500-meter runner in 1959 and third-place finisher at Rome in the Olympics; and Sullivan who chased Herb Elliott to the tape in two post-Olympic races, will be in the brilliant field.

Rozsavolgyi's 3:38.9 1500-meter time gained him the No. 1 world ranking two years ago, and he ran 3:39.2 at Rome. The Hungarian, now 31, is holder of the world's 2000-meter record of 5:02.2, and former holder of the 100-meter mark.



Sullivan, 23, impressed track critics by running a 3:59.8 mile in Dublin last September, and defeated Americans Dyrol Burleson and Jim Grelle in the British Empire vs. USA meet.

Angels Report To Spring Drills At Palm Springs

The Los Angeles Angeles will report for their first American League spring training camp on Friday, Feb. 24, at Palm Springs, Calif., it was announced today by General Manager Fred Haney. The entire squad will report to the Polo Grounds in the California resort city for uniforms on Feb. 25 with workouts due to begin the following day.

The Angels will start their 26-game exhibition schedule on Saturday, March 11, against the Chicago Cubs at Palm Springs. Los Angeles will also host the Cubs the following day. The schedule runs through April 9.

The new American League entry — the first club to represent the junior circuit on the West Coast — will play 11 games in Palm Springs and 15 on the road, including a pair with the Atlanta Crackers at Atlanta, prior to the start of the 1961 season. The Angels open their first campaign at Baltimore on Tuesday, April 11.

NO. 1 ATTRACTION — Meadowlark Lemon, the delightful comedian par excellance, leads the fabulous, exciting, hilarious Harlem Globetrotters in a tremendous doubleheader basketball game at the Shrine Auditorium on Sunday, January 29.

Boots Monroe, Dan Valdez In Featherweight Title Go

Back in 1958, Boots Monroe was regarded as one of the best young fistic prospects to come along in years.

This impression was short lived as in Feburary of 1959, he was bombed out by Toluco Lopez in two rounds at Hollywood Legion Stadium. He hit the boards a total of four times before Referee Lee Grossman wisely halted the mismatch.

Now, two years older and wiser and a division heavier, Boots gets another chance for stardom. He meets tough Danny Valdez in a 12-rounder tonight, Thursday at the Olympic for the vacant California featherweight title.

A win over Valdez, who is ranked ninth in the world, would put Monroe in line for some money matches. A loss will probably write finish to his career.

Though he only tipped the Fairbanks at 122 pounds, Monroe was a top high school football player. He was the defensive halfback on the Centennial High team which won the CIF title from Glendale Hoover in 1954.

The offensive fullback was a guy named Paul Lowe, who now does his stuff for the Los Angeles Chargers.

Continuing their policy of one televised and one off TV main event, the Olympic has Alfredo Escobar and Irish Noel Humphreys paired in the video feature.

Barons vs. Canucks

Cleveland Barons meet the Vancouver Canucks at the L. A. Sports Arena, Wednesday and Thursday nights, Feb. 1 and 2. The games are sponsored by Jack Dempsey who had the Boston Bruins and the Toronto Maple Leafs at the Arena last September.

JOHN S. ALESSIO Executive Director

Maury Wills Tabbed for Pay Raise

Thirty-eight contracts were mailed last Thursday to members of the 1961 Los Angeles Dodgers, E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, vice-president and general manager, announced.

"After a fourth-place finish," Bavasi said, "there will not be the customary number of salary increases among the Dodgers. Not as many as in the past, in any event."

"There will be, for that matter, a few cuts although it is not our practice to deal out severe pay slices. When you reach that point with a player it's better not to have him around."

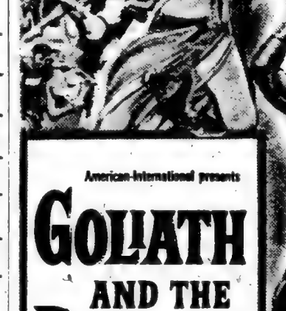
While Bavasi did not single out those due for raises or decreases, it was rather obvious that Norm Larker, who battled Dick Groat for the batting crown right down to the final day of the 1960 season, and Maury Wills, who stole fifty bases and finished in the top ten among the league's batters, were in line for pay hikes, among others.

Chargers' Coaches To Attend Banquet

Two assistant coaches of the Western Division title winning Los Angeles Chargers and several stars of the team will be special guests at the Jefferson High and Jordan High banquets tonight (Thursday).

Offensive end Coach Al Davis, tackle Ernie Wright and defensive back Jim Sears, former SC all-American, will headline Jefferson's banquet at Rand's Roundup on South Figueroa.

And offensive line coach Joe Madro, end Trusse Norris and all-pro defensive back Dick Harris, will spark Jordan's banquet in the multi-purpose room on the school's campus.



The Chargers' all-pro quarterback Jack Kemp and Brad Pye, Jr., a member of the club's public relations staff, will be special guests at Narbonne High's fall banquet Friday night, Jan. 20.

Title Go Officially Set for Miami Beach

Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson will finally tangle in their rubber match March 20 in Miami Beach.

The 15 round bout is the first heavyweight title match to be staged indoors since Nov. 30, 1956, when Patterson knocked out Archie Moore to become the world champion. It is also the first interracial heavyweight championship bout in the history of the famed Miami Beach arena.

The fight will be promoted by Humbert (Jack) Fugazy, executive director of Feature Sports Inc. Seats in the 18,000-capacity Miami Beach Convention Hall have been scaled from $100 ringside, to $20. They expect a live gate of $1,000,000, with another $2,000,000 coming from nationwide TV.

SIGNED — Archie Moore, 170 pound kingpin, and Erich Schoeppner of Germany signed to meet in 15-round light heavyweight championship fight at Madison Square Garden in New York Mar. 20 or 21.

1960 Progress

Now that another golfing year has passed, we are happy to report that a little progress was made in the direction of integration by our golf clubs.

Cosmopolitan Golf Club was the first club to vote to "leave Fox Hills." Their tournaments will be held on other golf courses whose clubs are not guilty of segregating. (Even semi-private Rio Hondo Men's Club accepted ONE Negro.)

Earl Reason, progressive president of Cosmo, must be complimented for his ability to continue to make this organization one of the largest on the West Coast. (In 1961 we would like to see Cosmo select and sponsor amateur Ray Boots in all tournaments.)

The Dental, Medical and Pharmaceutical Golf Club ALSO left Fox and held its annual Thanksgiving tourney at the popular Whittier Narrows County Course.

Rumor has it that Dr. Welles Forde was invited to join the Whittier Narrows Men's Club. If so he will be their first Negro member. Dr. Jerene Webb's hard work as tornament chairman for the medical men cannot go unnoticed. He must be a true "divot digger" because he tees these tournaments off at the "crack of dawn."

The California Rubaiyat Golf Club finally called a meeting and disbanded, thus enabling the male members to reorganize and play some golf. This group is to be complimented for sending ALL of its women members a check to cover funds that they had invested in the organization.

The Western avenue Negro Women after a 5-year fight finally convinced the Western Avenue Caucasian Women golfers (out of court) that they should accept Negro women golfers.

Ella Montgomery and Marie Brown were voted in and played their 1960 Christmas tournament with them. Ella won the club prize. Their militant president Peggy Hubber must be saluted for her patience and encouragement during the heat of the fight.

The Golden Tees are in for nothing but eagles and pars in '61 because of that beautiful plaque that they presented this writer. The inscription read "For your continued fight for golf integration." (Thank you, tournament chairman Bob Williams.)

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, who in the past was bitter because of the continuous fight at Western, changed his mind and agreed to call a meeting to reinstate all county clubs.

Superintendent Norman Johnson made a giant step toward progress when he had vowed never to meet with the Caucasian women at Western) he came to Western last month to set up the meeting for March 1961.

Bing and Bob Crosby sent their first invitations to Negro golfers Charlie Sifford and Harry Mills. They will play in their lush, rich Pebble Beach $55,000 tournament. One-hundred and fifty pros and 150 amateurs, including the biggest names in show and sports biz will tee off Thursday. The low scorers only will play the final round Sunday. See you there.

Sad Note — Vernoncrest Golf Club is the only club that did not show any progress in 1960. They continued to hold Labor Day tournaments at Fox. It is the only club left there and will face a picket line in September. They were given a year's notice to leave.

Baylor, Wife to Attend Inaugural

Three members of the Los Angeles Lakers basketball squad, Elgin Baylor, Jerry West and Hot Rod Hundley competed in the annual NBA All-Star game at Syracuse last Tuesday.

Baylor was accompanied by his wife, Ruby, on the trip. The Lakers have a night off Friday and Elg and Ruby have accepted an invitation to be present at President Kennedy's inaugural ball.

WHAT'S DOING

Starting guns are familiar to most people, but few have heard of a "Stopping gun". It's used in our Defensive Driving course to show how long it takes you to stop your car. That's a "stopping gun" on the bumper of the car in the picture.

The instructor riding in the car pulls a string and fires the "gun" as a signal to the driver to stop as fast as he can. A chalk mark is shot onto the pavement as the gun goes off, and a second mark is made when the brakes are applied.

By measuring the distance between the chalk marks, the driver learns how far his car travelled before he reacted to the noise of the gun.

We pay lots of attention to safe driving at the phone company, and we've found just being alert avoids lots of accidents.

Every telephone employee who drives in his work takes a "Defensive Driving" course.

This special training really works. Our drivers have one of the best safety records anywhere.

* * * * *

For some unknown reason, squirrels like to gnaw on telephone cables.

Their chewing puts holes in the cable's outer covering and lets moisture get inside. This, in turn, interferes with telephone service.

To protect phone cables, we cover them with metal roofs or wrap them with steel tape.

Squirrels don't like this, but it keeps our cables from being damaged and helps us keep your telephone service dependable.

SPECIAL SERVICE TO GROUPS

Are you the program chairman for a service club or a church group or a member of such an organization?

Pacific Telephone will be happy to provide a program for you. We have many new and different programs and films for clubs and schools. For example, our lecture demonstration, "Rockets Red Glare." Our speaker will explain the intricate system of detection and warning that has been set up to assure around-the-clock protection of Southern California. He will describe how the rocket, Nike is triggered to intercept an enemy plane and you will see a film of a high flying plane actually being destroyed by Nike. This is a program of paramount interest to all.

If you'd like such a program or further information, just call or visit your local telephone business office at 3233 W. Vernon Avenue.

TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

THE HOUR IS LATE
HERE IS THE ANSWER
FOR GOD'S SAKE, WAKE UP!

THE HOUR IS LATE

America is at war. A war we are losing. We are under attack by Godless Communism on a world front and Godless materialism on the home front. Selfishness, perversion and division within our borders are the forces through which Communism takes over.

It is an ideological war. We are losing it because we are not fighting it. Republicans and Democrats—it is the same. We move heedless and headless without an ideology against an ideological enemy. America is in danger of losing her life and the Free World its freedom.

Guns, dollars and diplomacy alone are no match for an enemy who has all these but advances because of the super-arm of an ideology.

America needs an ideology. A change of policy is not enough. We need a change of motives and character. A great cleansing and uniting force for the nation.

We judge ourselves by our ideals. Others judge us by the way we live. Unfaithfulness in the home, perversion in high places and low, decadence in the arts, lawless youth, class war, race war, dishonesty — these are becoming the marks of American life. We are all responsible.

These are no weapons with which to win the struggle for the hearts and minds of the millions of the world. And no USIA can make them so.

The fact is that millions who would never join the Communist party make its advance inevitable by the way they live.

Chancellor Adenauer of Germany said, "Communism is a false ideology. But it is an ideology and can only be met with moral and spiritual weapons. We are in an ideological battle. Therein lies the decisive task. It may last decades, but it must be won. A nation with an ideology is always on the offensive. A nation without an ideology is self-satisfied and dead."

Because we do not live an ideology we fail to recognize those who do. We were fooled by Mao Tse-tung. We were fooled by Castro. In our blindness we are led by those in our own press and government whose task it is to make Communists look like harmless reformers till they are safely in power.

Our greatest sin has been to cheat the world of the nation-saving truths upon which America was founded. Our destiny is to free the world of tyranny. Instead, we have cashed in our fighting faith for a soft materialism and retreated before the greatest tyranny the world has ever known.

"Men must choose to be governed by God or they condemn themselves to be ruled by tyrants." In William Penn's words lies America's death sentence. Or her one hope.

The hour is late. But not too late to turn to the answer.

There is an answer. It is Moral Re-Armament.

HERE IS THE ANSWER

Throughout 1960 the ideological force of Moral Re-Armament has been at work in crisis points across the world.

GERMANY

On December 10, 1960, Bonn newspapers announced Chancellor Adenauer's launching of an ideological offensive for Moral Re-Armament in Western Germany.

The newspaper, Westdeutsche Allgemeine wrote: "At last we go on the offensive. Moral Re-Armament gives democracy the moral backbone it lacks today."

120,000 people, including 17,000 officers and men of the German NATO force, have seen the films and plays of Moral Re-Armament in recent weeks.

One of these plays, Hoffnung (Hope), was produc and performed by coal miners from the German Ru many of them leading Communists before being won to ti. ideology of Moral Re-Armament.

A senior officer of the Ministry of Defense states, "The news of what MRA did for the Army is rolling like waves into the Ministry, breaking on our desks."

JAPAN

Following the riots last June, Prime Minister Kishi said, "But for Moral Re-Armament Japan would be under Communist control today." This month he writes, "Our greatest need now is to go on the offensive and make the ideology of Moral Re-Armament the policy of our government and of our people. Only then can Japan survive the testing years ahead and play her part in saving Asia from tyranny. Our experience last summer shows that you cannot answer ideological attack without an ideology. At the crucial hour men in labor, youth and politics, trained in Moral Re-Armament, stood up and refused to compromise with evil."

Earlier Gabriel Marcel, eminent French Catholic philosopher, commenting on the development of this force in Japan, wrote, "In Tokyo a few months ago I saw the importance of all that is being achieved. It creates a striking contrast with the sterile talk among professional politicians who seem too often not to grasp the magnitude of what is at stake."

THE CONGO

Congolese leaders invited an MRA force to their nation six weeks before independence. The force included black and white from South Africa, former Mau Mau leaders and white settlers from Kenya, as well as Americans and Europeans. President Kasavubu told them, "You have found the secret of liberation for Africa. All men must think how to give this moral basis to the country."

At the height of the emergency his government asked them to broadcast twice daily on the national radio on the theme, "An Answer to Crisis." These broadcasts are still continuing.

Commanders of UN contingents from 13 nations requested showings of the MRA films for their troops.

"We would have known a more terrible catastrophe but for the films and action of Moral Re-Armament in our country," said Jean Bolikango, Minister of Information and National Defense. "Through Moral Re-Armament we have seen the way to save our country from Communism and set her on a new road."

FREE CHINA

In September 1960 the National Assembly unanimously voted "to give assistance to the advancement of Moral Re-Armament in Formosa." It further requested that every year Chinese delegations should take part in MRA Assemblies.

The first trainees are now at Caux, Switzerland. General Ho Ying-Chin, wartime premier and commander-in-chief of the Chinese armies, said, "If we had had Moral Re-Armament, we would never have lost the mainland. Only with Moral Re-Armament can we recapture the mainland from Communism."

LATIN AMERICA

At a time when printing houses, radio stations and TV channels in Cuba are turning out Communist propaganda for the hemisphere, Eudocio Ravines, former Communist and delegate to the Comintern, founder of the Communist Party in Peru, says: "The basic problems of Latin America are not under-development, but corruption and Communism. While our countries welcome economic aid, alone it cannot touch the root problem. Without a moral ideology, it may even aggravate the problem. The best export the United States of America or any nation can send to Latin America is Moral Re-Armament."

In the port of Rio de Janeiro where strikes and lawlessness had created what the papers called "a reign of terror," dockers trained in Moral Re-Armament brought a revolutionary answer. They united the rival unions, they fought corruption, they drastically reduced the turn-around time of ships, they held the first democratic election in the history of the port, defeating the Communist candidates. Now they have told the story in a film, Men of Brazil, which is speaking to the world.

ITALY

With Italy within 1% of Communist take-over in the Spring elections, an MRA force is in action. They were invited by Italian leaders including Prince and Princess Castelbarco Albani, whose family gave a Pope to the Church, and Signora Maria Dosio, leader of the rice workers of Italy, and a Marxist until she returned to her Catholic faith after meeting Moral Re-Armament.

The plays went first to Milan, heart of industrial Italy and to Sesto San Giovanni, where 80% vote Communist. After one performance a Communist said: "Unless we get this answer there will be a blood-bath in Italy by spring. This is our one hope."

SWITZERLAND

An MRA force with its plays and films was welcomed in the Catholic monastery and convent schools of eastern Switzerland last autumn. His Grace Dr. Bernardus Kaelin, Abbot Primate of the world Benedictine Order, 1947-59, addressed the MRA World Assembly at Caux. He said, "The ideology of Moral Re-Armament can win all men because its standards are universally valid. It is not a religion, nor a substitute for a religion. It is not a sect. It has four mighty pillars—absolute honesty, purity, unselfishness and love—on which human living must be based. It is a new way designed to forestall a false ideology. May it win the world."

General Henri Guisan, war-time commander-in-chief of the Swiss Army, gave this message to his people in the foreword to the MRA handbook, Ideology and Co-Existence, which went to every home in Switzerland and to 87,000,000 homes throughout the Free World: "Ideological neutrality can be dangerous, for refusal to fight for what is right plays the enemy's game. We must not allow these military virtues to be killed in us by greed for profits and an easy life. I long that our whole people should face realistically the forces which confront us today."

AMERICA

In 1960 America produced a supreme weapon in the war of ideas — the MRA picture in Technicolor, The Crowning Experience. It poses the choice to all men everywhere of Moral Re-Armament or Communism. The story was inspired by the life of the great educator Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, born of slave parents, who rose to be adviser to Presidents. Stars of the film are Muriel Smith, Broadway's original "Carmen Jones," and Tennessee-born Ann Buckles of the New York cast of Pajama Game.

The Crowning Experience had its world premiere on Broadway last October. Stars from Hollywood, 300 UN delegates representing 73 countries, and leaders from every walk of New York life were among the distinguished audience who packed the theater.

In its Academy Award qualifying run in Hollywood The Crowning Experience premiere drew the greatest star-studded audience for many seasons. In a front page story The Hollywood Reporter stated that the film topped the week's box office business in Los Angeles.

The Los Angeles Herald and Express in an editorial said, "A vivid dramatization of the struggle of free people everywhere to roll back the advance of Communism." Of Muriel Smith, the drama critic wrote, "She quite possibly sang and acted her way into an Oscar nomination."

The South African National Board of Censors has unanimously passed The Crowning Experience for unlimited distribution.

In the prologue of the film, Joel McCrea, one of Hollywood's most distinguished stars, says, "The future of the world depends on millions making the right choice. Many do not know the real America. But The Crowning Experience is the kind of picture the world is waiting to see, because it portrays the true America to which the whole world can and will respond."

FOR GOD'S SAKE, WAKE UP!

The evidence is inescapable. We need now to act. When will America begin to fight the ideological war and make Moral Re-Armament her national policy?

Washington, clean, straight, and God-directed would be an invincible force leading mankind to its destiny.

The urgent need is for patriots — Democrat and Republican, labor and management, black and white, young and old — who will put right what is wrong in their own lives and in the life of the nation. Such men will take on the task of arming America with her true ideology.

It means absolute standards of honesty, purity, unselfishness and love, applied drastically, personally and nationally. It means men accepting the guidance of God. Definite, accurate, adequate information can come from the mind of God to the minds of men. It comes to those who listen and obey. It is the new dimension of statesmanship.

Dr. Frank Buchman, born in Pennsylvania, initiator of Moral Re-Armament, has done what no other American has done. He has not only seen the need for an ideology but has given a lifetime to raise up a world force of men and women trained and committed to fight and win the ideological war.

The governments of France, Germany, Greece, Japan, Free China, the Philippines, Thailand and Iran have decorated him with their nation's highest honors. In recent months leaders from 16 African nations have urged him to come to their countries before it is too late. In America 97 Senators and Congressmen said in a message to him, "You are giving a uniting idea to nations which can turn the ideological tide in the world today."

Speaking to a World Assembly for the Moral Re-Armament of the Nations at Mackinac Island, Michigan, Dr. Buchman said:

"My deep personal wish is to have every American free under the direction of God to fight for America; so to fight that America really be free, free from the tyranny of sin, under God's direction, the unseen but ever-present Power. I wish this no less deeply for everyone in every nation.

"I don't want our sons, especially our fighting sons, to go about without an answer. It simply enslaves them. It is not good enough. It will drive them to the same philosophy that rules our opponents. We shall never create an inspired democracy that way. Men must learn to have a faith that will create the right revolution. If we can spread this revolution fast enough we can save America and the world. Unless we have this revolution there will be a revolution of chaos.

"It needs this stronger dose. Sin leaves us with such a dull, heavy thud. 'The blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin.' That is the discovery everyone is looking for. That is the answer.

"Then you will have a wonderful example that the whole world will want to follow. You will have an America to which the wise and honest can repair. And that is what the world expects today of America. You will have a battle-cry of freedom, and that is what America wants. You will have a democracy that is really inspired.

"Then our young men and our old men will fight as Lincoln fought of old. Our young men will know what to fight for and our wars will be won. And we shall be at peace with all men and the whole world.

"The hour is late. Here is the answer. For God's sake, wake up!"

This page, like all the action of Moral Re-Armament, is financed by the sacrificial gifts of men and women from all walks of life, determined to bring this answer to America and the world. Contributions, which are tax deductible, and requests for information, may be sent to:

THE FASTEST BONGO ALIVE—That's what they are calling PRESTON EPPS. So like skeptical we believe not what we hear from rumor, we must see. We saw, we heard, we agreed. Pandora's Box has quite a show. If you haven't heard Afro-Cuban Jazz yet pick up on the happenings at Pandora's Box this weekend. Sharing the spotlight with EPPS is LOU RAWLS who sings in the style coming to be known as "soul" singing. Pandora's box is a coffee house and the menu is an experience all by itself; and within the student's budget too. Driving south from Hollywood we looked in on HANK STEWART at the BLACK ORCHID, where DIMPLES JACKSON TRIO was preparing for this weekend's grand opening. Dimples and hubby demonstrate remarkable versatility between the Hammond, piano or just about any string instrument with brother (you see it's a family group) on drums. Black Orchid will probably lead the way back to the era of cafe society, with chitterlings and steaks how can they miss. JERRY LINDERMAN invited us to the Club INTIME where a new group, CLIFFORD SCOTT quartet, was holding forth in grand style. This cat blows a "mad" sax, and threatens to make the INTIME rank with the top L.A. Jazz spots. This we would like to see. We notice many friends who would like to see a top jazzery right in our midst.

MRA Film to Be Considered For Oscar Race

Members of the Motion Picture Academy will attend a special screening of "The Crowning Experience", starring Muriel Smith, at the Academy Theatre Jan. 24 to consider the film for nomination in the Oscar awards race. Produced by Moral Re-Armament, the film was inspired by the life of the great educator, the late Mary McLeod Bethune.

The special showing is reserved for Academy members. Muriel Smith, the famed contralto who created the role of Carmen Jones on Broadway, has been widely hailed as a possible Award winner. She received highest plaudits from both New York and Los Angeles press.

In response to public demand, Moral Re-Armament will reschedule "The Crowning Experience" for more public showings in the near future.

MARCEL MARCEAU, acknowledged to be the world's greeatest pantomimist, began a limited two-weeks engagement Monday, January 16, at the Huntington Hartford Theatre.

Prize Winner Opens Friday

"The Young One" is Luis Bunuel's prize film, the first this director has made in English and the first to deal with the American scene. It opens an exclusive two-theatre engagement Friday, Jan. 20, at the Downtown Los Angeles and Hollywood Theatre in Hollywood.

Starring Zachary Scott and introducing Key Meersman and Bernie Hamilton, talented thespian and brother of the famous Chico Hamilton, in featured roles, "The Young One" is described by one critic as "Brilliant, savage and the ultimate in compassion."

Winner of the extraordinary merit award at the Cannes Film Festival.

DR. CHRIS TAYOR — He arranged for 110 students graduating in Jeff's Winter '61 class to have their After-Prom Dance at the plush Pacific Town Club. Following the affair which lasted until 4 a.m., class president Ernest Class and prom chairman Carol Smith thanked the good "doc" for everything he had done in their behalf and, in parting, they said they hoped that their behavior had made possible future favors for other teenagers from Jeff — and the "doc" was ready to give them the family jewels!

Rinkeydinks Club in Sparkling Gay Second Annual Bal Elegante Formal

The saying goes that the French have a word for it. If so, last Thursday night in the beautfiully decorated International Ballroom of the Beverly Hilton Hotel, the Rinkeydinks" Inc., at the club's Bal Elegante formal, added extra zing to that "word".

The formal theme was French, and it was carried out in a setting that depicted the gay streets of Paris even down to its live poodles.

Before the opening of the affair, the dance committee, chaired by charming Jeri Rancifer and comprising, in addition, Lena Barnes, Lillian Kazarian, Hildegrade Bostic and Anne Odom, arrived at the hotel at 8 p. m. They preceeded with speed and artistry to transform the ballroom into a typical French ctiy, capturing its fascinating gaiety, allure and charm.

The decorations included a street scene of a cafe on Rue de La Paix, complete with flower carts and a replica of the famed and traditional French magnum of champagne. So successful were their decorations and settings that when guests started arriving the huge ballroom immediately began to hum with laughter and gaiety that continued throughout the evening. The place sparkled as if one were in a Paris ballroom.

Ruth Bowen of the New York Chapter flew into town especially for the local chapter's second annual affair. She acted as mistress of ceremonies, wearing a crisp beauty of a gown made of mink and featuring red accessories.

California designer Joseph Malbrough, who creates most of the club's gowns for public affairs, included the suggestion of France in each of the member's brilliant black gowns of sequin bodices with chiffon skirts, featuring spaghetti strips and a striking red rose at the waistline.

Following the introduction, the fashionable guests, numbering easily 2,500, were entertained delightfully by such box office attractions as Earl Grant, Nellie Lutcher, Dinah Washington, Earl Bostic and Jimmy Witherspoon. The huge crowd gave them an ovation they will never forget.

On the serious side of the invitational affair, the Rinkeydinks selected this way of saying "thank you" to their many friends who have supported them in their community projects, such as donating $1000 to Jefferson High School's Scholarship Fund, aiding the NAACP and the Urban League and presenting another thousand dollars at an annual Christmas award benefit.

The Rinkeydinks have two spectacular events scheduled for the 1961 season but won't reveal the details until contracts are signed and sealed.

An invitation has been extended the local chapter to join their sister chapter when they fly to Paris in the Spring.

It was revealed following the formal that the local chapter will seek three new members to make their membership total 15.

Among the throng that turned out at the Bal Elegante were Beverly Jones and Dr. J. K. Lightfoot, Dr. and Mrs. Julius W. Hill, Berenice Booker, Bernice Lawson, Lee Trainor, Jack Trainor, Esther Worrill, B. Y. Worrill, Mr. and Mrs. H. Jones, B. A. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. F. Cotton, Mr. and Mrs. S. Smoke, Mr. and Mrs. F. Billinger, Mrs. Jaye Thomas, Olive Poole and Alvin White.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Juan Neucke, Miss Floyd Miller, Lorenzo Willis, Nancy Willis, Mr. and Mrs. John Merrill, Pat Moore, Miss V. Dooley, Nelson Creswell, Mr. and Mrs. Max Cazanave, Joel Fluellen, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Person, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Minor, Watson Childs, Mr. and Mrs. Mose Bardford, O. D. Barnes, Barbara Hubbard, Geneva Lamar, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Burris.

Also Bettye Jackson, Bob Nelson, William McHenry,

Dorothea Foster

By TOMMY BERRY

Our guest this week is the charming Tommy Berry, former columnist for the Kansas City Call and one of the founders of that city's Fellowship House.

She has been residing in Los Angeles for the past six years with her daughter Bootsie Howard, wife of Dr. Joe Howard. She is a member of the Los Angeles Probation Department.—Ed.

Hi folks . . .

When the Eagle asked me to be its guest columnist this week, I was delighted that I could share the pages with the good editorial writing of Loren Miller and Lester Granger, news tidbits with Bill Smallwood and other good writing folks, but since everyone is taking a breather from the holiday festivities, I'd like to reminisce on the wind-up.

It's always good to dine and dance with the good-looking Country Clubbers with URSULA MURRELL as head. . . . Spotted in the group was LOIS KNOX of D.C. DR. and MRS. TERRANCE of Louisiana guesting with the HOWARD ALLENS. EVELYN and HARRY COX in high spirits. Good-looking MAJOR and MRS. LOVING and all of a sudden there was COL. VANCE MARSHBANKS with his Mrs. As the rumor goes COL. MARSHBANKS heads an eleven man doctor astronaut team. But at any rate here is a man who has remained through the years, a friend, a gentleman and very much in love with his own three women, his wife and two lovely daughters.

JOHN and GEN RUDFUD enjoying their folks from Louisiana. IVAN DIXON winging his way to New York for a TV series. SIDNEY POITIER and JUANITA in Paris happily expecting.

The G. T. BRYANTS of Kansas City visiting their threesome, the LORENZO WALLACES.

Africa-Bound?

The ARTHUR KNIGHTS of Chicago in L.A. The EDGAR LOVES anticipating a year in Africa if wife MARGARET will give. And then off to the C.C.'s, a real swell bunch at the home of ETHEL and AL MADDOX with their beautiful young daughter fresh, dewey, lovely, assisting.

Slim OUIDA WILLIAMS in black sequins; CLARA HARRIS always smart, cute EDITH HOUSTON with a new hair-do; MAUDE BROADY having a ball; DELLA WILLIAMS always elegant; ANN COLEMAN, fresh; and loads of others and after the New Year comes the traditional after-the-game dinner with PAT and DR. G. McLEOD with all the honest food turned elegant with silver and cutwork but everybody just loved that foolishness, food that is.

And off to DOLLY and BOB BLACKBURN's to christen their cute new bar . . . and how I wish I could fly to D.C. by special invite to the Inauguration but JERRY WOODS will be going and quite correct and I don't know who else—and then came The Rinkeydinks and that was the living end, headed by ANNE ODOM. But let me tell you of the soft candle-light complemented with red, and this group of gals in black sequins and chiffon who knocked everybody out with all this and the Beverly Hilton, too.

Poodle Not a Ham

RUTH BOWEN, the cute member from New York, did herself proud with announcement of the group heading for Paris in the Spring. The grey poodles didn't give one care about having their pictures made and one was insulted with ABIE ROBINSON and all the goings-on, but all the celebrities were there with JIMMIE WITHERSPOON singing his heart out. JIM GILLIAM of baseball fame with his young wife expecting, just kids, but a pack of energy. And then there was EARL GRANT sending up Oh's and Ah's with velvet and silk tux and when he opened it up . . . boy! . . . but Earl is now flying all over Japan with a stop-off in Pearl Harbor for a concert for our boys there, then after six weeks to do a show for Ed Sullivan.

On to LAS VEGAS and maybe to meet the Rinkeydinks in Paris. And I looked up to see HENRY WOODS in baby Persian lamb and a black homburg. and that was the living end until DINAH WASHINGTON, looking radiant in green chiffon, just tossing that little ole sable aside, and if you didn't see her new husband RAFAEL CAMPOS with an acting career then you should'uv. But she is always a hand clapper. NELLIE LUTCHER singing and playing with all chiming in. The CAS SAVELLS with a small informal. The EDWARD BRAMLETTS (Edna's mom) visiting EDNA and CARL LOFTON from Cincy and I'm all out of space n' breath n' time.

'Bye now.

Honored On Anniversary

Talented music director Albert and Helen McNeil entertained 35 guests at a dinner-dance in honor of their seventh wedding anniversary.

The affair was held at their home on Don Diablo drive in the Baldwin Hills Estates. The decor was in keeping with the Yuletide season. Music for dancing was furnished by the Vince Gomez quartet.

Guests present were Dr. Oner B. Barker, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Boykin, Miss Carol Cappell, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carbaugh, Mr. Delfino Cisneros, Mrs. Bettye Day, Mr. and Mrs. Garron Gordon, Mrs. Constance Hall, Mrs. Phyllis Hollaway, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hanley, Miss Nira Hardon.

Also Dr. James Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Jones, Miss Marian Kaddish, Mrs. Madelynne Lewis, Mr. Mario Lomeli, Mr. Bill O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Omerberg, Mr. Lester Orticke, Miss Ets Osako, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Pleasant, Mrs. M. Porter, Mr. Robert Rupert, Mrs. Olive Skiles, Mrs. Florence Vaughn, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Watson (Dr. Louise Watson), Dr. Artis White, Mr. George Yamamoto.

Surprise Birthday

Louise Anderson, well known club woman and socialite, surprised her husband Carney Anderson with a birthday party in Pasadena last Saturday.

Retiring Official Honored

More than 150 county employees, community leaders, court officials, and friends gathered at a luncheon Friday to pay tribute to Senior Deputy Probation Officer Georgia C. Weist who is retiring after 30 years.

Miss Weist was lauded by Chief Deputy Probation Officer Harold R. Muntz, Captain Ruth Johns of the Sheriff's Department, representing the County Women Peace Officers Association, and Mrs. Audrey Jones, Attorney and president of the Twelve Big Sisters, for the service to children and families of the community. Master of Ceremonies was David P. Macpherson, director of the Southwest Area Office of the County Probation Department.

Those attending included Superior judges, referees, many administrators from correctional agencies, and forty of the staff members of the Southwest Office.

Miss Weist has won high praise for her contributions to the field of youth welfare and probation. She was a founder of the Los Angeles County Women's Peace Officers Association, and was its president in 1958. She has also been active in the Twelve Big Sisters, a service organization for girls, and in numerous community organizations.

Club Holds Regular Meet

La Vern Sails was hostess to the regular meeting of the Ladies of Paradise Club last week.

Committees reported on their recent affairs, their annual Christmas party and their award benefit at which three pirate chests filled with silver were given away.

Club members contributed to cheer a member who has been ill for the past several months.

The group holds a life membership in the NAACP and recently supported the NAACP Seals drive. Next meeting will be held in the Santa Monica home of Opal Richardson.

Miscellaneous Gifts Showered Upon Sandra Hoskins

Mrs. Kathryn Morris Huante was a most delightful hostess at the new Viewpark home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Morris, at a pretty miscellaneous shower and luncheon complimenting Miss Sandra Hoskins, bride elect of Mr. Alonzo Wilkins III.

Most of the guests were former roommates and friends of the honoree and the hostess when they attended UCLA.

Gives Fashion Show

Girl Scout troop No. 799 held a Fashion Show recently with Mrs. Rosemary Osburn as coordinator.

The Fashion Show was a huge success under the guidance of Mrs. William Files.

Clothes were furnished by Robert Hall.

The Girls who participated were; Stephanie Thomas, Marlyn Stewart, Kathy Jackson, Cynthia Hawkins, Jacquelyn Kea, Cynthia Jonnson, Patricia Blair, Gayle Harris, Cynthia Collein, Jacquelyn Troup, Linda Burgess, Gwendolyn Cooper, JoAnne Cormia, Willetta Files, Onnette Henry, Wanda Milan, Sharon Winston, and Patricia Clayton.

Tommy Tucker Surprises Wife on Her Birthday

How to surprise your wife on her birthday — don't give her mink. Instead, make it a Thunderbird and dinner at the Ambassador's popular Cocoanut Grove. But her birthday must fall on a night that youthful Paul Anka is in town.

Gussie Tucker was so surprised when her husband presented her with a sleek light blue Thunderbird she was speechless. Since it was her birthday her husband suggested they have dinner and take in a show. She quickly decided on the Ambassador at which Paul Anka was making his first West Coast nightclub—debut along with such wonderful entertainers as the Four Step Brothers, Dorothy Dorben, group dancers, and swinging Freddy Martin orchestra.

Mrs. Tucker still hadn't fully recovered from the surprise of receiving her exciting gift when she got her second surprise — her dapper husband ushered her to a ringside table where they found Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eullis, Mr. and Mrs. Brad Fye and Mr. and Mrs. Edw. "Abie" Robinson.

They all rose and gave out with the Happy Birthday bit. Mrs. Tucker was really nonplussed but finally broke out in smiles. The group and the Cocoanut Grove show helped provide her with a gay evening.

ning. The party left the Grove with Al Williams of the Step Brothers joining making the rounds which included the Memory Lane and Club Town Hill.

Local Delta Officer to Attend Inaugural Ball

Kay Murray is general chairman of the banquet at which new officers will be installed.

CHICAGO VISITOR

Lillian Coleman of Chicago is the house guest of Charity White at her Mansfield avenue home.

Banquet Honors Knights

A gala banquet was held recently for the Junior Knights and Junior Daughters of the Knights of Peter Claver and Ladies Auxiliary at St. Leo's Catholic Shurch Hall. It was replete with fun and gaiety.

Hosting the affair were area deputies, Pierre S. Thomas, Lady Louise Russell and Julius Pratt.

Junior Knights Commanders having boys present were: Frank Whittier, Council No. 87; Eldridge Charles, Council No. 96; Whitley Austin, Council No. 113; and Richard B. Thomas, Council No. 128.

Junior Daughter Counselors present were: Ladies Ann Walker, Court No. 87; Ann Revere, Court No. 96; Alberta Guidry, Court No. 113; Agnes Smith, Court No. 99; Louise Russell, Court No. 128; and Mae Moore, Court No. 121.

Responsibilty for the growth of Junior Knights and Daughter councils and courts, who at adults age may be Senior Knights and Ladies, is entrusted to Sir Knight William J. Knox, Sr., and Lady Alma Branlett, Western States district deputies, and various area deputies of the Knights of Peter Claver.

More than 200 Junior Knights and Daughters were present.

Zenith Club Slates Annual Talent Show

Zenith Social Club announced that March 12 is the date scheduled for its annual talent show, to be held in the Miramar Hotel in Santa Monica.

Nine years ago the group held its first show to raise funds for the Exceptional Children's Home.

The Zenith Club is the backbone of the $85,000 building program currently underway at the home.

This year's show is expected to be one of the best in the club's history. Social and civic organizations are urged to enter amateur talent in the contest.

Installs Officers

The American Assn. for Afro-American Relations held its installation of officers at the church of Christian Fellowship, 2nd avenue and W. Adams blvd. Rev. James Hargett, pastor of Christian Fellowship, officiated.

Officers installed were: Dr. Brandon A. T. Bowlin, president; Nnanna Ibok-Ete, first vice-president; Dr. Edna Griffin, second vice president; and Olu Delu, third vice-president; Mrs. Wesley Prevost, recording secretary; Mrs. Odessa Cox, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Floy Sibrie, financial secretary; James A. King, treasurer; Meta Dee, chaplain; Ifeagwu Chukwue Meka Omeke, auditor, and Pius O. Kigbe, coordinator.

Bill Smallwood

Esterline Powell's husband Bill, in a coma at Sawtelle. The Russell Thompsons (Luvercha Bray) entertaining at dinner Frid. Jessie McKinney was rushed to Good Samaritan Hosp. last Frid. The doctor eyed Gil Lindsay, shoved him into bed and cancelled all his Inaugural plans. The Girl Friends met Mon. with Lena Tucker.

Atty. Com Brown took the wingswept route as of Sat. to DC for a day or so and no doubt will be back by the time you read this. Maxine Heflin settled herself comfortably in her room on the City of LA streamliner last Sun. and scooted off to Chi. for a few days, then to the Inaugural Ball and onto NYC for a long fortnight of fun-fun. Lee Meriweather, who lives now in SF, was in town over the weekend. Zenobia Allen convalescing at home after surgery.

Met Debut

N'Yorker Arizona Harris who had been visiting our town leisurely bade temporary adieu and left Sat. for her home in Westchester, N.Y. She plans to dispose of her place and move to LA in the near future. The Sat. Afternoon Club meet Sat. with Pasadena's Marian Moore. SF's Bill Allen in NYC to attend the Met debut of Leontyne Price next Frid. Today (19) is Gwen Gordon's birthday. Ditto tomorrow for Loren Miller while Sat. (21) is natal day for Pauline Slater and Eddie Atkinson Jr.

Mon. (23) gets birthday hugs for Wesleen Foster and Maude Broady and Dr. Yolande Stovall Brooks gets hers the next day while Deegee Howard so nonchalantly nods to hers Wed. (25). Henry McPherson Jr. is host tomorrow night (Frid.) at Larchmont Hall to a coterie of friends who will de dancing and celebrating their high school commencement, as will their host. The Robert McFerrins (Sarah) plan a combination piano and voice studio now that they've moved completely to LA.

Fast Footwork

After last Sunday's afternoon concert (Shrine), Edith Fields Smith gathered unto her a merrie houseful of folk who promptly paid homage to her cocktails and buffet while stimulating talk flowed and flowed. Edith, ever provocative, undulated about in a leopard lounging outfit which almost distracted us from her usual excellent buffet table. Edith and Bill Dobson, on hand, lamented our inability to have attended that recent Sun. night party they gave which rang a rollicking welkin, so everybody reported.

Helen Garrott is just about herself again after recent illness. Edith (Brooks) Brown has been ill abed, too. The Eddie Beals moved into one of those spacious Leimert Park apartments last week. Clever: The miniature Chinese garden bowls created by imaginative Eula Pharr as Xmas gifts for her friends. Eula's do-it-yourself touch always was pretty wonderful. KGFJ's Tom Hawkins should be told about George Thompson; he's program director at the Bev.-Hills YMCA whence his career began as a janitor and not a check may be issued via BevHills American Legion post unless it bears George's signature.

Atlanta to L.A.: Lydia Burwell Hinkson, the merriest widow of them all. She's coming up for her next marital round, fighting fit and fresh as ever, her footwork unimpaired. Here a week, she heads for NYC. Made us promise, too, we'll visit Atlanta before autumn. We'll go via Tuskegee. C'mon!

Checker Contest At Thriftimart

The supermarket checker who has put many a can of pineapple into your grocery bag may get a chance to see that tropical fruit growing on tht stalk and your vote should help toward a wonderful all-expenses-paid vacation in Hawaii.

THRIFTIMART has entered all its checker-cashiers in the Checker of the Year Awards, sponsored annually by Supermarket Institute and National Cash Register Company. First, they will select a company winner and the votes of customers will count heavily. Ballot boxes will be in the THRIFTIMART Stores through February 14, according to Mr. Roger M. Laverty, Sr., President.

The THRIFTIMART winner will then compete among supermarket checkers throughout the state for the title of California Checker of the Year. Then, ten regional winners will be chosen. They will be flown by United Air Lines to Chicago for the annual convention of Supermarket Institute—May 7-10. There, the ten regional winners will be narrowed down to one—the 1961 Checker of the Year. Prizes will include a tour of Hawaii. Second and third-place winners will win vacations in the Hollywood Beach Hotel, Hollywood, Florida.

The Checker of the Year Award is not a beauty contest—the candidates are judged on customer courtesy, neatness, efficiency and cash register accuracy. VOTE NOW!!!

NEW YORK SCENE

Still Rambling around in the new buggy and having a good time in this, the only city in the world. Steve joined me on one of my maiden trips to St. Albans Naval Hospital to take care of some business and we had lunch in the charming company of several Navy nurses; just, Barbara, Millie, Joyce and Lois, to us, as we ignore all that Ensign jazz where nice gals are concerned.

TIMMIE ON ED'S TV SHOW

Monday night the Camp Fund affair was held at the Spotlite Bar, and a goodly crowd turned out for the fun and prizes. Comedian Timmie Rogers was on hand and we had a long gabfest, during which he informed me that he will appear on the Ed Sullivan Show on Feb. 19. Don't miss it.

This week it will be Fannie Pierre's Dawn Cafe for the Camp Fund affair of Mr. & Mrs. George Palmer. Its so cozy there, it should be kicks.

Congrats and every good fortune to L.A.'s fine dress designer and very sharp looker, Johnetta Starks, on her new singing career, and her recent recording.

U.S. Plans to Send White Track Team To South Africa

NEW YORK—The United States has bowed to segregationist demands of South Africa and has agreed to send a lily white track team to that country for meets scheduled early this spring.

Announcement that the AAU (American Athletic Union) had agreed to the humiliating demand brought a vehement protest from the NAACP.

'Bloody Monday'

Accusing the AAU of "knuckling under" to South Africa's apartheid (segregation) policy in an action that is an "insult" to "every Negro athlete," the NAACP pointed out that the track meet will mark the first anniversary of the "Sharpeville massacre of March 21, 1960, when police and troops shot down black men, women and children in cold blood with automatic weapons."

The appearance there of American athletes, the NAACP stated further, will "help white South Africa celebrate the killings."

South Africa apparently made the request that no Negro athletes be included in the team, and the AAU agreed to abide by that restriction.

Same Difference

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, wired Daniel J. Ferris, AAU secretary, on Jan. 17, stating further:

"According to today's New York 'Daily News,' South Africa has asked AAU to send all-white track stars there this spring but according to New York 'Times' the request was for 'preferred athletes.' Same difference, South Africa means don't send Negro athletes.

"National Association for Advancement of Colored People enters most vigorous protest against AAU complying in any way with this request. AAU will insult every Negro athlete and every loyal American Negro family if it

Hawkins Bored at Hearing

By C. Marie Hughes

As the preliminary hearing into the latest accusations against Eugene "Rough Lover" Hawkins opened Tuesday afternoon, police revealed they had found a new and intriguing piece of evidence in the Beverly Hilton Hotel room occupied by him and his 46-year-old redheaded alleged accomplice, Mrs. Marian Kritzer.

That evidence was a list of names, in Hawkins' handwriting, of wealthy women who appeared to be next in line on his "sucker list," according to Deputy District Atty. Anthony Joyce.

Ready to Testify

The hall outside Division 2 in the Hall of Justice where the hearing was being held was buzzing with individuals waiting and willing to testify on the latest charges against Hawkins — two counts of robbery and one of conspiracy.

Named with Hawkins on all three charges is Mrs. Kritzer,

Loren Miller says . . .

The First Shot

Loren Miller

I didn't get around to looking at it but the National Broadcasting Company fired the first shot in the Civil War centennial with a TV show this week. NBC says that it will give both sides "equal time" with one week's program presenting the northern view of the war and with the next week's program looking at it from a southern viewpoint. What NBC is saying is that it will paint the usual picture of the South's effort to break up the nation and preserve slavery in as heroic a light as the North's sacrifice to preserve the Union and blot out the slave system.

Under this scheme of things, Jefferson Davis will appear to be as great a patriot as Abraham Lincoln and his southern supporters who wrote a constitution resting on the "great cornerstone of slavery"—as one of them put it—will be hailed as equal in virtue to the men who wrote

84 to Testify About Kingpin, Henchmen

The preliminary hearing into charges filed against Ernest Russell, alleged kingpin in the city's numbers racket, and 29 of his henchmen was proceeding this week in what may prove to be the longest trial of its kind in Los Angeles history.

It was estimated that the preliminary hearing alone would probably run for at least a month, and possibly considerably longer, and that the subsequent trial if the 30 are held to answer could easily cost the county $200,000.

$1 Million a Year

Police claim that Russell's "take" and that of his syndicate amounts to well over $1 million a year. Deputy District Atty. Anthony Joyce estimated that a day's haul netted at least $35,000.

Among the 30 arrested whom police have tabbed as "top" operators in the organization are John Cornish, 42, of 4021 S. Woodlawn avenue; James N. Goodlow, former sergeant in the sheriff's department; Johnnie Hill Taylor, Kathryn Elfrieda Belt and Roswell Webb.

Cornish they claim is the No. 2 man, and Goodlow the No. 3.

Five Arrested For Murder at Lucky Spot

Five men were arrested Sunday night in the vicinity of the Lucky Spot Bar, 1105½ E. Vernon avenue, and charged with suspicion of murder in the stabbing death of a 40-year-old laborer, Warren Syria.

Syria was stabbed in the chest, reportedly with a six-inch butcher knife.

Hit with Crutch

Witnesses said that the fight started outside the bar over the purchase of some wine, and then continued inside.

They said that one of the suspects bashed Syria over the head with a crutch, splintering the crutch and toppling the victim to the floor. While he lay on his back, they continued, another of the suspects stabbed him in the

Granger Elected Head Of World Social Workers

NEW YORK — Lester B. Granger, executive director of the National Urban League, was elected last week president of the International Conference of Social Work. It is the first time a Negro has been elected to the post. Granger is a columnist for the Eagle.

Granger's election came at the biennial meeting of the conference in Rome, which ended Jan. 14. More than 2,500 delegates from fifty-four countries attended. Pope John XXIII received the delegates in a special audience at the conclusion of the meeting.

A former vice president of the Conference, Granger, who has served more than 40 years in the field of social work, was U.S. chairman of the International Conference for four years (1952-56). In this capacity he lead the American delegation to biennial meetings in India, Canada and Germany. He has served also as president of the National Conference of Social Work, representing social welfare in the United States.

Last November, Granger was named by Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell to the chairmanship of the Federal Advisory Council on Employment Security. He also serves on the directing boards of the State University of New York, the New York School of Social Work, the American Council to Improve Our Neighborhoods (ACTION), and the American Heritage Foundation.

The National Urban League is an interracial organization designed to increase opportunities for Negroes and to better race relations in America. It has 63 local affiliates and was founded in 1910.

N.Y. Schools Ordered to Desegregate

NEW YORK — Racial segregation in public schools is as unconstitutional in the north as it is in the south, and it is prohibited whether it is arrived at by state law or by gerrymandering of school districts.

That was the burden of a decision handed down by U.S. Judge Irving R. Kaufman who ordered the New Rochelle School Board to present a plan of desegregation by April 14 that will become operative no later than next September.

The gerrymandering of district lines was accomplished by the transfer of white children in the district to schools outside the district, the court said.

The court referred to Lincoln school. The parents of Lincoln school pupils had asked the court to find that their constitutional rights had been violated.

The board's principal contention was that the existence of an all-Negro or a predominantly Negro school is not, in and of itself, a violation of the Constitution.

"The constant reiteration of this argument indicates the board's preoccupation with semantics at the expense of realities," Kaufman said.

Hawkins Bill Will Ban All Housing Bias

SACRAMENTO — Assembly Bill No. 7, "to put teeth" into the enforcement of non-discrimination in housing, has been proposed in the state legislature by Assemblyman Augustus Hawkins, it was reported this week by the California Committee for Fair Practices. The bill is now being circulated to permit other assemblymen to sign as co-sponsors.

Under the proposed measure, the Hawkins Fair Housing Law enacted in 1959 would be extended to prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry in the sale or rental of all housing—private as well as public and publicly assisted housing. It would also provide for administration enforcement by the Fair Employment Practices Commission (which will become the Fair Practices Commission).

Forward Step

"Successful enactment of A.B. 7 will give us the broadest, soundest and most effective legislation against housing discrimination to be found anywhere in the United States," Assemblyman Hawkins declared. "The housing law passed in 1959 was a first step — now let's complete the job."

"Assemblyman Hawkins included in A.B. 7 all the provisions agreed upon by the wide coalition of California organizations backing civil rights," stated C. L. Dellums, chairman of the California Committee for Fair Practices, and Western Regional president of the NAACP. "We must now continue joint action to mobilize community support."

As outlined by the California Committee for Fair Practices, A.B. 7 contains provisions to:

1. Make it unlawful "to refuse to sell, rent or lease or otherwise to deny or withhold from any person or group of persons such housing accommodation because of the race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry of such person . . ."

"Such housing accommodation" includes all housing "other than a single unit dwelling occupied in whole or part by the owner as his residence."

2. Forbid discrimination "in the terms, conditions or privileges" of housing accommodations, "or in the furnishing of facilities or services in connection therewith."

3. Prohibit discrimination by any person, bank, mortgage company or other financial institution to whom application is made for financial assistance . . ."

4. Make it illegal "for any person to aid, abet, incite, compel or coerce the doing of any of the acts or practices declared unlawful."

5. Empower the State Fair Employment Practice Commission "to prevent violations" of the provisions of A.B. 7.

6. Authorize the Commission to proceed in a housing discrimination case "in the same manner and with the same powers as provided. . . in the case of an unlawful employment practice . . . and the powers, duties and rights of the State Fair Employment Practice Commission, its chairman, members, attorneys or agents, the complainant, the respondent, the Attorney General and the Superior Court, shall apply to any proceeding under the provisions of this section."

chest with the long-bladed knife.

Syria struggled to his feet, staggered to the door, and there collapsed. Police found him lying, bleeding to death, in front of the cafe. A butcher knife was found across the street. Broken pieces of the crutch were picked up both inside and outside the cafe.

Some Admit Fight

Those arrested were: Leonard Robinson, 27, of 932 E. Adams blvd., who was accused of the stabbing; V. I. Robertson, 30, of 632½ W. 47th street; Casby Dixon, 28, who admitted having "a fight with that guy" and hitting him with McNeil's broken crutch; Cornelius Robertson, 25, of 938 S. Hemlock; and James Alton McNeil, 26, of 1157½ E. 25th street.

McNeil admitted to police that he had had an argument with Syria who "threw a punch" at him.

"I hit him on the head with my crutch," McNeil continued.

Deny Stabbing

Dixon said he "didn't remember" cutting Syria, and added that he had seen Leonard Robinson "with a long knife in his hand."

Robinson, who received some cuts in the fighting, said he was playing the pin ball machine and "didn't have anything to do with the fight." He added that "someone got a knife and cut me."

None of the men arrested admitted stabbing Syria.

Cornelius Robertson, brother of I. V. Robertson, said that both Robinson and Dixon had knives, and then added, "I didn't see nobody cut nobody, and I didn't cut nobody."

FOR LIFE—Mrs. Lucille Graves, president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Early Californians, hands a $100 check to NAACP business manager Charles Thomas, as an initial payment on a $500 life membership to the NAACP. The membership was taken out in memory of the late Zack Williams, one of the founders of the Early Californians. Woman Refuses to Tell Who Shot Her in Ankle

When police arrived at 5115 Holmes avenue Sunday morning they found Ruth Armstrong sitting by the front door with a gunshot wound in her ankle. She told police she had been shot but refused to tell them who shot her.

Police, however, arrested her brother, Otis McLathen, 36, of 1182 E. 54th street, who said he was asleep when his sister was shot. They also arrested Raymond Le Blanc, 511 Holmes avenue, and Elaine Brown, 20, of 10420 Wiggins street.

The suspects claimed they thought a house party was going on and they knew nothing about the shooting.

Mrs. Armstrong's sister, Manila Beckett, of 5416 Morgan avenue, told the officers she arrived after the shot was fired.

Negro Students On Par with Whites

HOUSTON — Twelve Negro children who entered "white" schools last Fall in the nation's largest segregated school system kept pace with their white classmates, a survey by the Houston Chronicle shows.

UN, Goaded, Asks Lumumba Release

As the United Nation's action in the Congo began to weaken following last week's cruel beating of Premier Patrice Lumumba upon his transfer in chains to Elizabethville, Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold for the first time sought Lumuba's release from jail.

Hammarskjold's action was in the nature of a request, not an order.

Anger Mounts

It came after two nations, the United Arab Republic and Guinea, asked that their 1235 soldiers in the Congo be sent home, the UAR requesting release by Feb. 1.

It came also after Congolese anger mounted precipitately, especially when UN leaders showed solicitous concern for whites arrested in Lumumba territory in contrast to their hands-off policy when the fate of African leaders was involved.

Last Friday, Rajeshwar Dayal of India, head of the U.N. mission in the Congo, sent a sharp note to pro-Lumumba leaders in Oriental Province warning that arbitrary arrests and ill-treatment of Europeans will not be tolerated."

Accuse U.N.

Lumumba leaders replied by accusing the United Nations of complicity in the secret transfer of the premier from the jail in Thysville to enemy territory in Katanga Province.

Antoine Gizenga, leader in Stanleyville who claims to rule the Congo in Lumumba's name, told the U.N. officials to stay out of the affair, and asked why they were not "equally persistent" in trying to get Lumumba released as in seeking the freeing of Europeans.

The anger of Lumumba's followers increased when President Kasavubu's foreign minister, Justin Bomboko, followed the white man's lead and lamented the arrested of Europeans.

New 'Atrocity' Stories

Reports of rough treatment of nuns and missionaries were again flooding foreign news services. It was reports of similar "atrocities" last July just after the Congo was granted independence that served as the pretext for Belgium to resume military control of the country. Those "atrocity" charges were never verified.

Hammarskjold Tuesday made the statement that a political settlement in the Congo is impossible without the help of Lumumba. He urged Kasavubu to bring Lumumba to the capital, Leopoldville, and suggested that Lumumba be released.

U.N. Debate Asked

The new country of Mali, meanwhile, has asked for a new debate on the Congo in the U.N. Security Council.

In making his request, President Modivo Keita complained of the beating and transfer of Lumumba.

U.N. observers in Elizabethville last Wednesday told how Lumumba and two other men were dragged off a plane, trussed with ropes and tied together.

Then African troops, under the command of Belgian officers, clubbed them, hit them in the face with rifle butts, kicked them and pummeled them.

When they fell to the ground, the gendarmes let them lie for a while, then resumed their beating.

"It was sickening," said one of the U.N. soldiers.

Johnson Given Service Award

Clarence R. Johnson, Sr., of 2938 Farmdale Ave., was among those honored Monday, in San Francisco, as one of six employees of the Regional Public Housing Administration Office to receive a Superior Service award in 1960.

Johnson, who has been Regional Intergroup Relations Adviser for PHA in Los Angeles and San Francisco for the past 12 years, was his agency's national candidate for the Distinguished Service Award presented annually by the Housing and Home Finance Agency, over-all housing agency for the federal government. As a nominee for the HHFA honor, he became automatically eligible for the PHA award.

In addition to a handsome certificate citing Johnson for service of superior nature to the federal government, he received a cash award of $300.

Venice Slayer Pleads Guilty, Gets Life Term

James David Jefferson, 21, of 639 Brooks avenue in Venice, who pleaded guilty to a charge of first degree murder in Santa Monica Superior Court, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Orlando Rhodes last Monday.

Jefferson shot and killed his friend Raymond D. Glasgow, 22, last Sept 25 after the latter slapped Jefferson's girl friend who had refused to dance with him.

NAACP Rally Slated Sunday To Help Tenn.

"Help Tennessee!" is the theme of the NAACP mass rally to be held Sunday, Jan. 29, at 3 p.m. at People's Independent Church, 1025 E. 18th street.

The support of each and every citizen is urgently requested. No contribution is too small to help the victims of bigotry in Fayetteville and Haywood Counties of Tennessee.

Broad Program Planned By History Week Groups

A mass meeting, City Hall celebration, motorcade, youth sing, civic luncheon, oratorical contest, popularity contest and an all-African program are some of the highlights of the week long Negro History Week activities this year, according to Mrs. Vassie D. Wright, president of Our Author's Study Club, sponsor of the celebration.

The "Week" is being held from Feb. 12-19.

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority is readying a colorful and interesting art exhibit for Monday evening, Feb. 13, at Golden State Auditorium with Miss Thelma Wallace in charge. The Jester Hairston Choir will provide the music. There will also be an exhibit by scientists and engineers. Robert L. Demps is chairman of that activity.

The annual celebration on the steps of the City Hall on Tuesday, Feb. 13, will find Dr. Arthur Krooker of the University of Southern California as speaker, with music provided by the Jefferson High School Band and A Capella Choir.

"Africa Changes" will be the theme of an address to be presented by Nanna Ibok-Ete, vice president of the African Students Association in Los Angeles, as a feature of the all-African program scheduled for Tuesday evening, Feb. 14.

A 300-voice youth choir will be on hand for the week's functions. The Theatre Arts and Dramatics night which will be observed on Wednesday evening, Feb. 15, will feature Bob DeCoy and Rhoda Jordan in dramatic presentations. The Motorcade is scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 12, at 2 p.m. Bob DeCoy is in charge.

Man Denies Cutting Wife

Police picked up Leroy Howard Terry, 28, of 1075 W. 39th street last Wednesday night and accused him of cutting his wife with a five inch knife.

Gloria I. Terry of 3861 Woodlawn avenue told police he had come over to discuss their marital problems and visit his 2-year-old daughter. All of a sudden he became furious after talking about their separation and began to beat her.

He denied the charges.

He said that he was home in bed, that he did not beat or cut her and that she was trying to frame him.

Apprenticeship Opportunities To be Surveyed

Arthur Brandford of the Bay Area Urban League was elected co-chairman of the permanent committee on Apprenticeship Opportunities for Minority Groups at the recent meeting of the California Conference at Fresno.

Among the proposals approved by the group were the development of workshops toward improving opportunities, coordination between state agencies; reemphasis on vocational counseling; publicity and the development of an apprenticeship information center, as well as surveys of opportunities and active apprentices.

Dr. Noble Here for Delta Celebration

Dr. Jeanne L. Noble, N.Y. University professor and national president of Delta Sigma Theta sorority, was due to arrive here today, Thursday, at International Airport for the kick-off of Delta's Golden Anniversary observance.

Scores of the 750 sorors in Los Angeles are expected to meet the distinguished young educator who will address the Founders Day luncheon meeting at the Statler Saturday at noon, Miss Pauline Slater, chairman of the hospitality committee, stated.

Research Award

Dr. Noble holds several posts of national distinction and is regarded as an authority on guidance and development psychology. A recent book of hers, "The Negro Woman's College Education," received the Pi Lambda Theta Research Award in 1955.

She serves as a member of the National Committee on Research Centers for Higher Education, as a representative of the National Association of Women Deans and Counselors and she is a member of the Women's Committee on Africa. Recently, she was appointed for a three-year term to the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services by the U. S. Secretary of Defense.

She will be saluted as Citizen of the Day, Saturday at 9:25 p.m., by Radio Station KGFJ, with Tom Hawkins conducting the program.

New Directions

At a press conference Friday morning to be held on the Commons at U.S.C., a special beeper phone direct radio broadcast will be made by the same station.

Since Delta Sigma Theta sorority has grown from its 12 Negro college women founders to 25,000 women of all races, Dr. Noble declares a closer association among college women is needed for concerted action on vital public matters.

"The sorority offers social and cultural programs," she said to Dr. Geraldine Woods, national vice-president, "but even more it offers a unique opportunity for public service — meeting real community needs—and the accompanying satisfaction derived from accepting social responsibility in the public interest."

In charge of the Founders' Day program are: Josie Bain, chairman; Anna Byrd, Mabel Calhoun, Miriam Canty, Talma Collins, Peggy Davis, Juanita H. Flennoy, Sybil Harrison, Artie Jackson;

Also Audrey Joseph, Mary Alice King, Mabel Martin, Ce Etta Medlock, Deborah Miles, Gaynelle Miles, Ann Morris, Elizabeth Parker, Dorothy Pickett, Callie Pulliam, Katie Rankins, Mary Reeves, Eva Sherman, Delores Silva;

And Ethelene G. Smith, Jacqueline Snead, Ann Stafford, Mary Jane Strong, Barbara Gene Taylor, Delores Warren, Ethel White and Gloria Winters.

M'Pherson Jr. Fairfax High Grad Speaker

Henry A. McPherson Jr., son of Dr. Henry A. McPherson and the late Marjorie E. Bright McPherson, an honor student, graduates today, Thursday, from Fairfax High School, with an outstanding scholastic and athletic record.

He has been chosen as one of three Commencement speakers and has been elected to the Ephebian Society, whose members are selected on the basis of outstanding scholarship.

Father's Footsteps

Carrying on the family tradition, young McPherson plans to study medicine and looks forward to the profession of surgery. He has been admitted to the School of Letters and Science at UCLA, the alma mater of his mother and his two aunts, Miss Birlielee V. Bright, principal at Avalon Gardens School, and Mrs. Consuelo Bright Hinton, a teacher at the 37th Street School.

An outstanding varsity basketball player, McPherson received awards as "Athlete of the Week," and for a All-League rating. He holds two League records—for the most rebounds in one game (32), and for the most rebounds in one season (198).

For leading his class in scholastic and athletic attainments, he is the recipient of the B'nai B'rith trophy.

Urban League Reports Due on Memberships

The Urban League is now in the first week of its annual membership drive.

Volunteer workers will hold their first report meeting, Friday, Feb. 3, according to Mrs. Thomas A. Boger, general campaign chairman.

Ronald Everett Head of LACC Student Body

Ronald Everett, 19, who specializes in African studies and who aims at being a diplomat, has been elected president of the Student Body at City College in a landslide vote.

Everett, who lives with his brother, actor-columnist Chesterton Everett, at 2847 W. 42nd street, received better than 1000 votes in an election that turned out the student voters. Last semester he held the post of vice president of the Student Body.

A major in Political Science, Everett plans to continue his studies after graduation either at Howard University or at UCLA.

Born in Maryland, he has lived here for the past two years. He is the chairman of the Human Relations Council at City College and honorary vice president of the school's Philosophy Club.

The Important Newspaper

The Mayoralty Candidates

There are only three serious candidates for mayor of Los Angeles: Norris Poulson, the incumbent; Patrick McGee, one time councilman and former assemblyman, and Sam Yorty, who has served in both the Assembly and Congress.

The least deserving of serious consideration by Negro voters is Mr. McGee. With his eye on the main chance, he pursued a reactionary course in both the Assembly and City Council where he preened himself as an opponent of fair employment legislation and other civil rights measures. There is nothing to indicate any change of heart or program on his part.

Mr. Poulson also hung up a pretty unfavorable record when he served in the Assembly and in Congress. Frankly, he has had a much better record as mayor than he did in his legislative career. As mayor he stood firm in the long fight against segregation in the Fire Department and has steered a fair course on civil rights.

Mr. Yorty's legislative record was good. He was a firm advocate of civil rights legislation in both the Assembly and Congress. We don't know what he proposes by way of solution for the city's minority problems but he is entitled to a considerate hearing in light of his record.

In the final analysis it seems to us that Negro voters will have to make a choice between Mayor Poulson and Mr. Yorty. That choice will depend on the platforms they propose. We hope that each of them will propound a bill of particulars that will inform the voters of their stands on specific issues.

Our New President

President Kennedy's inaugural address was a stirring appeal to the people of the world who are tired of war and rumors of war. He correctly assessed the worldwide yearning for peace and promised leadership — his own and his country's—in seeking out ways of ending international rivalries that are pregnant with the threat of war.

The president's summons to all men everywhere to join in creating a "new world of law, where the strong are just, and weak secure, and the peace preserved forever" drew almost universal approval at home and abroad.

Mr. Kennedy was as silent on domestic problems as he was eloquent on international affairs, perhaps because he wanted to reserve a statement on internal affairs for his state of the union message when he will be talking directly to the American people.

Meanwhile, it is disturbing to note that Mr. Kennedy's party has defaulted on its platform pledges to amend Senate rules to curb the filibuster and to reform House procedure to prevent bottling up of legislation by the House Rules Committee. The president must share the blame for this fiasco.

Only little children can believe that he is without fault. A strong statement by him could have turned the narrow Senate defeat into victory.

Mr. Kennedy has fallen victim to the hoary old wive's tale that he can placate southerners and secure passage of administration favored legislation if he keeps hands off and permits the South to assert its ancient prerogative of Congressional veto power. He will live to learn that the southerners will exercise that veto power to compel him to conform to its will and make a shambles out of his solemn promises.

Support Urban League

The Los Angeles Urban League has launched its annual membership drive and we hope that it will have the most successful campaign in its twenty-five year old history. The League needs members and Los Angeles needs a strong Urban League.

The character of the job it does tends to obscure the League's contribution to Los Angeles. It does the hard and unspectacular job of investigating community problems and of trying to iron out difficulties within the framework of conciliation and education.

When the League does win a victory it often finds it expedient and necessary to hide its light under a bushel. Others step in and take the bows for what it has done. Its nature prevents it from engaging in the highly publicized knock down and drag out fights for minority rights that take the spotlight.

All too many of us assume that the League has no financial problems. We assume that it is bountifully supplied with funds from the Community Chest. The very opposite is true. Chest support is niggardly, to say the least. The last time we looked the League's chest support had been increased less than fifty per cent while the Negro population of the city had increased some five hundred per cent, to say nothing of the fact that the value of the dollar has dramatically decreased.

Population is going to increase in the next decade with the prospect that Los Angeles will have at least 800,000 Negroes by 1970. That increase portends an increase in intensity of the problems with which we expect the League to cope. We're going to have to step up our support if we want the League to do the job that needs to be done.

Battleaxe & Bread

By Lester B. Granger

When last week in Rome I picked up a copy of the European edition of the New York Times and read that James P. Mitchell, retiring Secretary of Labor, had announced his candidacy for Governor of New Jersey, I had a nice feeling for both Mitchell and my home state of New Jersey.

Ever since he loomed on the national horizon as a man of importance in labor affairs and industrial relations, I have had a special interest in Jim Mitchell. When he became Secretary of Labor only a few months after the Eisenhower Administration began, and went on from there to be hailed justifiably as the best Secretary of Labor this country has known, I have felt something of a proprietary pleasure in his success.

Parallels

Part of my pleasure is because he and I were, in a sense, neighbors as long as 43 years ago. I graduated from Barringer High School in Newark in 1914. James Mitchell finished Battin High School in Elizabeth — just five miles away — in 1917.

Granger

We entered "the big time" around the same time — he with Western Electric from 1932 to 1943 and I with the National Urban League from 1934 on. He went to Washington to serve with the War Department for the last two years of World War II, while I put in approximately the same time with Navy and Defense on a part-time, dollar-a-year basis.

Jim Mitchell then served as personnel director for Macy's and for Bloomingdale's for eight years during the very years when the Urban League was stepping up and smoothing out the flow of Negro white collar personnel into the big retail stores of Metropolitan New York, and Mitchell's office was a frequent and useful reference point for League staffers in getting this job done. The experience was invaluable for Jim Mitchell and served him well when he moved into his Washington duties as Secretary of Labor.

Close Relations

For the past six years we have been more than ordinarily close in our relations, for not only have I served throughout that time as a member and now as chairman of his Federal Advisory Council on Employment Security, but Secretary Mitchell has been an invaluable ally in making the Urban League's annual observances of Equal Opportunity Day more and more successful in winning friends and influencing people to stand against race bias in employment.

But this personal pleasure in the Mitchell candidacy was not nearly as great as an impersonal appreciation of the man's peculiar qualifications for the job that he seeks. First, he is honest, forthright and as tough as he needs to be in order to remain honest and forthright.

Second, he is a generous man; vindictiveness is not in him, not even toward those who have tried to hurt him in various ways. Third, Jim Mitchell is a deeply experienced man — far more so for the Governorship than any New Jersey governor of my recollection in the past 40 years. He knows people from the standpoint of the private citizen and the government official; he knows them as those needing help or offering argument or seeking favors, earned or otherwise.

"Right" on Race

But far more important, from my point of view, than the Mitchell experience is the Mitchell point of view. To use a popular phrase, he is "right on the race question." There is no politician's glad-handing from him — no quick, superficially-glib approach to serious problems involving the economic and social welfare of colored citizens.

I have known questions of this kind to come up to him for study again and again during the past half-dozen years; while I have not always been satisfied with his disposition of them, I have invariably been satisfied with his approach. For that has been honest and thoughtful and thorough — a recognition that the interests of people are involved; and that there shouldn't be anything more important to a government official than the interests of the people. And as a matter of fact, I can't think of but two occasions when I have disagreed with his final action.

One would think with this kind of a candidate offered the Republican Party of New Jersey, there would be a near-scramble by party leadership to nail down this candidacy before James Mitchell should change his mind. But to expect this would be to show unfamiliarity both with "practical" party politics and with the New Jersey G.O.P.'s peculiar way of playing them.

Hostile Reaction

For "practical politics" first asks the question, What's in it for me? Not, Who's the best man? And several times within the past decades, stupid quarreling and selfish factionalism within the Republican leadership of the Garden State have led to defeats in elections that originally were almost sure things. So it's not suprising especially that a majority of the Republican members of the State Senate reacted with hostility to the Mitchell candidacy.

"Mitchell doesn't know conditions in New Jersey," they complained, while affirming their loyalty to the candidacy of one of their own number. Well, my own guess is that Jim Mitchell knows a heck of a sight more about conditions in New Jersey than all of the eight or nine G.O.P. state senators put together. Not about alley politics, probably, but this the Governor, once elected, will learn in a hurry. More important is that Jim Mitchell knows people, their needs, ambitions, problems and potentials. And that's what New Jersey needs in her State House, and needs desperately for the years immediately ahead.

Loren Miller Says . . .

the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments.

Great Generals

Unless all signs fail, southern generals such as Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson will be depicted as great military heroes and geniuses while Generals U. S. Grant, William T. Sherman and Phil Sheridan will be played down as dunderpates at best and bloodthirsty militarists at worst.

Of course, the truth is that the southern leaders were guilty of treason by constitutional definition. Even if we put the best possible light on their conduct and look on them as mistaken men the historical fact is that they fought in an ignoble cause. They did their utmost to preserve slavery and destroy a nation that Lincoln correctly assessed as the "last best hope on earth."

Negro Troops

Another thing that you can look forward to in the Civil War Centennial will be a complete neglect of the part Negroes played in the fight to preserve the nation and win their own freedom. There will be little pats on the head for the Negro slaves who stayed at home, protected Old Missus and saved the family silver from the marauding Yankees — all northern soldiers were marauders according to the stylized version of the Civil War as presented in our text books.

The fact that more than 200,000 Negroes fought in the Union Army will be passed over, as will the fact that they were paid less than white troops in the early stages of the conflict. Lincoln said that without the help of these Negro troops the northern cause might have floundered but that, too, will be glossed over.

Half Truths

Keep an eye on the TV shows that will bob up on the networks and see how much, or rather how little, will be said about the fact that wholesale desertion of the farms and plantations of the South by Negro slaves crippled the Confederacy and deprived it of needed food and crops. The odds are a hundred to one that no TV show will mention, let alone praise, Negro slaves, men and women, who served as spies and runners for the northern armies.

The final irony of the Civil War Centennial will lie in the general denial that it was fought over slavery, in the face of the fact that the three constitutional amendments that signalized the northern victory were concerned with the extinction of slavery and lifting disabilities from those who had been slaves. We're in for four tough years where the half truth will be told over and over again. Half truths add up to lies, even when they're told on TV.

Hawkins Cool As He Listens To Witnesses

whose bail was set at $50,000. Hawkins, who is already out on bail on numerous other charges, was held on $100,000 bail.

Mrs. Aileen Eaton, wife of Olympic promoter Cal Eaton, who had identified Hawkins as one of her three attackers early last Saturday morning, was the second witness to be called into Judge Ernestine Stahlhut's court.

Spectators Barred

By virtue of a seldom used law, the courtroom had been cleared of all newsmen, witnesses and spectators when the hearing started. The request for clearing the room came from Mrs. Kritzer—who appeared nervous and disturbed—through her attorney, Frank Duncan.

By contrast, Hawkins gave the appearance of a well adjusted young man who was accustomed — as well he might be — to courtroom procedure, but who was withall somewhat bored with the whole process.

Mrs. Eaton, whose legs still bore bruise marks from the manhandling she had received when she was hit over the back of the head as she entered her driveway, gagged, and bound with her own stockings, was on the witness stand for an hour. After a brief recess, she was recalled.

Bit Finger

The second woman who has identified Hawkins, Mrs. Myra Gris, was still waiting in the hall. It was Mrs. Gris who bit her attacker's finger when he held his hand over her mouth to keep her from screaming.

Hawkins' finger shows a fresh scar and police say the wound is from a human bite.

Also waiting to testify were neighbors of the Eatons who heard Mrs. Eaton's scream before she was knocked unconscious and who rushed out of their homes to see what had happened; Mrs. Gris' daughter, Miss J. Jaffe; Cal Eaton; the Eatons' son; the housekeeper at the Beverly Hilton Hotel and the maid who serviced the Kritzer-Hawkins room.

Third Attempt Blocked

Atty. Joyce told the Eagle that Hawkins was believed to have made an attempt to attack a third woman on his "list," a Mrs. Lennon, the night after he robbed Mrs. Gris.

Joey Barnum, a retired boxer, was watching when Mrs. Lennon got into her car and drove off. Three men got into a cab and followed her. Suspicious after the two previous attacks, Barnum followed.

Noticing that they were being tailed, the men in the cab began racing down Sunset blvd. Barnum gave chase at a speed of 70 miles per hour, but did not catch up with the cab.

Club Lists

Mrs. Kritzer, who is a member of the Hollywood Bridge Club, is believed by police to have "fingered" fellow club members whom Hawkins then "worked on." Others on his "list" were believed to be members of another similar group, the Regency Bridge Club.

Hawkins has one of the most amazing records in the history of Los Angeles police annals. Despite numerous arrests, many of them after complaints by women that he had beaten them up and robbed them, he has managed to stay out of jail with the exception of a few months' time served on traffic violations.

He has a number of cases pending against him, some of which are on appeal, on which he has already turned over close to $100,000 bail.

Man Found Dead in Yard

Sunday, Jan. 22, Porter Jones, 48, of 243 E. Vernon avenue, was found dead in his yard at 4222 S. Avalon blvd.

His sister, Mrs. Melvina Wartham of the same address, said her brother had recently complained about the swelling in his arms and ankles. He had been advised to stop his excessive drinking over a month ago, she said.

With no evidence of foul play, death was attributed to natural causes.

Numbers Hearing May Last Months

of the second week of the hearing was the State's first witness, Sgt. L. R. Arnold, who told the court that he had been shaddowing members of the ring from May 20 of last year until Nov. 21, when Judge Thomas L. Griffith issued a warrant for their arrest.

The State has some 84 witnesses in all to be presented at the hearing.

The arrests of the 30 men and women were made last Nov. 22. Instead of being booked on a simple charge of violation of the numbers statute, they were all booked on conspiracy, a felony which can result in a penitentiary sentence.

Charges Bias

All have been charged with conspiracy to violate lottery, numbers and bookmaking laws.

Wesley Russell, former deputy district attorney who is defending 19 of the accused, in an exclusive Eagle interview Tuesday charged the police with bias in concentrating arrests for numbers operations and bookmaking in the Negro community.

"These operations are going on all over the city," he pointed out, "but the arrests are made almost exclusively in Negro areas."

On Tuesday Arnold, who may be on the stand for another week, told of the arrest last Nov. 22 of Ernest Russell's wife, Iva, at their home at 11632 S. Harmon avenue, where he testified police found some $19,000 in cash, notebooks of the type used in the numbers operation, two cartons of coin wrappers, a mechanically operated money sorter, money counter, and other paraphernalia. They also found, and broke into, three or four safes.

Says Ring Missing

Ernest Russell has claimed that after police ransacked the house a two-to-three carot diamond ring was missing. Police deny all knowledge of the ring.

After searching the Russell house, police, Arnold testified, had a lucky break.

There was a knock at the door. Police told the visitor to come in. It was Perry Lynch, who was promptly searched. On him, Arnold said, they found numbers slips. Arnold said Lynch admitted that he picked up slips every day, bringing them to the Russell home each night and delivering them either to Russell or his wife.

'Route Man'

Police claimed another bit of telling evidence against the accused. They asserted that another of the defendants, Collins Shaw, admitted after questioning that he's a "route man," who picks up numbers slips from writers, and that he makes six to seven pick-ups a day.

After arresting Mrs. Russell and Lynch, police — city and county — rushed out to Russell's ranch in Lancaster and arrested him the same evening.

Others Arrested

Others arrested in the dragnet were Herman Marcellecus Banks, Robbie Rogue Bennett, Otis Bullard Jr., Lloyd Everett Coleman, La Verne Cornish, Maggie Dukes, Nelson Harris, John Henry James Jr., Joseph Wilford Malbrough, Rosalean McCain, Fred Marshall McCain.

Also Reo Pagan, Vera Lea Pagan, James Lawrence Smith, James William Spears, Fragie Lee Taylor, Robert Frank Thompson, Vernon Larone Walker, Oletha Ray White, Arthur Thomas Williams and Egbert Summers Williams.

Places mentioned in the indictment as way-stations in the gambling racket were, in addition to the Russell home in South Los Angeles and Cornish's home, a room at 1318 W. Jefferson blvd.; a house at 616 W. 54th street occupied by Goodlow and Reo Pagan; a room at 627 E. Adams blvd.; another at 4712 Lomita street; another room at 3909 S. Denker avenue; and a house at 11527 S. Broadway.

Freed on Bond

After the arrests, Ernest Russell and Cornish were freed on $5000 bail each, and the others on lesser amounts.

The 19 defendants whom Atty. Wesley Russell is representing are appearing daily in Division 2. The other 11 signed a stipulation agreeing to accept a report of police testimony submitted by the district attorney. As a result they have been excused from attending the hearing.

Atty. Russell refused to accept the report on behalf of his clients. He claimed that one of the reasons he was unable to do this was that several of the policemen who had testified previously had since died.

knuckles under to South African lily white policy."

The track meets are scheduled for March and early April.

Peaceful Demonstration

Last March 21, South African authorities opened fire at unarmed demonstrators in a brutal massacre that has come to be known as "Bloody Monday."

Scores of Africans, including women and children, were mowed down and left to die in the fields. Hundreds more were wounded.

The Africans, in a peaceful demonstration, were protesting use of the degrading passbooks, which every African must carry on his person whenever he steps out into the street, under penalty of arrest.

Miss Africa Contest Set

The "All Africa Society for International Cultural Exchange" announces its first annual "Miss Africa Contest" to be held in conjunction with the society's banquet at the Beverly-Hilton Hotel, Thursday, April 27, in the International Ballroom.

The contestants for the title will be entrants from social and charity clubs of the city.

Dedicate Center Designed by James Garrott

The $1,000,000 Westchester Civic Center, designed by James H. Garrott, AIA, was completed with the dedication of the Loyola Branch Library Monday.

The center is at the corner of Manchester avenue and Lincoln blvd., consisting of a City Hall, library and city park.

The City Hall plan reverts back to the old California plan, one story high with all offices opening into an inclosed patio with native plants.

Large white concrete arches cover the portico connecting the library with the City Hall.

Letters

To the Editor:

Please forgive this long delayed thank you for having taken part in the American Friends Service Committee High School Program seminar, "Communications and the Achievement of Peace."

It was abundantly clear when these young people returned from their interviews how much had been given them in depth about the problems and the opportunities that the communications field offers in a real movement toward achieving peace.

I'm sure that you will find that you have at least five more intelligent listeners, readers, and critics at times because of the time you spent with them.

Thanks again. Best wishes.

Dear Maggie Hathaway:

Thank you very much for your extremely accurate and most interesting news story about my wedding and wedding reception which appeared in the CALIFORNIA EAGLE.

My wife loved it and I loved it. We have never been more pleased over a newspaper report about us. You once again proved what I have known all along: you write exceptionally well and your work ranks you among the top reporters in the journalism field today.

Best wishes for your continued success.

Sincerely,
SAMMY DAVIS JR.

Lucille Center Last Rites Held

Rosary at Connor-Johnson Mortuary on Sunday evening and requiem services at St. Odelia's Catholic Church Monday were conducted for Lucille Waller Center, a member of one of Los Angeles' pioneer families, who died Jan. 16 following a brief illness.

Interment followed at the Holy Cross Cemetery in Inglewood.

Mrs. Center is survived by her husband, Vernon Ray Center, Sr., daughters, Cecilia Miller, Ella Marie Pitts, Lillian and Verna Center. Also a son, Vernon Ray Center, Jr.

Other immediate surviving relatives are her father, F. Philip Waller, Sr., and three brothers, Francis P. Waller, Jr., James A. Waller, Sr., and Louis L. Waller. Also a sister, Marie Waller Shackelford.

Mrs. Center's family wishes to sincerely thank the many friends, relatives and acquaintances for their wonderful expressions of sympathy with flowers, cards and condolences during this time of bereavement.

"Advice is seldom welcome. Those who need it most, like it least."

Moses E. Webb Given Surprise

Members of the Southern California Conference Laymen's group, honored the former president of the group at Second AME Church, 5500 S. Hoover street, last week. Moses E. Webb was surprised with a "This is Your Life" type of presentation which was sponsored by the Second AME Laymen.

Mrs. Elsie May Francois was chairman with James Jackson as master of ceremonies. Rev. C. D. Toliver, pastor of the church was present to hear the interesting life story of Webb unfold.

Among those present to gladden his heart was his sister, Mrs. Bessie V. Hill of Santa Barbara, his wife Ethel, his four children, Crawford, Eloise Webb, Edsel and Hiram Webb, who sang his favorite song.

Jacob C. Carey, a fellow realtor of Webbs told of the Christian manner in which Webb had conducted his business; Leonard Warren came from Ft. Worth, to tell of school-day escapades.

A telegram was read from Rev. R. S. Jenkins who is now a hundred years old, who many years ago performed the wedding ceremony for Moses and Ethel Webb at Allen Chapel AME Church. Ft. Worth. Though he lives in Los Angeles now, he was unable to attend the surprise party, because of his advanced age.

Others taking part in the service were Mrs. Thelma Hall, Benjamin W. Ingram as well as a school mate Leonard Warren of Fort Worth, Texas.

Native Son 'Don' Walker's Last Rites Held

Funeral services were held Saturday for William "Don" Walker, 54, of 1514 S. Wilton place, in the chapel of the Angelus Funeral Home.

"Don," as he was known to his intimates, succumbed to a sudden heart attack early Wednesday morning a week ago.

He was a prominent real estate broker here, specializing in the sale of exclusive residences in the Baldwin Hills, Country Club and Leimert Park areas since 1945.

According to his wife, the former Jean Robinson, he had been in the best of health until early in 1959 when he was stricken by a severe heart attack which nearly proved fatal. However, he appeared to be on the way to complete recovery when he succumbed to the sudden attack early last Wednesday morning.

A native son, having been born in Los Angeles, his pallbearers consisted of long time business associate and friend, real estate broker, Emil Portwig, and personal friends since his boyhood — Harper Glass, Ben Wyatt, Eddie Brandon, Bob Goins and Mack Latham.

Honorary pallbearers were long time friends Jimmie Jackson and Sam Price, and his personal physician, Dr. William R. Williams. Officiating was another friend, Rev. Earl Cotton, pastor of Liberty Baptist Church.

Mr. Walker leaves his widow, Jean; father, Edward Walker; brother, James; aunt, Addie Jones; and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney La Crosix. Interment was at Evergreen Cemetery.

CHRISTIAN LEADERS—Supervising and teaching in accordance with the spiritual needs of the members and friends of Second AME Church, 5500 S. Hoover street are Rev. and Mrs. C. D. Toliver. Rev. Toliver came to Second Church from First AME Church of Seattle.

Rev. C. D. Toliver Reported Building Strong 2nd AME

Members of Second AME Church welcomed Rev. C. D. Toliver and his wife Betty as the spiritual leaders of their church family, a little over four months ago. Rev. Toliver came directly from First AME Church in Seattle, after serving there for 11 years.

During the four month period since the arrival of the minister a revival of spiritual values and Christian missionary work has been noted. Forty-eight new members have been taken into the church and according to Rev. Toliver, only eight letters of transfer have been given to other churches during this period.

Missionary

Already underway are plans for expansion of the educational program, debt retirement and evangelism. The youth of the church are encouraged to participate in the program with special emphasis on the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor.

Fellowship

Mrs. Toliver who was formerly a school teacher, lightens her husband's responsibilities by directing the Missionary activities of the church.

Among the programs stressed at the moment are the programs of the Union Usher Board's annual day on Jan. 29 at 3 p.m. and the Fellowship Banquet, scheduled for Feb. 4 at 6:30 p.m. at the church.

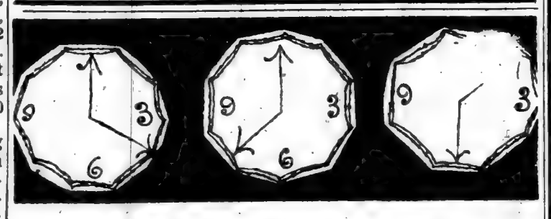
Science Shrinks Piles
New Way Without Surgery
Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!



In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

BEAUTIFUL CALIENTE IN OLD MEXICO: Two ticketholders collected $38,514.80 each last Sunday as winning shares of the 5-10 public handicapping contest at Caliente Race Track.

Each of the bettors selected all six races correctly. A total of 68 ticketholders won $377.40 shares each as consolation awards for picking five winning horses.

Meanwhile Vernon Kindred, technician, arrived earlier in technicain, arrived earlier in the day to claim the $62,191.80 he won Saturday for picking five horses. He said the money will go toward his 8-year-old son's education.

Winning numbers for Sunday were 2-3-7-4-2-1A. The 5-10 pool grossed $114,118.00.

SANTA ANITA. Two big features are on tap for the lovers of the sport of kings this week at Santa Anita. On Wednesday, Jan. 25, the Santa Maria Handicap will be the main event. A traditional stakes for olders, fillies and mares.

The distance is 1-1/6 miles and it carries an added value of $25,000.

On Saturday, Jan. 28, the 14th running of the estimated $170,000 Maturity for 4-year olds at 1¼ miles will provide a climax for foals of 1957 which were first nominated on Jan. 1, 1958.

ABIE'S CORNER

Irv Kaze, publicity director for the new Los Angeles Angels Baseball Club of the American League, is no stranger to these parts. For several years he held the same position with the Hollywood Stars. The fact that both the Stars and Angels of the Pacific Coast League let the majors get the jump on them in hiring Negro players was the start of the collapse of the Pacific Coast League.

When the Dodgers signed Jackie Robinson in 1947 and the two local clubs still didn't get the message attendance started dropping off so rapidly they were forced to take in Negro players. But they waited until much too late because the local baseball fans weren't interested in the brand of ball the Pacific Coast was featuring and they stayed away in droves.

What many baseball publicists don't understand is that Negroes have been baseball fans ever since they invented the game and they will come out if made welcome. The proof is that the National League, until the coming of Negro ballplayers, was suffering at the turnstiles and this was one of the important reasons why Negro ballplayers were signed. That jazz about being democratic and fair-minded is for the birds.

Clubs operating in the National League watched the Dodgers' attendance jump to staggering heights and they quickly got the message and ran out and grabbed up Willie Mayes, Ernie Banks and Vada Pinson.

The American League clubs haven't been in too big of a hurry to sign Negro players and their take-their-time policy may be the reason why Irv Kaze will have a tough job in luring Negro fans to Wrigley Field when the officials shout, "Play ball!"

As of today the Angels haven't come up with a single reason why the fans should show up at the ballpark. Certainly unknown Frank J. Becque can't lure them by his lonesome. At the moment Kaze's big job is to come up with something that has gate appeal to vast numbers of Negro fans. We can't see how he and the other top brass of the Angels expect to get the team off the ground unless they come up with some established Negro stars, and the way Dodger General Manager Buzzie Bavasi is wheeling and dealing for Negro stars, it just might be that the Angels are waiting too long.

It might be a good bet for Kaze to move his office from Sunset blvd. to 42nd and Avalon, the location of Wrigley Field. When he knew the area a while back, thousands of the residents weren't Negroes but they are today — and from Pasadena, Watts, Compton, San Pedro and Long Beach it is only a 15-minute drive.

Yes, indeed, Kaze's job is kingsize, especially when you think of such established stars the Dodgers boast of—Tommy Davis, Willie Davis, John Roseboro, Jim Gilliam, Maury Wills and Charlie Neal. Negro fans know that if they hold to their ducats they can get what they want in sports attractions in baseball, football, boxing, track and basketball. They also know that every record attendance mark set in this city has been largely due to Negro sports fans. Smart promoters are wise to that fact.

Pacoima Ace in Main Go

"Joltin" Johnny Smith of Pacoima faces his toughest ring test to date when he steps in against the experienced Neal Rivers tonight, Thursday, at the Olympic Auditorium.

Smith will be risking his California middleweight title in a 12-rounder which will not be televised.

Featherweights Teddy Rand and Kenny Davis will go postward in the KTLA-TV main event.

Smith won the title last August when he ko'ed Tiger Al Williams in a thriller. Johnny has a 14-3 record.

Rivers, a pro since 1954, held the crown in 1956-57-58. Neal owns a 46-12-1 slate. In his last start, he nodded Leo Owens, Nov. 29 at the Olympic.

Back in '57, Rivers lost a disputed decision to Gene Fullmer in Madison Square Garden. Neal has beaten good boys like Willie Vaughn, Charley Joseph, Tiger Williams and Charley Cotten.

Thursday's card will get underway at 8 p.m. The Smith-Rivers battle is scheduled to start at 10 p.m.

Sid Gillman to Attend Banquet

L.A. Chargers head coach Sid Gillman will be the principal speaker at the Centennial High fall banquet in the school's cafeteria Monday night, Jan. 30.

Two of the stars of Gillman's Western Division title winning team will also be special guests at the banquet. They are all-pro tackle Ron Mix and defensive halfback Charlie McNeil, a former Centennial High great.

Gillman and his stars will be on hand to pay a special tribute to Coach Aaron Wade and his Centennial High footballers who advanced to the CIF finals.

Broadway Federal Cagers Game Set

Kirby's Shoes, defending Major AAU basketball champion, meets Broadway Federal at L. A. Valley College located at 5800 Fulton avenue in Van Nuys, Saturday, Jan. 28, at 8 p.m.

Tuesday, Jan. 31, the Broadway Federal team tangles with the Lockyers at Anaheim High in Anaheim.

Bout Reset to Mar. 4

Ray (Sugar) Robinson, who has been involved in two court cases in New York and was unable to get started with his training asked that his 15-round bout with Gene Fullmer be reset to March 4, in Las Vegas, Nev.

Robinson is now scheduled to arrive in Los Angeles Saturday, then head to his training camp at San Jacinto.

Tenn. State Wins

The Lincoln Tigers (Mo.) were nipped in the last two minutes of play in a game at the Lincoln gymnasium last Saturday by a score of 79-74 by Tennessee State, ranked No. 1 among the nation's small colleges.

Several Newcomers to Sport Dodger Uniform

Who'll make the Dodgers in 1961?

Over the three years of the club's occupancy of the Los Angeles scene, the Dodgers farm system has produced three regulars each year.

Norm Larker, Stan Williams and John Roseboro "came to stay" in 1958.

In 1959 it was Larry Sherry, Maury Wills and Don Demeter. Ron Fairly was with the club all season but dropped back to Spokane last season.

Tommy Davis, Frank Howard and Norm Sherry were the 1960 crop.

The Dodgers are freely predicting that there will be anywhere from three to seven newcomers on the club's 1961 roster when the final cutdown is effected for opening day—possibly more.

Willie Davis, voted the Most Valuable Player in the California League (Class C) in 1959 and winner of the same honor in the Triple-A Pacific Coast League, with Spokane, last season, is a Winter Book favorite for Rookie-of-the-year honors. He was recently named the Sporting News No. 1 Minor League Player of the Year, the same honor which fell to Howard in '59. Then Howard went on to the rookie award in the National League last season.

Contracts Signed

Willie Davis and Tommy Davis, two Dodger players who received substantial increases in their salaries for the 1961 season, returned their contracts signed.

Globetrotters Plays Five Games Here

Those hilarious Harlem Globetrotters, known wherever the sun shines, will be with us this month-end. On Sunday, Jan. 29, to be specific, they'll play afternoon and evening at the Shrine Auditorium.

Their first game was in Santa Monica Civic Auditorium last Wednesday. Then after the Shrine games, its back to Santa Monica on Thursday, Feb. 2, with the local tour winding up Sunday, Feb. 5, in an afternoon game at the Sports Arena.

On this year's Globetrotter roster are everybody's favorite, Meadowlark Lemon; dribbler Murphy Summons; long-shot specialist Clarence Wilson, captain of the team, and now in his 12th year with Saperstein; hustling "Tex" Harrison, the sparkplug; big Joe Buckhalter, 6-8; classy Ernie Wagner, and two amazing newcomers: Govoner Vaughn, U. of Illinois and Frank Burks, U. of Wisconsin.

Against them, the Washington Generals, with the veteran "Red" Klotz at the helm will have outstanding college stars on the roster—like Jim Ciol, 6-10, West Virginia; Angelo Mitari, Utah; Ronnie Sobie, All American from De Paul and half a dozen others.

THE TEE

WITH MAGGIE HATHAWAY

Bing Crosby Tournament

We stumbled in this morning with a "millionaire's hangover" that we picked up on the 19th hole at Pebble Beach. We attended the 20th Annual Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur Golf Championship play. It has been said by every paper in America that the Crosby Tournament is the most fabulous tournament in the golf world. This is an under-statement. This tournament is simply heavenly. It is indescribable but we are going to attempt to let you decide.

We arrived (by bus) one hour earl, (6 a.m.) and found the Monterey Bus station closed until 7 a.m. It was a beautiful dawn so we sat on the sidewalk until the station opened. (There is no plane or train into Pebble Beach).

At 8 a.m. Eoline Thornton picked us up. (She went a day early to meet a friend who flew in from Honolulu for the affair). We hastened to the beach and as we entered the gate a "golden circle" of ticket sellers met us. We drove about five more miles down hill until we arrived at the golf course. We entered the Press Room at 9 a.m. to be greeted by Larry Crosby. He gave us a blue satin "Press" ribbon and apologized because we were wearing "only our golf stockings." (An officer at the door had made us remove o shoes because of the hardwood floors in the press room.)

We went to the first tee just in time to hear the announcer say, "Ladies and Gentlemen! It gives us the greatest of pleasure to introduce to you the world's greatest entertainer, Mr. Harry Mills." Harry stepped up and hit a beauty straight down the middle. He was the amateur and Charles Sifford was the pro, but they both took a 5 on the 4 par first hole. Why? Maybe it was because they saw a "thousand people" on each hole, just waiting to see something exciting happen, like the pro whose ball went into the tree and who took a 10, or like the ball that was dropping on the green when a sea-gull flew down and caught it on the fly. (The only reason the pro didn't take his life is because he hadn't brought his gun but he did take a 2 stroke penalty). Or maybe Charles and Harry were excited because they had never seen a golf course surrounded by an ocean on the left, the rough on the right, sand traps bordering the greens and people everywhere. On the left of the rough were the most beautiful of beach homes and we took special notice of the lovely ranch style Crosby house which was facing the ocean on the golf course.

Hot dog stands and soft drinks were located at all holes and a bar was in a beautiful tent at the 19th hole. There was a half block of glass enclosed club houses circling the course overlooking the ocean. On the ground floors beneath the club rooms were style shops. All of the manequins in these little exclusive shops were bronze with golden hair and the clothes, well, they were out of this world.

We have named this tournament the "B" tournament, which means "Bing's Blue Blowing Blasters." (Blue for the ocean, Blowing for the wind and Blasters for the Pros who were blasting sand and trees).

After the tournament Bing gave a Stag Victory Dinner which broke our heart because for the first time in our life "we wished that we wore the pants." Nevertheless we named this affair "Bing's Brotherhood Blowout." It seemed that Mr. Crosby just couldn't "stop GIVING." He gave "Crosby sweaters and bags to the pros on the first tee, free food to the press, a party and $50,000."

Charles Sifford shot in the consistant 70's and his partner Harry Mills won 5 holes for him but this was not good enough because Sifford scored 293 and Bob Rosburg won the tournament with 282. Sifford won $50 and there were six pros who shot into the 80's.

We did not get a chance to thank the Crosbys for inviting our golfers but we are thanking them now and we still think it was the most heavenly tournament we have ever seen.

(Next Week—An Open Letter to Charles Sifford.)

Cameraman Verdell Young Captures L. A. at Play

IN A MELLOW TONE—Strolling again with cameras and remembering the cool scene from last time we hastened back to the BLACK ORCHID where the DIMPLES JACKSON HARRIS group was jumping. The house was packed. Enjoying the show and food were Mrs. H. Stewart (the hostess), Bennie R. Johnson, F. Gaspard (Mr. Broadway Gas), Dick Cooper and Susie Cooper. Not only is the show completely different here, but have you tried chitterlings blue flame yet? At the CLUB STARLITE on Manchester, there were so many happenings it may take weeks for us to tell all but we caught this merry group, Dan Allen (the ultimate M. C.), Carmie Jones, Little Johnnie Taylor (he sings the blues), Dorothy Kimble, Ellen Scruggs and Talu Reyes. CLUB STARLITE doesn't have much competition for a number one Rock and Roll house, with dancing too.

Crawford Reviews "Picnic"

By Chazz 'Soundtrack' Crawford

The casting of the players in "Picnic" (with an all NEGRO cast) now beginning the last three of six performances at the Beverly Hills Recreation Center is as right as rain. The play itself is highly diverting and provides an escape hatch from the many (message) yarns in which the Negro actor so often finds himself embroiled. Anything can happen to anybody regardless of race, creed or physical makeup on a picnic, and this picnic is no exception. Although the staging is sameness and you never view the actual picnic grounds, all the characters who return from there have apparently "let their hair down" while on the outing and rehashing what happened keeps everybody's front porches jumping.

3 YEARS LATE FOR SULIVAN DATE AT 8 P.M.

Nat King Cole will appear on "The Ed Sullivan Show" Sunday, Jan. 29 (CBS-TV, 8-9 p.m.) for the first time in almost three years.

The singing star, who has just cancelled plans to make his Broadway musical debut this year, expects to undertake a more active role in TV exposure for this season, with the Sulivan show among the first of specially scheduled appearances.

CHAZZ CRAWFORD'S SOUNDTRACK

NOTES OF AN INNOCENT-BAR-STANDER

The town buzz is that the Alexandria Hotel on Saturday, the fourth of February will be the PLACE where everybody is making the scene. MOSE ALLEN and RENE' TOUZET from the showbiz world will attract the dance lovers . . . While all the talk was what the gals who had invites were sporting to the inauguration, it can now be told that ERNIE COTTEN, the tailor, was chiefly responsible for many of the local Beau Brummels looking sharp at the Dee Cee affair. Sportsman KENNETH (B) GIVENS still raving over the needlework on the last "front" he picked up from Ernie. Says he's going back to E. C. to have him whip up something for him to sport on the links . . .

DINAH WASHINGTON'S new spouse RAFAEL CAMPOS smashed her Caddy in an auto collision last week . . . Jazz critic LEONARD FEATHER gave vocalist HELEN HUMES the "Blindfold Test" for Downbeat magazine the other day. Helen guessed all the singers he played except SAMMY DAVIS who she decided was OSCAR McLOLLIE! . . . Incidentally Helen's new album on Contemporary will be released around the first! . . . Had an informal chat with AL WILLIAMS of the famous STEP BROTHERS. Al has opened a training center for showbiz hopefuls in Chi town. Says that in the old days talented "unknowns" were given a better break, because there was always a top nitery in the big towns that featured them in a package show. It served as a proving ground, and most of the top names in the business today got started toward bigtime as a result of this practice. That's what's needed now . . . Former EAGLE scribe, KERRY JACKSON, due in town from New York any paragraph now.

Dancer LON FONTAINE is coming home, too. The club where Lon and his revue were working in Boston burned to the ground and all the costumes and music were destroyed. A fireman was killed in the tragic blaze. Crowd pleaser Lon, has decided to return to home base for awhile . . .

Former Lightweight Champ, JIMMY CARTER, will be the next boxing great to go dramatic in movies and television . . . Actor JIMMY PAYNE pass her by wades into the role like the seasoned trouper she is . . . DAVIS ROBERTS is just fine as her aging beau . . . ISABELL COOLEY, who bears a striking resemblance to KIM NOVACK, is purty enough to be forgiven any flaws, but we wish she would bear down a little heavier with the role. But the gal's highly decorative and the vehicle should be proud to have her on board . . . ALIBE COPAGE is a surprise hit in the ingenue type role of "Millie" who makes a transition from a Tomboy character to a mature young miss. She was very effective, and will get big results from the portrayal.

MAIDIE NORMAN as a mother trying to keep her kids in line could never "do no wrong" in the acting department and certainly does no wrong in this play. She works out real nice with this deal . . . ROCKNE TARKINGTON as the male sexation who makes the gals giddy gets his message across. Actorwise, he's no Bill Holden yet, but he's in there pitching. And he's got the "built" and determination to make him a winner.

JON CHEVRON, who can latch on to practically any role if he gets a peek at the script, is seen briefly here as "Bomber" the newsboy, but he makes it count, and scores with the "bit" part . . . OTIS GREENE as the disappointed swain of Miss Cooley is a conscientious actor who played his role with proper restraint but seemingly suffered a bit with opening night nerves . . . IONA ARMSTRONG and BEVERLY WRIGHT as other spinster schoolmarms contributed heavily with their bits of business. The entire cast was deserving of the enthusiastic praise given them in the after-curtain applause. Director PITT HERBERT did a slick, professional job.

to portray an Egyptian Camel Dragaman in a segment of the Roaring Twenties . . .

Dancer CARLETON JOHNSON nabbed a weeks work on "Adventures In Paradise" and actresses LOLA HARRIS and EUNICE MILLER leave for Sacramento next week for movie work on the film "Ada" for MGM. All deals were set by the LIL CUMBER AGENCY.

The scramble for parts in the "Raisin In The Sun" play opening February 20 at Player's Ring is over, after practically every actor in town turning out for interviews. It's JUANITA MOORE as LENA YOUNGER, MORRY ERBE as WALTER LEE YOUNGER, ISABEL COOLEY as BENEATHA, RHODA JORDAN as RUTH and little KYLE JOHNSON (Foster Johnson and Nicole Nichelle's son) nabbed the role of the young boy . . .

Youthful BOOTS WADE, who we feel would have been "Boss" in the Beneatha part 'broke it up' when she kiddingly told the director she came out to read for the Mother role that Claudia McNeil did in the NY version . . .

LILLIAN RANDOLPH'S pretty daughter BARBARA begins a singsational engagement at the SUMMIT this Tuesday night. The RCA VICTOR thrush is hard to match in the looks and vocal department. For her, the bigtime is just around the corner! . . . TONI HARPER, another RCA VICTOR thrush, has come a long way from her Candy Store Blues she sang when she was just a little doll. The young lady croons after dark hymns on her new LP titled "NIGHT MOOD" and comes across with the sureness of an "old pro."

Speaking of pros, BOB SEWARD who fashions clothes for the ladies will play a big part in the forthcoming National Association of Fashion designers show in March. The fellow's working feverishly preparing ensembles geared to evoke oohs and ahs from the DOLLS and the GUYS who will witness the affair.

Shriners Give $3000 Check

NEW YORK — On Friday, Feb. 13, the Ancient Egyptian Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, a Prince Hall Affiliation, presented a check for over $3000, which represented the annual award made by the Shriners to the NAACP Legal Defense Fund. The presentation was made at the office of the fund at 10 Columbus Circle by Charles A. Dargan, national director.

In accepting the donation, Thurgood Marshall, chief counsel, who is also a member of the Order, pledged himself to renewed vigor in the task of securing full citizenship for all Americans.

Gordon and Wensel, like thousands of others, paused to refresh themselves at the most popular place to satisfy one's taste, the block long bar in the advertising and merchandising offices of the oldest and most important metropolitan newspaper, California Eagle. An ever increasing number of customers, subscribers, friends and acquaintances enjoy swinging best at Vernon and Van Ness where they reach for Coca-Cola first to match their thirst. (Adams, too)

QUEEN'S DRINK FOR KINGS—Walter Goodlow, recently appointed to Public Relations and promotions for Sterling Liquors, Inc., is shown being congratulated in a king size manner by 'Queen of the Blues' Dinah Washington. Goodlow used the same occasion to toast Miss Washington on becoming a new bride. Geo. T. Les Ballets Africains at The Biltmore

A primitive and explosive dance festival gets under way Monday Feb. 6 at the Biltmore Theatre. This is the return engagement of Les Ballets Africains, a unique band of dancing and frolicking Negro artists who turned the theater into a jubilant pagan encampment on their first visit here early last year.

Those who then relished the uninhibited artistry of these beaming and glistening youngsters will have a chance to see them in new dances, new decor and new wardrobe — or the absence thereof.

As before, exact replicas—as exact as legally feasible—of native communities and costume, will be featured. The scenes will be those in and around an African village—"mud huts with shaggy roofs; huge, twisted trees, moist dank, steaming jungle."

For the squeamish there will probably be moments of discomfort and embarassment, as there were last year over the frank midriff rotations of the women and the inadequacy of the concessions to Western taboos. But the freedom is never there for sake of bawdiness and burlesque. The whole company is guided by serious ethnic purpose as manifested in its pride of native art.

SAMMY DAVIS, JR. HEADLINES STARS FOR KING BENEFIT

Sammy Davis Jr. figured prominently in boxoffice news this week.

In New York, the benefit he planned for Martin Luther King became a sellout.

In Camden, New Jersey, he attracted record smashing crowds at the fabulous and huge New Latin Casino night club (seating capacity 1500). On one weekend night, more than 3400 patrons jammed the nitery to see Davis perform in two shows, while another 1100 were turned away. According to club owner Dave Duschoff, the reservation list for that particular evening had to be closed four days in advance of the shows.

Davis and his buddies—Frank Sinata, Dean Martin, Peter Lawford and Joey Bishop—are set to headline the benefit for Dr. King, the Southern civil rights leader, at Carnegie Hall, Friday evening, Jan. 27.

In addition to the Summit Group, the extravaganza will also highlight these famous performers: Count Basie's band and Singer Tony Bennett, Gospeler Mahalia Jackson, Songstresses Carmen McRae and Ruth Brown, the dance team of Augie and Margo, Sy Oliver's band, comics George Kirby and Nipsey Russell and dancer Rose Hardaway.

Proceeds from the benefit go to support Dr. King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference whose avowed purpose is to "extend the frontiers of liberty" in the segregated South.

WELFORD R. WILSON—Noted attorney out South says an inexpensive way for each of us to do our bit for Negroes of Freedom Village is to send one dollar to John McFerren, Rt. 4, Box 133, Sommerville, Tenn.!

OPAL JONES—When she jetted in from Chicago after attending a conference there she was met at International Airport by her good friend Elois Davis who rolled a wheel chair out to meet her!

RUTH BOWEN—Publicity agent for several top entertainers in New York is searching for a first class West Coast charm school to tie in with a national magazine story. She can be reached at 504 W. 168th st. N.Y.C.!

CHARLES SIFFORD—He kicked up a fuss when he was teamed with famed Harry Mills of the Mills Brothers in the Bing Crosby 20th National Pro-Amateur golf championship in Pebble Beach. What Sifford didn't know was that Mills was personally invited to the tourney and that the Negro Press had pressured Bing into extending an invitation to a Negro professional. You can bet the resentment and discourtesy suffered by one of the most respected entertainers in show biz isn't sitting well with the newshawks!

GENE HAWKINS—Other than being born his biggest mistake was robbing Aileen Eaton of the Olympic Boxing Arena. BIG BLOW FOR BIG BENEFIT SHOW — Bandleader Lex Golden, front center, is blowing about the Zenith Club's eighth annual Benefit Talent Show to be held Mar. 12, in the Satellite Room of the Miramar Hotel in Santa Monica. Looking on and urging you to be sure and attend are members Maurice Saunders, Mary Wiley, Sue Sewart, singer Helen Humes, Eulalia Evans and Jo Mims.

Zenith Club Plans Dazzling Eighth Annual Benefit Talent Show Mar. 12

Get aboard for the eighth annual Zenith Charity and Social Club's Benefit Talent Show, to come off March 12, in the beautiful Satellite Room of the Miramar Hotel, at Wilshire blvd. and Ocean avenue in Santa Monica.

Christabel Jacobs is general chairman of this year's affair. Proceeds raised from the show will go toward the Exceptional Children's Opportunity School, an interracial, non-profit, non-sectarian school, located at 310 E. 122nd street.

Having been one of the first clubs to contribute to the school's building fund, the Zenith has kept the school as its number one charity project and is today witnessing a dream coming true with the school's $85,000 building program currently under way. The children will move into their new quarters sometime this Spring.

The general chairman of the show urged every social, civic and fraternal organization to support this year's talent show by sponsoring a contestant of their choice. Contestants can be singers, dancers or musicians but must have maintained their amateur standing.

Those interested in entering should contact Mrs. Versie Hawkins, at WE. 1-8095 or RE. 1-2165, or write Mrs. Wilma Shannon, 3861½ 2nd avenue, L.A. 18.

In addition to the contest some top entertainers will be on hand and those attending will certainly enjoy a top flight affair as only the Zenith Club can put on.

Zenith members are Maurice Saunders, Eulalia Evans, Eula Earles, Wilma Shannon, Mary Wiley, Julia Bailey, Billie Kiah, Jo Mims, Versie Hawkins, Christabel Jacobs, Evelyn Hackett, Mable Harris, Anziwilla Stewart and Margie Stewart.

Last year's show was held at the Crescendo and pert Shirley Allen walked off with the club's top prize. She was sponsored by the La Luna Club and businessman Robert (Bob) Newman, a long time supporter of all Zenith affairs, donated the cash prize. Tom Hawkins of KGFJ was master of ceremonies before a capacity crowd.

Among the clubs participating in that show were Social Knights, Gay Cavaliers, Les Bon Temps, Darkonians, Entre Nouns, Prince of Wales, La Luna and Brigadettes.

Community Welcomes L.A. Mazique As New School Principal at Carver

Llewellyn A. Mazique, recently appointed principal at Carver Junior High School, 4410 McKinley avenue, has already initiated many innovations there.

Mr. Mazique comes to this

position well-fortified in training and experience. He served as boys vice principal at Lafayette Junior High, 1952-1955; vice principal of Foshay Junior High 1955-1960; and principal of Foshay Junior High Summer School 1958.

His experience is wide and varied. He has been a grade counselor, departmental chairman and coordinator of attendance. His wide experience and expert skill as an organizer and disciplinarian should serve him well in his new position.

From the response of the PTA and parents in this community, the appointment of Mr. Mazique is greatly appreciated.

Mr. Mazique is ably carrying on projects that were begun at Carver before his arrival. To these he is adding many improvements.

In close cooperation with his faculty, he has initiated new discipline and morale projects aimed at developing student proficiency. He hopes to have at Carver not only one of the city's finest educational plants, but also a fine, highly trained faculty.

For several years now Carver has had such a large enrollment that it has been unable to accommodate the A9 students. These have been sent to Jefferson High School.

New Buildings

However, with the addition of two new buildings, a new classroom building and a new gymnasium for boys and girls, Carver will begin in the February semester to keep all A9 students.

In order to do this Mr. Mazique added 21 new teachers this semester and is adding 13 more for the second semester. The community looks forward to seeing the advances made under Mr. Mazique's administration.

Les Dames Officers Installed

Officers for the 1961 calendar for the popular Les Dames Social Club were installed last Saturday night at the fashionable home of Mr. and Mrs. Hester Cavalier, 2425 8th avenue.

Dr. Leroy Weekes acted as the installing officer and the following officers were seated: Cleopal Jolvette, president; Gladys Johnson, vice-president; Juanita Jones, recording sec'y; Elwood Sellers, financial secretary; Leola Reese, corresponding secretary; Audrey Scott, treasurer; Gertrude Askey, sargeant-at-arms; Katherine Alexander, parliamentarian, and Thelma Hayes, reporter.

Adult Education Class at Nevin Elementary School

The Jefferson Adult School announced that on Wednesday, Feb. 1, a new class in Parent Education and Child Development and Observation will be open at the Nevin Avenue Elementary School, 1569 E. 32nd street. Classes will be held each Wednesday morning from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

The instructor will be Mrs. Kathryn Hooks who is a member of the Jefferson Adult School faculty and an authority in the field of parent education. Mrs. Hooks has a similar class at the Ascot Avenue School which has been enthusiastically received.

This class is for mothers with children 3 to 4 years old. The mother and the child attend the class. The mother may learn up-to-date methods of child care, and development through observing her own child at work and play with children of similar age.

Dr. Wesley M. Groves to Open W. Jefferson Office

Dr. Wesley M. Groves, a graduate of Meharry Medical College, who received his surgical training at the St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo., City Hospital System, has announced the opening of his office for the practice of general surgery.

The office will be located at 1730 W. Jefferson blvd., RE 5-1224 or DU 9-2121.

Formal office opening ceremonies are scheduled for Sunday Jan. 29, between the hours of 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. The community is invited to attend.

Dr. Groves has been a staff surgeon at the Sepulveda California Veterans' Administration Hospital for the past two years.

He is a member of the Masonic Lodge, Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity and various community medical organizations.

Considered in the fashion set as one of the Southland's best dressed women, Jeri Rancifer is also manager of the Style Art Beauty Salon and is an expert hairstylist, in addition to being a member of the Rinkeydinks. Mrs. Rancifer hails from Chester, Pa.

How can anyone in his right mind refuse a request of that Abie Robinson—but then again who would want to when you are honored with being the guest social writer for just about the finest newspaper on the West Coast?

I know a bit about hairstyling and good grooming but about the newspaper bit, all I can say is, well, you be the judge and whatever your judgment is, I'll still be working with my trusty hot irons daily from Tuesday to Saturday, and because we have what we think is the best staff of beauticians and hairstylists in the Southland, an appointment is necessary at the Style Arts.

Socially speaking it is a pleasure to rub elbows with that wonderful California Eagle staff and after being around the Fourth Estaters and having to pinch hit for my sis LIBBY CLARK it's refreshing to know that our writing can make a guy like Abie happy.

As we were penning this, we received a call telling us our sis's office was broken into and a friend surprised a man in the office ransacking it. Before he could call the police the uninvited guest fled the scene.

Since the Washington D.C. bit last week and the beautiful speech the beautiful new president made, it's gotta be a swinging '61 and among those jazzy events coming up is the Shriners annual Star of Stars Show. This year you don't want to miss it because we understand FRANK SINATRA will be honored.

Then there is that RAY (SUGAR) ROBINSON's boxing bit for Las Vegas and everybody who is anybody is making plans to be there March 4.

Like we say, a swinging '61 and the Sporting Gents of which my handsome hubby JOHN is president (the same first name as the fellow in Washington who despite his $10 million worth of stock hasn't a thing on my JOHN), are giving away a trip to Honolulu and a table model FM radio at their blowout scheduled for the Club Town Hill Sunday, March 5.

PAT and ROSESSA MOORE (he is the town's top process king and she is easily one of our better dressed women) are both flashing big smiles, the reason being they own the Style Art Beauty Salon and have such talented operators as BETTY MILLETON, BETTY JO SANKY, JANICE BANKS, JIMMY THURMAN, JACKIE JOHNSON, THEOLA KILGORE and BETTY McDANIELS.

EVELYN ROYAL, wife of MARSHALL, back in town from New York and featuring a wild new hairdo that is a mate to her wonderful personality. Curvy DORIS and her favorite man taking in the WILMA RUDOLPH production at the Sports Arena and wishing she was 5' 11".

LENA and JOE COOPER spending a quiet sojourn in Mexico over the week-end. CATHERINE BASIE really getting the Rinkeydinks national note when she attended the Inauguration.

Pretty ERMA RILEY took more pictures of the Washington D.C. ball than the throng of photographers and she will have a ball showing them to friends later. School Marm MICKIE WALKER's warm note thanking us for the invite to the Rinkeydinks affair was priceless.

RUTH BOWEN who is still getting great applause for her terrific job as mistress of ceremonies for our club's affair boarded that crack champagne flight back to Noo Yawk Tuesday. BOB and BETTY REDIFER, a couple who boast of a swimming pool as warm as their hearts, invited our John and me to their Lakewood Manse to relax. And we are going to take the REDIFERS up on their invitation to come relax with us at Hesperia for a round of golf. Understand the Pebble Beach course doesn't have a thing on theirs but some water. Chatted briefly with HAZEL WASHINGTON, the first person we met in Los Angeles when we arrived back a few years ago.

Apaches Elect Officers

Following the nomination and election of student body officers during the past week, Mr. Everitt C. Parrish, coordinator of student activities at Centennial Senior High School, has announced that Ernest Zomalt, popular Apache senior and member of the principal's Honor Roll, has been elected president of the student body for the current term. Ernest served as vice president during the fall semester, is currently president of the Letterman Club, and was recently nominated as a candidate for the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame Scholar-Athlete award.

The newly-elected vice president of the student organization is Gaddis Farmer, who is also treasurer of the Letterman Club and a member of the Senior Class Council.

Josephine Fowler, the new student body secretary, is also business manager for the Apache Flag Girls organization and an active member of the Sophomore Class Council.

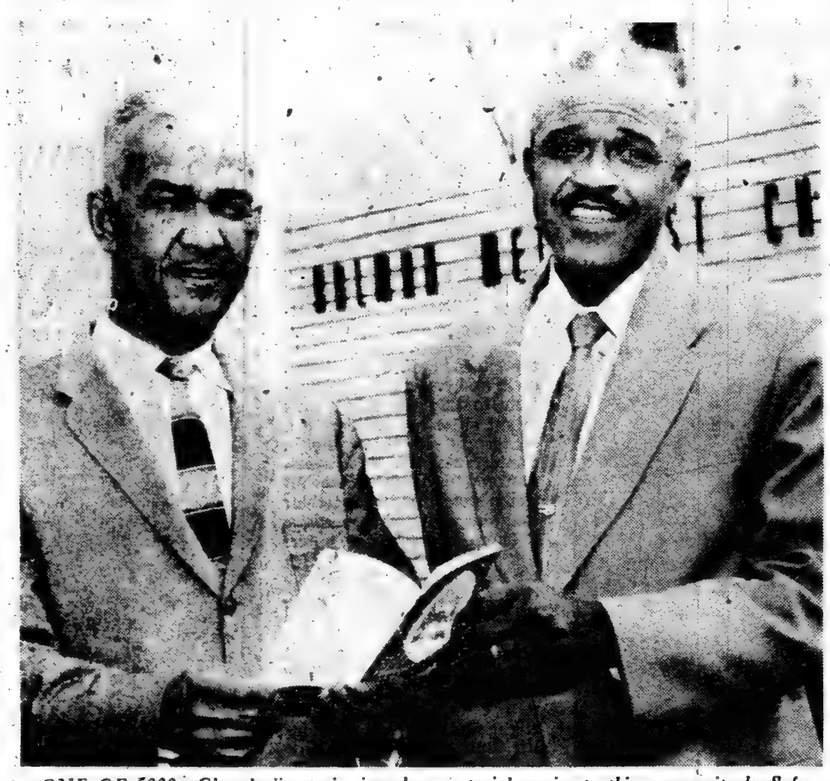
Doing double duty both as newly-elected treasurer of the Centennial student body and as treasurer of the Senior class, William Reed is also the popular vice president of the Apache's Letterman Club.

Samuel Gompers Graduates 156

Mr. John Ruiz, A9 graduating counselor, announced that the graduation exercises for 156 candidates will take place in the Gompers Dayman auditorium on Friday, Jan. 27, at 10:30 a.m. Three student speakers will highlight the program: Veronica Meigs, "To Learn from the Past"; Irene Abe, "To Provide for the Present"; Richard Johnson, "To Live Better in the Future".

Two musical groups and a piano soloist will perform during the program. The Senior Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Donald Dustin, and the Mixed Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Charles Turner, along with a piano soloist, Margaret Mayfield, will provide the musical entertainment.

Mr. Donald B. Brown, boys' vice principal, will do the honors of presenting the Winter Class of 1961. Graduates will receive their diplomas from Mr. Thomas O. Lawson, principal, and Mrs. Marian Hatch, girls' vice principal.



Seattle-ites Elect New Club Officers

The Seattle-ites Social and Civic Club began the 1961 season with its first meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marle Anthony, 1227 W. 46th street with an election of officers. An appetizing buffet was served by the hostess at the conclusion of the business meeting.

Formal installation of the elected officers will be held Feb. 4 at the home of Mrs. Beatrice Hamilton, 1216 E. 92nd street.

ONE OF 5000—Church directories issued as a special service to this community by Safety Savings and Loan Association are received by Rev. L. L. White, pastor of Holman Methodist Church, from Wesley R. Brazier, Safcy Savings' president. With a new, smart cover design, in gold color, the directory, published by the Church and Community Publishing Company, includes many additional church references. This is the third year of publication as a Safety Savings' service.

Doll League Club in Meet

Lulu Bendy presided over the first meeting of the Doll League Inc. last Sunday in the beautiful Mt. Vernon Drive home of Joe and Emma Adams.

The newly elected president concerned herself with mopping up loose ends from the 1960 season and plunged enthusiatically into her 1961 program.

Following the business meeting members were delightfully entertained with Joe Adams serving as host, assisting his charming wife, Emma.

Several interesting events were revealed over the coffee cups following the meeting, and friends of the club can look forward to an early summer exciting event.

Members attending the meeting included Nellie Brown, Ruth Ball, Gladyce Clark, Marguerite Chapman, Fannie De Mann, Sylvia Fortson Sidney Jackson, Euvalda Morris, Ethel Pickett, Irene Sharp, Helen Smith, Faye Wagner and Faye Haley.

Ascot PTA Meets

Ascot Avenue PTA held its regular meeting in the school's auditorium last week. Highlighting the meeting was the talk by Dr. Frazier Moore who spoke on the "Care of the Teeth."

Mrs. Sarah Daniel, publicity chairman, urged the parents to attend the regular Monday night classes for Mothers which get under way at 9 a.m.

Jr. Hostesses Needed

Single girls from 18 to 25 can apply for Junior Hostesses at the 28th Street YMCA. Mrs. Ruth R. Paillet interviews girls between the hours of 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Presented Gift

For the twelfth consecutive year, members of Phi Epsilon Phi Sorority have presented a gift to the American Cancer Society in support of its programs of research, education and service to cancer patients.

A check for $3,954 was presented to the California Division of the society at the sorority's recent national convention in Sacramento. Of this amount $300 came from Beta Chapter of Phi Epison Phi in Los Angeles and was credited to District 11 American Cancer Society.

Mrs. Freita Shaw Johnson, 1712 E. 114th street, District 11 chairman of volunteers, in accepting the donation

'KING' MEETS 'PRES'—John F. Kennedy warmly greeted the cool one, Nat 'King' Cole, when they met in Boston during the height of the Presidential campaign. Cole, an ardent Kennedy supporter, was one of the stars who appeared in a vocal role at the recent Inaugural festivities. JFK is definitely down and digs every mellow sound. 'Pres' further accepted a standing invitation to make the 'cool' scene whenever the affairs of state slate is clean.

Texas), Herb Duckett, the Fred Griffins and others will be heading for S'Diego next Frid. with Elois when Kay and Al Montgomery start their weekend birthday fete; it's Al's birthday on the 1st and Tues. (31) is birthday for Elois. Climax of the hoedown will take place in the El Cortez Hotel. The Montgomerys will have a swingin' combo at the party version in that fabulous hilltop house of theirs down that way. A neighbor of theirs is the mayor, no less. Meanwhile, Nuffy and Cab will houseguest here the next ten days or so with Elois.

Helen Thigpen (loves living in LA) has been bidden by the Israeli government to sing there in mid-summer. Lottie Anderson Goshler hopes to be ready to leave in Aug. for Ghana where she will settle if all goes well. Ex-Angeleno Bill Lawrie will be in the Leontyne Price debut night audience at the Met. Tommi Berry: Your guest "bit" certainly fetched some golden memories of earlier newsy columns of yours via KaySee.

Esterline Powell's husband, Bill, much improved after snapping out've a coma at Sawtelle. Jerene Webb Jr. entered City College. Kitty White and her husband are expecting. Tony Hill, home from NYC and Chica.

Town Meeting

Operation Community Improvement announced its first Town Meeting to consider improving such areas as South Park, Wrigley Field, Central avenue and Avalon blvd.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 27, at the Avalon Community Center, 43rd street and S. Avalon blvd.

Club Thanks Friends

Members of the Yearling Club express thanks to friends for supporting their recent affair and helping to make it a success.

All the glamour gals and bar operators were on hand to keep the festivities gala. This week it should be more of same at the popular Renny Lounge, when Rose Yuen hostesses the honors.

Apollo Outstanding

Caught the Apollo Theatre show with Little Willie John and Bill Doggett, and the outstanding act was the fine impersonating of Dave Turner, who is married to "Miss Wiggles" daughter. This week its been jazz, with Art Blakey, Gloria Lynne and the Earl May Trio, Olatungi, and Herbie Mann. Starting tomorrow, it will be rock 'n roll, with Jocko and his Rocketship Revue.

Peggy Lee is still packing them into the rafters at Basin Street East, as she opens with, "I Love Being Here With You," then gives samplings of old and new tunes in her repertoire, closing with a sensational bit, a tribute to the late, great, Billie Holiday, and her windup tune is, "God Bless The Child." Combine Peggy's swinging style, and the intimate atmosphere and excellent food and service of Basin Street East, and you have an evening most pleasurably spent.

Threatened to Arrest Him if He Didn't Pay

An all-white jury Wednesday started hearing testimony on how two Long Beach police officers framed Dr. J. O. Garland, prominent Long Beach doctor, and swindled him of $400 a month.

The trial got under way in Judge J. Howard Zigmann's court after many postponements and months of delay. Monday and Tuesday were spent in selecting the jury of four men and eight women, with three women as substitutes.

Turned Over $600

The two officers, both of whom had been on the police force for 13½ years, are Det. James Allen Thiele, 48, and Det. Harry P. Finch Jr., 42.

Their attorney, Albert Ramsey, had sought still another postponement last week, but Judge Ziemann curtly denied the request, asserting, "There will be no further delays in this case."

The two officers were arrested early last September after another officer, Warren Jordan, reportedly handed

Young Mother Of Two Dies of Knife Wounds

A young mother was stabbed to death by her boy friend of the past 10 years shortly after midnight Saturday.

Mrs. Bernice Winfield, the mother of two girls, was dead from a stab wound in the upper back when police arrived at her home, 727 E. 101st street.

Paul Louis Trice, 39, of the same address, admitted the knifing.

"Yes, I cut her. I am the one who called police."

He said he and Mrs. Winfield had been arguing for about two weeks and that they began arguing again when he came in about 12:30 a.m.

He said he "didn't know

Judge Dudley Replaces Jack

NEW YORK — Domestic Relations Judge Edward R. Dudley was named Tuesday to succeed Hulan Jack as president of the Borough of Manhattan. Jack resigned the position after he was convicted of influence peddling a month ago and got a year's suspended sentence in state prison.

Dudley served as ambassador to Liberia under President Truman and prior to that time had been active as an attorney for the NAACP. His appointment was urged by Mayor Robert Wagner. The appointment was viewed as a tribute to political power of Negro Democrats and laid to rest rumors that a white man would be named. Jack was the first Negro to serve in the position.

Loren Miller says . . .

"Negro Districts"

The Los Angeles Times series on vice in our city is bound to blow up a storm in these parts. That's so because every discussion on vice begins, and often ends, with a few hundred well chosen words on racial crime statistics. The Times says in its opening article that "the predominantly Negro" area of the city accounts for "30.5 per cent of the city's major criminal offenses" and "52 per cent of the entire city's prostitution arrests." It adds that "crap shooting openly is a normal recreation—a way of life" in the "Negro districts" and that "numbers games and policy rackets flourish" in those areas.

Loren Miller

At the outset you have to ponder the fact that vice is whatever is defined as such

All Local Republicans Oppose Rules Change

Cal. Democrats Favored Curb On Committee

WASHINGTON — With 14 out of 15 California Republicans voting against the change and all 15 California Democrats favoring it, the House Tuesday voted 217 to 212 to curtail the power of the House Rules Committee to bottle up legislation opposed by a coalition of Dixiecrats and reactionary Republicans. The change was effected by increasing the Rules Committee from 12 to 15 members.

Heading the list of California Republicans who voted to support the Committee was Gordon L. Mc Donough, representative from the heavily Negro populated 15th district. Although he was deluged with letters and telegrams urging him to vote for the change Mc Donough voted, as he has in the past, to keep Dixiecrats in control of the Committee.

Under House rules all bills must pass through the Rules Committee and the House cannot vote on the merits of a bill until the Committee approves, and sets a date for such a vote. Chairman Howard Smith of Virginia and William Collmer of Mississippi, both Democrats, have consistently voted with the four conservative Republican members to refuse to send a bill out for a vote until it was changed to suit their whims. In extreme cases,

Met Glows for Leontyne Price

NEW YORK — Leontyne Price completed the journey Friday night from Laurel, Miss., to the Metropolitan Opera House in New York.

In one of the most enthusiastic and exhilarating demonstrations ever witnessed at the Met, Miss Price was given a final round of applause that lasted a full 35 minutes.

Reviews of her peformance as Leonora in "Il Trovatore" are glowing and unstinting.

Kennedy Says Race Bias Injures U. S.

WASHINGTON — President John F. Kennedy told Congress that "the denial of constitutional rights to some of our fellow Americans—at the ballot box and elsewhere—disturbs the national conscience" and left the impression that he will use his executive power to deal with the question and ask Congress for legislation on the subject when he made his State of the Union address Monday.

There was nothing in the address to indicate what the president proposes to do by way of executive action or what he will also ask Congress to do. He did say that the denial of constitutional rights "subjects us to the charge of world opinion that our democracy is not equal to the high promise of our heritage."

The president then added that "morality in private business has not been sufficiently spurred by morality in public business," a statement interpreted by political observers to refer to sanction of discrimination under federal housing programs by governmental agencies. Rumor has it that he will issue an executive order banning all segregation and discrimination by builders and lenders who participate in FHA and other housing programs.

Action Foreseen

The promise of executive action and of recommendations for specific civil rights legislation to Congress was drawn from his statement that

'Hot Lover' Held, Must Stand Trial On 'Sucker' Thefts

Eugene "Lover Boy" Hawkins was held to answer this week on two counts of robbery and one of conspiracy after his latest victims pointed an accusing finger directly at him and could not be budged from their positive identification.

Arraignment on the charges has been set for Feb. 8 at 9 a.m. in Dept. 100.

'You Don't Forget!'

Held on the same charges was Mrs. Marian Kritzer who, police claim, was Hawkins' accomplice who "put the bee on" wealthy women whose names are found on Hawkins' "sucker list."

The two counts of robbery involved Mrs. Aileen Eaton, wife of Olympic promoter Cal Eaton, and Mrs. Myra Gris, who were attacked and robbed on succeeding nights.

"He walked toward me for about 20 feet in the brightly lit driveway," Mrs. Eaton said, adding, "You don't forget a face that you see under such circumstances."

Mrs. Gris, who bit her attacker's right thumb through to the bone, was equally positive in her identification. She, too, had a good view of him as he approached her car.

Sketched Features

Mrs. Eaton said she had such a clear memory of the man's appearance that when

Youth, 17, Shot By Officer in Theater Brawl

An off-duty traffic officer shot and wounded a 17-year-old youth in a kicking-and-hitting scramble at the Boulevard Theater, Washington blvd. and Vermont avenue, about 7 p.m. Sunday.

The officer was not arrested; the youth was.

Not Intentional

The latter was taken to General Hospital with a wound in his shoulder. He was later booked for battery and disturbing the peace.

The name of the youth was not revealed, but Sgt. T. R. Robertson of Wilshire Juvenile Division who, with Sgt. F. L. Smith, investigated the case, said that the teenager "didn't think Joe intended to hit him."

"Joe" is the name of the officer, Joe Simms, who fired the shot. He works in the traffic detail out of the downtown headquarters and has been employed by the theater when off duty as a plainclothes officer for many years.

Struck Officer

Simms was just leaving the theater after completing his stint when the manager asked him to help evict the obstreperous youth who first reportedly created a disturbance at the candy stand and then went into the theater proper and was arguing loudly with another patron.

Simms approached the youth with the suggestion that we "go into the lobby," but the teenager allegedly struck out at the officer instead of complying and scuffled with him all the way down the aisle.

During the scuffling someone apparently grabbed Simms' flashlight from his

Delta Leader Tells Of New Approach

-On the campus of USC last Friday morning at a press conference Dr. Jeanne Noble, national president of the Delta Sigma Theta sorority, told reporters that the Deltas have 25,000 college women dedicated to help new African nations develop their full potentialities.

Dr. Noble came to Los Angeles to address the organization's Founders' Day luncheon last Saturday at the Statler Hilton Hotel. A native of Albany, Ga., she is currently assistant professor at the Center for Human Relations Studies at New York University.

Project in Kenya

She told the group about the sorority's international project in Chania, Kenya. A maternity wing in the hospital founded by Dr. Mungai Njoroge that treats 200 women a day has been built, equipped and maintained by this organization of trained women.

Dr. Noble further stated that the sorority is bringing pressure on the State Department to prevent the separation of African families when husbands are brought to this country to study for long periods. The tradition of male dominance is still strong in Africa, she added, and the women's place is still considered to be the home.

Emerging African women leaders could play a great role in helping their country become stable, Dr. Noble, who recently visited Ghana, said. The majority of African women students coming to this country are encouraged to join the Deltas, she added.

Land of Plush and Plenty

In '62 the Deltas, on a family plan, will tour Africa to develop a closer relationship with the people there and to enable the Deltas to have a better grasp of the African cultural background.

On Saturday afternoon, 300 Deltas packed the Golden State Room of the Statler-Hilton for their Founders' Day celebration. Dr. Noble rode herd on false social standards and frivolous interests as she ran the gamut of forensic skill.

"In this land of plush and plenty," she began, "our goals are geared to gadgets and other material things and we are still in hot pursuit of the Joneses even if we have to use the Diners Club and American Express cards to catch up with them.

Rededication

"That which the average American family throws away as garbage could feed an entire Indian family," she said.

She struck a more serious note in a forceful declaration of Deltas' rededication to community service, by the 25,000 college trained members within the sorority's 268 chapters throughout the U.S., Haiti and Africa.

"We are pushed by a growing sense of social responsibility and desire for achievement among the young," the dynamic young leader stated.

"Ladies, you have power," she declared. "Use yourselves in the highest purposes of social action and thus aid the cause of freedom. Be more militant, more courageous!"

Los Angeles leaders in civic, professional, labor and social circles attended the reception Saturday night in honor of Dr. Noble at the beautiful home of Dr. Geraldine P. Woods, first vice president of the Delta sorority.

Highlander School Head to Talk on Tenn.

"It is surprising how many white people in Fayette County are showing concern for the dispossessed share-croppers in Fayette County, Tenn.", Myles Horton, director of the Highlander Folk School of Monteagle, Tenn. commented, on his arrival here Sunday.

Horton, in Los Angeles for one week, will speak at the Unitarian Church, UCLA and elsewhere and will be honored at a reception at the Wilfandel Club Sunday afternoon, Feb. 5 from 3-6 p.m. He is the guest of Dr. Abbot Kaplan and Mrs. Kaplan.

To Discuss Highlander

He will also meet with leaders and organizations interested in the work Highlander is doing in spearheading integrated, democratic community life in the South.

The Los Angeles Highlander Committee is headed by Mrs. Alice Lynch and Miss Helene Boughton, assisted by Mrs. Paul Williams, Mrs. Helen Garrott and Mrs. Sam Warner.

A recent visitor, Kwa O. Hagan, national secretary of the People's Association of Ghana, in describing the school to listeners in Africa on an overseas broadcast of Voice of America, said:

Silent Revolution

"The Highlander Folk School, set on a plateau top at Monteagle in the State of Tennessee, is unquestionably a great experiment in race relations in the United States. Some day it might be said of this institution that it succeeded in causing a silent revolution on the question of race integration.

"Those who are involved in that experiment — Myles Horton and Mrs. Septima Clark and their noble band of helpers—surely must all have a stout heart to be able to withstand the prejudices of these times."

$37,500 Racket At Market Bared

A neatly operating racket in which the owner of the West Coast Groceries Inc., 1145 W. 25th street, lost something like $37,500 in merchandise during the past three years came to an abrupt end here this week with the arrest of three employees.

The owner, Ray E. Jones, said he had been aware since 1958 that various items were somehow disappearing from his warehouse, but he was unable to locate the source of the leak.

Last Dec. 19 he hired a private investigator who suspected everyone and shadowed everyone and finally came up with a solution.

The racket was a simple one. It reportedly involved three of Jones' employes and a "fence," Joe Singer, who operates Curley Joe's Catering Co., 509 W. Washington blvd.

The three employes — two of them apparently working together and the other on his own — simply threw in a few extra cases of this and of that when they loaded the truck with "Curley Joe's" orders. He paid cash — and got no invoice.

Smooth Operation

Frank William Dearmore, 49, of 4649 W. 153rd street, Lawndale, worked with William J. Edwards, 43, of 1519 W. Santa Barbara, who was in charge of the warehouse. Dearmore was Bill's boss. He paid him $30 on every $100 of the payments for the "free" goods.

Joseph Ernest Lewis, 38, of 1235 E. 87th street, seemed to be working the same sort of a racket, but on his own. He told police he has been making $90 a week since 1959, over and above his regular salary.

The thefts were discovered last Thursday when Lewis delivered a few odd cases to "Curley Joe," the total under-the-counter deal amounting to $125.19 and involving 3 cases of Coca Cola, 5 cases of cups and 2 cases of chocolate.

Marked Goods

Lewis made his delivery about 12:40 p.m. About 1:30 p.m. he made a second delivery, this time allegedly delivering stolen merchandise valued at $139.50.

Trouble was that these various items had been marked three days earlier with an invisible pencil.

The gaff was blown on the deal when officers found the marked, but unrecorded, merchandise at Curley Joe's.

Curley Joe reportedly admitted he had known the cases he was receiving were "hot."

All three of the store's employes allegedly admitted their slick-finger activity.

Heirs Given Equal Share Of Estate

Sharing equally in the estate of Mrs. Jessie B. Johnson, who died Jan. 25, 1959, will be Effie Marie Clemons, Sophronia Braden Brown and Mrs. Johnnie D. Braden.

Mrs. Braden acted as administratrix of the estate of Mrs. Johnson who willed her entire estate to her son, Edward Scott Braden. There was a further provision that should her son become deceased her granddaughters, named above, with Mr. Braden's widow, should share in the estate

Mr. Braden died on Feb. 2 1959, approximately one week after the death of his mother Although this complicated matters to some extent the estate has now been settled according to the terms of the will and to the satisfaction of those concerned.

The total amount to be distributed among the heirs was about $1,600 more than originally expected. Property in the estate was sold at a higher price than had been estimated.

Miller, Maddox, and Malone, law firm, handled the legal matters in the settlement.

Dr. Robinson Dies Suddenly

Funeral services were conducted by Father H. R. Moore at St. Philip's Episcopal Church, 801 E. 28th street, Saturday for Dr. Leopold L. Robinson, who died suddenly at his home on Jan. 25.

Dr. Robinson was born in Jamaica, B.W.I. He came to Los Angeles at an early age, and graduated from Polytechnic High School. He attended Meharry Medical School and graduated in dentistry in 1925.

On his return to California, he practiced five years in Bakersfield where he was the first Negro dentist and where he devoted much of his time to church activities. He then moved to Los Angeles, locating his office on Main street, across from the City Hall.

Later his office was located in the Stack Building on Fourth street near Broadway. In 1930, Dr. Robinson married Mary Parks, the niece of the late Mrs. Pearl Lowrey Winters of Los Angeles and Bakersfield.

He leaves his wife, Mary; three sisters, Miss Rosetta Robinson, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Nora Page and Miss Emily Robinson; and a brother, Josiah Robinson, all of Jamaica, B.W.I.; also a nephew, Victor Page, who is practicing dentistry in London.

Dr. Robinson was a successful dentist and businessman, an ardent member of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, and, according to those who knew him well, he was a very modest man who quietly contributed financially to many causes and charities.

Interment took place at Rosedale Memorial Cemetery.

Thugs Rob 4 Friends at Card Game

Frank Marzette, 27, of 4217 Woodlawn avenue, told police that about 1:15 a.m. Saturday five men armed with a sawed-off shotgun barged in while he and three of his friends were playing cards in the kitchen.

The armed bandits ordered their victims to lie down on the floor. While covering them with guns, the thugs carted out a portable radio, a typewriter and clothing, whistling at the discovery of each new piece of plunder.

They also took $100 in cash, some cuff links and a revolver.

Total value of the items was placed at $789.

Victims of the robbery, in addition to Marzette, were Joseph Bernell, of 2103 E. 103rd street; Sam Jones, of 1766 W. 37th street; and M. Whitmore, of the Woodlawn avenue address.

Actor George Lee recently confessed that he loved all blondes — "no matter what color their hair is."

Two Bus Drivers Held Up, Robbed

Last week was a bad one for bus drivers.

On Saturday, about 4 o'clock in the morning, Henry A. Mathews, of 7714 S. McKinley, an MTA driver, was held up as he was changing trolleys at the end of his line, 57th and Naomi.

A man ordered him to keep his hands raised, then to get the money in the coin box and empty it on the ground, and finally to lie down on the ground himself.

The thug scooped up the coins, took the victim's wallet and left with $91.73 in cash.

Two days earlier, Daniel S. Rocha, 1919½ Nadeau street, also an MTA driver, was robbed as he stopped his vehicle to adjust the trolley at the railroad tracks at Compton and 28th street.

He, too, was accosted by a holdup man who ordered him to keep his hands high, then to get the coin box and finally to throw it on the ground. "Take" in this robbery was placed at $27.55.

Poetry-Jazz Concert Slated

Langston Hughes and Buddy Collette will join in a rare evening of "Poetry and Jazz" at the Barnum Auditorium in Santa Monica on Feb. 18.

The unusual combination of pulsating poetry read to the accompaniment of the jazz rhythm is being presented by the Southern Area Conference of the NAACP in connection with the association's 52nd anniversary.

Hughes, poet, author and playwrite, has just returned from Africa where he was honored as one of America's outstanding poets.

Collette is well known as a jazz artist in the field of contemporary music.

They will appear together, depicting through story and music the growth and progress — and the heartaches — of the Negro.

Rules Change Squeaks by in 217-212 Vote

where no changes were made, they have simply kept the legislation bottled up until the House adjourned.

Rayburn Led

Speaker Sam Rayburn led the fight for the change and frankly based his support on the propostion that unless it was made the House would never get a chance to vote on measures backed by President Kennedy. The final vote for change showed 195 Democrats and only 22 Republicans favoring the motion to curb the Rules Committee's power, while 148 Republicans and 64 southern and border state Democrats voted to keep it in the saddle.

Other Southern California Republicans voting against the change were: Glennard Lipscomb, Alphonso Bell, Edgar Hiestand, Craig Hosmer, James Rousselot, H. Allen Smith of the Los Angeles area; James Utt of Orange county and Robert Wilson of San Diego. The only favorable Republican vote was cast by John Baldwin of Contra Costa county.

Southern California Democrats voting for the change were Cecil King, Clyde Doyle, James Roosevelt, Chet Holifield, James Corman, of Los Angeles; D. S. Saund of Riverside county and Harry Shephard of San Bernardino.

Bitter Fight

Smith, fighting to the bitter end to keep the power he has wielded on the Rules Committee, tried to stave off defeat with a promise that his Committee would promptly send Kennedy bills on education, housing, minimum wages, aid to depressed areas and medical care to the House floor. Significantly, he did not mention civil rights measures.

The Virginia Dixiecrat also promised that he would not follow a previous pattern of refusing to call a Rules Committee hearing when he wanted to delay consideration of a bill. He said he would "act promptly" but Speaker Rayburn spurned the offers of a compromise.

A note of irony was added for Californians when Rep. Hiestand, who got a pat on the back from Jackie Robinson when the latter was campaigning for Republicans last fall, got out of a sick bed to vote against the change. "This was just too important a vote to miss," he said.

NAACP in Santa Monica Installs Officers for 1961

By C. Marie Hughes

The Philomathean Clubhouse was crowded for space last Friday night at the biennal installation banquet of the Santa Monica Area branch of the NAACP.

The 300 or more people present enjoyed the sumptuous meal as the program got under way with Mrs. J. Waters in the toastmistress role. The musical portion of the program was furnished by Mrs. Mildred Celistane, John Lynn and Mrs. S. D. Jones. Then the veteran workers, charter members and special guests were introduced.

Frank Barnes, life membership chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Tarea Hall Pittman, regional director in the field of Human Rights.

She told of the progress made during the past year and the continuous struggle of this 52-year-old organization throughout the United States, emphasizing that "human rights are paramount to the freedom of every individual." Mrs. Pittman's speech received a rousing round of applause.

New officers installed were: C. M. Garland, president of the Bay Area; Hillard L. Lawson, first vice president; James E. Ward, second vice president; Eunice Ward, secretary; Lelia Ball, treasurer; Dora Williams, corresponding secretary and James Martin, senior counselor.

The youth officers were: Alfred Davis, president; Sondra Pegus, vice president; Gail Powell, secretary; Charles Wilson, treasurer; Mary E. Fields, corresponding secretary and Zelda Wilson, youth counselor.

Court Told of Extortion Plot

Thiele a package containing $600 in marked bills.

Undercover agents watched as the transaction was being consumated, and immediately arrested Thiele. A few minutes later they arrested Finch while he was processing an arrest.

Within hours after the arrests, the chief of detectives of the Long Beach force, Lorin Q. Martin, submitted his resignation, 15 days before completion of his 33rd year of service.

The two officers reportedly threatened to arrest Dr. Garland on an abortion charge unless he "paid off."

Dr. Garland paid — but he also placed his case before Police Chief Bill Mooney.

Warren Jordan and a white fellow-officer, Ray Henry, also went to the "Chief." They reportedly told him that Finch and Thiele had asked them to pick up $400 on the 10th of each month from Dr. Garland and turn it over to them.

The $600 involved in the transaction that ended in the arrests included $200 "in arrears" from the previous month when Dr. Garland was on vacation.

Aileen Eaton 'Positive' of Identity

police showed her pictures of criminals and Hawkins' face was not among them, she picked out one that resembled him and sketched in his features on the photo.

She also said she recognized him instantly when he came into Judge Ernestine Stahlhut's courtroom. Hammering questions hurled at her by Hawkins' attorney, Frank Duncan, failed to shake her conviction.

Mrs. Eaton indignantly rejected implications by the defense that bias might have swayed her judgment.

(In discussing this later with the California Eagle, Mrs. Eaton pointed out that it was she and her husband who broke the local color bar in wrestling and, over the opposition of the Hollywood Legion Stadium, forced acceptance of mixed matches. That was some 20 years ago.)

Mrs. Gris identified Hawkins both from photos and in the police line-up.

On The List

Another witness was Mrs Joyce Lennon who apparently was slated as the third victim, but who had had the foresight to have retired boxer Joey Barnum trail her car on the night following the attack on her friend, Mrs. Gris (Mrs. Lennon's name was on the handwritten list police claim they found in the room at the Beverly-Hilton Hotel occupied by Hawkins and Mrs. Kritzer.)

Mrs. Lennon got the license number of the Cadillac that followed her. It was the number of a car rented in Mrs Kritzer's name. It was the same license number on the car used in the attack on Mrs. Gris.

Deputy District Atty. Anthony Joyce advised that there were at least eight women indicated on the "sucker list" found at the hotel, written in Hawkins' handwriting. In some cases the women were identified by both name and address; other notations contained only the name or the address.

All the women were members of the Beverly Bridge Club, to which Mrs. Kritzer formerly belonged. She had been recommended, the Eagle was informed, by the Regency Club.

Wilshire Det. Killeby who with Det. Fusilier, has been working on various clues in the case, advised Tuesday that neither of the other two men involved in the robberies have as yet been apprehended.

Granger's Job Taken Over by W. M. Young

Whitney M. Young, Jr., dean of the Atlanta University School of Social Work, has been selected by the Board of Trustees of the National Urban League to be the organization's new executive director, Henry Steeger, Sr., League president, announced this week.

Young, 39, will take over the organization's top professional job from current executive director, Lester B. Granger, who retires Oct. 1. Granger was recently elected to the presidency of the International Conference of Social Work.

Wide Recognition

Young is now on leave from Atlanta University and is studying at Harvard University under a special Rockefeller Foundation grant.

A graduate of Kentucky State College with a Master's Degree from the University of Minnesota and having completed graduate work at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Young is co-author of a booklet, "A Second Look — the Negro Citizen in Atlanta," and has received wide recognition in the field of social work.

At the San Francisco conference of the National Conference of Social Workers in 1959, he was given the "Florina Lasker Award," the first Negro to receive the award.

First Postmistress

The next year, in 1960, he was given the "Outstanding Alumni Award" from the University of Minnesota, the first Social Work graduate to receive that award.

Young has a long history of work with the Urban League, which gave him his first professional job in its St. Paul branch.

Young's father is president of Lincoln Institute in Lincoln Ridge, Ky., and his mother is the first Negro woman in the country to hold the position of postmistress. She holds that post at Lincoln Ridge.

Young's wife, the former Margaret Buckner of Aurora, Ill., is also a University of Minnesota graduate (Master's Degree). They have two children.

The young Louisiana-born woman is survived by her mother, Mrs. Willie Jackson, and her father, Riley Jackson of 10207 Stamford; two sisters, Lucille Young and Juanita Crawford; and two brothers, Clarence Winfield and Jessie Winfield.

The funeral will be held Saturday from the J. S. Williams Funeral Home.

"When I was a boy," says Bernard Baruch in his memoirs, "they used to say that only a mule and a milepost never changed its mind. I never wanted to be included in that category."

Dog-Lovers Face Loss of Their Pets

(This is a long story for a newspaper, in fact too long. We tried to cut it, and couldn't. We tried to throw it in the wastebasket, but we didn't want to do that, either. We think every dog-lover will understand why.

(The story is part of a letter written by Charles O. Thompson of Llano to the poundmaster who informed Thompson's mother that he was coming to get his dog because he had bitten "somebody," though Thompson says it isn't true.

(Thompson's wife is postmistress at Llano, and the Thompsons are currently in a hassle with the Keppel Union School District over the relocation of a bus stop. The Eagle does not know whether there is any connection between the bus controversy and the "dog bite" charge.—Editor.)

Now that the wheels of "justice" have been set to turning, I want to tell you a little story about my dogs.

I might not have any dogs at all but for my brother Rudy's getting married on December 31, 1949. His wife demanded that they have a dog. So he went to your pound and the Poundmaster insisted that my brother look at a well behaved, trained and beautiful greyhound in your custody. My brother wanted a small house dog for his new wife, but when he saw "Boy" he could not leave him in the pound.

Loved Everybody

"Boy" had many adventures in the big city in his new home—getting in cars and jumping in the back seat, then revealing himself to a surprised neighbor miles away. He tore the new honeymoon mattress to shreds—he chewed a hole in the garage door and finally ended up at my ranch in Llano early in 1950.

"Boy" loved everybody and only once have I heard any of my dogs growl and that was "Boy" when Barry Fitzgerald was up at my ranch with a Russian character actor. Maybe "Boy" sensed something—I don't know—but he growled once and it sounded nice because I have that to remember him by.

Oh! yes, I forgot—he chased the mountain lion away from my goats and I saw the lion's pad marks in the snow the next morning. I used to take him to the clear alfalfa fields in the winter and watch him outrun the swift jack rabbits.

Boy Was Lonesome

But "Boy," like all people, was lonesome, and one day while I was on the roof working I looked down the road and noticed a large white dog in the distance. I gave a shrill whistle and this dog came loping up my driveway. I saw a white and dark marked greyhound with nothing to show but her ribs sticking out from malnutrition. I tied her up for two days and fed her well. "Girl" never left because she not only liked the attention and food but she had fallen in love with handsome "Boy."

My boy, Daniel, announced that "a bee 'tung 'Boy'," and then a short time later "Boy" got into someone's car and rode off never to return. But from that bee sting "Girl" had about thirteen of the cutest puppies on the day of the Tehachapi earthquake in 1952.

We saved one pup because he used to nurse so much more than others and Daniel called him "Balloon Belly" — but that was not a fitting name for a dog with his background and he was properly christened "Balloon Belly, Sir Dog of Lord Bow Wow Castle of Canine Heaven Manor."

Caught in Trap

Well, "Sir Dog" and my boys have grown up together and I couldn't begin to tell you the fun they have had together on our 70 acres—70 acres away from the city — here I moved my family in 1948 when I was evicted — thank God! — out here we see and feel a little of nature — we even eat whole eggs—that the rooster has smiled at—not a dead egg. Our goats give the best "raw" milk you ever tasted and my dogs love to eat bread and skim milk—and a chicken too if I don't watch them, but I can break them of those bad habits. The older dogs learn this obedience.

Also I have had my dogs removed and have removed them many times from coyote traps, set by government trappers, and placed many times on my property without my permission. Poor old "Whitey" has a lame paw now from just such a thing happening to him.

I also have over 200 quail that live here like chickens and I feed them every day. We once had a visit from a skunk that the boys gave milk and this skunk drank like a cat. Daniel picked the skunk up but I had him turn him loose. I did not want him to shoot accidentally in fright sometime.

Think He's 'People'

Out of another litter from "Girl" came "Lady." She is indeed a "Lady" with a loving nature of her own that my children continued to grow up with and so did "Lady," she and the children revelling in each other's company. "Girl," after some health difficulties and several trips to the veterinarian, was no longer able to have puppies. So "Lady" gave us "Charley Brown" about two years ago.

Now "Charley Brown," I am sorry to say, does not know he is a dog—he thinks he's a "people." He dances with the boys and jumps on the trampoline with them. The boys dress him up in old clothes and he sits at the table outside and dines with them—and with a look that lets you know this is all a very natural thing with him.

"Lady" decided that the boys needed someone else to grow up with, so she gave

Rowan Named To State Dept. Press Circle

WASHINGTON — Appointment of Carl Rowan, well known journalist, to the position of press relations officer for the State Department brought to three the number of top flight appointments of Negroes by President Kennedy.

The other two are Robert Weaver, as administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, and George L. P. Weaver (no relation) as an assistant secretary of Labor. Rowan who has been working for the Cowles papers for the past seven years is the author of a number of books and magazine articles.

George Weaver has been an official in the Electrical Workers union for a number of years and held a government position under Senator Stuart Symington, when the latter was secretary of Defense.

It is more shameful to distrust our friends than to be deceived by them.—La Rochefoucauld

Weaver's Name Submitted for Housing Post

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy Monday sent the name of Dr. Robert A. Weaver to the Senate for confirmation as administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. He announced last month that he had selected Weaver for the post.

The submission of Weaver's name stirred the storm that has been brewing ever since the announcement of his appointment was made. The appointment will be referred to the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, headed by Viriginia's Senator Willis Robertson.

Robertson and Alabama Senator John Sparkman have already announced their opposition to Weaver on the ground that he has "favored forced integration" in housing. Weaver, who is presently chairman of the National Board of the NAACP and of the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing, has been a long time advocate of federal guarantees against discrimination by builders and developers.

Other southerners have also indicated their opposition to Weaver but all of them have disclaimed racial reasons for opposition. On the other hand, the appointee is certain to get the enthusiastic support of liberal Republican senators such as Javits and Keating of New York, Kuchel of California and Case of New Jersey and the votes of northern and western Democrats.

Administration spokesmen have insisted that there is no doubt of Senate confirmation.

The Important Newspaper

The Narcotics Problem

California legislators who are wrestling with the narcotics problem are being screamed at to attempt a solution through the imposition of increased penalties and by letting down the bars against illegally secured evidence.

The marvel of it is that these devices can win so much public support in light of past experience. We've been lengthening penalties for the past decade and the statistical fact is that narcotic addiction is on the increase. That increase was on the upgrade when illegally secured evidence was admissible in our courts.

It's time that all of us faced up to the fact that we've been barking up the wrong tree for years and that we can't find a solution for the narcotics problem by intensifying ineffective measures.

There are three aspects of the problem: what's to be done with the addict himself, how we can deal with the supplier, and what we can do to diminish the supply of illegal drugs.

The addict is a sick man; he needs treatment. Throwing him in jail won't cure him of his addiction. At best it quarantines him for a limited period but with rare exceptions he resumes the habit on his discharge. He is as sick when he comes out as when he went in.

Commitment for addiction ought to be put on the same basis as commitment for any other illness, mental or physical. Instead of being given a futile 30 day jail sentence the addicted person should be kept under medical care until there is some hope that he will be able to resist the drug when he's released and until there's some plan to help him.

A hospital plan for addicts would cost money, both for care of the afflicted person and for subsidized medical research to find cures. The initial cost would be high but not as high as the cost of the present revolving door scheme under which we jail addicts, turn them out, permit them to commit more crime to secure drugs and then repeat the process over, and over, again. It's highly probable that a sound plan of this kind would have to include controlled dispensation of drugs to the hopelessly addicted until we've had the success in finding cures for drug addiction that we've had in finding remedies for tuberculosis and infantile paralysis.

Peddlers fall into two categories: addicts who supply the drug in order to support their own affliction and those who peddle dope in order to make high profits. The addicts must be treated as such. If we take the profit out of the sale of drugs through controlled supply for addicts we strike at the heart of the drug traffic by non-addicts. We can then impose criminal sanctions.

Interwoven with the problem of addict and peddler is that of cutting off the supply of illegal drugs. The source of that supply is fairly well known but as long as profits are as high as they are now some supply will be maintained, one way or another. Any diminution is highly desirable but we won't cut off all drug traffic as long as there is a market.

In the final analysis the problem sifts down to treatment for the addict, the sick man who is the prey of the peddler and who in turn preys on society to aggravate his own illness. That means that we've got to find cures for both the individual addict and for the illnesses of our society that cause men to turn to drugs.

Hawkins Housing Bill

The Hawkins Housing Bill introduced into the legislature last week deserves the same kind of support that was given fair employment legislation last year.

In brief, the bill forbids discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing except the single family dwelling. It revamps the present Fair Employment Practices Commission into a Fair Practices Commission and gives it the same kind of supervision over charges of discrimination in housing that it now has in the case of employment.

We've argued the case against housing discrimination in these columns so many times that they hardly need repetition. The essence of the matter is that unless we rid our cities of residential segregation we're going to have segregated public facilities such as schools, playgrounds, and the like, no matter what we do or say.

The battle for the Hawkins housing bill is going to be an uphill affair. The administration hasn't put it on its "must" list. A great many legislators take the view that they did their full duty by civil rights when they voted for FEPC last year.

Popular opinion hasn't reached the degree of support for fair housing measures that it has in respect of fair employment laws.

Add it all up, and you'll find that we won't get fair housing legislation without a mighty struggle. The Hawkins bill is an excellent measure and deserves the support and sacrifice necessary to write it into the laws of our state.

Battleaxe & Bread

By Lester B. Granger

By the time this column appears, the choice of a new Borough President for New York City's Manhattan may have been announced, but meantime the public wrangling and twisting regarding who will fill the post offer colored voters the country over an impressive lesson in how not to make friends and influence people in politics. The lesson is all the more impressive because there is no city in the country where the Negro electorate has a more open opportunity to exert political influence skillfully, constructively and without overadvertisement.

Granger

Few things are more dangerous to maintenance of political influence than unnecessary advertisement of it. It's like wielding a big stick before entering an argument. The bigger your stick and the more you swing it around the more you encourage others to find sticks of their own, just in case. And if you're not careful the time comes when the collective force of the sticks opposed to you outweighs your own. Then you're stymied — unless you're willing to take on an enemy who hopelessly overmatches you.

Not Monolithic

The Irish-Catholic vote in Boston, the over-all Catholic vote in New York, the Scandinavian vote in Minnesota, the Italian vote in northern New Jersey, the trade union vote in a dozen states and a hundred cities — all of these are instances of vested interest political blocs which have seldom advertised their total strength and almost never over-advertised it.

Consequently, they have generally had something in reserve when the opposition has challenged established power; they have been able to move people around from behind the scenes and to appear onstage in force only when it has been necesary.

On paper the non-white vote of metropolitan New York seems to be a tremendous power factor. In reality it's not half so powerful as it seems. In the first place, it is anything but monolithic. It's split into residential groups originating in the States and those originating in the West Indies — including Puerto Rico. And up to a very recent yesterday there were idiotic prejudices and suspicions existing between colored New Yorkers arising solely out of their different places of origin.

They Can Add

In the second place, possibly a quarter of this over-all group are not qualified to vote and a quarter of those qualified seldom exercise their voting rights. And the political powers-that-be are smart enough to know where their bread and butter comes from and are always figuring on how much it amounts to. While we talk largely about "one million non-whites comprising an eighth of the city's population, they have their notebooks out and are calculating the voting habits of an expected quarter or third of a million Negro voters. And the results of their arithmetic are radically different from ours.

In the third place, ours is an insecure political leadership. For 30 years it has been a tame leadership yoked to the Democratic machine and utterly dependent upon that machine for its continuance in pseudo-authority. The new leadership combines are still tentative; they have not proclaimed their independence of machines and neither have they struck boldly for power within the machines themselves. This is natural, for no one today knows what will happen to the Democratic Party structure itself in lower New York State, and to grab for a place near the driver's seat could be a waste of time if the currently bubbling reform revolt should succeed.

In Public View

All of this — and much more that could be included — argued for quiet behind-the-scenes negotiation to fill the borough presidency vacated by Hulan Jack. Such negotiation would have eliminated the dangerous public stipulation that it be considered as a Negro job."

It would have settled on a bona-fide candidate who could have qualified legally, been acceptable to the political leaders in on the deal, shown himself to be possessed of experience and training, and impressed the general public as a person to be respected and trusted. With that qualification list satisfied, the racial factor need never have been mentioned publicly, for there are darned few borough presidents in New York City's modern history who have possessed such a set of references.

As it is, we have held a leadership inventory in public view. We have hauled out almost all of our appointive possibilities and held them up for public scrutiny. And every time one has been held up, somebody has yelled, "No, not that one!" The most quilified have been declared ineligible and the easily eligible have been declared unqualified—or if not unqualified, then unacceptable to the Harlem leadership team. And meanwhile a public impression is allowed to grow to the effect that either we haven't got good candidates or we're unable to agree on their selection. And I maintain, that's a helluva way to run politics.

Kennedy Avoids Promises On Tackling Race Issues

"A host of problems and projects in all 50 states, though not possible to include in this message, deserves — and will have—the attention of both Congress and the executive branch. On most of these matters, messages will be sent to the Congress within the next two weeks."

Although the president's statement on civil rights was somewhat cryptic he was forthright on the bread and butter issues which affect Negroes. He promised an expanded housing program, and said the nation must tackle the unemployment problem.

Kennedy promised the jobless—to which Negroes contribute a disproportionate number—that he will "within 14 days" propose measures to improve unemployment compensation, provide more food to families of the unemployed, secure more purchasing power for lower paid workers, and raise minimum wage levels.

Federal Aid

The president also promised that he would seek to raise the housing post to which he has appointed Dr. Robert A. Weaver, present NAACP national Board chairman, to cabinet rank and said that he plans a forthright attack on urban slums.

More federal aid to schools was also promised by the president, both to meet the needs of students and teachers and to provide employment under a construction program.

Africa came in for special attention when Kennedy said that the United States will support United Nations proposals to assist the Congo which he described as "brutally torn by civil strife, unrest, and public disorder."

Letters

Dear Mr. Robinson:

Enclosed please find $4 for my California Eagle subscription. I enjoy your fine newspaper very much.

SMITH J. ROBINSON

To the Editor:

I appreciate the consideration you gave me in your paper during and after the NAACP presidential campaign. If I can be of any service to you in the future, please feel free to call me.

In any case, I shall be promoting your paper because it represents the future strength of Negro business.

at the moment, quite without reference to the intrinsic character of the activity under discussion. For instance the crap games that occur in the "predominantly Negro" districts of Los Angeles flourish far less openly than the organized gambling on race horses at Santa Anita or Inglewood. More money changes hands in a single day at the race tracks than is won or lost in a whole year by all Negro crap shooters in Los Angeles county. But the law says you can bet on horses at race tracks but not on the dice in an alley. Santa Anita's virtue is Central Avenue's vice. That doesn't alter the fact that crap shooting is illegal and that the man who gets caught trying to roll a 10 is a law-breaker and consequently a vice statistic.

Tricky Figures

Crime statistics are tricky things, too. Track down the "major criminal offenses" which give the South Central area of the city credit, or discredit, for 30.5 per cent of Los Angeles arrests and you'll find you're talking about murder, aggravated assault, rapes, robberies and other crimes against the person. What you won't be talking about are the big time embezzlements and lootings of banks, the Equitable plan swindle, the 25 million dollar thefts blamed on the Mortgage Exchange, organized gangsters or Maffia activities, the wholesale dope traffic, or the obscene book-and-photo business. Crimes against the person are offensive and offenders are readily identifiable but if the police kept racial statistics on places of residences of major thieves, swindlers, bank looters, embezzlers, purveyors of lewd material and big time narcotic peddlers I will stake my reputation as a guesser on the hazard that less than half of one per cent of such criminals reside in the "predominantly Negro" districts. They aren't vice statistics.

It is undoubtedly true that there is a great deal of what the Times calls "brazenly open, street walking and bar fly" prostitution in the "predominantly Negro" districts. On the other hand, the call girl racket, a much more profitable and extensive kind of prostitution, thrives in the "better" neighborhoods and arrests and prosecutions are much more difficult. A few years ago a million dollar call girl racket was exposed in New York but if you'll look at prostitution arrests during that period you'll find most of them were being made in poorer districts; the mink clad prostitutes continued with business as usual.

Of course, there's too much vice and crime of particular kinds in districts in which Negroes reside. Residents of those districts have many other characteristics in common in addition to race; they can't get jobs as railroad engineers or firemen; their rents are high; many unions and employers (including the Times) don't hire them or deny them promotions after they're hired; their average income is lower than the city level; many of them were denied adequate education in the Jim Crow schools of their native states; banks, builders, lenders and government housing agencies conspire to confine them to the districts in which they live; many of them have given in to frustration, to a what's-the-use attitude that shapes their characters and actions for the worse.

The nub of the matter is that it isn't accurate to describe the districts in which Negroes are forced to live as "predominantly Negro" districts. They're that, and more, much more. Describing them as "Negro districts" carries the connotation that race shapes the conduct of residents of racially segregated areas, whereas the fact is that that conduct is a compound of many factors: of poverty, frustration, inadequate opportunities, discrimination, breakdown of family life, and other sociological detriminants. The description is about as accurate as that of the blind man who was asked to describe an elephant; he grabbed the animal's tail and reported that elephants were shaped like ropes.

pocket and hit him with it over the back of the head.

Others joined in the fray, kicking and striking the officer. As they got out into the lobby, Simms pulled out his gun and warned the teenagers to stand back.

An unidentified person hit Simms and in the midst of the tangling the gun was said to have gone off.

them "Whitey." I kept him because he favored his grandmother, "Girl." You see, "Girl" left us about a year ago, and when I carried her to her funeral pyre and poured gasoline all over her and the wood, I saw her go back from whence she came.

When I saw her disintegrating in the fire I felt a lump in my throat because many are the times that "Girl" stood by my side ready to defend me from dragons. When I would drive in the yard she always greeted me by laying her head in my lap just as I opened the car door. I gave her one pat on the head and she obediently backed away with her tail going like a railroad wigwag.

Moonlight on Trampoline

A few weeks ago, about midnight, I was in the bathroom and I heard some one jumping on the trampoline—and when I peered out of the windbw—I saw the dogs all taking turns jumping on the trampoline, just like my boys do. Also, I must add that my two girls enjoy it just as much. But back to the dogs—it was a sight in the soft moonlight to see their joy and daring as they seemed to say to each other, "Now come and you try it!"

These dogs have endeared themselves to a lot of other people in the same way they have to me and my family. Literally dozens of pups from my dogs' litters have gone to colored folk in the Llano-Little Rock area. Often I have them drive in the yard and offer to swap registered dogs for one of mine.

You see, sir, all of this "complaint" stuff was started needlessly and with no grounds. Also, I would not have happen even to a dog what you ask of me!

Last Farewell

I don't know what I'll tell my boys, but you come and get my dogs and it will be irony that old "Boy's" issues will be going back to the pound. This shows you how dogs and children sometimes get caught between the differences of us grown-ups, and sometimes when the juggernaut of human false ego and false pride and maybe so called loss of face hits the "Stonewall," then little hearts can be broken.

Would you be so kind as to let me know when you will be out to get the dogs as I don't want my boys to be home, and I want to stand and shake their paws a last farewell.

Perhaps in the night when the desert moon is full I'll hear the echo of their pads on the trampoline like muffled drums in a requiem for their memory — then perhaps I'll peer from the window and I'll see "Girl's" ghost come bounding up the driveway to greet me once again at Canine Heaven Manor.

Hamilton Service Guilds Plan Vesper Hour Feb. 12

The Wesleyan Service Guild of Hamilton Methodist Church, 6330 S. Figueroa street, will sponsor a Vesper Hour at the Church on Feb. 12, according to Mrs. Mattie Eaker, president of Guild No. 1 of the church.

January was Guild Month at Hamilton with activities planned and executed by the two guilds and the Women's Society of Christian Service joining in the joint dinner meeting at which Mrs. W. B. Sutherland was guest speaker.

Members of the guild enacted a playlet presenting "Meeting Day of Wesleyan Service Guild No. 1." Mrs. Jonnie Mae Jones introduced the speaker. Mrs. Evelyn Gordon, Mrs. Mildred McCormick, Lela Hamilton and Mrs. Mattie Eaker are presidents of the participating groups.

Mrs. Effie Knox led devotions with Rev. John J. Lewis performing the benediction. Rev. John N. Doggett, Jr. is pastor of the church.

Rev. G. Baber Joins Staff At 1st AME

Dr. H. Hartford Brookins announced the appointment of Rev. George W. Baber as associate minister of First AME Church who comes to extend the ministry of the First AME Church as youth minister and administrative assistant. He comes to the church from Chester, Pa.

Rev. Baber is a graduate of Wilberforce University and Payne Theological Seminary. He has pastored at Greenwich, Connecticut and Chester, Pa. He is the son of the Bishop George W. Baber, Sr. of the First Episcopal District of the AME Church. The young man will also serve as co-ordinator of the building fund campaign. His appointment was approved by the Board of Stewards of First Church, at its meeting in January.

'Other Side of Forgiveness' To be Explored at Ward

"The Other Side of Forgiveness," is the subject of Dr. L. Sylvester Odom's sermon at the 10:45 a.m. Communion service Feb. 5, at Ward AME Church, 1177 W. 25th street.

Music for this service will be furnished by the senior and gospel choirs under the direction of Raymond Croomes, and Garland Dudley.

At 3:30 p.m. Dr. Odom, the choir, ushers, and congregation will journey to Pomona to fellowship with Rev. V. M. Townsend and his congregation. Dr. Odom will speak.

Golden Anniversary

Ward is preparing for the celebration of the 50th Anniversary of the church. Several young women are engaged in a Miss Golden Anniversary Contest; a collegiate scholarship to the winner, and special gifts to all participants.

Featured during the anniversary will be the Founders' Day Banquet scheduled for Friday, Feb. 10. Isaac Stewart is chairman and Mrs. Annie Calomee is co-chairman of special anniversary events.

Special recognition which will be given to members with long years of consistent service to the church.

Mt. Calvary Installs New Baptismal Pool

The recently installed baptismal pool, at Mt. Calvary Baptist Church, 6110 S. Main street, has been designated a memorial to Mrs. Minnie Mae Hollins, who started the project.

Rev. Eddie Ray Thomas, pastor of the church announced this week that the pool is set against a background painting by the Italian artist, Trini Patino.

The scene of the baptism of Jesus in the Jordan river shows life size figures of the Christ and John the Baptist with the dove of peace hovering overhead. The historical scene is approximately six feet square and according to art critics it is "amazingly accurate and remarkably lifelike."

Rev. Anderson Returns to McCoy Sunday

Rev. E. A. Anderson, pastor of the McCoy Memorial Baptist Church, 802 E. 46th street, will return to his pulpit, Sunday, Feb. 5, after a three week vacation.

Holy Communion will be served at 3 p.m.

Members and friends of McCoy are expected to give the pastor a rousing welcome home.

He will report on his trip to Washington for the Presidential Inauguration, and his attendance at the National Baptist Convention Inc. board meeting at Hot Springs, Ark.

AMEZ's Give $10,000 to Build Room

NEW YORK — The National Council of Churches has announced receipt of a pledge of $10,000 from the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church to underwrite costs of a conference room at the Council's headquarters in the Interchurch Center here.

The gift, the largest single donation of the AME Zion Church to the cooperative church movement as symbolized by the Council, was voted unanimously by the Board of Bishops of the denomination meeting at Knoxville, Tenn. It was made in honor of senior Bishop William J. Walls, Bishop of the First Episcopal District (New York area), and in memory of the founder of the 780,000-member church, Bishop James Varick.

Christian Science

Why spiritualization of thought is necessary to individual growth and happiness will be brought out in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Spirit" in all Christian Science church services Sunday.

"Feed My Sheep" will be the subject of a Christian Science program to be given on CBS Radio "Church of the Air" series, in cooperation with the Christian Science Church on Sunday, Feb. 12, at 7:30 a.m. over Radio Station KNX (1070 kc).

WCLC Seeks To Aid Hungry

The report of the widespread starvation conditions existing in San Bernardino County brought prompt action from the members of the newly organized Western Christian Leadership Conference. Rev. L. Sylvester Odom, president of the group, sent an investigator into the area last weekend.

A meeting of the conference board was called to formulate emergency measures to assist the families whose plight was caused by the "virtual shutdown of the principal employing agencies in the community," Rev. Odom said.

Emergency Relief

"Initial reports indicate that a large percentage of those in the stricken area are Negro families who held the least skilled positions and had less seniority, because of factors beyond their control." Rev. Odom added, stating also that the investigation would continue before specific recommendations were made in the emergency relief effort.

Rev. William Jacks, pastor of St. Paul AME Church in San Bernardino, has been asked to participate in the meeting scheduled by the San Bernardino NAACP at 7:30 p.m., on Feb. 2 at Johnson Hall, 9th and Wilson street. Rev. E. V. Hill, the Southern Area coordinator is expected to be present to discuss relief measures.

To Offer Life Story of Vesey

In observance of Negro History Week, the modern dramatic oratorio, Denmark Vesey, will be presented on Friday, Feb. 10, at 8:15 p.m. at the First Unitarian Church, 2936 W. Eighth street.

Narrated by Gale Sondergaard, featuring Cecil Doty, bass, this major choral work celebrates the heroic life and tragic death of Denmark Vesey, leader of a pre-Civil War slave liberation movement. The words and story theme are based on a poem by Aaron Kramer, with music by Waldemar Hille.

The entire production will be under the direction of Arthur Atkins, and will involve a cast of 70 including soloists, the First Unitarian Church Choir, and the adult choral group of the Valley Cities Jewish Community Center.

Causes of Bias

The next meeting of the Beverly Hills Chapter of the American Jewish Congress will be devoted to a discussion of the causes of racial and religious prejudices, including the characteristics and points of friction between different groups in the community, it was announced by Victor Ludwig, president of the organization. The meeting will be held on Monday, Feb. 6, at 8:15 p.m. in the Gibraltar Community Room, 9111 Wilshire blvd. (Oakhurst entrance).

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Upper Room Pastors Resign

In their final 11 a.m. services Sunday, Jan. 29, at the Upper Room Missionary Baptist Church, 1222 E. 107th street, Rev. Roy E. Williams, minister, and Rev. Seth T. Toney, co-minister, each tendered his resignation, which was accepted by the congregation. They had been serving at this local church since March, 1959.

"The Lord has directed them into another field of endeavor, beginning the first Sunday in February," the ministers said.

Baptist Union Installations Set

Rev. P. J. Ellis was unanimously elected recently to serve another year, as president of the Baptist Minister's Union. Those elected to serve with him were, Rev. C. A. Henson, first vice president, Rev. J. T. Stewart, second vice president, Rev. Claude Evans, general secretary, Rev. A. E. Williams, assistant secretary, Rev. E. S. Johnson, treasurer, and Rev. S. T. Toney, financial secretary.

The following persons were elected to serve on the Relief Board of the Union: Rev. L. M. Curtis, Sr., chairman, Rev. J. A. Brooks, secretary and Rev. E. A. Anderson, treasurer

Installation services will be held at Morning Star Baptist Church, 1334 E. 41st street on Feb. 2, at 11 a.m.

Natl. Baptists Split, Taylor Shuns Court

Will the split in the National Baptist Convention, Inc. be permanent? This question arises from the still bitterly contested position of president of the group by two men. Dr. J. H. Jackson, pastor of Olivet Baptist Church of Chicago, who has been president for seven years claims he was elected by a voice vote at the September election in Philadelphia.

On the other hand Dr. Gardner C. Taylor claims to have been duly elected by a roll call vote of the states, which Dr. Jackson claims was made in a "rump session" after the meeting was adjourned.

Independent

To further complicate matters Dr. Jackson and his board of directors which met at Hot Springs, Ark. last week voted to oust the Taylor faction from the Convention, declaring the Taylor group to be an independent organization.

Dr. Taylor, however, continued to act as president of the organization. He removed the case from the courts to let the people decide who is legally president. He stated that he was opposed to any withdrawal of Jackson forces from the group. He called for a "moral crusade" to go far beyond any civil court action, to decide the legality of the election.

Meanwhile, both Dr. Taylor and Dr. Jackson issued statements in support of the sit-in movement. Jackson urged members to support the NAACP. He also gave a check to the farmers of Tent City in Fayette County, Tenn.

Dr. Taylor said that the right to differ was the right of the brethern but that law and order must be kept. He said he was willing to submit his claim to the 1961 session of the group in Kansas City for solution, through the exercise of the "sacred right of voting."

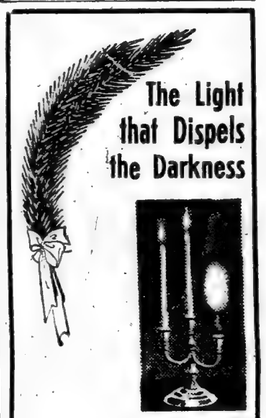
Father Moore To be Honored For 27th Year

A High Festival and sermon will be featured in special service at St. Philip's Episcopal Church, 28th and Stanford avenue, Sunday, Feb. 4, in observance of the 27th anniversary of The Reverend H. Randolph Moore, Rector of the church.

Service will be conducted by Father Moore, at 11 a.m. assisted by the assistant rector, Father James W. Temple; Low Mass is slated for 8 a.m. Prior to coming to Los Angeles, Father Moore served as Arch-deacon in the Diocese of Georgia.

Clemensingers Concert Set

The pastor Dr. H. H. Brookins and the Music Department of First AME Church, 801 Towne avenue, is presenting in concert the Clemensingers under the direction of Mr. James Clemens, Sunday, Feb. 5, at 5 p.m.



This group of singers is the original Jester Hairston group which has been widely publicized for its very fine professional ability. A large audience is expected to enjoy an hour of cultural entertainment.

St. Mark AME Young People Sing at Ward

An inspired youth singing aggregation from St. Mark AME Church, 130th and Avalon blvd., participated in a mass singing program at the historic Ward AME Church last Sunday afternoon.

Among those making the trip were: Gwen Armstrong, Jesse Hayes; Adele, Will, Ronald, Wilma and Claudel Eutsey, Virgil and Lora Owens, Wanda and Donzella Lee, Mrs. B. T. Armstrong, Mrs. E. Brokenbough, B. T. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Emile Hayes, Mrs. Mamie Eutesy, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Meacham and others.

Pastor, Rev. J. Ernest Williams will speak on the subject "O For A Thousand Tongues To Sing", next Sunday morning. At 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 19, there will be a Founder's Day service with other chruches participating.

We have been saying all along that the AAU (Amateur Athletic Union) needs a first class house cleaning starting from the top officials and including rules governing amateur athletes. A strong move should be made to halt the plan to send an all-white track team to participate in the scheduled meet this spring in South Africa. Daniel J. Ferris, AAU secretary is in position to turn thumbs down on the silly and humiliating demand of South Africa not to send any Negroes.

AAU officials know full well that the recent Olympic Games International Committee sought to bar Negroes from America from participating in the games; the action would have brought about World War III. South Africa has never attempted to improve international race relations but has done its very best to promote segregation. The South Africans now want America and her athletes to be part of that promotion. America has already been guilty of inviting South African athletes to tennis matches, golf and various other sports.

Not once has the AAU raised a voice about the March 21, 1960 "Bloody Monday" massacre when police and troops shot down black men, women and children in cold blood. Now the AAU is willing to send a lily-white American track team over to South Africa to celebrate the killings. It has been pointed out that the meets will fall on the eve of the first anniversary of that horrible massacre.

The AAU officials must be aware of the tremendous job that Negro athletes have done in creating a better understanding in all the countries they have visited to participate in sports programs. Other African countries are seeking American friendship and the AAU compliance with the South African request will not only insult every Negro athlete but it will encourage the belief of many Africans that Americans can't be trusted.

If the AAU officials are interested in improving the standards of amateur athletes when the International Amateur Athletic Federation hold its meeting in June, they should come up with a strong resolution on segregation—not to accept membership where segregation is being practiced. They should also do something for amateur athletes who sacrifice their wages to participate in a sports program. American amateur athletes have been so pestered by expense problems that a shocking number of amateurs are turning professional yearly.

If something isn't done to correct this situation in a few short years our amateur program will be suffering the same fate as our amateur boxing program.

Negro History Week Group Plans Gigantic Parade

By Edw. "Abie" Robinson

An array of sports, theater and movie celebrities are being sought throughout the community to participate in a gigantic parade kicking off the celebration of Our Authors' Study Club's Negro History Week observance. The theme of the celebration is is "Freedom and Democracy for the Negro after One Hundred Years."

Dr. Roy D. Andrews is general chairman of the week's celebration and Mrs. Zenobia Carey is co-chairman. Mrs. Vassie D. Wright is founder and president of Our Authors' Study Club.

In a press conference which was attended by Brad Pye, Bob de Coy and Edw. "Abie" Robinson, Dr. Andrews revealed that he is seeking Joe Louis to act as grand marshal of the parade with Ray (Sugar) Robinson and Archie Moore to ride in the grand marshal's official car.

Sports figures as well as entertainers will get a letter inviting them to participate in the three hour parade which will get started Sunday, Feb. 12, from Wrigley Field at 12 noon and will break up at 3 p.m. at 51st and McKinley where Dr. W. L. Cash, Jr., Department of Psychology, University of North Dakota, will deliver the opening address of the week's celebration at Zion Hill Baptist Church.

Huskies Grid Ace to Play With Raiders

Rose Bowl hero George Fleming signed a contract Friday to play football with the Oakland Raiders for the 1961 season. Fleming, a 185-pound halfback with the Washington Huskies, was the Raiders' number two draft choice. He was selected in the sixth round by the Chicago Bears of the National Football League. Toronto of the Canadian League was also seeking his services.

Coach Eddie Erdelatz of the Raiders, who made a trip to Seattle to talk to Fleming, was understandably elated when the Washington Speedster decided to cast his lot with Oakland.

Regional Golden Gloves Tourney

Tickets are now on sale at Olympic Auditorium for the annual regional Golden Gloves championships, to be held Feb. 10 and 17.

Young boxers, 18 years old and up, will compete in eight weight divisions, and local victors will be flown to Chicago for national finals late next month.

Reserved seats for the thrilling amateur bouts are $3.75 and $2.75. General admission tickets are $1.50.

The Hollywood Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsors local Golden Gloves championships and has invited boxers from Las Vegas and Phoenix, as well as Southern California, to compete.

WORLD MARK—Roscoe Cook of Oregon shown equalling world indoor 60-yard dash of 6.0 in winning even at L.A. Indoor Games of 1960. Cook will defend his title Feb. 11 at the Sports Arena.

BILL ELLIS—UCLA rates him as the complete basketball player. He has every move and every shot for an All-American.

Poly Guard Wins Meet Cage Honor

Poly High, in only its third season of basketball competition since moving from Washington blvd. to the San Fernando Valley, defeated Manual Arts 52 to 37 to win its first City Championship since 1956 last Wednesday night at Los Angeles State College.

Manual Arts, Southern League kingpins and the winningest team in the city with a 16-1 record, took the floor colder than an Alaska winter. In fact the Toilers didn't score a point until the last five minutes of the first period. Poly, East Valley League champions, held Manual to its lowest total score of the year. Gail Goodrick, Poly's sterling guard, held Manual's ace Larry Williams, a 20 point production star, to three points in the first half and scored 29 to lead his team to victory. He was named the tournament's outstanding player by the unanimous vote of the sports writers.

In the preliminary game Dorsey whipped San Pedro 50-46, for third place in the city championship tournament.

Angels Slate 81 Home Games

The Los Angeles Angels will open their home American League season on Thursday afternoon, April 27 against the new Minnesota Twins (formerly the Washington Senators) it was announced today by General Manager Fred Haney.

The Angels will play a total of 81 games at Wrigley Field—60 at night and 21 during the day, including a July 4th doubleheader with Kansas City and 13 Sunday dates.

The schedule is based on 75 dates, which means that the Angels will play six doubleheaders at home—three twi-night affairs, two Sunday twin-bills and the Independence Day pair with the Athletics.

Manager Bill Rigney's forces open the '61 campaign on the road on April 11th before returning to the City of Angels for their first home stand.

UCLA, USC In Crucial 2 Cage Games

The unusual is the rule rather than the exception when UCLA and cross-town USC renew the nation's hottest basketball rivalry. Nothing has changed for their colorful and crucial two-game series Friday and Saturday nights (Feb. 3-4) at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

When Coach Leo Calland's 1928 Trojan team won the initial Bruin-Trojan cage clash, 45-35, he probably didn't realize that SC would boast a 73-47 game edge at the end of 33 years. Bruin Coach Pierce "Caddy" Works also couldn't foresee that his team would bounce back to win the next two games, 34-27 and 47-37, to win the first cross-town "championship."

The rivalry was still close and heated four years later when the two teams played their now "famous" 19-17 game at Olympic Auditorium. That's still a record low-scoring contest.

That same season, after the Bruins had won, 19-17 and 26-24, the series was tied at 7-all. Who was to know then that 10 years and 42 games would pass before UCLA won another game from SC?

Yet it happened; and it wasn't until February, 1942, that big Don Barksdale entered UCLA, refused to sit out of competition for just a half season and sparked the Bruins to a 42-37 victory to force the Trojans into a Southern Division playoff with California.

Aggies Take Two Cage Games

The A&T College Aggies last week picked up two important wins over the North Carolina College Eagles and the St. Augustine's College Falcons in the torrid, CIAA basketball race. The two wins gave A&T a 9-3 record for the season.

A free throw shot, which would have sent the game into overtime, bounced harmlessly off the backboard gave the Aggies a 68-67 victory over the St. Augustine's College Falcons in a thriller played at the Charles Moore Gymnasium on Tuesday evening.

RACING WITH RAMSEY

George Ramsey

BEAUTIFUL CALIENTE IN OLD MEXICO—Twelve ticketholders received $5,768.20 winning shares last Sunday at Caliente race track for picking five of the six races correctly in the 5-10 public handicapping contest.

Hot Summer, a $34.40 winner in the eighth race with jockey Frank Rios up, was the one horse that seemed to cross up most selectors who were trying for the magic six. Consolation awards of $111.40 each went to 207 ticketholders who tabbed four winners correctly.

Jockey Basil Frazier was aboard two of the winners in the six-set series.

The gross pool of the 5-10 was $102,548. Winning numbers were 9-7-1-5-5-8. The crowd of 15,237 sent $421,031 through the mutuels for the 12 races, not including the $102,548 in the 5-10 pool.

SANTA ANITA—The second of three stakes to be presented during Santa Anita's annual Charity Week of Racing will be the 23rd running of the $25,000-added Santa Catalina Handicap for California foals, 4-year-olds and upwards, on Thursday, Feb. 2. The distance 1 1/6 miles.

On Saturday, Feb. 4, the $50,000-added Santa Margarita Handicap will be the main event for fillies and mares 4-year-olds, and up.

Horses to watch that are fit and ready:

Cisco Andrade, Carlos Ortiz Tangle in Olympic Main

Carlos Ortiz risks his ranking as the number one lightweight contender when he steps in against Cisco Andrade tonight, Thursday, at the Olympic.

This attractive 10-rounder will not be televised and will follow the regular KTLA-TV main event between Alfredo Escobar and Reuben Munoz.

The Olympic has a $5.50, $3.50 and $2 price scale and is hopeful of a crowd of 8000.

Ortiz in his last LA appearance, ko'ed Battling Torres on last year's double title fight card at the Coliseum. Since then he won and lost with Dulio Loi, losing his junior welterweight title last summer in Milan, Italy to Loi.

Carlos has a return upcoming with Loi, so he needs a win over Andrade. The flashy 24-year-old Puerto Rican has a 33-3 and one no decision record. His LA wins have been over Torres, Lou Filippo, Joey Lopes, Phil Kim and Mickey Northrup. The no decision tussle was with Filippo.

Andrade needs an upset win or good showing to remain a box office attraction. Cisco's last effort was that 15 round loss to Lightweight Champ Joe Brown last Oct. 28.

Escobar, a stablemate of Andrade, has looked very good in his last two tries, scoring knockouts over Johnny Shaw and Noel Humphreys.

Munoz is a newcomer from Odessa, Texas. His best win is a decision over the veteran Bobby Bell.

Pros Ink Grambling Gridders

The signing of five Grambling College gridders to professional contracts during the week added distinction to and reflected quality in the caliber of football played by Glum Eddie Robinson's tenacious Tigers.

All-American fullback Preston Powell, a compactly constructed 6-2 220-pound linesmasher, is the latest Grambling quickfoot to enter the play-for-pay ranks.

Powell will play for the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League. He signed for a substantial bonus.

Solemnly and doggedly pursued by more professional scouts than athletes from any other small-college in the country, Grambling gridders have drawn hosannahs since the end of the 1960 campaign.

One scout pointed out that the "small college" classification represents the size of the school, not the quality of its athletes. Grambling graduates have sparkled in the National, American and Canadian Football Leagues.

Powell is considered one of the best backs to agitate the elusive bag of wind in a Tiger uniform.

He gained 655 yards on 83 attempts and scored 64 points in leading the locals to nine victories in 10 starts.

Four Tiger stalwarts with gaudy reputations signed ahead of Powell. They were Leon Conway, Dallas Texans; Roosevelt Taylor, Chicago Bears; Don Stephenson, Dallas Texans; and Earnest Ladd, Los Angeles Chargers.

Carper, Jones Enter Indoor Track Meet

Herb Carper of Beaver Falls, Pa., co-holder of the world's indoor 60-yard dash record of 6.0, Wednesday became a surprise entrant in the Second Annual Los Angeles Indoor Games Feb. 11 at the Memorial Sports Arena.

Carper, who has been discharged from the Armed Services, has been in training in his home town and assured Meet Director Glenn Davis that he is in excellent condition.

The 60-yard dash Feb. 11 thus brings together for the first time in any indoor meet the only two men who have run 6 flat on the boards. The other, of course, is defending champion Roscoe Cook of Oregon, who blazed 6.0 in the 1960 Los Angeles Indoor Games and repeated in the Portland Ore., indoor meet last Jan. 14.

Hayes Jones, co-holder of the world's indoor 60-yard hurdle record of 7.0, will take on a field of 11 stick artists, including a Michigan football star, in his pet event during the Los Angeles Indoor Games Feb. 11 at the Sports Arena.

The bulky field will necessitate three heats with each winner and the two fastest second place finishers advancing into the finals of five.

Baseball Team To Raise Funds For Tent Colony

The L. A. Coasters baseball team of the Western League with home field at Ross Synder playground will sponsor a dinner Feb. 18 all day to raise funds for the Tennessee Tent City families.

Isaac Willis, manager of the ball team, and his wife Lorraine announced that dinners will be served at 1700 W. 51st street at $1.25 per plate. Orders will be delivered.

Funds raised will be sent to John McFerren, Rt. 4, Box 133, Sommerville, Tenn. to aid the evicted Negro sharecroppers who are living in Freedom Village.

Money is being sought instead of foodstuffs and clothing in order to save shipping costs of bulk packages. Plan to order your dinners from the Coasters on Feb. 18.

Top Cage Stars Dot AAU Roster

AAU basketball is under way again, as four teams from last season's play have entered this year's major winter loop.

Defending league and regional champion Kirby's Shoes, Mirror-Glaze, Broadway Federal Savings and Lockyers Markets are the four teams competing.

The league winner figures to be one of the favorites in a post-season tournament open to all amateur competiton and staged to select a Los Angeles representative to face teams from San Diego and Arizona. The winning squad in this three-way elimination tourney wins the right to travel to Denver, Colo., for the national finals.

Again this year former top collegiate stars dot the rosters of the four teams.

Kirby's, paced last year to the quarter-finals of the national tourney by Al Buch of California, Carl Cain of Iowa and Dick Banton of UCLA, has added Bruno Boin and Tony Davis this season. Boin was the sensation of the coast a couple of years back while at Washington, while Davis was the big gun for Hawaii the past two years.

Mirror-Glaze, always a powerful entry, features such outstanding men as George Terzian, John Davis, Roy Irvin, Jim Pugh and SC frosh coach Jerry Pimm.

Broadway Federal is paced by Walt Hazard, Don Pino, Tom Cook and Henry Ronquillo. Hazard pushed 41 points through the hoop and Pino was good for 30, but Broadway fell 124-104 to Mirror-Glaze in its season opener.

Lockyers has a fine entry, featuring SC's former All-Coast guard Danny Rogers, Jim Sterkel, Ken Pearson and Clyde Cook.

Stock Car Race

Jim Cook, Norwalk racing flash, will be out to win this Sunday's CJA Stock Car main event at Gardena's Western Speedway, where he triumphed two weeks ago in the season's Stock Car opener.

Rookie Fullback Awarded Philco TV

Ted Dean, outstanding rookie fullback of the Philadelphia Eagles' professional football team, received a television receiver after being named by sportswriters as the "outstanding Eagle player" in the recent championship game with the Green Bay Packers.

Dean's performance was a big factor in the Eagles' surge to the world championship.

The presentation was made by Percy LaBohne, Philco Public Relations representative, during Dean's tour of the company's TV assembly plant in Philadelphia.

Awarded to Patterson

Floyd Patterson, who regained his world's heavyweight boxing title by knocking out Ingemar Johansson last year, was awarded the Edward J. Neil plaque at the annual Boxing Writers Assn. banquet in New York's Waldorf Astoria last week.

Patterson, now 26, risks his title against Johansson on March 13, in Miami, Fla.

Marble Tournament

Battling for berths in city-wide finals of the 1961 marbles competition, boys 15 years of age and under will clash in elimination meets next week (February 6-11) at municipal playgrounds throughout Los Angeles.

One out of every 15 boys entered in each division of next week's meets will be eligible for the city-wide finale.

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority Holds Annual Founders' Day Luncheon

One hundred sixty members of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority attended their 53rd Founders' Day Observance luncheon, Saturday, Jan. 28, at the Sportmen's Lodge Starlight Room on Ventura blvd. The theme for the occasion was "New Directions for the Second Half Century."

Melvin Coleman, chairman of the affair, welcomed the sorors and introduced the three basilei, Alice Long, Marian DeMan and Sharon Williams, who extended greetings from Alpha Gamma Omega, Alpha Gamma and Sigma Chapters. Invocation was led by Thelma Woodson, chaplain for Alpha Gamma Omega chapter.

After a delightful luncheon, the program for the afternoon was presented. Grace Marie Hopkins played "Scotch Poem" by McDowell. Gwendolyn Dusseau served as moderator for a symposium on the "New Directions" theme.

Scholarship was covered by LaVerne Parks, who is a vice-principal in the Los Angeles City Schools System. Bernice Wright, director of Medical Social Services at City of Hope Hospital, spoke on health, The American Council on Human Rights was emphasized by Nira Hardon, who recently attended the Presidential Inaugural in Washington. Community participation was covered by Mary King, national chairman of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority; the role of the undergraduate in the second half century was ably discussed by Marjorie Plummer, a student at UCLA.

"You'll Never Walk Alone," by Rodgers and Hammerstein, was sung by the Alpha Gamma Omega Chorus under the direction of Doris Novel, accompanied by Gladys Black. The final phase of the program was the Reconsecration, led by Lucille Bryant, Far Western regional director.

The second part of the 53rd Founders' Day Observance was church service, which was held Sunday, at Ward AME Church where Rev. L. S. Odom is the pastor. Greetings were extended by the minister to the 50 sorors in attendance. Melvin Coleman, chairman of Founders' Day, presented Alice Long, basileus of Alpha Gamma Omega, who emphasized employment qualifications and opportunities. "Battle Hymn of the Republic" was sung by the Alpha Gamma Omega Chorus.

Members of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority are now anxiously awaiting their next event, the "Fantasia Americana," which will be held at the Beverly Hilton Hotel March 10.

Members of the Founders' Day Committee were: Corinne Ball, Reatha Beck, Berenice Booker, Carole Boswell, Ursula Broussard, Onita Chretien, Martha Cushnie, Gwendolyn Dusseau, Norma Earles, Christine Nelson, Barbara O'Neil, Patricia Ryder, Chere Talbert, Melba Wilson and Constance Young.

Bill Smallwood

The Jones girls, namely Edith Boyd (she flew in from NYC), Gwen Simmons and Corrine Taylor, have bidden friends in Sun. to sip tea while gathering prettily around the girls' vivacious, travel-loving mother, Edith, to do her gracious honor. Pitt Los Club have seats for the Lincoln's birthday (next Sun.) performance of Ballets Africains, at the Biltmore. Lola Beavers and Mary Jane Strong take a birthday tomorrow (3).

Elsie and Everett Parchment are home from KaySee where he was hospitalized with a heart seizure while they attended their daughter's wedding in Dec. Nanettes meet Sat. with Willa B. Johnson.

Cocktail Hour

The Lester Nicholases (Angiebelle) are filling that fascinating house of theirs Sat. at cocktail hour with their more stimulating friends; their parties, Allah be praised, are always sparkling and some of us just don't want to go home. Dorothy Dandridge was hostess last Sat. to the Crop and Tails Club; she was one of the original members, come to think.

Ethel Waters said ta-ta to her S. Harvard neighborhood and moved to Pasadena. Hortense Allen and Betty Dean had bouts with virus but are okay now. Jack and Jill mothers meet Mon. at the Church of Christian Fellowship. Adele Young convalescing after major surgery; she's at her sister's, Angelique Bratton, who, by the way, is happy-happy at all those glowing reviews which singled out the unparalleled magnificence of her niece, Carmen de Lavallade, in a Broadway hit show.

Highlander Here

Tennessee's Miles Horton, director of the famous Highlander School in that state, is in town (he tours the country every year) so Helene Boughton, Alice Lynch, Helen Garrott and Della Williams hastily formed a committee in order to set up a cocktail party Sun. (three til six) at Wilfandel so that townsfolk may come on the run to learn more of the world famous project. As I recall, Miles consistently has something meaty and edifying to say.

Kate Garcia, home from the nation's capital via a stopover in Chi. She flew to the ball given by the American Friends of Ghana at the Statler in Washington. Judge and Mrs. Fred Slater fly in from Chi for the wedding of their niece, Sandra Hoskins. They will be at Pauline Slater's. Annabelle Phillips jets in from Winnipeg for the same wedding (she's Sandra's aunt) and will houseguest with the Barney Hoskinses (Aurora). The Adam Joneses and the Simon Cannons, all of Berkeley, will be down, too, and will stop with Dotti Watson and family.

Here, There, Gone

Mentioning Dotti Watson (she returned to her job after lengthy postoperative convalescence), her daughter Diane, teaching in Okinawa, was visiting in South Vietnam during the recent upheaval; she spends Easter in India and Tahiti and flies here in June for two weeks before flying to Tokyo where she will teach as of Sept. After a year in Tokyo, she transfers her teaching duties to Europe.

And mentioning bride-to-

Prince of Wales Elects Officers

Sterling C. Evans, well known postal employee, was re-elected president of the popular Prince of Wales Club, Inc., at the group's regular election meeting.

Other officers elected were: Jimmie Jackson, vice-president; Rufus Williams, recording secretary; Nebeniah Criswell, financial secretary; Richard Jenkins, treasurer; Willie W. Williams, business manager; William Kyles, chaplain; Curtis Donaldson, sergeant-at-arms; Wilton G. Estis, reporter and Susice Simmons, club advisor.

Installation will be held Feb. 4, at the group's club house.

Lavish San Diego Party Welcomes Attorney Edw. C. Maddox to City

One cocktail party at which some 50 guests danced to the light of the silvery moon was that of Catherine (Cay) Montgomery last Saturday night. Her beautiful hilltop Rosewell drive home in San Diego has a panoramic view overlooking the entire city and around midnight the moon hung magically over the house as the five piece combo band played on.

The occasion was threefold — honoring her illustrious husband, Atty. Alpha Montgomery, and Elois Davis on their birthdays and introducing Atty. Edward C. Maddox to San Diego society. Atty. Maddox became Atty Montgomery's new law partner three weeks ago. Mrs. Davis is a long time friend of the couple.

Other honored guests at the lavish affair last Saturday were Cab and Zulme Calloway, houseguests of Mrs. Davis. The Calloways are here on their annual visit to the West Coast where the noted bandleader is appearing with the internationally famous Harlem Globetrotters basketball team.

Other highlights of the elegant party were the stunning creations worn by many of San Diego's smart set, while equally interesting was the attire of the suave gentlemen present. The gathering indicated that the Montgomerys, who arrived in San Diego 10 years ago, have managed to make many wonderful friends in civic, social and professional ranks.

Among Angelenos making the two-hour trip for a gay weekend with the Montgomerys were Edith Houston, Evelyn and Fred Griffin, Dr. Cliff Cosby, Verdell Young, and Howard Morehead.

Following the party on Saturday which broke up when the Mexican sun started rising over those huge mountains, the Montgomerys invited a few friends in for brunch to meet their weekend guests.

Mrs. Montgomery received a telegram from her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Laster of Washington, D.C. wishing success to the new partnership.

Among the San Diegans dancing to the music of Nat Fugate's Combo on Saturday were J. P. Tate, Dr. and Mrs E. B. Singleton, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gilliam, Dr and Mrs J. P. Ford, Dr. and Mrs. "Tex" Hammond, Mrs. Octavia Coleman, Dr. and Mrs. I. J. Kimbrough, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dodd and Dr. D. M. Carey.

MONTGOMERY, MADDOX FIRM — Two of California's leading attorneys joined forces in San Diego this past weekend. Atty. Edward C. Maddox was socially welcomed last Saturday in the fashionable home of his new partner, Atty. Alpha L. Montgomery, San Diego's leading attorney. Mr. Maddox was associated with the Miller, Maddox and Malone law firm before moving to San Diego. (Young)

Tempelites Convine in Long Beach

Tempelite club members are still talking about the wonderful club meeting which was held in Long Beach last week in the fashionable home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Hill, 1073 Myrtle avenue.

Various committees reported on events for the new club year and Bert Warren introduced ideas for his program for the Exceptional Children's Opportunity School. He urged members to tell friends about the Zenith Club's annual talent show which will be held March 12 at the Miramar Hotel in Santa Monica. Proceeds raised will go to the school.

Visitors at the meeting included Mother Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Woodfolk and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Garnette.

YMCA Board Sets Plans to Raise $16,000 in Feb. Support Campaign

The 28th Street Branch YMCA will hold its 1961 Sustaining Support Campaign in February under the leadership of William H. Bailey and Mrs. Orbie A. Harris, according to William R. Freeman, president of the Board of Managers.

Mr. Bailey and Mrs. Harris will lead a force of 150 campaigners who will seek $16,000 to support the YMCA youth work during the year. Mr. Bailey is registrar at George Washington Carver Junior High School and last year's campaign chairman. His leadership assures the organization of continued success.

The chairman said that present plans call for the Special Gift Division, which is headed by Sam Hamerman, to raise $7,000.

The Business and Professional Division is co-chaired by Nolan Payton and Atty. Dion Morrow. Team captains in this division are John L. Cochran, Orbie A. Harris, Dr. Lewis F. Boddie, Dr. Roy D. Andrew, Dr. John B. Lyons, Clifford L. Johnson, Walter W. Jackson and William Elkins.

The Clubs and Organization Division will be headed by Lee Lancaster and Margaret Stanford. They will be assisted by team captains Libby Clark, Rev. M. F. Mitchell, Bernard Carter, Lee O. Marshall, Norman B. Houston, Joe Duncan, Mary Bowle, George Franks and Ruth Paillet.

The Church Division will be under the leadership of Mrs. Edna Moten and Mrs. Helen Brookins. These women have solicited the cooperation of the following women to act as team captains: Mmes. Velma Stewart, Susan Felix, Loga Odom, Mimi Jones, Gayle Toussaint, Maggie Robinson and Grace Kyle.

The Special Gift Division has an imposing group of men and women who will endeavor to exceed the record goal established by the division last year. Team captains are Lorenzo Bowdoin, Atty. William R. Freeman, and Division Leader Sam Hamerman. They will be assisted by such outstanding citizens as Judge Thomas L. Griffith, Norman O. Houston, Emily Johnson, Rev. Paul D. Lenman, William B. Watkins, Rev. P. J. Ellis, Rev. Earl C. Cotton, Lewelyn Mazique, William Zazueta, Lonzie L. Jones, Brice Taylor, Jack Gimpleson, Rev. E. B. Stewart, Clarence S. Smith and J. H. Shackleford.

Freeman said all funds raised will be spent here in the South Central area to support the 28th Street YMCA's vast program for youth 8 to 18 years old.

Opportunities Offered at Jeff Adult Classes

The Jefferson Adult School, located at 1319 E. 41st street, has a program tailored to fit the needs of the community it has long served. With classes meeting Monday through Friday, 1900 adults weekly seek training in areas that will prepare them for a new or better job; improve their home life; advance their education; broaden them culturally; or train them for leadership in church, lodge, club, or community.

Mr. Willard H. Mann, principal, has a broad background of experience as an educator and administrator of adult schools. His philosophy that the evening school should reflect the changing needs of the community in its program is reflected by the learning opportunities provided at Jefferson. Continuous enrollment is offered all during the year with faculty and counseling techniques geared to meet the individual adult's goals and needs. No tuition is charged to credit students. All of the classes offer credit.

Ladies of Paradise Club Members Attend Church

The Ladies of Paradise Club began to put into practice much more "togetherness" as they had pledged they would in the New Year.

Last Sunday with only two members absent they visited the Saint Paul Baptist Church in a group for Sunday morning service.

The idea of the club is to select at least one thing during the month to attend in a group and bring a financial token to support the program of the organization.

Their next visit will be in Santa Monica, the site of their regular club meeting in the home of club member Opal Richardson. They will attend the evening service at Calvary Baptist Church.

1,000 Attend Scouts' Dinner

The 46th annual dinner meeting of the Los Angeles Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, was high point of the Scouting year for some 1,000 persons at the Biltmore Bowl.

Committee members working with General Chairman Lloyd S. Austin on the annual dinner included George Clark, arrangements; Elden Smith, promotion and attendance; H. E. Cassidy, annual report; Harold Sanders, nominating committee; Sheriff Peter Pitchess and Judge Philip Richards, reception and seating; Floyd Forker, Silver Beaver ceremony; and Patrick Lawler, overall dinner committee chairman.

15th Annual Home Show Dates Set

May 25 through June 4 have been set as the dates for the 15th annual Los Angeles Home Show in the Sports Arena, Executive Vice President Carl F. Kraatz announced this week.

This year's show, expected to be the most brilliant ever, will feature three provocative full scale model homes with construction starting March 1.

Manufacturers of building materials and products for the home, as well as other prospective exhibitors may contact William Satterwhite, Home Show Offices, 6399 Wilshire blvd., or call OL. 3-8610 for information.

The show will combine extravagant displays such as the Kitchen of the Future, 20 decorator rooms done by some of the Southland's foremost interior designers, hundreds of new home and building products, a spectacular Flower Show covering more than half the huge arena concourse, and hundreds of new home and building products.

James Derry Tells of Trip To Nigeria

James Derry, who has just returned from Africa, was the guest speaker during a recent meeting of the National Association of Negro Business and Professional Women's Club.

The Derrys spent three informative weeks as special guests of the Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of Nigeria, Nnamde Azikiwe. The Governor-General and Mr. Derry have been friends since their college days at Pennsylvania's Lincoln University. The trip to the Nigerian inauguration was an all expense paid vacation from the governor.

Highlighting the Sunday afternoon meeting were beautiful slides taken by the Derrys on their sojourn.

"One can travel for miles and see nothing but slums and then, as if by magic, at the next turn of a wheel you are traveling in a section of splender." Derry said.

Mr. and Mrs. Derry were sponsored by the African Affairs Committee of the local Business and Professional organization.

Les Dames Elegantes' Club Member Honored

To winsome Anna Mae Williams when she arrived at the fashionable home of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Green, 12740 Bellhaven avenue, last Saturday it was just another regular meeting of her club, the Les Dames Elegantes, but a significant one for she would be turning over the president's chair to charming Mae Hill.

In the meantime members earlier had arranged to surprise her on her birthday that evening and completed arrangements in secret.

Eagle's Edw. "Abie" Robinson was invited to speak to the club on publicity and promotion ideas for the organization.

Following the address, the invited guests had arrived and had assembled in the dining room. When Mrs. Williams entered, she was welcomed by her friends and given a birthday cake and other gifts.

Marvella Green proved to be a wonderful hostess throughout the gay evening and the guests enjoyed movies of their recent socials, cocktails and a tasty barbecue chicken buffet dinner with tossed salad.

Les Dames Elegantes members are Anna Mae Williams, Odell Brewer, Marian Griffin, Canary Currie, Mary Alice Moore, Margaret McGinnis, Josephine Jones, William Mae Hill, Marvella Green and Dollye Terrell.

Among guests attending were: Mr. and Mrs. John D. Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. William Mc Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Euliss, Mrs. Millie Saterale, Doris Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Spruill, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Merida, Chet Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Currie, Floyd Jones, Mary Matthews and Delores Mathews.

ELECTED — Velma Crockett, one of only two Negro members in Santa Monica's 300-member Young Democratic Club, was elected recording secretary of the organization at the general election last week.

Centennial Student Wins Essay Contest

Constance Newman, 11th grade student at Centennial Senior High School, has been announced as the local winner in the 13th annual National Essay Contest, sponsored by the President's Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped.

As winner of the district contest, which included entries from Compton, Lynwood and Paramount, Constance will receive a $50 bond for her essay entitled: "Jobs for the Handicapped . . . A Community Challenge."

Other Centennial students receiving honorable mention for their essays are Gloria Cryer, Geraldine Hopkins and Denis Russell.

In a letter to Miss Elizabeth Bryan, English instructor at Centennial, Daniel J. Quigg, secretary for the "Employ the Physically Handicapped" Committee, extended congratulations to her and to the students participating, and advised that Miss Newman's essay is being forwarded to the Governor's Committee for consideration at the state level of the contest.

Constance, who is an honor student and a member of the Centennial Choraleers singing group, is the daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Newman, 1811 W. 133rd street, Compton.

Spanish Class Set

A class in Spanish for beginners started last week at Dorsey Adult School for the Spring semester. Classes will meet on Monday and Wednesday, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in Room C-113.

Pacoima News

By SIMON PITTMAN

Some 250 boxing fans traveled to the Olympic Auditorium last Thursday night and watched our pride and joy, jolting Johnny Smith, successfully retain his state middleweight boxing championship by knocking out Neal Rivers in the 8th round of the scheduled 12 rounds.

Smith had the Pacoimaites on their feet as early as the second round, cheering wildly when he sent Rivers to the canvas twice. Rivers put up a game fight as long as the bout lasted but the rugged Smith had too many big guns and the end came after only 2 minutes of the 8th round when Smith caught him with an assortment of punches and Rivers was down for keeps.

In the dressing room we learned that Smith's next bout may be with the nationally ranked Joey Giardello.

On the civic side, Van Nuys announced the observance of its 50th anniversary celebration during the weekend of Feb. 9-11.

The Pacoima Chamber of Commerce has moved to new quarters at 13510 Van Nuys blvd.

Social, civic and church groups desiring us to carry publicity about their events should call Empire 5-5787 or mail news to 13477 Brownell Street, Pacoima.

Westside Society To Install Officers

The Westside Benevolent Socitey will install new officers Sunday, Feb. 5, at the Safety Savings and Loan Ass'n auditorium, 2638 S. Western avenue.

The program is scheduled to get underway at 3 p.m. Members are urged to attend and bring a friend.

People & Places

JIMMIE LUNCEFORD — With the band of Billy May, Capitol Records has authentically re-created the Lunceford style in an album that features Willie Smith, Trummie Young, Joe Thomas and Dan Grissom. Dave Cavanaugh of Capitol conceived this tribute to the Lunceford organization and it is a gem!

MARJORIE GREENE — Safety Savings and Loan Association PR director has a unique way of saying thank you to the Press. She gifted them with a set of sharp sandalwood steak knives and if they happen not to have steak there is always the throat!

GEORGE HYMER — Most of his troubles are all coming at once, his latest being a two day stay in the Glass House to prove his innocence of being the kingpin of a coast to coast burglary ring!

STANDING — The main reason why that three floor New Years pawtee was a flop was because word leaked out that the members took a standing vote to bar certain Negroes. However, it was a $30 bucks a pair affair and didn't take too much baring!

RINKEYDINKS — Certain members are entertaining ideas of following up their club meeting with a "little taste of certain places", which have supported their organization!

JOHN THOMAS — The hefty heat spent his time off planting Ivy around his new Mulholland Drive home to let excons know he lives there—so try the neighbors. Wifie Marie is sorta unhappy about him doing that job when there was so much window washing and waxing to do!

BOB GREEN — Sgt. of Newton Station Juvenile was for giving all male teenagers a big time the other week, the reason being Manual Arts High lost the City Basketball

June Eckstein Is Considered For Film Role

Errol John, the Trinidad-born London actor who plays a pivotal role in the Warner Bros. Technicolor production "The Sins of Rachel Cade," will be the subject of a cover story in a forthcoming issue of Tone Magazine, the enclosed supplement to the California Eagle Newspaper.

Substantial Step Forward

Cia Dave, who does a sensuous ritual dance in the Warner Bros. Technicolor production "The Sins of Rachel Cade" while Angie Dickinson has heat waves and Peter Finch loves it, is getting color-photoed for the cover of a major magazine.

June Eckstein is being paged for an important role in an upcoming movie in which Freida Rentie, Juanita Moore, Juano Hernandez and Ivan Dixon are also being considered for casting at Warner Brothers Studio in Burbank.

'Sexciting' Natives in Big Demand

From the villages of Guinea in the heart of Africa, in the swampy coastal zones, in the high mountains and plateaus, natives dance much as they have done for centuries. Western culture has penetrated into the wilds of deepest Africa, much of the Occidental has permeated. But the people still dance and sing to reflect their history and traditions, to plead with or thank their Gods, to extol the virtues of the good, r to exorcize the evil deeds of the bad. Dancing has always been a truly living expression, here, and nothing has changed this.

Authentic and Sexciting

Los Angeles will get an authentic sample of these vivid and exciting dances when the world-famous Ballets Africains comes to the Biltmore Theatre for 2 weeks beginning Mon., Feb. 6, under the auspices of Luben Vichey, head of NCAC.

Brought to North America for their second tour in two years with a completely new repertoire, they have already won friends and excited the populace with their authentic African antics. On stage, these simple folks are temporary stars as they bring to the world a true realization of their history, tradition and folklore.

Well Worth Attending

They dance out the emotions enjoyed in a jungle village, to the beat of the tom-tom, the cackle of the cringe and the cry of the Cora; they tell in motion about happy love affairs, returning warriors, success in battle and the colorful episodes and emotions of their lives in the dark continent.

Ballets Africains will be at the Biltmore Theatre for only two weeks. "An exciting, uninhibited, electrifying, exotic entertainment," those are the quotes of the critic of the Washington News, Tom Donelly, this will be your only chance to see this troupe. (See display)

AT MANCHESTER — Arthur Mills and Dorothy McGuire share the lead in Walt Disney's "Swiss Family Robinson," currently screening at the Manchester Theatre, along with "3 Worlds of Gulliver."

COLLEGE SET—The Wedgemen Association sponsors its first authentic Calypso Carnival Saturday evening, February 11, at the Park Manor Ballroom. Captured in the middle of a mellow session was Calypso Mac as he sharpens his act, and it's a fact, Jack, they stay on the swinging track. Charles MacNiles' calypso music, with all the exciting color of a Caribbean Mardi Gras, along with West Indian dances and tantalizing food, will guarantee a boss affair for every square, slick chick or mellow fellow.

DOWN SOUNDS—Bert Kendrix's Trio stays in the know on how to blow your favorite specks and spots, whether sweet or hot, at Marty's, 58th and Broadway's popular go-place where elbow-benders rub fenders and enjoy taste after taste. Tony Bazley makes it on the 'skins' while William Green, a professor of music at the L. A. Conservatory of Music, where he puts his M. A. degree to play during the day for extra pay and is definitely one pro who can really blow alto, tenor, clarinet, flute and oboe.

TOMMY TUCKER'S PLAYROOM has become internationally famous as a place where mama learned to burn and has earned the popular proprietor a capacity following where important persons come as they please and grease with ease. Nat King Cole is Disillusioned About TV Show

Nat King Cole, who cancelled an appearance on CBS-TV's "Ed Sullivan Show," last Sunday night (January 29th), on Wednesday, January 25th, did so to protect his rights as an artist. The famed song star, currently filling a personal appearance engagement in Boston, asked out of the weekly variety program, when Sullivan and producer Bob Precht asked him to substitute a "better known song" for the new tune he had scheduled, "Illusion."

Needless Infringement

"When a variety show begins to dictate what songs an artist of recognition and stature can or cannot do, it is time for that artist to call a 'halt' to the proceedings," said Cole. "I can understand the concern over song selections in a show with a theme, a 'special,' but I cannot reconcile the desire to force an artist to do only songs to a producer's liking, on a variety program, where song selection does not affect show continuity.

"They claim they'd rather have me do a 'standard' than a new tune like 'Illusion.' Well, what I'd like to know is how does a song become a 'standard' if not through introduction by an artist such as myself?"

Cole pointed out that two of his biggest all time hits, "Mona Lisa" and "Too Young" were introduced by him as unknown tunes on television. "My record speaks for itself," he said. "I feel that my integrity as an artist has been questioned. I will not be dictated to by the producer of any variety show as to what content of my repertoire is to be. If that's the case, the next step can very well be for a nightclub entrepeneur to tell me what to sing."

NAT 'KING' COLE

Double Dealing

It was further pointed out that at the outset of negotiations for this Sullivan appearance, a letter was sent from Nat Cole's management's office, stating that there would be no interference with Cole's selection of repertoire.

Belafontes Await Their Second Heir

Harry Belafonte and his wife, Julie, expect the arrival of their second child in late August, according to reports. The famed folk singer-actor and his lovely wife have been married for four years, and have a son, David, aged three.

Mrs. Belafonte, the former Julie Robinson, is an ex-dancer, who came out of professional retirement, temporarily, last November, to appear on her husband's highly heralded television "Special."

Family's Interest First

The Belafontes, who reside in a large apartment in New York City, never allow the singer's touring schedules to separate them for any length of time, keeping the family intact, and traveling together, all over the world.

Mr. Belafonte has two

Helen Humes On KNOB-FM 98

Sunday at 9 a.m. Leonard Feather will be host to Helen Humes as his expert guest on the Blindfold Test, over KNOB-FM (98).

Miss Humes, who years ago sang with Count Basie's band and has been making a sensational comeback as an outstanding jazz singer, will listen to unidentified recordings and try to name the artists or groups. She also will give her comments on the quality of the performances.

Feather conducts the program in person each week.

NEW YORK SCENE

Brrrrr . . . rrrr. You're damned right it's cold here! You smug Californians and your hot weather at this time of the year. Why it's absolutely shameful, so there! And I have been working at 136th St. Liquors all week for the boss, Phil Grossman, while he was vacationing in a warm clime. It just isn't fair.

I stopped by Small's Paradise on Sunday night to hear some of the fine organ sounds of Sarah McLawler, and the exciting violin of Richard Otto.

NBC Staffer

They were swinging to the complete delight of a large crowd, including the lightheavyweight champ, Archie Moore, and his buddy, trumpeter, Clark Terry, who incidentally is now the only Negro staff musician with NBC.

Pat Merriman was gracing the bar and melting behind the Otto violin offerings.

Show Business

Carnegie Hall One Big Ball

By Laura Prescott

The tribute to the Rev. Martin Luther King on Friday, Jan. 27, at Carnegie Hall, was the most brilliant show that this California Eagle reporter has ever had the pleasure of viewing. I am sure the audience felt the same way, if their thunderous applause was any indication.

Actor Sidney Poitier introduced Mahalia Jackson, and she opened the show singing "The Star Spangled Banner." This was followed by Count Basie, Joe Williams & Co., Carmen McRae, impersonator George Kirby, Ruth Brown, Sy Oliver and band, Tony Bennett and the great comic, Nipsey Russell.

Important Well-Wishers

Next Harry Belafonte read telegrams from the President of the United States, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and others, then introduced Rev. King, who made a brief but very stirring speech.

Davis & Co. a 'Gas'

This was followed by Sammy Davis, Jr., who did his famous impersonations of such stars as James Cagney, Cary Grant, etc. Sammy was followed by Dean Martin who sang a medley of songs like "I'm Gonna Sit Right Down And Write Myself A Letter" and others.

Chairman of Board Scored

Then the "piece de resistance," the Chairman of the Board, Mr. Frank Sinatra, sang six of his hit songs. The rest of the Pack then joined their leader, with Dean Martin, Sammy Davis, Jr., Jan Murray and Buddy Hackett, —it was a "gas."

Swinging Whose Whose

After having cocktails with Miss Shelley Winters at the bar, we joined the party back stage, for performers and press, and what a lineup was on hand: Zsa Zsa Gabor, Jimmy Darren, Sidney Poitier, Harry Belafonte, Joe Williams, Dean Martin, Jimmy Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carierre.

Bob Newhart In Pasadena

Concerts, Inc., operators of the country's largest jazz and modern music circuit, will bring Bob Newhart, the "button-down-mind" comedian to the Santa Monica Civic Aud., Feb. 24 and to the Pasadena Civic on Feb. 25.

Completely unkonwn a year ago, Newhart was struggling to make ends meet as a part-time radio performer. Brought to the attention of Warner Bros. Records, he recorded the now famous "Button-Down Mind of Bob Newhart," a series of comedy skits he wrote himself.

May Trio stole the jazz show at the Appollo Theatre last week, and this week the Rocketship Revue of disc jockey, Jocko, has had the rock 'n' rollers happy.

Starting tomorrow it will be a Gospel Caravan featuring the Clara Ward Singers.

The Camp Fund Affair was a ball at Rose Yuen's Renny Lounge, and this week it should be fun at Selbra Hayes' Midway Lounge.

I could tell you more about the happenings here, but I want the space reserved for the story of the Clan Affair for Martin Luther King, as reported by Laura Prescott, (see Showbusiness) who was kind enough to cover it for me since I was busy otherwise. I'll be windier next week. 'Bye . . . PHIL GORDON

Safety Savings Famous for Its Community Help

"Right on schedule" says Wesley R. Brazier, president of Safety Savings and Loan Association, of the firm's over $10,000,000 in assets reported in the financial statement as of December 31, 1960.

Safety Savings, 4½ years old and the newest of the savings and loan associations serving this immediate community, has also distihuted $8,153,558.53 in home loans to the community, and paid out $849,444.16 in interest on savings accounts which total $9,146,292.42.

"Our growth is according to plan," the Association president states. "We know that in order to grow steadily we have to watch constantly each phase of our operation, with special attention to customer service."

Extra Services Added

A Payroll Savings Plan, Note Collection for the individual real estate investor, the State Board of Equalization's tax deposit service are three of the services Safety Saings has underlined during the past year.

Safety's Community Conference Room has, during 1960, become one of the popular meeting places for club and committee groups, and is a continuous exhibition room for the talented artists of the community. Also gaining in attention the past year is the firm's college catalogue reference shelves. A special addition to this service in 1961 will be the Bellman volumes on scholarships, fellowships and loans available throughout the country.

WESLEY R. BRAZIER

"We express warm thanks to those persons whom we have the privilege of serving who have made our $10,000,000 milestone possible—on schedule," Mr. Brazier stated.

New Veep Appointed

In line with the firm's growth and prospect of future development, the president also announced that Marjorie Greene has been appointed vice president with customer relations as a special responsibility. Miss Greene, a most deserving member of the Safety Savings and Loan Associiation, has been with the firm for more than three and a half years.

Safety Savings' Board of Directors are five exceptionally progressive men who plan continuously for the development of the firm in line with the highest operational standards. They have headed the organization since the beginning. They are: President, Wesley R. Brazier; Vice President, Lovell C. Moore; Secretary, Mitchell B. Miles; Treasurer, James M. Wood; Judge Bernard S. Jefferson, who held the presidency until his appointment to the bench in the early part of 1960.

Proficient Personnel

Safety Savings now has a staff of eleven headed by Otis L. Neal, Jr., managing officer and executive vice president. The firm occupies the total area of the building owned at 2638 South Western Avenue.

13 Child Care Centers Face Shutdown

CALIFORNIA Eagle
80 YEARS OF CONTINUOUS PUBLICATION — THE IMPORTANT NEWSPAPER

Hearing Slated Thursday on Local Closings

If plans now being considered by the Board of Education are approved, 736 children in the heavily populated central area of the city will be deprived of the opportunity of attending State - sponsored Child Care Centers.

The vast majority of the 736 children are Negro and Mexican. Their parents, most of whom are working and have low incomes, cannot send them to paid centers, the only alternative.

13 Centers

The proposed plan will affect 13 centers in nine schools, all in the Negro and Mexican areas.

Closing of centers is not now being considered in any other city schools.

No plan has been proposed to take care of the children who will be thrown out onto the streets if the proposals are approved.

The issue is being considered today, Thursday, at a meeting of the Personnel and Schools Committee of the Board of Education at 3 p.m. in the Board Room at 450 N. Grand. The meeting will be an "augumented" committee meeting.

Open Meeting

Mrs. Mary Tinglof, chairman of the three - member committee, explained that members of the public are permitted to attend and to take the floor at such "augmented" meetings. It is expected that members of both the Negro and the Mexican communities will be present to protest the plan to close the centers.

It is reliably reported that no new schools have been built in recent years in the affected section of the city, although school population has virtually doubled in some of the schools.

Ironically, the closing of the centers is one of the results of the voting by the citizens of School Bonds in last year's elections. The bond money, apparently, is being used to erect new, modern schools in outlying districts, accompanied by a policy of "making do" in the heavily congested central Negro and Mexican areas.

'Making Do'

And in the process of "making do," the Board seems prepared to dump the Child Care Centers in this section of the city, without making any provision for the children being displaced.

Centers at six of the schools are to be closed June 30 of this year. Those at the other three will be closed some time in 1962.

If the plan is approved by the Personnel and Schools Committee at today's meeting, it presumably will then be ——Suspect in Strangulation Freed——

CHECKER FOUND DEAD—Attractive Doris Willis, popular checker at Thriftimart's Adams and Vermont store, was found dead in her apartment Thursday. She had been strangled.—(Adams).

Motorcade to Open '61 History Week

A giant motorcade, with "The Champ" Joe Louis as grand marshal, will officially launch Negro History Week this year, starting at Wrigley Field at 12 noon on Sunday, Feb. 12.

Among the other athletic "greats" who will join the parade are Rams' Ollie Matson, San Diego Chargers' Paul Lowe and Olympic sprint champion Dick Howard — as well as members of the community and business, social and civic organizations which can enter from one to five cars each.

Mass Meeting

The parade will wind up at 3 p.m. at the Zion Hill Baptist Church, 51st and McKinley, where the opening mass meeting of the week-long celebration will be held.

See schedule of events on this page.

Dr. W. L. Cash, Jr. of the University of North Dakota Psychology Dept., will be the principal speaker at the 3 p.m. meeting that will be followed by a reception at Hamilton

N'Orleans Jazz Clarinetist Dies

NEW ORLEANS — Alphonso Picou, one of the early pioneers of New Orleans jazz, died at his daughter's home here Saturday, at the age of 82.

A clarinetist who became active in New Orleans jazz circles in 1894, he is best remembered as the originator of the clarinet solo in "High Society."

Loren Miller says . . .

Child Care Centers

Crying lack of space, the Board of Education is on the verge of withdrawing use of school buildings for a dozen child care centers. These centers are attended by some 800 children who are left there because their mothers work and because the centers exact a charge the parents can afford to pay. Children who attend are closely supervised by professional attendants and that means they are taught useful crafts and kept out of mischief. There are about 80 such centers in Los Angeles city school buildings and all of those threatened with closure are located in areas populated predominantly by Negroes or Mexicans.

Loren Miller

I suppose that most people who give it a thought would agree that the centers are needed in Negro and Mexican communities, not because of the race or nationality of the residents but because they are low income groups. Such people can't afford private facilities in the first place and in the second place there are very few private facilities in low income communities.

Shortsighted Move

Obviously the closing of the centers would be a shortsighted move which would cost Los Angeles more than it would save. The mothers would have to continue to work to help keep their families together. If child care centers are unavailable parents would have to do the best they could to provide care for the children.

At best, that might result

Lad Shot to Death In Closed Theater

A 14-year-old youth died Tuesday from a bullet wound in his head. He had been shot in a darkened theater by an off-duty policeman when he and another lad apparently tried to steal a candy-bar.

Alton Traylor, of 9232 Zamora street, died in General Hospital from the wound he received early Sunday morning after the last show at the AAA Theater, 3612 S. Broadway.

Heard Noise

The man who fired the bullet was Newton police officer, Henderson Cooper, who acted as a security officer at the theater when he was off duty.

According to 77th street detectives, Cooper was in the theater office when he heard a noise in the theater. He went out to investigate and demanded to know, "Who's there?"

There was no answer and he returned to the office. He heard a squeak from the direction of the snack-bar. Then he heard some people running. He ordered them to "Halt!" When they didn't, he fired, and began running down the aisle to catch the intruders. Half way down the aisle he fired a second time.

He saw someone run out the fire door and followed, but found no-one.

Returning to the theater and walking back up the aisle, he heard a moan and his foot touched something soft. It was young Traylor, who had apparently been felled by the first bullet.

An inquest was to be held later this week.

Detectives were of the opinion that young Traylor and a friend had entered the theater through the back door and slipped up front to get some candy from the theater snack bar.

NAACP President Named to Park Dept.

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn this week announced the appointment of Edward D. Warren, prominent South Los Angeles civic leader and businessman, as a member of the Los Angeles County Parks and Recreation Commission.

— Puzzle - Find the Library —

NOT TELLING—Library authorities are coy about letting the public know the location of the Jefferson Branch Library. It's tucked away down a walkway known as Prescott court. An identifying sign, long promised, has still not been erected on the street side of the building. The library would probably be used more if people knew it was there. The entrance is down the court a way, beyond the pedestrian. See Page 3. (Adams)

Friend of Checker Grilled as Murder Suspect; Released

Attractive, well-liked Doris Willis, checker at Thriftimart's Adams and Vermont market, was buried in Fresno Wednesday morning, with many of her Los Angeles friends in attendance at the funeral.

She was found dead at her home, 5149 W. 21st street, Friday morning, a rope tied around her neck. She had been strangled.

Fully Clothed

The body was discovered by the store manager, Lawrence Shanks, who went to her home after she failed to report for work Thursday and did not answer the telephone.

He saw her lying at the foot of her bed, fully clothed in the white knit sweater, off-white peddle pushers and cream-colored plastic shoes she had worn at the Studio Bowling Alley, Vermont and Washington, Wednesday night, the last time anyone but her attacker had seen her alive.

Police questioned many of those who had known Miss Willis, including Verne Metoyer, an employee at the bowling alley, and members of the store's bowling team with whom she bowled every Wednesday night.

Released

On Sunday they arrested one of her friends, Delano Alfred Glover, 38, of 3201 W. 41st street, on suspicion of murder. He was grilled extensively by police, given a lie detector test which detectives said was inconclusive, and finally released Tuesday afternoon after the district attorney refused to file a complaint against him on the grounds of lack of evidence.

The motive behind the killing was not clear. The strangler may have broken into the house, but even this was not certain. The screen had been removed from the kitchen window and the window raised about eight inches. The attacker could have reached in from there and opened the back door.

Police said there was no sign of a struggle, and the young woman had not been criminally attacked. Neighbors heard no undue commotion in the apartment, in which all the lights were burning.

Car, TV Missing

Miss Willis' Thunderbird automobile was missing — and had still not been located at press time — as was also her TV set. Her radio may also have been taken and some jewelry, but police were not sure about these items, and other valuables had been left untouched.

Miss Willis came here from Fresno where her family is well known. She had a young son who lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Willis, 1011 Pottle street, Fresno.

Upon learning of the tragedy, her father came to Los Angeles to identify his daughter. The body was shipped to Fresno Monday.

Senate Delays Weaver OK As Housing Chief

WASHINGTON — Senate approval of the appointment of Dr. Robert C. Weaver as administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency was delayed this week although President Kennedy had written the Senate Banking and Currency Committee attesting to his belief in Weaver's loyalty. Action is not expected until next week.

Objections to Weaver's confirmation were voiced by Virginia Senator A. Willis Robertson and Texas Senator William Blakeley, both Democrats, who insisted on questioning the appointee about three 20 year old associations with organizations later listed as "subversive" by the Department of Justice.

QUIZZED—Dr. Robert C. Weaver was put on the carpet Tuesday as Southern Senators opposed to his appointment.

Robertson, who heads the Banking and Currency Committee, refused to go on with the hearing until he had received the personal assurances of the president that Weaver had passed an FBI check on his loyalty. After receiving the presidential letter, Robertson then called Weaver to the stand.

Tells Views

When he got to testify, Weaver told the senators that he was a panel member at the second National Negro Con-

Army Assists Housing Bias, Mosk Claims

The Department of Defense is conniving at racial discrimination through underhanded support of residential segregation, Attorney General Stanley Mosk charged last week.

In a speech to the Fourth Annual Police-Community Relations Institute at the University of Southern California, Mosk stated that his office is now working on cases in which the Army has purposely obtained housing in Negro neighborhoods for Negro personnel attached to NIKE missile sites in the Los Angeles area.

Housing of personnel in these areas many miles distant from the site is in direct disagreement with Army security regulations demanding that key NIKE personnel be housed within five minutes of the defensive missile site.

"In bowing to the will of realtors or private property holders who refuse to rent or lease to Negroes," Mosk said, "the Army is not only aiding the perpetuation of discrimination in housing, it is also violating a regulation estab-

First Sitdowner Is New CORE Head

NEW YORK — James Farmer, NAACP program director, took office Feb. 1 as national director of CORE (Congress of Racial Equality).

The appointment was announced by the Rev. Gardner Taylor, a member of CORE's National Advisory Committee and one of the two claimants to the presidency of the National Baptist Convention Inc.

Old Hand

Farmer is an old hand at battling racial discrimination. He participated in the first sit-in at an American restaurant. That was in Chicago in 1942.

He was one of the founders of CORE the same year and was its first national chairman. From 1941 to 1945 he was also race relations secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation.

A writer and lecturer, Farmer helped organize workers in the south. He participated in the southern organizing drive of the Upholsterers' International Union from 1946-48, and later was an international representative of the State, County and Municipal Employees.

Resigned NAACP Job

He was a commentator on radio and TV programs sponsored by the United Auto Workers in Detroit and in 1958 was a member of a five-man union delegation that visited 15 African countries.

Farmer resigned his position with the NAACP to accept the post with CORE. In his letter of resignation to Roy Wilkins, executive secretary, he wrote that his new efforts would be "in the common cause, supplementing and enhancing — but in no way rivaling — the unparalleled leadership of the NAACP in the interest of our mutual goals."

Farmer was born in Texas in 1920 and graduated from Wiley College in 1938 and from Howard University in 1941.

Frank Reeves Appointed to JFK Staff

Frank D. Reeves, Democratic national committeeman for the District of Columbia, has been appointed by President Kennedy to be a special Presidential assistant.

He has long been active in Democratic politics, serving in 1952 and 1956 on Gov. Stevenson's Presidential campaign staff. He seconded Sen. Kennedy's nomination and travelled with him throughout the campaign.

In May 1960 he was elected Democratic national committeeman for the District of Columbia, becoming the first Negro to hold that position. He is Washington representative of the NAACP and since 1948 has served as a member of its national Legal Committee. Earlier, from 1940 to 1942, he was assistant to Thurgood Marshall, special counsel for the NAACP.

Reeves, 44, was born in Montreal, Canada, and came to the District of Columbia in 1928. He graduated cum laude from Howard University in 1936 and received his law degree from there in 1939. He has served on the staff of the university's law school at various periods since 1943.

Menturn Glee to Sing in Venice

The Menturn Glee will be presented in concert by the Adult Citizens Council of Venice at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 16, at Mark Twain Junior High School, in commemoration of National Negro History Week.

The Menturn Glee sings classics, madrigals and features Negro spirituals.

Charles W. Turner, director, is a graduate of Los Angeles State College and is an instructor of vocal music in the Los Angeles City School system. He is a composer, arranger and publisher.

Howard U. Sets Inauguration of Pres. Nabrit

WASHINGTON — Dr. James Madison Nabrit, Jr. will be formally installed as the 14th president of Howard University during inaugural ceremonies at the university April 26.

Dr. Nabrit has served as president of Howard since last July.

Brown Bans Race Bias in Home Loans

SACRAMENTO — California's director of Veterans Affairs was told this week to advise all buyers of property under the Cal-Vet program that racial restrictions written into their deeds are unenforceable and contrary to state policy. The directive came from Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The governor also announced his support for an amendment to the state housing code which would forbid discrimination in the sale or rental of property covered by Cal-Vet loans. Such housing was expressly exempted in last year's law. The amendment was drafted by Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins.

Thousands of farms and homes are financed with low interest loans for veterans of both world wars.

Split Over Congo Policies Widening in United Nations

The United Nations this week was still trying in vain to square the circle in the Congo, even as its armed forces there were further depleted by withdrawal of 700 Guinean men and officers.

This country's new ambassador to the U.N., Adlai Stevenson, was engaging in a round of meetings with ambassadors of other nations in an effort to bring about agreement for a settlement of the situation that has been deteriorating for months.

Lumumba Gains

But the viewpoints of the United States, Belgium and the other European countries continue to be opposed by a number of African-Asian states. Moreover, as it becomes apparent that the U. S. backed "strong man" Col. Joseph Mobutu and President Joseph Kasavubu cannot effectively establish their control over the country, more and more states are shifting to support of imprisoned Premier Patrice Lumumba.

On Tuesday, Libya, Yugoslavia, Guinea and Indonesia all spoke at the Security Council session demanding Lumumba's release, an end to foreign intervention and reconvening of the parliament which, before it was suppressed, was consistently pro-Lumumba.

Lumumba is also backed by Ceylon, the United Arab Republic, Liberia and Ghana, as well as by African Nationalist leaders who participated in a recent All-Africa People's Conference. Nations represented included, in addition to Ghana, Guinea and the U.A.R., Morocco, Uganda, Kenya, Tanganyika, Somalia, Ethiopia, Nyasaland, Basutoland, Southern Rhodesia, South Africa and the Congo.

Opposing Views

The issue, moreover, is still the same as it was the day after independence was granted to the Congo last July 1—a strong, independent government that controls the entire Congo or a weak central government, with the country split up and "balkanized," and dominated by western powers.

One of the latest proposals, currently being circulated in the Congo, is for the division of the country into about 80 tribal regions. Maps show these regions grouped into some 12 provinces, held together in a loose federation. According to this plan, Katanga, where Belgian influence is strongest, would be left almost intact, but Lumumba's Oriental province would be divided 16 ways.

The latest United States proposals call for the freeing of Lumumba and all other political prisoners—but still seek a "broadly based" government. That presumably means that all the warring factions would be expected to come together and form a government. It is difficult to see how this proposal could succeed or could hope to resolve the two mutually opposed viewpoints.

Legislative Conference

Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins of Los Angeles has called a Legislative Conference for Saturday, Feb. 11, in the Los Angeles Home Furnishings Mart, 1933 S. Broadway, to "inform and encourage the public to take proper action on legislation."

13 Child Heart Victims Help to Launch Appeal

More than 1000 people filled the Cocoanut Grove at the Ambassador Hotel last Thursday to attend the luncheon which launched the month-long drive of the 1961 Heart Fund Campaign.

The jam-packed official kickoff luncheon of the Heart Volunteers and guests saw Rock Hudson and Tony Randall receive distinguished service awards of the American Heart Association from Board Chairman Emerson Spear for their contributions in time and talent toward the conquest of heart diseases.

Among the platform table guests introduced was Henni Salling, 15-year-old heart patient who was crowned the American Heart Association 1961 "Queen of Hearts." She wore the $100,000 tiara that was placed on her head Monday by singer Bobby Darin.

Thirteen children throughout the county, ranging in age from four to ten years old, were the special guests of honor. Introduced by Master of Ceremonies Tony Randall, these youngsters presented a tableau as living proof of advances already made against the nation's number one killer. Each had undergone successful heart surgery.

Heart volunteers who attended came from all over the county to help proclaim February as Heart Month. "Heart disease is everybody's fight," said Heart Fund Chairman Andrew W. Rose.

Tshombe Seeks Six Jet Pilots

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa—An agent of Moise Tshome, head of Katanga Province in the Congo, arrived here last week seeking 6 flyers and a ground crew to fly seven French jet fighter planes that have been delivered in Elizabethville.

The agent said the men were wanted "just in case" there is a civil war in the Congo.

UNION AIDS TENNESSEE—Members of the New York local of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union (ILGWU) are shown with some of the $7500 worth of children's new clothes donated by members of the union for Tennessee sharecroppers. Man Arrested for Firing Gun in Bar

Seated at the bar at 4269 Vermont avenue, Daisy E. Coven, 51, owner, told police she heard a loud pop, felt something brush by her leg and saw a flash coming from the direction of the doorway around 2 p.m. Saturday.

It was then, she stated, she saw three men grappling and fall to the floor. The bartender said he "hit the deck" when he heard the shot.

Four days before one of the men, Leslie Smith, 25, of 867 W. 43rd place, had a fight with one of Mrs. Coven's employees, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown.

Police picked Smith up at the W. 43rd place address and placed him under arrest for firing a gun. He denied the charges. He claimed he stopped at the bar to have a drink and that two men bumped into him. He went home after he heard the shot, he said. The suspect told officers he doesn't have a gun.

Green Hood Hides Dice Game Robber

About 20 minutes after one of the players left a dice game at 609 E. 35th street last Sunday night, a stranger appeared, wearing a green hood over his head and carrying a shotgun.

"Oh, Joe," said one of the players, Thomas Walter Smith, of 347½ E. 33rd street, "You're kidding."

The hooded man then fired his gun, became angry that Smith said he recognized him, levelled his gun at Smith and pulled the trigger a second time. The gun, however, failed to go off.

He then ordered Smith to collect all the money and put it in his hat, warned the players not to follow him for half an hour, and then left—with $61.

Police later arrested Ollie Joe Kennedy, 33, at Jefferson and Avalon. He denied holding up any card game and said he "didn't have to steal."

The men victimized, in addition to Smith, were Johnny Van, 618 Newell avenue, Fullerton; Melvin Gaines, 207 W. 56th street; and Gaines McQuarn Jr., 5312½ Manhattan place.

Shooting Ends Fight Over TV

Found lying on the ground wounded by bullets from a 12-gauge shotgun, Clifford Johnnie Horton, janitor, 44, of 2651 Kenwood, was taken to General Hospital in a serious condition Saturday night.

Horton told police officers that he and Joe E. Edwards got into an argument over a TV set and Edwards shot him.

Alvin Moffett, 4326 Hobart blvd., told police that as he drove into Horton's driveway he heard shots and someone screaming. He darted behind a tree when he saw a man carrying a gun run and jump into a car.

Motorcade, Meeting Open History Week

Methodist Church, 6330 Figueroa street.

The week was officially proclaimed "Negro History Week" in Los Angeles by Mayor Norris Poulson in a ceremony Wednesday morning at City Hall.

The motorcade and the week's other events are being handled this year by Dr. Roy D. Andrew, general chairman, and Mrs. Zenobia Carey, co-chairman, with Mrs. Vassie D. Wrignt playing her usual enthusiastic role of guiding and mothering the action-filled celebration.

Week's Sponsors

Mrs. Wright is the president of Our Author's Shudy Club, which this year as in previous years is the local sponsor of the "Week." The Study Club is the Los Angeles branch of the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History which is sponsoring nationally its 36th annual observance of History Week.

In addition to the opening motorcade and mass meeting, the celebration will include special features each night, with a reception Sunday, Feb. 19, at the Elks Hall, 4016 S. Central avenue, as the grand finale. That reception, scheduled for 3 p.m., will feature the presentation of awards and the coronation of the young lady who will be selected as "Miss Negro History Week."

Featured Events

Of special interest during the week are a testimonial luncheon on Saturday at the Biltmore; an Oratorical Contest on Friday night as part of Youth Night; Church Night Thursday; a special attraction "Africa Changes" Tuesday night at Bovard Auditorium; Art, Music and Science Night, Monday, under the auspicies of Zeta Phi Beta, at Golden State Auditorium; a special Angel City Symphony Concert Wednesday night, and a special assembly at Jefferson High School at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

At noon of that day, a ceremony commemorating Negro History Week will be held on City Hall steps, with Dr. Arthur Krooker of USC as guest speaker, and with music provided by the Jefferson High School Band and the A Capella Choir.

The opening motorcade will pass down 42nd street to Central, south on Central to Rosecrans, and from there back to Avalon, along Imperial Highway, Broadway, Florence, Western, Adams and McKinley, disbanding at McKinley and 52nd street.

Jefferson Library Hidden from Public

By C. Marie Hughes

Did you ever try to find the Public Library on West Jefferson blvd. near 2nd avenue? If you didn't know exactly where to look for it, you might easily have passed it by.

It's an attractive library, has a large number of books of wide interest and alert librarians. But you have to hunt for it to find it.

There is no readily visible sign on Jefferson blvd. proclaiming that here is a place where all can read and borrow books. Instead, the library is located on a walkway off Jefferson blvd. named Prescott court.

Nothing on the front of the building identifies it as a public library. From the street the Jefferson Branch Library sign, close to the entrance, cannot be seen. Library authorities have promised to put up a sign people can see — but that was a long time ago, and there's still no sign.

The fact that the library cannot be readily identified from the street is given by the librarian, Mrs. Bernice Barth, as one of the reasons the facilities are not utilized as fully as might otherwise be the case.

The library is well stocked and smoothly run by the efficient Mrs. Barth, Jane Hannibal and Yeiko Ito. The staff affords its readers a wealth of knowledge of the large, well arranged collection of books in many categories. Those interested in their cultural background can become well informed from the shelves of the Jefferson Branch Library.

As a Negro, a Japanese or a Caucasion we can learn the great history of African art, the poetry of Japan or the political history of the West.

In honor of Negro History Week, February 12-19, the Jefferson Branch brings a long list of adult books on Negro history and sociology to the attention of the reading public.

Haywood, Tenn. Vote Leader to Speak at Rally

Odell Sanders, one of the leaders of the Haywood County, Tenn. vote drive, will be the principal speaker at a rally here Sunday, Feb. 26, at 2 p.m. at the Second Baptist Church.

The rally has been called by CORE (Congress of Racial Equality) to aid sharecroppers in Tennessee's "Tent Village," who were evicted from their farms because they dared to register and vote.

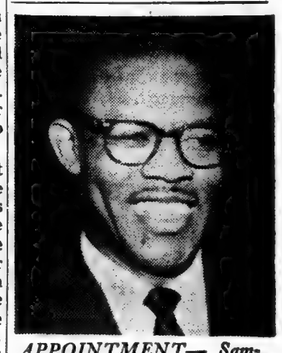
Judge Rules No Damages Due Doctor

An attempt to collect $5500 in damages from a local school teacher and the estate of her late mother on the grounds that they failed to complete purchase of an Altadena home fell flat on its face this week when Judge Otho Lord held that the sales contract was unenforceable.

A Pasadena doctor had charged that Geraldine Whitfield, of 293 E. 49th street, and her mother, Mrs. Ella Whitfield, signed an agreement to buy the property in December 1958 and that their failure to complete the sale resulted in the loss on a later sale.

Miss Whitfield appeared for herself and as administrater of her mother's estate convinced Judge Lord that the sellers themselves were responsible for the collapse of the sale and that the real estate broker had failed to deliver a signed copy of the agreement to her. She was represented by Atty. Nat Wilk and the estate was represented by Attys. Loren Miller and Stanley Malone.

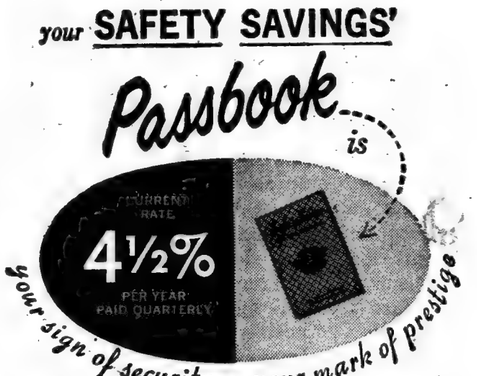
Tired of Beatings, Wife Shoots Mate



Tired of her husband beating her, Doris Bass, 35, of 644 E. 48th street, shot her husband, James Bass last Saturday night, after he slapped her.

Bass claimed that before he went to work he gave his wife money to buy groceries. When he came home his wife wasn't there, so he went looking for her and found her at 651 E. 47th street where her nephew lives.

An argument started when he asked her to come home and she refused. Bass said his wife, her niece and three men were having a party. After he hit her, he further stated, the men asked him to leave.



Bass left to go home but later returned and asked the men to let him talk to his wife. As he entered the house his wife was standing in the doorway of a closet with her right hand concealed. When he reached for her arm she shot him. After he took the gun from her, the two witnesses, Lulu McGivens and Joseph Tucker, took the gun away from him.

Running outside, Bass collapsed near 48th and Avalon from a bullet wound in the thigh. Mrs. Bass ran back to her house where she was arrested. She was charged with assult with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder.

APPOINTMENT— Samuel C. Sheats, 36, was appointed this week by Gov. Edmund G. Brown as supervising deputy corporations commissioner. Sheats is a resident of Pasadena.

McDonough Does It Again

Last week Gordon L. McDonough, representative from the Fifteenth Congressional District, was flooded with letters, telegrams and personal calls from his long time supporters and friends urging him to vote to increase membership of the House Rules Committee from 12 to 15. Mr. McDonough spurned those messages.

He voted against the increase in membership and voted to leave control of the Rules Committee in the hands of his friends: Representatives Howard Smith of Virginia and William Colmer of Mississippi, two of the leading race baiters in the House.

Mr. McDonough knew what he was doing; he knew that if the Rules Committee was left under the control of Smith and Colmer there was no hope that it would report a meaningful civil rights bill and that it would bottle up, and water down, increased medical care for the aged, aid to education, and increase in minimum wages.

Mr. McDonough also knew that the measures which would be bottled up or watered down by the Rules Committee are of prime importance to his Negro constituents. He didn't care. He is a prisoner of the coalition of reactionary Republicans and Dixiecrats and he has to dance to coalition music.

We've been telling the voters where Mr. McDonough stands for the past eight years. We have said time and over again that the true measure of Mr. McDonough's stand was revealed by his 1949 vote against curbing the power of the Rules Committee and his 1953 vote to restore that power after it was taken away.

But Mr. McDonough has been returned to Congress because the very Negroes who literally begged him to vote to enlarge the Committee this year have supported him, in spite of his record. They supported him as late as last fall. Some of them didn't know any better; they wouldn't bother to read the record. Some of them were bemused by Mr. McDonough's good record as a supervisor in the 1930's although he had switched in the 1940s.

One of Mr. McDonough's chief supporters who ought to have known better was Dr. H. Claude Hudson. He was one of those who pleaded with his "friend" to vote to increase the Rules Committee membership last week. He got a slap in the political face for his efforts. Dr. Hudson has lived to learn that Mr. McDonough loves Smith of Virginia and Colmer of Mississippi better than he esteems "my good friend, Dr. Hudson."

We hope that Negro "leaders" will take a little time to read the records before they advise the voters in 1962.

Civil Rights Platitudes

There wasn't much civil rights meat in President Kennedy's message to Congress on the state of the union.

He sounded for all the world just like President Eisenhower, whom he criticised so vigorously for failing to take moral leadership in the fight against racial discrimination.

We went along with Candidate Kennedy when he charged President Eisenhower with confining himself to platitudes on civil rights issues. But Ike never said anything more platitudinous than president Kennedy's statement that "denial of constitutional rights disturbs the national conscience" and "subjects us to the charge of world opinion that our democracy is not equal to the high promise of our heritage."

What the president said was that we've been guilty of wrong doing in racial affairs but that doesn't help much. Everybody knows that. What the nation needs to be told, and shown, is what Mr. Kennedy proposes to do to right these wrongs.

Administration apologists are also saying what Republican apologists said during the past eight years. They argue that we must go slowly; that plain speaking will endanger pressing legislation and that we must "wait" for the proper moment.

That kind of an apology assures us that racial questions are secondary and that their solution must be delayed until "important" issues are met. The difficulty is that as fast as one "important"crisis is met another bobs up and that racial issues are put at the bottom of another agenda.

Maybe the president plans a special message on civil rights. We hope so. He hasn't said much yet.

Look Who's Singing

Only the very young can't remember the time when Negro artists were barred from Grand Opera. The rule was a rigid one and music lovers were united in the belief that no matter how unfair, the fact was that audiences just wouldn't accept a Negro opera singer. Funny part of it is that they believed their fatuous statement.

A couple of weeks ago, Leontyne Price took the lead in New York's Metropolitan Opera in Il Trovatore and won the shouted plaudits of those who had forgotten that they once said that such a role was impossible for a Negro, even as talented a one as Miss Price.

Loren Miller Says . . .

in leaving the kids with neighbors and at the worst it might eventuate in leaving them to shift for themselves while the mother was absent. In any event, the children would lose the benefits of the supervision they now enjoy. A few years of that kind of business and you could expect a rise in juvenile delinquency and crime, a situation which would result in more newspaper articles pointing out that crime was on the rise in "Negro" and "Mexican" districts.

Discrimination?

I do not believe that the proposal to close centers in Negro and Mexican communities can be laid to the cussedness of responsible officials. As far as I know they are kindly and well intentioned people. Nor do I think that their actions stem from a desire to discriminate. All of that doesn't relieve the fact that the closure would be discriminatory, a result that flows from residential segregation.

For the past 75 years, Negroes and Mexicans have been forced to buy, or rent, second hand homes in second hand communities. They've been deliberately excluded from new suburban developments through the connivance of banks, lending institutions and federal housing agencies. When new schools are built in Los Angeles they are constructed in new home areas for the very simple reason that there are no school buildings in these new communities. Provision has to be made for children of the residents.

Paying for Rope

On the other hand, there are school buildings of a sort in the older areas to which Negroes and Mexicans are restricted. Taxes being what they are the Board of Education hasn't been able to build new schools as long as some facilities are available. The net result is that schools get crowded and that space is at a premium. The simple, and incidentally simple minded, thing to do is what the Board proposes to do in the case of the child care centers: restrict crowded school buildings to purely educational use.

Thus Negroes and Mexicans are in the sad position of the man who was about to be hanged when the hangman demanded that he pay for the rope. The closure of the centers would result in Negroes and Mexican families being charged for the cost of a segregation which they don't want and which is imposed on them. That gets me to what I wanted to say in the first place: Negroes shouldn't stand for the proposal to close the centers. The price of segregation comes high and those who insist on it should be prepared to pay the cost of their foolishness. If the Board has to save money let it cut down on the services of the favored group.

Delay Vote On Weaver

gress in Philadelphia in 1937, that he belonged to the Washington Cooperative Bookstore in 1941 and had once endorsed the program of the Council of African Affairs.

The racial undertones that underlie the opposition to the Weaver appointment cropped up when he was asked about his stand on integrated housing. He replied that he did not believe that he would have authority to order integration in publicly assisted housing and added that such an order would have to come from the president.

Chief Interest

Weaver insisted that his chief interest as housing administrator would be in increasing the "total housing supply" and said that he did not believe he "should" issue an integration order "even if I could."

Robertson said earlier he had received "a number of complaints touching on" Weaver's loyalty and "in fairness to him I felt I should bring that to the attention of the President."

In his reply, the President wrote Robertson:

"As is customary in nominations of this importance, a report on Mr. Weaver was submited to me by the Feferal Bureau of Investigation and this report was fully reviewed and evaluated."

Matter of Dates

"I am most confident that, if confirmed, Mr. Weaver will perform an outstanding service for our country as administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. I am pleased to give you my views in this instance and I appreciate your interest."

In testifying on his associations with the three groups cited by Blakely, Weaver said the National Negro Congress did not become a Communist front until 1940 — three years after he appeared before it as a panel member.

"Many of these organizations were in a state of flux," he said. "It was not Communistic in the beginning. I accepted the invitation to be a panel member as a public official and cleared it with the proper authorities."

Got Reduction

He said he joined the Washington Bookshop because it offered a 20% reduction on books. He testified that he and nine others resigned on May 21, 1941, in a glare of publicity because they could not support the policies of the organization.

Sen. Blakely then asked if Weaver was listed as one of the endorsers of the program of the Council of African Affairs listed in the magazine New Africa. The Senator said the council was listed as subversive by the attorney general in 1947 and 1948.

Pleads Ignorance

Weaver said the organization's program for Africa embodied a position with which he agreed 100%. He added that "in this area I can plead ignorance, as many can in that time."

Army Accused Of Housing Bias

lished for the security of the nation.

"We have been in contact with Charles Finucane, Assistant Secretary of Defense for Manpower, Personnel and Reserve since last September, in regard to this problem and have had no success."

Particularly objectionable to Mosk was a directive issued by Headquarters 47th Artillery Brigade (Air Defense) at Fort MacArthur which stated, regarding Lease Contracts for housing, "There is no race clause in the contract. However, the Lessor and the Community must be satisfied with the tenant. If the Lessor is not satisfied with the tenant, other arrangements must be made." Mosk stated this "is an open invitation to discrimination.'

The Attorney General said that state laws prohibit housing discrimination and any violations of this sort uncovered by the Army should be reported to his office.

"Since the actions of the Defense Department Personnel in California are beyond the jurisdiction of the State Department of Justice, Mosk said, "We can only urge the Department to rectify this situation and turn on the spotlight of public opinion."

The Plot to Invade Cuba

By JUAN DE LA CRUZ

(Reprint from Feb. 5 issue of Laging Una)

When Prime Minister Fidel Castro last month alerted Cuba to the danger of American invasion, calling out the army and the militia in a massive display of military preparedness, official Washington tried to shrug off the whole thing as a Castro stunt designed to divert the attention of the Cuban people from their difficulties and woes under the revolutionary regime.

In the UN Security Council, where Cuba directly accused the United States of preparing such an invasion, U. S. Ambassador Wadsworth dismissed the complaint as a fabrication. In Washington, White House Press Secretary James Hagerty said "Nuts!" when newsmen asked him to comment on the Cuban accusation.

What the U. S. spokesmen were trying to do was to create in the public mind an impression that Castro was engaged in a cynical attempt to hoodwink his own and the American people. However, the cynicism was all on the American side. While there may have been no plan to use American troops for an invasion of Cuba, there is a superabundance of evidence that the U. S. did plan, and is still planning, to use Cuban counter-revolutionaries for that purpose. In fact, the evidence is overwhelming.

Reporters Reveal the Facts

One must assume that Mr. Wadsworth and Mr. Hagerty read newspapers. This being so, they cannot have been unaware of the detailed description of U. S. counter-revolutionary designs against Cuba, using Cuban counter-revolutionaries, that was given last month in a series of articles in the N. Y. Daily News, written by Joseph Martin and Phil Santora. They may also have read articles in The Nation, a liberal weekly, that buttressed the Daily News series. There have been no official denials.

Significantly, the Daily News articles are subtitled "Countdown for Castro." They describe in considerable detail the counter-revolutionary Cuban emigre groups in Florida, their avowed aims and purposes, the sources of their support (financial and otherwise) and their tie-in with U. S. interests, both official and unofficial.

One of the groups described by Martin-Santora is the FRD (Frente Revolucionario Democratico) headed by Dr. Manuel A. de Varona, 51, a former Cuban premier. They write: "It is an open secret that the FRD is being financed by American and Cuban industrial interests . . . firms whose properties were confiscated by Castro." De Varona's monthly budget, they reported, exceeds $350,000.

Invasion Base in Guatemala

What does Varona do with such a large sum? Among other things, he sends young Cubans to "secret training camps" where they prepare to "liberate" Cuba. They take off from Miami International Airport for these secret camps, located in Central America, one in Guatemala. The Guatemala base centers on an airstrip bulldozed from the jungle, with appropriate buildings, and cost about $1,000,000.

The young Cubans take off from Miami for the secret bases every week. Here is how Martin-Santora describe the operation. "Each week, a plane leaves Miami International Airport with 50 or 60 Cubans bound from local staging areas for one of three secret training camps. There hardened professional soldiers will whip them into fighting trim for the grimmest job of their lives—the liberation of Cuba. The windows of the plane are blacked out with tape and drapes. None of the youngsters gets to see even the members of the crew. They have no idea where they are going—except that they are on their way to strike a blow for Cuba. From this moment on their only contact with relatives and friends will be through an APO number. Their mail will be censored. They will not be allowed to leave the camp. Some 6000 or more are already trained—but where they are training is the best-kept secret of the counter-revolution that is being mounted in Florida and Central America."

Sabotage Plans Revealed

De Varona, the well-heeled leader of the reactionary plot, wants to disrupt and if possible destroy the economy of his country. He told the reporters: "We have men who are prepared to see to it Castro does not even have a chance of harvesting his current sugar crop." They have shown it by fire-bombing of sugar-cane fields and warehouses. Saboteurs have also blown up electrical installatieons, blasted railroads and buses, without regard for human life.

They Want Their Property

And the basic aim of the counter-revolution? The reporters pinpoint it accurately: to "restore all properties to the rightful owners," including presumably the big American sugar and public utility interests.

The counter-revolutionary group described above is fairly typical. The reporters describe the others. They differ in size and have tactical disagreements. But they have a common aim: to restore the system of private property in Cuba. Moves are afoot to amalgamate the rival groups into a single counter-revolutionary force. This will simplify the U. S. task of financing and arming the anti-Castro forces, in which three top Washington agencies are engaged: The Central Intelligence Agency, the State Department and the Pentagon.

The role of the CIA in Cuba was startlingly revealed in The Nation (Dec. 3) which referred to a speech before the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco by Lyman B. Kirkpatrick, inspector-general of the super-spy-and-subversion agency and second in command to Allen W. Dulles, the chief. A member of the audience rose to query the speaker: "Professor Hilton of Stanford University says that there is a CIA-financed base in Guatemala where plans are being made for an attack on Cuba. Professor Hilton says it will be a a black day for Latin America and the United States if this takes place. Is this true?"

After a long silence, Mr. Kirkpatrick replied: "It will be a black day if we are found out."

The fact is that the CIA has already been found out. The story of the Guatemala air base has appeared in a number of publications. Time magazine even published a picture of the airstrip. Official Washington has maintained a guilty silence.

Why They Ran Away

The Cuban counter-revolutionaries are the dispossessed property-owners who prospered under Dictator Batista. Some of them supported Castro's movement because they found the Batista dictatorship irksome. They did not take seriously Castro's program of social change. After Batista had been run out of the country, these Cuban "patriots" resisted real reforms. Some were real estate owners. They resented having their rents cut. When their properties were taken over because of failure to comply with government orders, they realized that Castro meant what he said, that Cuba was for the Cuban people. It was the same with factory owners and landowners. They turned against the revolution. Those who could fled to the United States.

This is the element that would overthrow the Castro regime. These counter-revolutionary exiles have practically no support in Cuba. Even anti-Castro journalists have been compelled to admit that the present regime has the backing of the overwhelming majority of Cubans. Without massive injections of U.S. money and arms, the reactionary Cuban emigre groupings would die of anemia. In addition to giving them money and furnishing them arms, the Washington government permits them to use U.S. territory freely in the preparation of their plans for a counter-revolutionary overthrow.

It is this support by the U.S. that makes the emigre groupings dangerous. Men like de Varona make no secret of their purpose to invade Cuba and overthrow its government. He says quite openly that the attempt will be made by early summer. While backing the emigre groups, the United States has proclaimed its official hostility toward the new Cuba. The U.S. Navy has staged a provocative demonstration near Cuban waters and a well-advertised landing of Marines at the Guantanamo base. Under these circumstances Cuba had every right and reason to accuse Washington of preparing an invasion, every right and reason to get ready to repel it.

Normandie Methodist Sets Brotherhood Celebration

Race Relations and Brotherhood Week will be celebrated by the men of the Normandie Avenue Methodist Church, 3792 S. Normandie avenue, on Sunday, Feb. 12. Speakers for the occasion will be, Assemblyman Augustus Hawkins and Supervisor Kenneth Hahn.

The 11 a.m. service will feature Supervisor Hahn as guest speaker while at 3:30 p.m. Assemblyman Hawkins will lead a panel discussion on "New Horizons in Community Relations." Other members of the panel will include a clergyman, an attorney and a labor official.

Rev. Wilbur R. Johnson, pastor of the church; announced this week that among the topics to be considered will be: "Automation and its effect on the American Negro Community"; "Segregation in Housing and Education"; "The Roll of the Church in Community Relations"; "The Role of the Politician and of Labor"; and the "Unexplored Areas in Community Relations."

Dr. Stephens to be Speaker At Ward Golden Banquet

Ward AME Church, 1177 W. 25th street, will observe 50 years of service to the Los Angeles community at a Golden Anniversary banquet on Friday evening, Feb. 10 at 7 p.m. Dr. Fred E. Stephens, minister of Bethel AME Church, and former minister of Ward AME Church, will be the principal speaker at the banquet.

Dr. Fred E. Stephens

Other speakers will bring anniversary greetings and Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew will serve as guest mistress of ceremony. An outstanding feature of the banquet will be the culmination of the Miss Golden Anniversary contest, involving four young women in Ward Church. These young women are: Alice Watson, Johnnie Johnson, Andrea Calomee and Ruth Ragsdale.

On Sunday, Feb. 12, Ward will observe with other AME churches around the world a "Founder's Day" celebration. This service will do honor to Richard Allen, the ex-slave who founded the African Methodist Episcopal Church. At this service Dr. L. Sylvester Odom will speak on "Our Heritage".

back by popular demand. Also Johnny Lee of the Amos and Andy Show.

Don Rose, newscaster on KCOP, will be master of ceremonies.

Rev. Howard Ray Carey, pastor of the church and Rev. A. C. Austin, associate minister announced this week that they expect this banquet to be one of the most memorable. Leonard Johnson is chairman of the program while W. C. Richards is banquet chairman.

"The best and noblest lives are those which are set toward high ideals."

Mary Ross Gives Comfort To Bereaved

One of the most dynamic business leaders in Los Angeles is the titular head of the J. S. Williams Funeral Home, Mrs. Mary Williams Ross, who is revered by many as "The Woman of Understanding."

Mrs. Ross, literally, was born in a funeral home, since her late father, J. S. Williams, was a pioneer funeral director in Shreveport, La., having established the business there at the beginning of the century 61 years ago.

For the People

After years of orientation and training under the tutelage of her parents, Mrs. Ross set up her present business in Los Angeles about 15 years ago in memory of her late father.

In her own words, she says, "I am endeavoring to walk in the footsteps of my parents who were so dedicated that they built a business for the people which has been maintained for more than 60 years by the people."

Dedication

Since settling in California, Mrs. Ross asserts that she has served many families that were formerly served by her late father, and that thousands of people throughout the country have been served by either the Louisiana estab-

Rev. J. Hargett Inaugurates Twin Services

Commencing Sunday, Feb. 12, the Church of Christian Fellowship, W. Adams blvd. at 2nd avenue, will hold two identical morning worship services at 9 and 11 a.m., respectively.

"The Foolishness of God," will be the topic of Rev. James H. Hargett's sermon at both services.

Two choirs under the direction of Albert McNeil and Mrs. Floy Rosseau will provide music at both services. The early service choir is directed by Mr. McNeil. The later service choir is directed by Mrs. Rosseau.

At Hamilton

Speaking at the 8 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. services will be Rev. G. Byron Deshler, pastor of the San Gabriel Methodist Church. He will be assisted by his forty voice choir, ushers, officers and members.

Rev. John N. Doggett, Jr., his A Cappella choir, ushers, officers and congregation will conduct two services at the San Gabriel Methodist Church as part of the Race Relations program.

Beauty to be Topic Of Science Sermon

"My soul shall be joyful in the Lord: it shall rejoice in his salvation." This affirmation of the Psalmist (35:9) is the Golden Text of the Lesson-Sermon on "Soul" in all Christian Science churches Sunday. Beauty as the expression of true Being is the theme presented.

Lincoln Fete Set At Holman Sunday

Senator Thomas H. Kuchel will be the guest speaker at Holman Methodist Church, 3320 W. Adams blvd., at 3:30 p.m. on Feb. 12. The occasion is the Lincoln Day Celebration of the church of which Rev. L. L. White is the pastor.

Ministers from 35 churches have been invited to attend the program which in addition to the historical address by Kuchel will present hymns and anthems by the outstanding Holman choirs.

Sen. Kuchel will dwell on the 152 years of progress since Abraham Lincoln's birth and will also highlight some little known facets of Lincoln's career.

Rev. White said the program was planned for everyone in the community who truly believes in Brotherhood as practiced by one of the greatest believers, Abraham Lincoln.

Senator Kuchel

A social hour will follow the Lincoln Day program.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Bill Richmond is credited with being the first American Negro to make a bid for athletic supremacy by a member of the black race. That was way back in 1810, when he traveled from America to England to box the remarkable Tom Cribb.

It is not our purpose to contest this claim. Nor is it our purpose to dispute the historians or scientists who establish the year 1810 as the beginning of Negro participation in American sports.

Presenting this week's discourse is our way of calling your attention to Our Authors Study Club's Negro History Week celebration which gets under way Sunday, Feb. 12, and the fact that chairman Dr. Roy Andrew is planning a gigantic parade dedicated to the sports figures who have contributed greatly to Negro progress through their athletic prowess. In a sense it is really a tribute to Bill Richmond who back in 1810 with his stout heart and mighty fists focused international attention on the Negro athlete, although he was knocked out by the great Cribb.

It was another Negro several years later by the name of Tom Molineaux, a slave, who made an impact on sports fans with his two brilliant boxing matches with Cribb before crowds of 20,000 and 40,000. The Negro athlete in America was definitely on his way in horse racing, boxing, track, baseball and football.

It is exactly 159 years since Bill Richmond crawled through the ring in England in that boxing match of long ago. Today in just about every field of sports of championship caliber you will find a Bill Richmond.

Dr. Andrew's fitting tribute to our modern athletes in having them ride in the parade is a long overdue honor—for the abuses the Negro athlete must undergo to develop his or her natural ability can often become disheartening.

The outstanding performances of our athletes have made sport fans of all races learn to respect the Negro, and his has furthered our bid for first class citizenship.

Many have been the problems of our athletes but in spite of them they gave their best on the playing field and made excellent records in so doing.

Under the auspices of Our Authors' Club and Dr. Andrew it is expected that some of the greatest athletes who have glorified the race with their fine courage will participate in the parade.

And the grand marshal of the parade will be the greatest of them all—Joe Louis.

Ted Neal, Jim Johnson Seek Jobs with Angels

By Edw. 'Abie' Robinson

Baseball, the great American sport, showed how popular the game really is when 277 players showed up at Sawtelle Monday when the L. A. Angels of the American League held its first tryout in the history of the new West Coast major league team.

The 277 hopefuls who turned out included Ted Neal, ex-Jefferson High pitching ace, who has been playing Class A ball and who was released unexpectedly this year after a real good season last year. Jim Johnson, 24-year-old brother of Olympic decathlon champion Rafer, was also there trying to win a berth in the outfield. He played a while in the service.

There were 65 outfielders, 77 pitchers, 34 catchers, 24 first basemen, 18 third basemen and 18 shortstops. A considerable number of these players have had pro experience and if the Angels tab four of them General Manager Fred Haney will consider the expense of the tryout well worth it because they will still be assigned to a farm club.

For the huge press gallery the Angels showed off their new uniforms. Angel Manager Bill Rigney modeled the club's new white home uniform, while Red Kress, Bob Elliott and Marv Grissom, the Angels' coaches, sported the road uniforms. The vast majority of players not signed but who show promise will be scouted later on. Another such tryout camp is scheduled for June.

Irv Kaze, Angels' publicity director, provided the press with exceptionally good accommodations. Following the question and answer session a picnic luncheon was enjoyed. As far as the players themselves are concerned, it's hard to tell just how many will be good enough to get the nod, but one thing is sure, it will be veteran righthander Ned Garver on the mound for the Angels on opening day in Wrigley Field.

Pros Sign Florida A&M Grid Stars

The signing of four Florida A&M University Rattlers grid players recently brings to nine the total number of Rattlers in the pro ranks

Clarence Childs, two-time All-America halfback from Lakeland, came to terms with the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian League. Halfback Lewis Johnson of Bartow inked an agreement with the Houston Oilers, and tackle Jake Bradley of Lake City is going to play for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Halfback Eugene White of Miami was drafted by the New York Giants, White is a junior, but his class has graduated which makes him eligible for the draft. He has decided to remain in school and play out his eligibility.

Halfback Al Frazier, noted running mate of halfback Willie Galimore from 1952-56, is reporting to the Denver Broncos. Frazier has seen service with the Chicago Bears and two Canadian League elevens.

Halfback Willie Galimore and tackle Willie Lee are with the Chicago Bears; tackle Willie McClung is with the Detroit Lions; end Willie Barber played as a yearling with Calgary last fall; and so did tackle Riley Morris for the Oakland Raiders.

Parade Rte.

The Motor Caravan carrying some of the nation's outstanding sportsmen and entertainers in the big parade kicking off Negro History Week, Sunday, Feb. 12, will follow this route: Proceeding from Wrigley Field, left on 42nd to Central and south to Rosecrans; west on Rosecrans to Avalon, north on Avalon to Imperial highway to Broadway, north on Broadway to Florence, west on Florence to Western, north on Western to Adams, east on Adams to McKinley and south on McKinley to 51st street.

Maury Wills Among Dodgers Not in Fold

Only eight members of the Los Angeles Dodgers remain to be signed to their 1961 contracts by General Manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi — and he hopes to have them all in line before the Dodgers leave for Spring training next Sunday.

The contracts of Larry Sherry, star relief pitcher; John Roseboro, No. 1 catcher; Ron Fairly, outfield hopeful, and youngsters Al Norris and Tim Harkness brought the total of signed Dodgers to an even thirty.

Buzzie is awaiting signatures of Roger Craig, Phil Ortega, Ed Rakow, Thad Tillotson, and Rick Warren, pitchers; Bobby Aspromonte and Maury Wills, infielders, and Don Demeter, outfielders, to complete his list.

JIM GILLIAM—Deft third baseman for the L. A. Dodgers, will be among the scores of sports personalities that will parade Sunday, Feb. 12 in kicking off Negro History Week celebration. The parade will assemble at Wrigley Field, 42nd and Avalon at 11:30 a.m.

2-Mile Race to Highlight Sports Arena Indoor Meet

One of the greatest two-mile races in the history of indoor track is the prediction for Saturday night Feb. 11 at the Memorial Sports Arena when an international field of five match strides for 22 laps as the highlight of the Los Angeles indoor games.

The United States, Australia, Canada and Poland are represented, and no doubt, holding the center of attraction will be 17-year old Bruce Kidd — wonder boy from Toronto.

It marks the first genuine test for the youngster, who set the sports world agog with his 8:49.2 victory at Boston Jan. 14.

Against him will be four veterans — Al Lawrence of Australia and Houston University, who set the then world record of 8:46.0 in the 1960 L.A. Games; Jim Beatty, unbeaten on the boards in 1960-1961 from Santa Clara Valley Youth Village; Lt. Max Truex of the Air Force and John Macy of Poland and Houston.

Strangely enough, the runner with the slowest indoor time, Beatty at 8:57.0, is being picked by the track bugs.

The mile is another international race with Istvan Rozsavolgyi of Hungary and Terry Sullivan of Southern Rhodesia meeting Laszlo Tabori, ex-Hungarian of the Santa Clara VYV, Archie San Romani of Oregon and Bob Holland, ex-Bruin.

There isn't a weak event on Saturday night's program that spotlights nine relays from the two-mile headlining Yale and Michigan to the prep divisions for CIF and Los Angeles City teams.

THE TEE

WITH MAGGIE HATHAWAY

Dear Charles Sifford:

You are now our top Negro Professional Golfer. This means that not only will you have to "score well" but you will also have to "represent your race well."

You once said that you wanted to be the Jackie Robinson of golf. This you have accomplished but this recognition places more responsibility on your shoulders.

In the last two months you have received invitations to play in two tournaments that were never before opened to a Negro golfer. These tournaments were the Bing Crosby Pebble Beach Invitational and the Palm Springs Tourney.

For two years Eagle and other sports writers pressured the Crosby brothers and Palm Springs officials to extend you an invitation.

After you were invited it made me feel proud to follow you around the exclusive private courses (some of the fans even asked if I were your wife) but while following you I was snowed under by questions from the walking gallery. This is one of the reasons that I am writing this letter.

The first question asked was about an occurrance that you may be surprised to learn about — a spectator died from a heart attack a few feet from where you were putting. You did not see him but other people did, and they wanted to know why you didn't stop playing. I explained you hadn't seen what had happened, but decided to "pull your coat," keeping one eye on the ball and the other on the gallery.

Now that you are the only Negro professional representing us there are a few other details you will be forced to watch such as accepting invitations from sponsors. Sponsors can be very sensitive, especially about their private parties where they discuss who scored the best or the worst.

We—your other friends and I—also want to pull your "alpacka sweater" about putting ahead of "your amateur." We are sure this was not intentional and know you would not knowingly put pressure on "your" amateur—but it's the kind of thing that brought questions.

These are some of the problems that go along with being famous and successful.

After swinging away in more than 30 tournaments we realize that it is hard to concentrate on anything except scoring but all these things ride on the crest of success.

So swing on, Charles, score well and hold you head high in the rough. To make a long letter short we will close by saying, "We'll plant you now and dig you later."

Sincerely,
Your Friends.

L. C. Morgan Headlines Olympic Go

L. C. Morgan, now ranked as the No. 8 lightweight by the NBA, headlines tonight's (Thursday) ring card at the Olympic Auditorium.

Morgan will face Willie Morton, talented San Jose welterweight. This bout will not be televised.

The regular KTLA-TV 10-rounder pairs featherweights Emilio Flores and Johnny Shaw.

Morgan will be shooting for his fourth straight Olympic victory. His last start was an upset decision over top ranked Eddie Perkins of Chicago.

Morton has a fine record which includes wins over Alvaro Gutierrez, Baby Vazquez and Eddie Chavez.

Next big card at the Olympic will be Saturday, Feb. 25, with Benny (Kid) Paret, the welterweight champion, meeting Gaspar Ortega in a non-title bout. This will be a 7 p.m. show, shown on national TV.

Brooks Robinson Hiked to $20,000

Brooks Robinson, the 23-year old Baltimore Orioles third basemen who finished third in the voting for the American League's most valuable player, signed his 1961 contract and will receive $20,000, which is a 65 per cent raise over his last year's salary.

General Manager Lee Mac Phail first handed Robinson a blank contract and asked him to fill in his own figures, but he passed up the opportunity by telling Mac Phail he would rather not, that he would like for him to fill it in so he could tell what the ball club thinks of him as a player. Robinson received $12,000 last season and led all A. L. third basemen in fielding. His 294 batting average included 88 runs batted in and 14 homers.

UCLA, SC Games Attract 21,427 Fans

Last weekend's basketball games between UCLA and USC attracted 21,427 fans at the Sports Arena for the two game series. Saturday's game was on television.

The two teams will meet on March 3 in the final meeting and another record crowd is expected.

BEAUTIFUL CALIENTE IN OLD MEXICO: Although the winning horses paid off in respectable figures only two ticket holders were recipients of the $39,523.20 top shares of the 5-10 public handicapping contest last Sunday at Caliente Race Track. They picked six winners. Consolation awards of $712 each went to 37 other holders who tabbed five winners. The biggest payoff in the 5-10 was Ralph at $13.40 with jockey Lester Balaski up in the ninth race. Winning numbers were 3-7-7-2-5-3—The 5-10 pool grossed $117,106. Next Sunday the 15th Annual George Woolf Memorial Race will be the feature event with the greatest jockey in the world on hand to pay tribute to a turf immortal. A crowd of 24,000 are expected to be on hand for this featured event. Don't miss this attraction.

SANTA ANITA—Again two big features are offered for the lovers of the Sport of Kings this week at Santa Anita. On Wed., Feb. 8, the $50,000 Added Breeders' Champion Stakes at 11/6 miles will be the featured attraction. This race is for 3-year-old California foals, many of which are awaiting the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby on March 4. Saturday, Feb. 11, the main event will be the $50,000 added San Antonio Handicap for 3-year-olds and upwards. This will be the 23rd running of this event. Practically all of the San Antonio contenders will be in the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap. Last year's winner was Bagdad.

Lakers Clinic Draws Record 3,200

A throng of more than 3,200 youngsters and adults flocked to the Sports Arena in Exposition Park last Saturday to view the Los Angeles Lakers' free basketball clinic, sponsored by the Municipal Sports Division of the City Recreation and Park Department.

Led by all-Pro star Elgin Baylor and All-American rookie Jerry West, the Los Angeles pro hoop squad gave demonstrations of passing, guarding, dribbling, and shooting while Laker coach Fred Schaus explained each play over the microphone. After giving more demonstrations of offense and defense techniques and strategy, the Lakers concluded their portion of the program with an intra-team scrimmage.

Three top-flight exhibition hoop tilts preceeded the clinic.

Watts Parents Schedule Dance For Teenagers

Hardworking members of the Watts Parents Committee organized some nine months ago to create wholesome activities for youngsters living in the South Los Angeles area are planning a dance and talent contest on Saturday, Feb. 11, in the Nickerson Gym, 113th and Compton.

Music will be furnished by an elaborate Hi-Fi system and some of the nation's outstanding artists will be heard. The dance will get underway at 7:30 p.m. and last until 11:30 p.m. All teenagers are invited to participate.

According to Mrs. Makean Wazer and Mr. Cliffton Wyrick, who are assisting with the dance, proceeds raised will go toward scholarships for Jordan High School students.

Merchants and social and civic groups are urged to purchase tickets to assure some youngster a good time in a wholesome atmosphere.

Second Annual Anniversary Party Attracts One Hundred Personalites

Some 100 top city personalities attended Nite Life Magazine's second anniversary banquet held in the banquet room of the popular Clark Hotel last Wednesday night. Publisher W. E. Barnett, assisted by hostesses, Henrietta Green and Ernestine Holloway, arranged a very entertaining evening for the many guests.

Boxing Commissioner James Gay, flew in from Chicago where he was attending a business meeting to attend the affair, he is commissioner for the state of Nevada.

Among the notables attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dauterive, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Payton, Atty. and Mrs. David Lee, Atty. and Mrs. Sherman Smith, Mrs. Retha Beck, Marie Newborn, Mrs. M. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mathews, Jr. and Mrs. Celes King, III, Mrs. Dovie Stewart, Miss E. Baber and Maggie Hathaway.

In celebrating the second year of the West Coast magazine, Publisher W. E. Barnett used the occasion to honor Mrs. Gertrude Whitfield, mother of Lionel Hampton, internationally famous bandleader.

Sisters Honor Mother

Mrs. Clarence Jones, prominent pioneer resident of this city was honored last Sunday afternoon at her home, 1224 S. St. Andrews place, at a tea. The occasion was her birthday and doing the honors were her three lovely and popular daughters — Edith Jones Boyd of New York City; Corinne Jones Taylor and Gwen Jones Simmons.

Many friends of long standing attended and sipped tea and champagne with the honoree in the garden of her home which was elaborately filled with floral gifts from her many friends.

Mrs. Boyd, Edith to her many southland friends, flew in especially to be on hand for the occasion from New York City.

The Jones family is well-known socially and in the civic life of our community.

MARY TINGLOF — Member of the Board of Education, will attend Carver dedication ceremonies.

Founders' Day Set

The Gompers Junior High School Parent Teachers Association announced its Founders' Day Program will be presented Tuesday, Feb. 21, at 2 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Carver Junior High Dedication Scheduled

The Los Angeles Board of Education top brass plans to join community leaders in dedication activities at Carver Junior High School to be held March 9.

On this date two beautiful, spacious, new buildings exquisitely landscaped will be dedicated.

A large, expansive gymnasium designed to accommodate hundreds of boys and girls and a 17 room modern, well-equipped class room building will be handed over to the community.

Responding to the call to celebrate the $2,000,000 "new look" of their former school will be such personages as Ellis Jarvis, now superintendent of Los Angeles schools; Robert J. Purdy, now assistant superintendent; Roy L. Arnheim, assistant superintendent; Otto Buss, Austin E. Dixon, now principal at Marin Del Ray, and Arthur Farnham, (San Pedro) all former principals of Carver.

Other top educational officials, namely Mary Tinglof, Ralph Richardson, and Hugh Willette also will attend the celebration.

It is expected that many community leaders will join together and help celebrate the new look at Carver.

Carver can rightfully boast of its beautiful, well-equipped plant with its public address system, as being second to none in Los Angeles.

Thelma Browne is the writer of the column "HAPPENSTANCES" which has appeared in the Michigan Chronicle (a Detroit weekly) since 1944.

This human interest writer has covered events that stem from Skid Row to the White House for such periodicals as the Detroit Tribune, the Detroit edition of the Pittsburgh Courier, Detroit After-Dark and other periodicals.

Californians have been seeing her in the lobby of the Hotel Watkins where she has operated Thelma's Boutique for better than two years.

It takes the elements of genius—and we are too enthusiastic to rummage through our vocabulary for the exact words—to tell our readers how happy we are to do "HAPPENSTANCES" for ABIE ROBINSON.

One of the most recent birthdays to be celebrated was that of the Harlem Globetrotter's manager, PARNELL WOODS. For the last three years, a whopping number of guests have filled the Rubaiyat Room of the Hotel Watkins to extend gifts and best wishes to the freckled-faced "guy of guys." Amid the celebrities were members of the Washington Generals Basketball Team. The Globetrotters played in this neck of the woods for better than two weeks.

Quite a Day

Last Monday was a very special day for a score or more of "Dolls" who came from San Diego to tour L.A. These daughters of Elks Nautilus Temple No. 436 chose to spend the high point of their day dining at the Hotel Watkins. They were delighted with an elegant dinner that the Hotel's chef, CORNELIUS WILLIAMS, prepared for them. Before coming for dinner they were guests on TV—NBC's "Queen for a Day" and "It Could Be You" programs and ended the day by going to Knott's Berry Farm.

Among the group of Ladies were Daughter Ruler ARETHA JOHNSON, Vice Daughter Ruler OPHELIA PAYNE, and Daughters ALMA JONES, CLARA N. NELSON, LILLIAN HILL, EVELYN STEWART, VIOLA GORDON, LIZZIE MAYFIELD, AGNES JOHNSON, MARION ANDERSON, ETHEL LONG, ELVOVA WILBURN, CLONISE BYRD, MRS. JEROME D. GARDNER and others. Viola Gordon was chairman of the group's affair.

Nineteen Sixty-One (so far) has been a monstrous year for Champion Golfer CHARLIE SIFFORD on the West Coast. Last Sunday he swung his way 10 strokes shy of the winner's 345 in the wind-up of the five-day Palms Springs Classic. He shared his winnings with 10 other golfers and still ended up with $526.00 for the day's game.

Detroit golfer HOWARD BROWN has been enjoying this California sun. The day that his plane took off for L.A. from Willow Run Airport in Detroit the temperature was 5 degrees above zero. After spending a total of 30-odd days in this area, Brown takes off for the Ray Mitchell Golf Tournament in Miami, Fla. He has played a few with RAY BOTTS.

Evangelist "LITTLE RICHARD" came by the Boutique to say "Hell-O" a few days ago and tells us that he will be preaching in this area for about three months.

MR. and MRS. DAN GILLESPIE are spending their vacation with their son and daughter-in-law, JESS and JACKIE. Real Estate listings have kept GILLESPIE as busy as a beaver and it looks as though he just might persuade his dad to buy a unit if the snow keeps falling in Detroit.

Glamorous CLARA HAMILTON has the gleam of Big Business plans in her eyes.

Designer THELMA LE has started her "Keep Fit" classes again and we stood in line Tuesday evening to register.

Alpha Phi Alpha Slates Party at Pacific Town

The graduate chapter of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity will be host to all local Alphas at a party on Sunday, Feb. 12, at five o'clock at the Pacific Town Club. This late afternoon affair, which is open to all Alphas and their wives, will be a kickoff for the brilliant program planned for this year. In helping with the Valentine season, Alpha Wives will be guests of honor.

Oscar Little and Thomas Robinson, who are in charge of the affair for their fraternity, have arranged a full evening of fun and fellowship for the huge crowd expected at this elaborate party.

Jesse Sterling, the frat's new president, is expecting every man who has ever worn the Alpha badge.

Shriners Big Show Plans Set

The ninth annual Star-of-Stars Charity Show sponsored by the Egyptain Shrine Temple No. 5 will be held on Feb. 29 at the Moulin Rouge. The talent committee reported this week that Milton Berle has been selected to receive the Humanitarian Award, the Shrine's highest award.

The affair is given annually to raise funds for the group's cancer, tuberculosis and educational projects and the show always features the world's greatest artists.

The Talent Committee which includes Walter Goodlow and Tommy Tucker, is being assisted by Joe Louis in rounding up several big names who have indicated they will appear at the gigantic benefit.

Joe Adams, one of the top disc jockies in the nation, will be the master of ceremonies of the show. Jerry Lewis, famed comic, said he will be there, as have Della Reese, Dean Martin, The Platters, Jimmy Witherspoon, Bobby Darrin, Frank Sinatra, Bob Hope, Vic Damone and Billy Daniels.

The Talent Committee and the Shrine organization are expecting their usual capacity crowd.

ATTENDS MEET—Hilda Allen, president of the Women's Medical Auxiliary and also the National Secretary, is in New York attending the national officers' annual meeting.

Club Officers To be Installed

Fans of Gaiety Club held its regular meeting last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Watson, with Minerva Shepherd as hostess to the meeting.

Arrangements were made for the group's installation party to be held at the DMC Hall on Saturday night, Feb. 11, at 4613 S. Western avenue.

The regular club prize was won by Fannie Love.

Seattle-ites Install New Officers

The Seattle-ites Social and Civic Club held its formal installation party Feb. 4 at the home of Mrs. Beatrice Hamilton, 1216 E. 92nd street.

Mr. Clarence Carter, of the Shriners Al Malakiah Club, installed the following officers: President, James McAllister; vice president, Leon Beck; secretary, Justine Anthony; treasurer, Bernice Beck; business manager, Charles Sims; club reporter, Mary Chatters.

Also introduced was Iva May McAllister, who was appointed chairman of the sick committee.

Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ward, Robert Harris, Alphonso Reed, James Burrell, Mrs. Doris Lewis, Charlene Harris, Geneva Benjamin and Mr. Alfred Purnell.

Special guests were Mr. Smith and Miss Mary Rose from the Children's Orthopaedic Hospital, who expressed her appreciation to the club for charity donations of the past two years.

Woodcraft Ranger Starts Adult Drive

Thomas Graham, 11717 Belhaven avenue, general chairman of the South District Woodcraft Rangers, kicked off the group's adult membership drive last week when he purchased his membership from Mrs. Steve Johnson of 5109½ S. Vermont, co-chairman of the drive.

During February, South Los Angeles Ranger units will join with several hundred Ranger tribes in enrolling additional adults.

EARL GRANT REPORTS

Hi Tommie, Love,

First, I wan't to apologize for not returning the Sunday that I promised. But, I must tell you that I was so sleepy that I fell across the bed and awakened at 12:00 midnight sharp. Then I took for granted that dinner was almost to an end (smile). However, forgive me this time and I promise that Japan's Silk won't be too far fetched at all.

Now, about Japan. Never, no never anywhere in the world have I received such a welcome as we did here in Japan, or rather Tokyo. We landed and there were 15 cameras, 15 newsmen, and can't think what else there was. But. I must say when they do something they do it.

Advanced TV

I am being sponsored by the Mainuchi Newspaper here and the publicity they have done on us, I'm sure, as they say, has never been done on anybody.

I have been here two weeks now and I have done my own two hour TV show (in color). Their TV color is much more advanced than ours. And they also televised my concert which I did at a place called Hibiya Hall here, which seated, or at least there were 4,600 for the concert last Thursday night.

Treated Royally

I have been presented flowers by the Princess and all kinds of Royalty. I counted exactly three dozen bunches of roses and carnations which have been presented to us since we came. The hospitality is too great. I would recommend any American or even defy him to come to Japan. They are ready!!! Can't get used to these chauffeur-driven cars and etc. That's Japan.

My nite club engagement

MARTY KIMBLE—Shows here why she's just one more reason for the standing room only crowds at the CLUB STARLITE. Wouldn't you like Marty to serve you? Go to the Starlite on Manchester avenue. She's waiting for you there. Additional entertainment on Friday and Saturday night features the CLICK CLACKS. Sunday night MISS CLEANHEAD makes the scene. Jam sessions with Little Duke's Band every Sunday from 4 to 9 p.m.

HANDS OFF—Damito Jo, currently one of singdom's most sought after personalities, is enjoying her best $UCCE$$ to date. A smash appearance on Ed Sullivan's Video Show, better bookings, plus a swinging single titled: "Take Your Hands Off of Him," are richly rewarding this talented trouper in the highly satisfactory manner she so rightfully deserves.

People and Places

WOODY STRODE — When he attends a plush Beverly Hills cocktail party with top movie wheels this week he will be nominated for an Academy Award for one of his two great movies!

VERONICA POPULUS—Curvy in Don Barksdale's popular Sportmen's Club in Oakland, in town for the Zee Maddox jazzy birthday pawtee!

JOHN AUSTIN — Along with Lee Bowman served Sammy Davis, Jr. as body guards during his wedding. They did such a terific job they are being swamped with offers from top Hollywood celebs!

ELIZ VAL MOORE—A smooth cocoa brownskin from Detroit is the newest goodlooking member of the Star Liters club. She is a treatment nurse at the Maywood Hospital!

SUE HENDERSON — Reason that she hasn't been clipping hair at the Watkins Hotel Barber shop is that she has been in the divorce courts shedding her husband and her constant escort has been her ex-boyfriend!

MILLIE BRUCE—She is back in the cashier's windows at the Bdwy. Federal and last week Ray (Sugar) Robinson tossed a birthday pawtee for her in his training camp!

HOSPITAL—Fred Harris, well known lush salesman, is recovering from a gallstone operation and George Hayes who owns the Hayes Drugstore out south is putting in his second week at University Hospital!

OPAL JONES—You can get a big fight out of the executive director of Avalon Community Center by saying, "Let's have a rummage sale!"

BENEFITS—We've noticed the increasing number of social clubs selecting the same projects as those Beverly Hills groups but we haven't noticed the Beverly Hills groups selecting the Stovall Foundation, the Exceptional Children's Home, the Urban League or the NAACP!

ESSIE BENSON — Topflight real estate agent in a huff. She almost blew a fuse over

Stage Drama Set to Open February 14

"Kataki," the award winning play by Shimon Wincelberg, has been selected by producers Nick and Edna Stewart to open their 1961 season.

Al Freeman Jr., an Ebony Showcase veteran who was seen recently on "Adventures In Paradise", is starring in the play along with Japanese Actor Yuki Shimoda who was on Broadway in "The King and I" and "Flower Drum Song."

Kataki is being directed by Edward Ludlum who has directed "Gunsmoke" and "Mike Hammer" series.

Opens February 14

The play will open Tuesday Feb. 14, at Ebony Showcase Theatre, 4368 W. Adams Blvd. The comedy drama deals with two soldiers who are trapped on a Pacific atoll during World War 2. Freeman portrays the role of an American Airmen and Shimoda, a Japanese soldier.

They are indoctrinated with the thought that they are enemies. One castaway speaks only English, the other only Japanese. But they establish a sort of communication, a mutual understanding. Kataki says it's message with power, laughter, intensity and charm.

has been a smash. I was advised by the owner that I was his biggest draw since the opening a year ago. He's had such names as the Kingston Trio, Vic Damone, Johnny Mathis, Edydie and Steve Lawrence, Patti Page, Dinah Shore and many others. I was shocked at some of the names he had. But of course I was delighted. That made us work harder. We are enjoying packed houses every night. I closed here and Feb. 2, then I'm off to Kioto, Osako, and Hiroshima. Played concerts in Yokahama last week. And Army, Navy and Air Force bases also. Most appreciative.

Gorgeous Hotel

Thought you might enjoy reading one of my reviews. I'll bring the others when I come home. But I simply had to let you hear from me. The hotel is gorgeous. I am enjoying all of it. Japan's oldest and newest hotel. The annex is naturally in the rear.

Well, love, I must run and get some rest. It's 5 a.m. and today is a busy day for us. More TV. Will let you hear from me from time to time. Take care and good bye, my love.

EARL

A secretary whose employer was dozing in a chair after one too many during lunch hour, told a caller: "Sorry, he's still out from lunch."

Baritone Will Sing Favorites

Robert McFerrin, who made musical history as the first Negro singer ever to be signed by the New York Metropolitan Opera Company, will appear at the Shrine Auditorium Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

The highly acclaimed young baritone will be presented by the Los Angeles Community Concert Association, a non-profit city-wide organization that brings music to Los Angeles on a low-cost membership basis.

Third Group Presentation

The 6,000 members of LACCA will hear McFerrin sing an aria, "Eri Tu, Che Macchiavi" from "The Masked Ball" by Verdi; "Hark, How All Things in One Sound Rejoice!" by Henry Purcell; "D'Amor I'acerbe pene" by Alessandro Scarlatti and several selections by Handel and Schubert. A group of well-loved Negro spirituals will also be included in McFerrin's performance which is the third in the series of six LACCA concerts.

During the past five seasons McFerrin has been increasingly winning and holding the attention of concert goers at home and abroad. His recital orbit has taken him across the United States and Canada, to Europe, the Caribbean and South America.

Internationally Acclaimed

His solo appearance with orchestra has included triumphs with the National Symphony in Washington, D. C., the Chicago Symphony at the Ravinia Festival, the Philadelphia Orchestra at the Ann Arbor May Festival and the New York Philharmonic at Lewisohn Stadium. In July of 1956 he was acclaimed for his interpretation of Amonasro in "Aida" at the Teatro San Carlo in Naples, Italy. His warm, lyric voice won renewed acclaim from the New York critics after his second Town Hall recital in February of 1957.

In concert, in opera and on records he has built a world-wide audience of McFerrin enthusiasts.

SOLID SENDERS—Currently topping the bill at the CALIFORNIAN, the PENGUINS are caught here by cameraman Verdell Young during their new act. Rising young DOOTO recording artists and others on the bill make your evening at the Club CALIFORNIAN on Santa Barbara one of assured pleasure. (Verdell Young photography)

Fabricland Sales Daily

Fabricland, is one of the newly opened and most completely equipped stores which has brightened your neighborhood with colorful yardage and ready-to-wear items. Perhaps you have heard about Fabricland already, but more and more people are being attracted daily because of its high quality and reasonable prices.

Cash Raising Sale

During the January clearance sale, prices were reduced from 50 to 70%, and due to heavy patronage, the sale will still continue for a limited time only. Storewide clearance sale with rock bottom prices are definitely to your advantage as the owner must raise cash immediately. Few of the outstanding low prices available to you are listed under separate advertisement.

SUMMIT STAR—Barney Kessell, everybody's favorite guitarist, is currently playing pretty for the patrons who pack Bill Bapst and Bob Gefaell's plush parlor, The Summit," on Sunset at Wilcox.

'Cinerama' Expands in Popularity

"This is Cinerama" first released nine years ago and currently in the 4th month of its exclusive Warner Hollywood Theatre return engagement appears to hold the same magnetism as that experienced during the initial presentation.

Many persons who originally marvelled at the innovating Cinerama technique return to the film capital playhouse to have the thrilling experience all over again.

Each Satuday morning from four to ten charter buses and public and parochial school vehicles are seen to unload their cargoes of eager chattering children many of whom were unborn when the new dimensional attraction was originally presented.

NEW YORK SCENE

PEGGY LEE, PRETTY

Like WOW!!! She looked good, sounded better, and was swinging all the way, to the complete enjoyment and pleasure of a really jammed supper show at Basin Street East. And I do mean the one and only, Miss Peggy Lee. And was I glad I dragged my L. P. out in the near zero degree weather to eat heartily (Chinese lobster for Laura and a 'choice' filet mignon for me) and squeeze in amongst the happy throng to first hear the Derek Smith Trio playing some relaxed dinner music, and then the 'piece de resistance,' with Joe Harnel directing the 12 piece orchestra, Miss Lee in a black, skin-tight strapless sequins gown, opened with, "Day In Day Out," and followed this with several good tunes, including, "The Most Beautiful Man In The World," "The 2nd Time Around," "Fever" and "I'm Gonna Go Fishing."

Charles Never As Fine

Then Peggy shook the house with a very sincere and well-delivered tribute to Mr. Ray Charles, as she sang a medley of Ray's original and other recorded tunes like, "Hallelujah, I Love Him So," "I Got A Man Way Over Town," and "Just For A Thrill." Her encores were many, including a medley of former hit records, and I can only say Miss Peggy Lee was sensational.

Basin Street Meet

Opening at Basin Street East tonight (9th) will be Miss Frances Faye, with Jack Costanza on conga and bongos, Louis Jordan and the Tympany Five and comedian Gene Bayles.

Ran into drummers Jo Jones (formerly with Basie) and Max Roach, catching the jazz at Smalls, and chatted with an old friend and fine bassist, Eddie Kahn, from San Francisco. Eddie plans to stay in New York, study, record, and hopes to play regularly and establish himself.

Apollo Place To Go

Starting tomorrow at the Apollo Theatre it will be jazz, with Nina Simone, Horace Silver, Sonny Stitt, James Moody, etc., and then next week the Brook Benton Show.

It's still near zero, snow is still on the ground, and we are shivering, but carrying on, so with icicle in hand for a pen, I shall have another 'cool' column for you next week. Brrrrrrrr . . . and 'Bye...

Two Hour Music Bit By Bruins

"Fly Blackbird," written by two UCLA staff members as a two-hour "musical with a conscience," has gone into rehearsal for its Feb. 9 premiere at the Metro Theatre, 4720 W. Washington Blvd.

The racially-balanced cast of 30 is directed by the musical's creative team — Clarence Jackson of the UCLA dance department and Dr. James Hatch of the school's theater arts departments.

NOTICE OF STREET LIGHTING MAINTENANCE

Washington Boulevard between Alameda Street and Main Street.

Notice is hereby given that on January 25, 1961, the Council of the City of Los Angeles duly passed Ordinance No. 118,067 declaring its intention to order the necessary lighting posts and appliances within the above-designated district to be maintained and electric current to be furnished, and that an assessment to pay costs and expenses thereof is proposed to be levied for lighting said posts for the period of two years beginning July 1, 1961; said lighting posts being located in, over and along the public streets, alleys and other public places, or portions thereof, in said City, described as follows:

WASHINGTON BOULEVARD between Alameda Street and Main Street.

Reference is hereby made to the report of the Board of Public Works in connection therewith, on file in the office of the City Clerk; to said Ordinance of Intention; and to Ordinance No. 75,000, for further particulars.

That Tuesday, March 7, 1961, at the hour of 10 A.M. is the time and the Council Chamber in the City Hall of said City is the place for the hearing of protests relative to the proposed improvement or of appeals against the proposed assessment. Any person objecting to the said improvement or to the extent of the assessment district, or to any assessment therefor, may file a written protest or appeal with the City Clerk at any time PRIOR TO THE DAY set for such hearing. Such protests shall specify the ground or grounds upon which the protest is based and contain a description of the property in which each signer thereof is interested, sufficient to identify the same and be delivered to the City Clerk, and no other protests than those presented in the form and within the time specified will be considered.

NOTE: THIS IMPROVEMENT PROPOSES ONLY THE OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE OF THE EXISTING LIGHTING SYSTEM.

LOS ANGELES MOTORISTS GREATEST WORRIES ARE OVER TRAFFIC TICKETS

With more and more automobiles being added every day to the already crowded streets, freeways and highways in Southern California, motorists are becoming increasingly prone to bend and sometimes purposely break traffic laws to make up for time and tempers lost while driving.

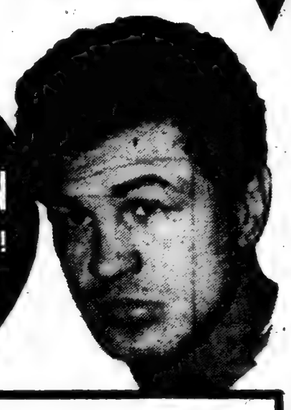
125,000 TICKETS MONTHLY

According to Karl Rundberg, Jr., Vice President of Southern California Traffic Associates, Inc., there are about 125,000 traffic tickets issued each month for moving and mechanical violations in the city of Los Angeles alone.

"Seldom does a driver not break one law or another every time he gets behind the wheel, and many times he does not realize it. Chances are that eventually he'll be stopped and given a citation." Rundberg said.

Rundberg pointed out that in addition to the amount of bail, a citation for the same violation costs different people different amounts depending upon their hourly productive value and time spent in making payment.

Many cities helped correct this situation by providing a pay-by-mail plan for parking violations. However, because of the various factors that determine the cost of bail on moving violations, it would be impractical and too expensive for them to handle these in the same manner.



VITALLY IMPORTANT SERVICE

S. C. T. A. Inc. makes it possible for motorists to handle most all moving and mechanical citations by mail, thus eliminating time off from work and wage loss. Except for the low single charge of $4.40 for one year, members pay only the exact amount of bail set by the court for each citation received during the year, Rundberg emphasized. The firm serves Los Angeles and Surrounding communities.

Not including the cost of the citation, over $3.5 million is lost in productive time per year by persons when paying traffic fines. This also represents a lost of nearly two million man hours by business and industry from employees being away from the job paying their bill.

MILLIONS LOST ANNUALLY

"We believe that S. C. T. A.'s inexpensive and enclusive pay-by-mail plan will eliminate this tremendous cost which was not intended to be added to the fines set by law," Rundberg said. (See Display.)

No one makes it a habit to throw money away and no one makes it a habit to get traffic citations. However, in Los Angeles alone OVER 125,000 traffic citations (other than parking) are issued each month to safeguard the public's interest.

This represents many millions of dollars in WAGES LOST because of TIME LOST in paying traffic bail.

In addition to the amount of bail, a citation for the same violation costs each individual a different amount, depending upon their hourly productive value and time spent in making payment.

LOOK: the "hidden expense" for one ticket includes:

- Time away from work
- Parking
- Gas, oil, wear and tear
- Inconvenience

Why take a chance, don't be COUNTED OUT, it can happen to you, there's no need to pay an extra cost that was not intended to be added to the fines set by law.

A membership in Southern California Traffic Associates, Inc. offers you these exclusive time and money saving advantages:

1. CONVENIENCE — you simply mail citation immediately to S.C.T.A. Inc. in the self-addressed, postage paid envelope provided you.
2. CUTS TIME OFF FROM WORK — you will be notified of the exact amount of bail required as set by the court. Send check or money order to S.C.T.A. in postage paid envelope.
3. NO GAS, OIL, WEAR, or PARKING EXPENSE
4. NO WAITING IN LINE
5. INFORMATION — on traffic laws and helpful suggestions on how you can be a safer and better driver.

DON'T DEPEND ON LUCK — this time and money saving convenience costs less than the "Hidden Expense" of one citation. For a low single charge of ONLY $4.40 a year you can become a member of S.C.T.A. and insure against losing money and time in paying traffic bail. (Additional members of immediate family over 18 years of age may also join for only $1.50 per year each.)

Take advantage of the convenient and inexpensive service offered by Southern California Traffic Associates, Inc.

Hearing Today on Closing Of 13 Local Child Centers

submitted to the Board of Education for its approval.

Schools Affected

Work on the plan has been in process, under the direction of Robert J. Purdy, superintendent of the city's Elementary School Division, for more than six months, the Eagle was informed, but there has been no publicity on the proposals up until the present time.

The four schools that now contain two centers each that will be closed are:

75th Street School, 142 W. 75th street;

52nd Street School, 5165 S. Hoover;

Menlo School, 4159 Wesley avenue; and

Wadsworth School, 1028 E. 40th place.

The other five schools in each of which the one existing center will be closed are:

6th Avenue School, 3109 6th avenue;

Main Street School, 129 E. 53rd street;

28th Street School, 2807 Stanford avenue;

Lillian Street School, 5917 Lillian street; and

First Street School, 2820 E. 1st street.

There are 83 Child Care Centers in the Los Angeles City School District. Only those listed above are scheduled to be closed.

The cost of maintaining the centers is reported as 44c per hour per student. Of this sum, the state pays two-thirds, and the parents one-third. The exact amount each parent pays is based upon his income, following what has come to be known as the "Means Test."

Only those in the lower income bracket are eligible for admission to the State-supported centers.

The City School District has control over the centers, but the State sets the standards by which they are to be operated and apportions the money.

According to the law that governs the establishment and maintenance of the centers the policy established by the Legislature provides that the Child Care Centers must be made available first to those who have the greatest financial need.

Reason given by the Board of Education for its proposed cut in this vitally needed service is that the schools are over-crowded and that the Board wishes to use the space now allocated to the centers to help overcome half-day sessions.

In some of the nine schools one room is allocated to the centers. In others (Menlo and 75th) the centers are conducted in former residences, which apparently are to be torn down so that new schoolrooms can be built on the lots.

THE GIRL WHO SOLD ROCKEFELLER A PAINTING

OPERATION CROSSROADS AFRICA

FEBRUARY 1961

WHAT MAKES A MAKE-UP 'SOPHISTICATED'?

If you have a question concerning some outstanding person, send it to: Question Box, TONE Publications, Inc., 702 East 63rd Street, Chicago 37, Illinois. Only letters containing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, can be acknowledged.

Question Box

GHANDI

What is the relationship of Rajmohan Ghandhi, who was in New York and appeared on the program "The Editors Speak," to India's Mahatma Ghandhi?

Mrs. Shirley R., N.Y.C.

Rajmohan Ghandhi is the grandson of Mahatma Ghandhi.

DARIN

Can you give some statistics on Bobby Darin, and list some of the songs he has written?

Rosemary J., San Francisco, Cal.

Darin is 19 years of age and his birthday is May 14th. He's 5' 9" and weighs 155 pounds. Bobby's first record was "Dealer In Dreams" which he wrote and recorded in 1957. Other Darin recordings written by himself are "Love Me Right," "Wear My Ring," "I Wanna Spend Xmas With Elvis," "Delia," and "By my Side."

YAV

A Congolese tribal chief visited the United States last year on a 45-day tour. What was the nature of his visit?

John F., Tuskegee, Ala.

In addition to sight-seeing, Paramount Chief Mwant Yav visited many American universities seeking scholarships for his tribal youths to attend schools in America. He also sought technical assistance for his country.

DAWSON

What is the reason behind Congressman William Dawson's refusal to serve in the position of Postmaster General in the Cabinet?

George C., Houston, Tex.

Sorry, George, but we really don't know any more than what has already been published in the newspapers!

EDUCATION, RUSSIA

Written by Dr. T. Winston Cole, Sr., President, Wiley College, Marshall, Texas. This article is a clear, factual, comparative report on the differences in the educational systems of Russia and the United States. Dr. Cole, a distinguished college president, recently returned from a two-month travel study-seminar in Great Britain and Eastern and Western Europe where he gathered first hand information for his informative analysis of the world's two great educational systems. In a nation which "controls" education almost from the cradle to the grave, are there advantages? Read SPECIAL REPORT— in the February Issue of TONE.

OPERATION CROSSROADS AFRICA

MISS Diane E. Nagle, of Lake Forest, Illinois, talks to Sierra Leonean, S. Fei-Cole, African leader of Crossroads project in Sierra Leone. Richard Young, 18, of Yakima, Wash., looks on.

OUT OF THE TURMOIL and conflict that has seized the African Continent in its surge for independence has come a new operation called "Crossroads – Africa."

Born in 1958, "Operation Crossroads – Africa," is an American experiment of youth-to-youth diplomacy, which quietly attempts to bridge the gap of misunderstandings and misconceptions of Africans and Americans.

It was to this Continent, which sorely needs roads and schoolhouses, doctors, and teachers, but most of all sincere friends to help its people leap across the ages, that more than 800 American college students applied in 1960 to fill the 170 vacancies to work in eight countries.

These carefully selected students from 100 American colleges and universities by-passed the huge metropolitan centers of African countries, spending most of their two months working with Africans in the villages and hamlets of this sprawling Continent.

For seven weeks, divided into 14 groups -- three in Nigeria, two in Ghana, two in Senegal and one each in Cameroun, Togoland, Dahomey, Liberia, Ivory Coast, Sierra Leone and Guinea -- Africans and Americans catalogued and built new libraries; built schools and village market stalls, a hostel, a doctor's residence and widened and cleared roads.

"Operation Crossroads–Africa" was conceived by the Rev. Dr. James H. Robinson, a Negro Presbyterian minister of the Church of the Master, New York City, and founder of the Morningside Heights Interracial Community Center.

One of a number of privately-financed voluntary student work projects abroad, Crossroads–Africa looks to the future and to the time when hundreds of American and African students can say "I have the very definite feeling that my contact with Africa (or America) is just beginning." ■

ALL hands work together to build a village school.

CROSSROAD STUDENTS take time out for chow.

PROFILE: Maxine Lowe

"SONG OF THE MIDWEST," an abstraction of a midwestern Illinois landscape as seen by youthful artist Maxine Lowe. The painting, was purchased last year by Governor Nelson Rockefeller after being viewed at the Nordles Gallery in New York City.

the girl who sold Rockefeller a painting

SOMEWHERE in one of the many homes and offices of New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller, there hangs a canvas in oil, an abstraction of a midwestern landscape called "Song of the Midwest." It is the work of brilliant young Chicago artist Maxine Lowe, who was as "surprised as anyone could be" when she received a letter while studying in France last summer from the Governor's secretary stating that he was interested in the painting.

The canvas was one in a series of 10 midwestern scenes which Miss Lowe completed shortly before leaving the U.S. for a three month study period in Aix-En-Provence, on the French Riveria, following her graduation from the Art Institute of Chicago. "Song of the Midwest" was one of two paintings submitted by Miss Lowe to the Nordles Art Gallery in New York for an exhibition by young American artists.

The successful young artist who says she began to paint seriously "only four years ago" is an avid reader, steeped in the novels of Marcel Proust, Balzac, Moss Hart and James Thurber.

A STUDIED painting of a beautiful woman attests to Miss Lowe's skill in the realm of Portrait Art

AT WORK in one of the many rooms she uses for a studio in a rambling house on Chicago's Southside, Maxine completes a huge abstraction, soon to be displayed in an exhibition.

Born in Chicago and one of six children, Miss Lowe is currently seeking a Fulbright scholarship for study in Italy, where she hopes to pursue her two specialities, abstract and portrait painting. When she returns to Europe, Miss Lowe undoubtedly will stop in France where two of her paintings are currently being sold in Marseilles by representatives of the International Galleries.

When asked what her most exciting experience was while on the French Riveria, she said, "I enjoyed very much seeing Picasso when he would come into Aix-En-Provence for tea and to talk with other artists and intellectuals."

"Did you talk with him?"

"No, I never talk to famous people," she laughingly replied.

"Dahling, please take my picture."

In a crowded dressing room, "my kitty and I."

"I SHOOT THE STARS!"

by Isaac Sutton

PHOTOGRAPHER IS FAVORITE OF 'SHOW BIZ' GREATS...

If my job isn't the best in the world, then I'd like to know whose is! By simply doing what I get paid for, I am able to take frequent excursions into the fabulous world of show business, exploring its backstages and dressing rooms, and stalking out its celebrated inhabitants.

As a staff photographer for three national magazines -- Ebony, Jet, and Tan -- the United States in general and show business in particular is my beat. In a way, this represents an extension of an earlier career. For six years I was an entertainer myself, traveling about the country with an ebonite dummy under the billing of "Sutton & Sammy."

It was a good life, but full of uncertainties and endless travel. Now, I am still able to move in the circle of old friends with whom I shared many a showbill, with just enough travel to keep life interesting, and the security of a weekly salary, come rain, shine or a poor week at the box office.

"Now listen yawl," says Sutton to Sammy.

"I really wasn't Nat's valet."

"Yes, Sammy, I couldn't have shot it better."

"Good gosh Dinah, I'm the photographer."

EVERYONE wants to know what it's like meeting and knowing so many people whose names are always in the news.

One of the most fascinating things about my job is really getting to know the big names of show business and comparing their true personalities with the impressions given the celebrity-conscious public. Some are just the way they seem, some are not.

Take Eartha Kitt, for example. On stage, she is a devastatingly sultry minx who generates tremendous excitement, especially among males. Off stage, without the sultry bit, she is still as exciting. Accused of being moody, and she is, Eartha stimulates strong emotions in those around her.

Lena Horne, gets my unqualified vote as the sweetest personality in show business, and also the most photogenic. It is almost impossible to take a bad picture of her. A woman with a genuine love for people, she has been known to prefer the company of a backstage doorman to that of a boisterous millionaire.

Lena's wonderful personality is matched on the male side by that of Nat "King" Cole, a wonderfully talented singer who can only be described offstage as a "gentleman's" gentleman. Still, Nat gives one the impression of being a worrier given to quiet moods; but his warm good manner never changes, no matter what may be going on inside.

Fellow whose inner feelings are reflected in his offstage personality -- and, infrequently, onstage -- is my best show business pal, Sammy Davis, Jr.

Whatever Sammy does makes news, and while he may seem to be just an irrepressible kid to some, he is tremendously intelligent, to which any radio, TV, or newspaper reporter will attest, and he is very outspoken on racial matters. Another of Sammy's qualities, not too easily found in show business, is his outstanding loyalty to friends.

AMONG the most controversial personalities on the stage today, is the queen of the blues, Dinah Washington -- she of the six husbands. Dinah is known to say what she thinks, choosing whatever words she feels to be most acutely descriptive.

But her explosive moods are usually "gone with the wind," and she emerges as a warm-hearted person who treats people as she wants to be treated.

IT'S learning things like these about celebrities that make my job a joy. But you don't get to make friends with the stars by simply bursting in with a press card and a camera. The best way is to be an honest, straight-forward fellow who is willing to show his subject courtesy and respect. After you are accepted as a friend, the job of taking pictures becomes as easy as squeezing your trigger finger.

"Satchmo is good on any keys."

"Sometimes Roy, you gotta read the fine print."

"Sing me a good ol' spiritual, Mahalia."

YOU NEVER HAVE TO COAX ANYONE to eat rolls fresh from the oven. No matter the time of day, or the occasion or lack of it, serve hot rolls and everyone reaches.. And that goes double for those with fruity fillings... such as these rolls bulging with rich prune filling in their middles.

SPICED PRUNE-FILLED ROLLS

...WARM AND FRESH FOR SUNDAY BRUNCH

ROLLS

1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/4 cup softened shortening or butter
1 package yeast, compressed or dry
1/4 cup lukewarm water
3 eggs, well beaten
4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2/3 cup lukewarm milk

Scald milk and cool to lukewarm; pour into bowl; stir in sugar, salt, nutmeg and lemon rind. Add softened shortening. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water, stir into milk mixture. Add well beaten eggs. Beat in flour in two additions to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead briefly. Place in greased bowl; cover with damp cloth and let rise until light, about 2 hours. Roll dough out ½-inch thick. Cut into several different shapes, if desired. Fill with Spiced Prune Filling and place on a greased baking sheet. Let rise until light, about 30 minutes. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 400 degrees, 12 to 15 minutes, or until lightly brown. Makes 2½ dozen rolls. Note: A yeast hot roll mix may be used, if you wish.

SPICED PRUNE FILLING

1 cup chopped cooked prunes
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon cloves

Combine ingredients.

HINTS

by Edith Redd

Usually the eyes make a face memorable, but in a fashion period of the head to toe look of sophistication it is more imperative than ever, that the eyes, beautifully groomed and most artfully made-up, be the focal point of the face.

Properly made-up eyes represent the difference between looking drab and looking alive and younger than your years. Faded brows above faded lashes, are fatal to facial attractiveness for the woman of any age. Poorly groomed brows with little stragglers marring a clean outline, make the most exquisitely made-up face look a little grimy. Eyes that are not given the illusion of better color, better size and better placement by the skillful use of shadows, liner and mascara are being cheated.

Ways to cure trouble getting both eyebrows

All of us are two-sided, there are no faces exactly the same on the right and left. In conception, we are formed in halves. This accounts for many facial irregularities. Although all of us would like to be in perfect physical proportion, facial irregularities can be very interesting. In make-up, if one brow is higher than the other, we don't try to change it; this irregularity often adds character to a face. Only when there is such a marked deviation as to result in distortion do we try to bring the two features into line. To increase or achieve needed balance in a face, minimize a bad feature and accentuate the good features.

Could you give me a good plan to follow to keep my skin conditioned? [illegible] Spring. Mrs.

Before you go to bed: (1) Steam your face for ten minutes with a hot cloth; (2) make lather with a good soap and rub into skin with your hands; (3) rinse with lukewarm water; (4) blot dry; (5) if your skin tends to be dry, use a moisturizing agent.

When you arise in the morning: (1) Clean face again--steaming is not necessary unless skin is oily; (2) apply moisturizing cream for undercoat of make-up; (3) apply make-up daily, even if you are doing nothing in particular. Good make-up is a protective covering against the elements and dirt in the air.

IF YOU HAVE A MAKE-UP PROBLEM, Miss Redd will be happy to help you. Send your question to the address below, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Problems of general interest will be answered in this column. Address all correspondence to: EDITH REDD, TONE Publications, Inc., 702 E. 63rd St., Chicago 37, Ill.

THE FACES OF ANN

in "caricatures" of fun

T IS NOT without reason that vivacious and versatile ANN HENRY has been called "The female Sammy Davis, Jr." Singing, dancing and mugging her way to stardom, this talented and ebullient entertainer holds an audience as few performers can.

A night with Ann would hardly be complete without her impersonation of famous personalities. Miss Henry calls her mimics "Caricatures." Regardless of the name, they would be impossible without her face.

—four new albums for '61—

"Make Everybody Happy" is the title of the MJT + 3 album recently released by Vee-Jay, and the title is appropriate. Jazz lovers will "flip" over this swinging offering and even those not generally included in the "jazz camp" will get a few kicks from the tongue-in-cheek approach of these talented young conservatives. The title song has all of the basic ingredients of a swinging time - - the walking bass and tempo, the "churchy" sound and a lot of musicianship. Another big plus on the album is the inventive approach given to "The Trolley Song." This often overplayed ditty takes on a new depth and meaning as the MJT + 3 puts in their personalized touch.

The Blues, as it was meant to be performed, is the only claim to fame made by Mc Kinley Morganfield... but it is claim enough. Mc Kinley, better known as Muddy Waters, is the man to whom the blues singers turn to for inspiration. His force, unvarnished feeling, and driving beat have opened the eyes of many who heretofore did not want to accept the blues heritage. This same power is evident in his new album "Muddy Waters at Newport," which has been brought to the public with the blessings of the Chess Record Company. It is an on-the-spot recording of the last performance at the ill-fated Newport Jazz Festival of '60, where riot took over and music seemed secondary. The recording has one unusual feature which will probably go far in making it a collector's item. The last tune, "Goodbye Newport Blues" was composed on the spot by Langston Hughes, famed Bard of Harlem, and set to music by Muddy as you listen in.

The Mercury people are starting off the new year with a new approach to percussion. David Carroll's Orchestra, a long-time favorite with hi-fi and stereo fans, has assembled an album full of imaginative sounds inspired by the Middle East. There is a universal appeal as Carroll uses musical imagery to depict the splendor and sensuality of the Arabian Nights. There are hi-fi antics aplenty in such songs as "Caravan," "Harem Dance," and "Scheherazade Themes." This album brings the music of the great composers into the realm of the popular music listener.

"An Evening with Mike Nichols and Elaine May" can be a thoroughly enjoyable time... as you will discover after listening to their album with the above title. This Mercury recording seems to be designed for that gathering of friends around the coffee table on a wintry evening when conversation has gotten a little stale and the old familiar problem of "what to do" crops up. Here are four comic sketches, tastefully geared for an adult audience and full of commentary on our troubled times, where little things become big problems and big things are forgotten. The keen wit of this lively young couple is a refreshing treat.

Women Plan Picket Line to Save Centers

By Grace E. Simons

"Picket the Board of Education! Picket them on Thursday! Let them see how we feel! Let them know we mean business! Our Child Care Centers!

"Some of you may be afraid? What have you got to fear? You'll lose your rights?

No Rights

"We don't have any rights. When we were born with a black skin we were born without rights. The only way we'll get our rights is by banding together. The more we band together — the more they'll listen to us!"

All those who wish to demonstrate against the closing of Child Care Centers are asked to be at the Board of Education Administration Building, 450 N. Grand, Thursday, (today) not later than 3:30 p.m.

Mrs. Anthony Gill, the mother of two children who attend the 75th street Extended Day Care Center, was speaking to the women—and a few men—who crowded into her home at 230 W. 75th street, Tuesday night.

Jammed In!

They were jammed in, packed close. Others filled the doorway, stretched out onto the sidewalk. There were at least 150 women and men and a score or so of children.

All had come in response to appeals sent over the weekend to organize a protest demonstration against the closing of 13 Child Care Centers in the Negro and Mexican-American, heavily populated central area of the city. None are being closed elsewhere.

"What can we do? Tell us what we should do!" called out someone in the crowd.

Let 'Em Eat Cake

(AN EDITORIAL)

There's an old story with a pointed moral about a queen of France who was asked what she proposed to do for her subjects who were crying for bread. "Let 'em eat cake," she quipped.

That spirit seems to have seized some members of the Los Angeles Board of Education who are hell bent to withdraw classrooms in 13 schools presently used for day care centers.

Closing of the classrooms in the schools—all located in districts heavily populated by Negroes and Mexicans—would play havoc with the lives of more than 700 small children of working mothers.

Board members who favor the closing of the classrooms talk vaguely about hopes, or possibilities, or probabilities, that other facilities can be found. They don't know when, or where, or how.

That's an irresponsible attitude, a let-'em-eat-cake solution.

No day care center should be denied use of public schools in low income neighborhoods until substitute facilities are secured.

The Board should confer with working mothers who are affected, and with city, county and state officials and work out some plan for relocation of the centers. Pending such an arrangement it ought to table the closing plan.

Students Launch New Protest Wave

A new wave of student demonstrations has broken out in the South this month on the first anniversary of the sit-ins last February.

The protests were intensified on Lincoln's birthday, Sunday, with a rash of mass actions, especially in Texas. Austin was the site of the largest demonstration when hundreds of University of Texas students staged a stand-in against movie theater segregation.

In Dallas about 100 engaged in similar action at the Majestic Theater where "The Misfits" was showing. In San Antonio a smaller group staged a stand-in at that city's Majestic Theater, its largest.

The Texas U. students at Austin were joined by students of Houston-Tillotson College, Concordia Lutheran College and St. Edwards University. The line was interracial.

On the East Coast, a week earlier some 300 visitors, Negro and white, in a 60-car caravan and a bus visited the nine sitdowners serving a 30-day sentence on the chain gang. They were arrested for sitting-in at the McCrory lunch counter in Rock Hill, S.C. Visitors were allowed to talk to the prisoners in groups of 10 for five minutes each.

The nine had chosen to work out their sentences rather than pay fines of $100 each. Their motto was "Jail, no Bail."

In Atlanta, 31 students were jailed, and another six in Lynchburg, Va.

Student Anger Hits Belgium, U. S.

U. N. in Bitter Fight over Russia's 'No Confidence'

The assassination of Patrice Lumumba, Africa's new martyr, sparked mass demonstrations of African, Asian and European youth in India, Pakistan and Ceylon, as well as in Moscow and Belgrade.

The anger was directed principally at Belgium, but a good portion of it spilled over onto the United States and the United Nations, with France also coming in for its share.

STRONG IN DEATH — Patrice Lumumba, whose body was reported Monday as being buried in an unmarked grave, is still powerful in death. World-wide protests were sparked by news of his assassination.

Belgium Hit

The hot flare-ups were also reflected in the United Nations which resumed debate on the Congo Wednesday morning.

Belgian embassies were attacked in Belgrade, Moscow, Cairo, Warsaw and New Delhi, while in Ceylon students demonstrated at the home of the Belgian charge d'affire.

There were 30,000 in the Belgrade demonstrations that stormed and sacked the Belgian embassy, and another 6000 in Moscow.

In both New Delhi and Lahore, Pakistan, the United States was harshly criticized.

At New Delhi, African students went first to the Belgian embassy which they broke into, smashed a picture of King Boudouin, hurled tomatoes and scattered official files. Then they marched immediately to the American embassy and forced it to close its doors until police came.

They carried signs proclaiming, "Down with Yankee Imperialism!"

In Lahore students "strong-

Lumumba's Death Story Called Hoax

Patrice Lumumba, premier of the Congo, has been murdered, a martyr in the Congolese fight for independence.

The reports released so far point strongly to his jailers as his killers.

Lumumba's body and those of two of his followers were reported "found" Monday some 350 miles from the Elisabethville jail to which they had been taken beaten and bloodied on Jan. 17.

Improbable Tale

Shortly after the bodies of the three were "discovered" they were "buried" at a place the Katanga authorities "do not wish to reveal."

There are few in the Congo or elsewhere who believe the improbable tale of Lumumba's "escape" and his subsequent killing by hostile tribesmen.

A report that appeared Sunday in the Durban, South Africa "Tribune" said that in Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, it was widely believed that Lumumba and his two supporters were killed the same night they arrived.

Said Shot

It was stated they had been shot after the sickening beating they received when they were dragged from the plane, trussed up and bound together.

Ironically, the United Nations' troops that Lumumba had invited into the Congo to help maintain order had watched as Belgian officers had them beaten unmercifully with rifle butts, and made no move to intervene.

The "Tribune" story, date-

DIES IN AFRICA — Velma Middleton, top singer who has sparked Louis Armstrong's band for 15 years, died in Africa Friday. (Story Page 3.)

HEAD INJURY — Alphonse M. "Al" Mills died Sunday following head injuries received while he was in jail.

Al Mills Dies; Beating Report Said Untrue

Alphonse M. "Al" Mills, 56, of 1200 State street, who had his fair share of tiffs with the law, died in General Hospital Sunday from a coronary thrombosis.

He had been transferred to the hospital from the Main Jail, where he was serving a 30-day sentence, on Friday.

Early reports circulating immediately after his death was known claimed he had been beaten on the head by fellow prisoners.

The coroner, however, did not substantiate that charge. According to his report, one of the officers found Mills lying on the floor in one of the tanks, in a dazed condition. Fellow prisoners said he

Gene Hawkins Denies Guilt; Trial Date Set

Eugene Hawkins, notorious "lover" who has been arrested on more occasions than anyone can remember, must stand trial for his latest escapades involving assorted counts of assault, robbery and conspiracy.

When his case came up for arraignment Tuesday in Dept. 100, he pleaded "not guilty," though he had been definitely identified by Mrs. Aileen Eaton, wife of Olympic boxing promoter Cal Eaton, as her attacker. He has also been identified by others.

Date for the trial has been set for April 5 in Dept. 111.

Wrong Woman Hit by Doctor, Asks $50,000

A look-alike hair-do was the apparent reason why attractive former model Noraniece Bacon was pelted with a haymaker to the back of her head and collided with a bar stool on her way to meet the floor in a cocktail lounge last Wednesday night.

It was also apparently the reason why prominent Dr. James Swan was being sued this week for the sum of $50,000 punitive damages, $15,000 general damages and an assortment of other sums attendant upon the comely young woman's mental and physical distress.

Damage Suit Filed

At any rate a damage suit naming Dr. Swan, who shares a well-appointed office in the Julian Ross Medical Building with Dr. LeRoy Weekes, was filed Wednesday on Mrs. Bacon's behalf by Atty. Stanley Malone.

The strange part of the case is that Dr. Swan apparently didn't have any intention of hitting Mrs. Bacon. She was sitting next to another woman who had a hair-do similar to her's and whose contour, at least from behind, resembled that of Mrs. Bacon.

According to a complaint filed with the police by Mrs. Bacon, Dr. Swan had had an argument with this second woman, who was not identified, and was in back of the two of them when he grabbed Mrs. Bacon by mistake.

Charges Assult

A hearing on Mrs. Bacon's complaint will be held in the City Attorney's office, Room 40-W, at 3 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 20.

The suit filed by Atty. Malone charges assault and alleges that Dr. Swan struck Mrs. Bacon, an employe of the Pacific Telephone Co. and the mother of one child, in the back of her head with his fist, knocking her from her seat at the Memory Lane cocktail lounge, 2323 Santa Barbara avenue, shortly before midnight last Wednesday.

The suit alleges further that as she fell to the floor Mrs. Bacon struck her head on a bar stool and that she suffered concussions and bruises as a result of the blow and the fall.

Dr. Swan, one of the most prominent doctors in the local community, is a specialist in obstretics and gynecology. He is a member of the leading medical societies, locally and nationally, including the Drew Medical Society and the Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Ass'n.

—Punched—

KNOCKED DOWN — Mrs. Noraniece Bacon, Pacific Telephone employee, was grabbed from behind and knocked to the floor at a cocktail lounge. She's suing.

SUED — Dr. James Swan is being sued for $50,000 for unprovoked attack at Memory Lane.

Catch Suspect In Car of Slain Doris Willis

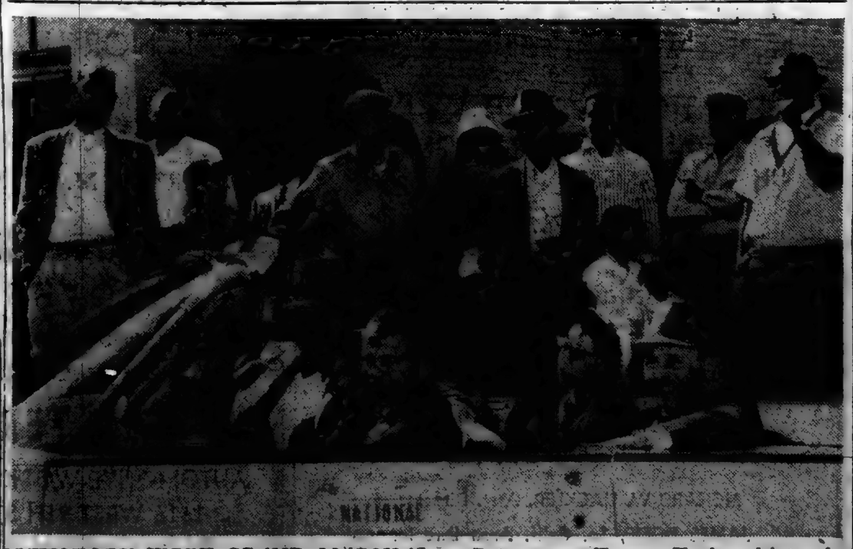
Wilshire police Tuesday set legal wheels in motion to extradite from Texas the suspected strangler of attractive and popular Doris Willis, Thriftimart checker who was found dead in her apartment last week, a rope twisted around her neck.

The man, Robert Rudolph Willis, 28, was picked up by an alert officer in Houston Sunday afternoon as he was driving Miss Willis' cream-colored Thunderbird, which had been missing since the night of her death.

Waives Extradition

Police had broadcast an all-points description of the car and the license number. The officer, Donald McMannes, spotted the California license and recognized the serial sequence.

Willis said he was the slain woman's husband, but police here said they believe he is her cousin. Her husband, they advised, had been checked out immediately following the murder and had not been held.



It was understood here that Willis had waived extradition, which means that he apparently does not intend fighting being brought back to Los Angeles for questioning.

Knew Attacker

Miss Willis was strangled after she returned to her home, 5149 W. 21st street, Feb. 1, following a bowling tournament with her fellow-workers at Studio Bowling Alley.

The house had not been ransacked and there was no evidence of a fight, from which police deduced that Miss Willis undoubtedly knew her attacker and had admitted him to her apartment.

Her 1960 sports car and her television set were missing. Some of her other valuables had not been touched.

R. C. Weaver Is Sworn In as Housing Chief

WASHINGTON—Robert C. Weaver was sworn in Saturday as administrator of the nation's Housing and Home Finance Agency.

He thus becomes the first Negro to hold a post this high in the executive branch of the government.

Immediately after the ceremony that took place in the White House, Pres. Kennedy stated:

"I have the highest confidence in Mr. Weaver's loyalty, integrity and ability."

Over Southern opposition, the Senate Thursday night in a voice vote approved the appointment.

During the debate, Sen. Eastland (D. Miss.) shouted that he was opposed to the appointment because the Northerners are trying to impose integrated housing "on the rest of the United States."

"That's what this is all about and you know it," he roared at Senate Democratic Leader Humphrey of Minnesota.

After making footling charges, the Senate Banking Committee earlier had approved Weaver's selection 11-4.

Cafe Man Found Shot At Home

While watching television early Saturday morning, James C. Wellington, of 236 W. 42nd street, told police he heard James C. Stevens, 55, of 232 W. 42nd street, cafe owner, shout, "Hey!"

Hearing a scuffle Wellington went to his front door in time to see a man about 25 or 30 years old, around five foot ten or eleven inches tall and weighing about 165 pounds. The suspect, wearing a red cap and dark trousers, was running from Stevens' front door to a 1959 Chevrolet Impalla, parked at the curb.

He entered the passenger side of the car and was driven away by another suspect east on 42nd street toward Main street.

After the car drove away, Wellington went to Stevens' house and found him lying on his bedroom floor in a small pool of blood from a gunshot would in the neck. He appeared to be dead.

Lumumba Buried In Martyr's Grave

lined Elisabethville the day before Lumumba's body was "found," said that the "hunt for Congo Ex-Premier Lumumba is officially still on, with spotter planes and helicopters scouring the area and roadblocks flung across all exit routes.

Everyone Smiles

"But here in Elisabethville everyone smiles knowingly when the escape is mentioned. The most favored story says Lumumba, battered and bedraggled, was shot the same night he was flown blindfolded into Elisabethville.

"The elaborate farce of his imprisonment was maintained, the knowing ones say, so his body could 'be found officially' just a few hours before the United Nations meets in New York to vote on whether all political prisoners in the Congo should be freed.

"President Moise Tshombe (Katanga head and arch enemy of Lumumba), so the story goes, will refuse to say where Lumumba's body was found for fear of laying the tribesmen in that area open to reprisals later from pro-Lumumbists. All Tshombe will show, sources here maintain, will be photographs of the dead Lumumba and his co-prisoners. It is hinted that the bodies will bear marks of burning, but will nevertheless be recognizable."

Verify Story

Reports of the "discovery" of the bodies so far carry out the "advance" story that appeared in the Durban "Tribune."

The two men murdered along with Lumumba were Maurice Mpolo, minister of youth and sports in Lumumba's government, and Joseph Okito, former deputy Senate speaker.

At the Security Council meeting of the United Nations in New York, when the death of the Congolese hero was announced, the Soviet Union blamed Belgium and its allies, Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and the United Nations Congo command for his murder.

Kennedy Shocked

The Security Council then adjourned until Wednesday.

In Washington, Pres. Kennedy expressed "shock" over news of the slaying. U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson urged all sides to seek "reconciliation, not revenge."

Hammarskjold made public a report from the Congo that a "serious" civil war situation has already developed in Katanga Province.

Rajeshwar Dayal, U. N. Congo representative, reported that Katanga authorities have a military force estimated at 5000 men "which is well equipped and strengthened by non-Congolese officers and sub-officers now estimated to be some 400 strong." The "non-Congolese officers" in Katanga Province are Belgians.

Same Policy

Earlier the United States had been reported as reappraising its Congo policy, and calling for the release of all political prisoners. It still, however, was said to favor a weak central government with the various provinces having more or less autonomous powers.

This is the same proposal that has been advocated ever since "Independence" last July 1 by Belgium, its puppet Tshombe in Katanga Province, "strongman" Col. Joseph Mobutu who had Lumumba arrested, and Pres. Joseph Kasavubu.

Lumumba had stood for a strong central government that could build an independent Congo free of imperialist domination.

Eleanor Roosevelt Reports on Cuba

In one of her recent articles in the "New York Post," Eleanor Roosevelt had the following comments to make on Cuba:

I am part-way through a most controversial but interesting book called "Listen, Yankee," by C. Wright Mills. In the form of letters, Mills relates what was said to him during long interviews with innumerable people in Cuba who were part of the revolution under Castro.

Up to this point, while I would disagree with certain of the things these people have told Mills, a preponderance of their complaints against us seems valid to me. And though we may not like these expressions from the Cuban revolutionaries, I think we should read them with care, because they affect our whole Latin American policy.

For a long time now it has seemed to me that our real trouble in Latin America has been that we have never taken enough time to sit down and seriously consider the economic problems of the people.

If a country could grow coffee easily, we never protested if it became a one-crop country. We never demanded of our business leaders — who went down to make money in these developing areas of the world—that they not only make money but consider their responsibilities as ambassadors for democracy as opposed to communism, and that they take with them into these countries the ideas and standards found compatible to decency of life in our own country.

By this I do not mean that overnight the same wages and working conditions should be applied to every country in the world. But I do mean that our businesses throughout the world should be known as gradually raising the living standards of the people. And wherever poverty and disease are prevalent among the mass of people, when we move in we should feel the obligation to point the way to democracy through creating better conditions for the people.

In the letters in Mills' book, the Cubans tell how at the present time they maintain an army, but it is an army that also works. It is building cooperatives. It is slowly trying to change the rural hovels into decent housing.

What is being built in Cuba is, of course, a socialist economy. But this may be a necessity. In many areas of the world it is a necessity, and more than likely it must be a necessity in many South and Central American countries. Communal living does not necessarily mean an acceptance of the Sovie. Communist doctrine.

We had better begin, I think, to study what is being done in Cuba and to try to allay the Cuban fear that we have any intention of fomenting a counter-revolution there or of trying to conquer them and make them a part of the U.S.

Without question, the Cuban government has not been very wise in many of the things it has been saying about the U.S. If you read the letters in Mills' book carefully, however, I think you will realize that in spite of the fact that you want to deny many of their statements and explain many of our acts in a different way from the way they do, still you will have to acknowledge that there is some reason why they believe as they do. And you would perhaps have to agree that it would be well for us to think with a little humility about our own mistakes in understanding, in exploitation and in sheer laziness.

We accepted for as long as we possibly could that which gave us peace and quiet and nothing to think about. Only when the situation got out of hand did we turn our minds to problems that should have been our concern for a long time.

Housebreaker Shot by Actress

William B. Simmons, 34, of 2624½ Van Buren place, was booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon last Saturday night after he was taken to the prison ward at General Hospital suffering from a bullet wound.

Simmons had forced his way into the home of television actress Amanda Randolph of 2624 Van Buren place and stabbed her son, Joseph L. Oliver, 29, in the left shoulder when he came to his mother's aid. Mrs. Randolph warded off her would-be attacker, when she shot him in the left shoulder with a .22 caliber revolver.

She told University police officers she only intended to frighten Simmons away when she fired the shots.

Judge Rules Disturbing Checker Game No Crime

BROWNSVILLE, Tenn. — A Circuit Court Judge here Friday found that disturbing a checker player's trend of thought is not quite enough of an offense to warrant an arrest and thereupon dismissed charges against Phillip H. Savage, NAACP field secretary.

The case marked the first time Negro attorneys have argued a case in the local courthouse. Savage was represented by Attys. Robert L. Carter and H. T. Lockard.

Savage was arrested when he was questioning Negroes who were lined up to register in the courthouse hallway.

The witness said he was playing checkers in a special room in the courthouse for Brownsville citizens — white, that is — and Savage's questioning caused him trouble in his checker game. Enraged, he called tne law.

Judge John F. Kizer dismissed the breach of peace citation. He said there wasn't enough evidence to warrant a conviction.

'Vanity Press' Bilks Authors, Says 'Esquire'

NEW YORK—Only a Walter Mitty would dream of piloting a jet plane or going into an operating room to perform a lobotomy without proper training and experience, yet each year hundreds of non-professional writers set out, Mitty-like, to author books.

Only in rare instances can they crash into the trade publishing houses; at least twelve books are turned down for each one accepted. But there is an alternative for the Walter Mitty writer.

For a Price

Lurking in the shadows, ready to restore the bruised ego of the rejected author — for a price—is an institution known in the publishing trade as the "vanity press." The February issue of Esquire Magazine carries an expose of the dozen or so fiercely competitive firms which compose this preposterous group.

The vanity firms conduct a lucrative assembly-line business with would-be authors on a you-pay-we-publish basis collecting from $1,000 to $15,000 per book.

With very little trouble the most inept scribbler can find someone in the trade who will take his money and, deadpan, go through the motions of publishing the shoddiest material as if it were of a high literary order.

But according to the Esquire article, the day of reckoning comes after publication. No serious attempt is made to sell the book — indeed, the vanity publishers have no real means to do so, since the rest of the trade and all the marketing outlets are hostile to them.

At the end of it all, the Walter Mitty writer is lucky to get back even a $100 return on his multi-thousand-dollar investment.

Save Our Centers, Women Tell Board

Board meeting starts at 4 o'clock!"

"Come on out and speak to us!" yelled someone from outside the house. "We can't hear."

Another mother was speaking inside the house.

"Write to the governor? Of course, write to the governor. And to the mayor, and your supervisor and your councilmen."

Write to President

"Should we write to the President?" asked another.

"Yes," was the answer. "Write him, too, write him and tell him it's only the Negro and Mexican centers they're closing."

Mrs. Gill, who had opened her house to organize the mothers, was one of those who had attended the Board of Education meeting last Thursday when the report on closing the centers was presented by Robert J. Purdy, associate superintendent in charge of the city's elementary schools.

Mrs. Gill was one of three who were given an opportunity to speak to the committee during the seven minutes allowed members of the public. The others were Mrs. Helen Garrott, who spoke as a member of the community concerned about the closing of the centers, and Joe Armijo, who works at the 77th Street Center.

Oppose Closing

All three spoke earnestly against the closings. Mrs. Gill pointed out that if the centers are closed, the mothers will have to choose between letting their children roam the streets and giving up their jobs. If they give up their jobs, they will have to go on relief, she said, and the scant savings made by the school board on the centers will be greatly exceeded by the money spent by the county on relief.

The Board of Education meeting was chilly. It lasted just under an hour.

Dr. Ralph Richardson was the only Board member who gave observers the impression he opposes the closing of the centers. He said he hates to see the issue decided by balancing children against children.

Mrs. Georgiana Hardy mentioned that the County Welfare Council was considering alternate proposals for housing the Child Care Centers.

Will Vote to Close

She explained later to the Eagle, however, that she will vote for the motion to close the 13 centers now under discussion — at 75th Street, 52nd Street, 6th Avenue, Main Street, 28th Street, Lillian Street, Menlo, First Street and Wadsworth Avenue.

She explained that she's very concerned about those who will be adversely affected by the closings and that "something must be done for them—but something must be done for education, too." She stressed the need for ending half-day sessions.

Six members of the State Assembly sent a telegram asking that they be heard before adverse action is taken—Gus Hawkins, Edward Elliott, George Brown, Vernon Kilpatrick, George Wilson and Don Allen.

Takes Too Long

Superintendent Ellis A. Jarvis said he would welcome such consultation but that trying to arrange such a meeting would drag out the proceedings.

Virgil Volla, associate superintendent in charge of School House Planning and Construction, said that only one new school is being built this year in the central area. That is the Parmalee School, 1338 E. 76th place. He did not say why space could not be made avaliable there for a Child Care Center. About 10 schools are being built elsewhere.

He said also that of the 3100 pupils now on half sessions in the 9 schools only 540 would be placed on full schedules if the 13 centers are closed.

To Vote Soon

At two of the schools closing of the centers is not required for ending half-day sessions since all childen now attend full time. These are 28th Street School and First Street School. Motivation for eliminating the center at the latter school is to provide space for a playground.

At another, Main Street, Purdy said that elimination of the Child Care Center would make it possible to save the cost of two portables. Apparently there is sufficient room for the portables.

No vote was taken on the proposal. Superintendent Jarvis was to present a motion on the proposal to the Board, probably within a week or two.

Thief Ransacks Church, Trapped by Silent Alarm

Police answering a silent burglar alarm at Phillips Temple CME church shortly after midnight Friday, caught Hollis Williams, 42, of 971 E. 43rd street, hiding behind a door leading from the altar.

After gaining entry by forcing a window on the east side of the church, possibly with a screwdriver, the suspect removed locks from several of the inside doors to gain entrance into the upstairs office. The entire building had been ransacked.

A war bond was found in Williams' possession at the time of his arrest. The bond had been sold to Carl Reeves and/or Mrs. Ida Mae Reeves, of 1935½ Hooper. After checking, police found this bond was possibly stolen last Oct. 10 during a burglary committed at 14th and Central avenue or a robbery which occurred at 39th and Grand avenue on June 25 of last year.

Williams told officers that he had not worked in over three years and that his only weapon was a screwdriver.

Satchmo's Singer Dies In Africa

It's the final press notice and the last curtain for vibrant Velma Middleton, who led them all, the portly lady of song who for 15 years has been the femme thrush with trumpeter Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong's All Stars.

Velma, who despite her hefty size had more agility than her willowy competitors, succombed a month after collapsing while on a world tour with the famed Satchmo.

The 45-year-old songstress died in a hospital in Freetown, Sierra Leone. The U.S. consul general there cabled the news of her death to her parents in Holdenville, Oklahoma.

The seasoned trouper had been in show business since her early teens. In the world of actors she was known as a down to earth, unspoiled performer who had a built-in sense of humor and a kind word for everyone.

Her bouncy, effervescent song styling has endeared her to a multitude of fans who were ecstatic when she and "Pop" paired off on such tunes as "Baby, It's Cold Outside."

Unionist Speaks At Breakfast Club

By C. Marie Hughes

The Valentine theme was carried out last Sunday at the Clark Hotel when the Women's Sunday Morning Breakfast Club members, friends and special guests filled the Turquoise Room for the Club's regular monthly meeting.

Among the distinguished guests at the platform table were Mrs. Mary Tinglof, member of the Board of Education, George Holbert and Eilene Hernandez, guest speaker.

Mrs. Hernandez, educational director of the International Ladies Garments Workers Union, AFL-CIO, chose as her subject, "Brotherhood and the Negro," an opportune topic commemorating National Negro History Week and Brotherhood Week, which begins Sunday, Feb. 19.

Solve Problems

She told the interested audience of the intricate part Negroes played in building the economy and industry of the United States, and how they have learned to take their problems in their own hands and solve them.

Through the sale of tickets for an ivory necklace from Africa, presented to the club by Libby Clark, public relations consultant, the club will be able to make the final payment on its public address system.

Sweetheart

George Holbert, of Jet Magazine's Community Relations Department, proclaimed Mrs. Theresa Lindsay, club president, "Sweetheart of the Year," with the "Orchid of the Month" going to Essie Ecter.

A gratifying highlight of the meeting was the letter read by Mrs. Lindsay from Miss Joan Watkins. She is the student who appealed to the club for funds to further her education as an exchange student from Whittier College to Fisk Universiay. She is now living on the campus in Nashville and attending classes daily at the school of her choice.

Roosevelt High To Offer Adult Printing Class

Roosevelt Adult School, 450 S. Fickett street, will open a printing class for adults during the Spring semester, according to G. Leon Gardner, principal.

This limited enrollment class will meet each Thursday evening from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. under the direction of Al Perez, printing instructor and journeyman printer of wide experience.

Window Shattered, White Texan Held

After numerous threats, which were reported to police at Wilshire police station, a rock was thrown through the window of Ruth E. Stratchborneo's home, owner of Tides Record Co., 2146 Westview, Thursday around 5 a.m.

A six or eight inch rock shattered a 12'x10' picture window in the living room.

Mrs. Stratchborneo implicated Larry Bright, a white Texan, who earlier had asked her to release him from his contract on her label, but she had refused.

Recognizing his car after he and three others, all white, awakened her when they drove into her driveway Thursday, she called police. When they came, she accused Bright.

The date has been set for a hearing on the charge on Feb. 16, at 9 a.m., in the City Attorney's office.

Bunche to be Ambassador?

Pres. Kennedy is considering appointing more Negroes to important positions in the administration, according to a report in the Feb. 20 issue of Newsweek.

Among those who have reportedly been discussed are:

Dr. Benjamin Mays, president of Atlanta's Morehouse College, as an ambassador — possibly to Israel.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, United Nations Under Secretary for Political Affairs, as an ambassador—possibly to Italy.

Mrs. Ethel Payne of the AFL-CIO Political Action Committee as assistant director of the Women's Bureau in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

WHAT'S DOING

If you should phone Paris, London, or elsewhere in Western Europe in the next two or three years, there's a good chance your call might go by way of a satellite. That's how fast things are happening in Bell System experiments with communication satellites.

A network of 50 satellites might someday bring you live TV from anywhere on earth as well as carry phone calls.

Our engineers hope to have the first of these satellites in experimental use before the end of the year.

The skills and knowledge called for in this pioneer activity also provide you with the finest telephone service in the world.

I'll bet there's not a housewife anywhere who sometime or other hasn't found she lacked an ingredient for a recipe she was preparing. Or, for that matter, I wonder how many husbands have the right size washer on hand when they try to fix a leaky faucet.

The men who install telephones avoid situations like these by carrying a full assortment of parts and tools right with them. Their trucks are really tool chests on wheels, stocked with some 400 different items. They're prepared not only for everyday jobs, but for most "unexpected developments" as well.

A CALL TO YOUTH

Are you associated with a youth group such as, The Boy Scouts, Girl Scout, etc.?

Pacific Telephone will be happy to provide an interesting tour for your group through one of our central office buildings. Your guide will explain our telephone business office operations, our order procedures and other operations. You'll be conducted on a tour through our plant service and afforded an opportunity to see how your telephone operates the switching equipment as you dial a call. This is an educational and interesting tour for youngsters and adults alike.

If you'd like to arrange for such a visit or get further information, just call or visit your local telephone business office at 3233 W. Vernon Avenue.

Thief Ransacks Church, Trapped by Silent Alarm

Police answering a silent burglar alarm at Phillips Temple CME church shortly after midnight Friday, caught Hollis Williams, 42, of 971 E. 43rd street, hiding behind a door leading from the altar.

After gaining entry by forcing a window on the east side of the church, possibly with a screwdriver, the suspect removed locks from several of the inside doors to gain entrance into the upstairs office. The entire building had been ransacked.

A war bond was found in Williams' possession at the time of his arrest. The bond had been sold to Carl Reeves and/or Mrs. Ida Mae Reeves, of 1935½ Hooper. After checking, police found this bond was possibly stolen last Oct. 10 during a burglary committed at 14th and Central avenue or a robbery which occurred at 39th and Grand avenue on June 25 of last year.

Williams told officers that he had not worked in over three years and that his only weapon was a screwdriver.

Satchmo's Singer Dies In Africa

It's the final press notice and the last curtain for vibrant Velma Middleton, who led them all, the portly lady of song who for 15 years has been the femme thrush with trumpeter Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong's All Stars.

Velma, who despite her hefty size had more agility than her willowy competitors, succombed a month after collapsing while on a world tour with the famed Satchmo.

The 45-year-old songstress died in a hospital in Freetown, Sierra Leone. The U.S. consul general there cabled the news of her death to her parents in Holdenville, Oklahoma.

The seasoned trouper had been in show business since her early teens. In the world of actors she was known as a down to earth, unspoiled performer who had a built-in sense of humor and a kind word for everyone.

Her bouncy, effervescent song styling has endeared her to a multitude of fans who were ecstatic when she and "Pop" paired off on such tunes as "Baby, It's Cold Outside."

Save Our Centers, Women Tell Board

Board meeting starts at 4 o'clock!"

"Come on out and speak to us!" yelled someone from outside the house. "We can't hear."

Another mother was speaking inside the house.

"Write to the governor? Of course, write to the governor. And to the mayor, and your supervisor and your councilmen."

Write to President

"Should we write to the President?" asked another.

"Yes," was the answer. "Write him, too, write him and tell him it's only the Negro and Mexican centers they're closing."

Mrs. Gill, who had opened her house to organize the mothers, was one of those who had attended the Board of Education meeting last Thursday when the report on closing the centers was presented by Robert J. Purdy, associate superintendent in charge of the city's elementary schools.

Mrs. Gill was one of three who were given an opportunity to speak to the committee during the seven minutes allowed members of the public. The others were Mrs. Helen Garrott, who spoke as a member of the community concerned about the closing of the centers, and Joe Armijo, who works at the 77th Street Center.

Oppose Closing

All three spoke earnestly against the closings. Mrs. Gill pointed out that if the centers are closed, the mothers will have to choose between letting their children roam the streets and giving up their jobs. If they give up their jobs, they will have to go on relief, she said, and the scant savings made by the school board on the centers will be greatly exceeded by the money spent by the county on relief.

The Board of Education meeting was chilly. It lasted just under an hour.

Dr. Ralph Richardson was the only Board member who gave observers the impression he opposes the closing of the centers. He said he hates to see the issue decided by balancing children against children.

Mrs. Georgiana Hardy mentioned that the County Welfare Council was considering alternate proposals for housing the Child Care Centers.

Will Vote to Close

She explained later to the Eagle, however, that she will vote for the motion to close the 13 centers now under discussion — at 75th Street, 52nd Street, 6th Avenue, Main Street, 28th Street, Lillian Street, Menlo, First Street and Wadsworth Avenue.

She explained that she's very concerned about those who will be adversely affected by the closings and that "something must be done for them—but something must be done for education, too." She stressed the need for ending half-day sessions.

Six members of the State Assembly sent a telegram asking that they be heard before adverse action is taken—Gus Hawkins, Edward Elliott, George Brown, Vernon Kilpatrick, George Wilson and Don Allen.

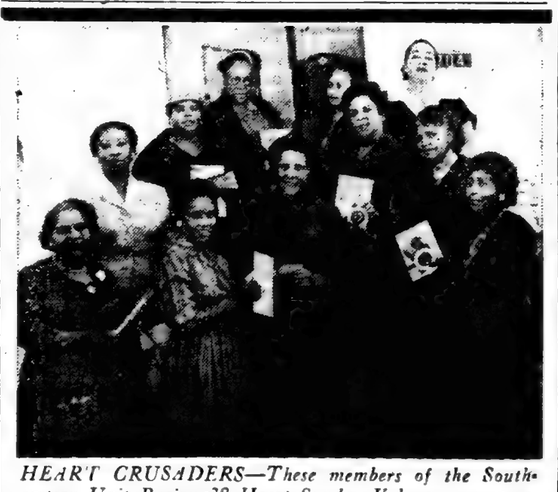
Takes Too Long

Superintendent Ellis A. Jarvis said he would welcome such consultation but that trying to arrange such a meeting would drag out the proceedings.

Virgil Volla, associate superintendent in charge of School House Planning and Construction, said that only one new school is being built this year in the central area. That is the Parmalee School, 1338 E. 76th place. He did not say why space could not be made avaliable there for a Child Care Center. About 10 schools are being built elsewhere.

He said also that of the 3100 pupils now on half sessions in the 9 schools only 540 would be placed on full schedules if the 13 centers are closed.

To Vote Soon



At two of the schools closing of the centers is not required for ending half-day sessions since all childen now attend full time. These are 28th Street School and First Street School. Motivation for eliminating the center at the latter school is to provide space for a playground.

At another, Main Street, Purdy said that elimination of the Child Care Center would make it possible to save the cost of two portables. Apparently there is sufficient room for the portables.

No vote was taken on the proposal. Superintendent Jarvis was to present a motion on the proposal to the Board, probably within a week or two.

Nominations Being Accepted

The Negro American Labor Council will hold a meeting to nominate officers Saturday afternoon, Feb. 25, at 1:30 p.m., at the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters' headquarters, 4006½ S. Central avenue.

Kennedy Must Choose

The skirmish over the confirmation of Robert C. Weaver as housing administrator was the beginning of a political war that is going to plague the administration on the civil rights issue.

Southern senators tried to mask their opposition to Weaver with the charge that he had ties with leftist groups two decades ago but the hearings wound up with his inquisitors badgering the appointee about his views on integrated housing and his connections with the NAACP.

Weaver sidestepped the integration issue with the rather curious statement that he did not think that as housing administrator he could require nondiscriminatory pledges or covenants by builders or developers or that "I should do so if I could." He did insist that all governmentally assisted housing should be open to all prospective purchasers or renters.

That statement passes the buck right back to the president who is now faced with the problem of redeeming the Democratic party platform pledge to abolish discrimination in publicly assisted housing and of implementing his own campaign assertion that such discrimination can be ended by a "stroke of the pen."

Since his housing administrator now professes himself unable, and unwilling, even if able, to use that pen stroke President Kennedy is either going to have to do so himself or wallow around in the same rut that constrained his predecessors. If he doesn't act, discrimination in governmentally assisted housing will continue.

The question is one of how far the president is willing to go. Any move on his part will rouse congressional opposition to his ambitious housing plan which is designed both to increase the amount of shelter and to create jobs to cope with the rising recession.

Unfortunately for the president, and due largely to his failure to speak out, southern senators have retained the ability to filibuster to death any bill that offends the Jim Crow system. They are certain to threaten the use of the filibuster against administration housing bills unless they are assured that Mr. Kennedy won't issue an anti-discrimination order.

Thus far the administration has maneuvered to evade a head on clash over civil rights. Apparently it hopes to continue that course. But the time is coming when it is going to have to make a choice between the platform promises of the Democratic party and Mr. Kennedy's personal pledges on civil rights on the one hand or of truckling under to the South.

Whipping Dead Horse

Communist leaders who met recently to devise ways and means of enlisting Negro support are whipping a dead horse.

The ideal of the American Negro is achievement of equality within the framework of the democratic system.

The Communist argument that racial discrimination flows from the workings of the capitalist system and that racial equality as an inevitable by-product of the socialist system does not square with the Negro's observation of the world in which he lives.

The American Communist party abandoned the pretext that it was the leader in the struggle against racial discrimination when it closed down its southern units during World War II and soft pedaled its racial equality platform.

Communists who are yelling their heads off about discrimination against Negroes today are doing so only because it suits their own ends. If the political winds shift the Communists will take cover. Negroes know that. They aren't about to burn their hands pulling Communist chestnuts out of the fire.

Army Aids Jim Crow

Attorney General Stanley Mosk called the turn last week when he charged the Army with conniving at discrimination against Negro personnel. Under Army regulations men in certain programs are required to live within five miles of Nike bases. However, when landlords have refused to rent housing accommodations to Negroes, the Army has relaxed requirements to permit Negroes to reside at greater distances.

The Army brass doesn't deny the attorney general's charges. It simply pleads that it cannot control the actions and attitudes of landlords and that it has had to bow to their discriminatory practices. The excuse won't wash.

The Army didn't originate the discrimination but it could have put a stop to it by insisting that landlords either house all Army personnel or none. Faced with such a stand the landlords would have surrendered their prejudices in the majority of cases. Landlords, like the rest of us, rarely cut off their noses to spite their faces.

The nation owes more to those who are enlisted in its armed forces than easy acquiesence in whatever discrimination may be the vogue of the moment. It has the positive duty of safeguarding the men who are called upon to defend the nation.

Battleaxe & Bread

By Lester B. Granger

Who Is Liberal

Not so long ago in a group of political liberals who were discussing the legislative prospects of medical and hospital aid to the aged, I remarked that I was opposed to the bill backed by the Kennedy Administration. The atmosphere cooled so fast that you would have thought I had used a string of four-letter words. Faces around me were as shocked as if I were a juvenile who had jumped up in a movie house and cheered while the pesky redskins were scalping the heroic cowboys.

Granger

As a matter of fact, I used to do just about that fifty or more years ago, and the only reason I quit was that I grew old enough to become timid about being over-conspicuous. Whether in the movies or reading or watching TV westerns, I've always been on the side of the Indians. My father saw to it that his boys learned early that the Indians were not usually scoundrelly murderers, but were more apt to be patriots and heroes defending their homes and hunting grounds against an enemy who was greedy, brutal and treacherous. And the cowboys were seldom heroes; more likely they were race-prejudiced, sadistic thugs who hired out their guns or killed for fun. The only reason they are not pictured that way is that their side won — and wrote the history and movie scripts.

Good Guys, Bad Guys

Well, in regard to the legislative milling-around that's going to begin on medical aid for the aged, it's also the chap who writes the scripts who labels the good guys and the bad guys. Actually, there are plenty of both on each side of the argument, and you can't settle the argument by dubbing one side liberal and the other reactionary. Certainly you can't if you are interested — as every colored American should be — in the racial aspects of the subject.

I pointed out to my friends — when their shock wore off enough for them to ask me why — that the Administration bill makes no provision for the aged who are not covered by social security benefits. The proportion of Negroes who are thus uncovered runs to two and three times the proportions of whites. They are estimated to run as high as a million and more of the Negro workers in this country. Well, I figure that folks like these, who are never in all their lives going to save to pay for the services of a decent physician and the comforts of a modern hospital in case of a serious illness — I figure that the first objective of liberal legislation on the subject ought to be protection for folks like these. And I'm opposed to any bill on the subject until it's shaped to care for those who need protection most.

Dissatisfied Friends

Naturally this didn't satisfy my friends, and they pointed out to me that organized labor is for the bill and so are "the great liberals of the Congress," while opposed to it are the A.M.A. (and how could I back the American Medical Asspciation?) and reactionary elements in the Democratic and Republican Party. I told them that if a mean dog should bite me it wouldn't ease the wound if I were told that his owner was a mighty fine man. I'd still want to kill the pooch. And I still wanted to know what about those Negro aged who would never get any benefit from the Administration bill.

So then they switched arguments: "After this bill is passed, then the next thing to do is to liberalize the coverage of the Social Security Act. Then everything will be all right."

25 Years Ago

I told them, I was sorry but I had heard that story twenty-five years ago — from the good liberal Senator Wagner and some of my friends in the labor movement, at the time the Wagner Labor Relations Act was being passed. Organizations representing the Negro workers' interests were trying to get a provision inserted that would exclude from the Act's protection any union that barred Negroes from membership solely because of their race. Senator Wagner told me, as he told Elmer A. Carter and T. Arnold Hill of the National Urban League, "We must get the bill passed first; then we can take care of these racial questions."

Well, the bill passed, but somehow the Senator never had time to talk to me afterward on that subject, nor did Sidney Hillman nor other labor leaders whom I esteemed highly—and still do. They were "thinking liberals" one way, and I another. But as a result Negro workers in this country lost jobs and wages during the next fifteen years that totalled up into the billions before the New Deal for Labor arrived and recalcitrant unions began to open their doors. Things are somewhat changed now, but those billions will never be recovered — and a firm stand by the New Deal Administration and a group of dedicated Senate or House liberals could have saved us fifteen years of waiting. And somehow, I don't think the white or colored aged who are uncovered by social security can wait fifteen years for medical aid.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Not all the news from Cuba is bad. Castro has confiscated the Cuba Nickel Company, a United States Government corporation, which has been competing with private business and has cost all the taxpayers $90,249,000 since its inception.

Also, we won't have to pay the salaries and benefits to over 300 people formerly in the U.S. Embassy in Cuba. Castro's figure of 11 people for the U.S. Embassy sounded about right. How many of these "freeloaders" do you suppose we have in countries all around the world?

To the Editor:

It was indeed gratifying to read your editorial in the Jan. 26 edition asking the community to support the Los Angeles Urban League in its annual membership campaign.

It is indeed discouraging to see the lack of interest expressed by the community persons who profit by the unheralded work of the Urban League. The Urban League can only be as strong as the support given it by the community.

We in the Urban League are hopeful that as a result of your editorial the community will respond by becoming members and aid us in our work.

Henry Lewis Wins Praise Of Critics

A young Dorsey High School graduate, Henry Lewis, who joined the Philharmonic Orchestra as a bass player in 1951, proved to be a talented conductor in two performances of the same orchestra Thursday night. His wife, Marilyn Horne, scored as soprano soloist.

The young couple received high praise from critics for their artistry. It was the first time a native Angeleno had conducted the orchestra in a regular pair of subscription concerts.

Lewis was said by critics to be a "good craftsman on the podium and a sincere, knowing and unostentatious musician." Miss Horne was said to have "beauty and the impressiveness of bearing to make the majestic characters of opera breathe new life."

No male can beat a female in the long run, because they have it over us in sheer, damn longevity. — James Thurber.

Loren Miller Says...

100 Years Ago

One hundred years ago this month—on Feb. 11 to be exact—a 52 year old man, tall, grizzled, a little unkempt, left Springfield, Illinois, on the first lap of a trip to Washington, D.C. He was going there to take a job and nobody knew better than he that the job was going to be a tough one. Sometimes he doubted that he was equal to the task; other times he got himself so fired up with his belief in democracy that he was sure that he could get the job done. As he saw it, the first aspect of his task was to hold the Union together. At least, that's what he said.

Loren Miller

He told everybody who would listen, including his harshest critics and best friends, that if he could preserve the Union without freeing a single slave that he would do it; that if he could save the Union by freeing some slaves and leaving others in bondage that he would do that and that if the preservation of the Union required it he would free all of the slaves. That's what he said. But he had also made a speech in which he asserted that the nation could not endure half slave and half free. If he knew that the Union couldn't endure half slave and half free what in the world was he talking about when he said that if he could he would save the Union by retaining slavery or by freeing only part of the slaves? What kind of double talk was that?

The Politician

Well, the truth of the matter is that the man was a politician. He had the politician's sense that you can't always do what you like when you want to do so in a democracy. He had given in to popular feeling, perhaps his own, when he once told a political audience that "what I would most desire would be the complete separation of the white and black races." On another occasion he remarked that "Certainly; the Negro is not our equal." And he had been just as earnest in saying that "As I would not be a slave, I would not be a master. This expresses my view of democracy."

After he had got on his job and with the border states still in the Union he rescinded an order of one of his military commanders freeing slaves in Missouri. He said the step was premature. He hemmed and hawed about the use of Negro troops in the Union army. He later wrote out a decree freeing slaves in the states, or portions of states, which were in active rebellion but he hid it in his desk and didn't issue it until the North had won a great military victory.

The Right Time

Then he thought the time was ripe and he issued his Emancipation Proclamation — that was in 1863, two years after he had left Springfield. He moved swiftly after that. Negro troops were recruited for the Union army. As the Civil War drew to a close he wrote to a political friend that "How to better the condition of the colored race has long been a study which has attracted my services; Hence I am clear and decided as to what course I shall pursue, regarding it as a religious duty as the nation's guardian of these people, who have so heroically vindicated their manhood on the battlefield. The restoration of the rebel states to the Union MUST rest upon the principle o' civil and political equality of both races."

The tall, grizzled man had come a long distance from Springfield when he made that statement, in miles and in philosophy. He had vindicated his own belief that the Union could not exist half slave and half free. And he had taken another step: he was saying that the Union could not hope for progress unless it rested on "the principle of civil and political equality for both races."

Abraham Lincoln

That was Abraham Lincoln: he whose view of democracy was that he would not be a slave and he would not be a master; he who knew that the Union could not be preserved half slave and half free and who surely knew that it could not become wholly slave. He ordered Negroes returned to their slave masters when he thought the temper of the country demanded it; he issued an Emancipation Proclamation when he discerned that the time was ripe. He refused Negro troops when he felt that their enlistment would endanger the Union cause; he welcomed them when the temper of the times changed. He gave in to popular prejudice before the war by insisting that the Negro was not the equal of the white man; he demanded "civil and political equality" for Negroes when they had "heroically vindicated their manhood on the field of battle."

I grew up on the Nebraska prairies where I heard many men boast that they had fought in the Civil War and that they had known Abe Lincoln. I believed all of them then; I doubt some of them now. When they talked about him they always called him Abe or Old Abe and their voices grew hushed and reverent. I sensed even as a youngster that they had gone through a great experience. I think I understand them now: they were part of Lincoln and he was part of them. Together, they and Old Abe had fought to make men free. And in helping other men toward freedom they had found freedom for themselves.

ly condemned the United States Government for the part it is playing in engineering United Nations activities in the Congo which ended in the barbaric murder of Lumumba."

The United States embassy was also threatened in Cairo, along with the Belgian embassy. On Wednesday the Belgian embassy was burned, the American stoned. In Ceylon and Belgrade it was the French.

The Soviet Union was most bitter in its attack on Dag Hammarskjold, and the United Nations. Russia demanded that all foreign troops quit the Congo within 30 days and declared that it no longer recognizes Hammarskjold as U.N. secretary general.

In Cairo, the radio announced that the United Arab Republic was recognizing the Stanleyville regime of Antoino Gizenga as the "legal and national government" of the Congo.

Gizenga was Lumumba's lieutenant, and is now in control of over a third of the entire Congo.

had been acting strangely since the previous night.

At the dispensary, Mills complained of pains in his head and dizzy spells. He said he had fallen and hit his head several days earlier.

Mills was transferred to General Hospital, but was in a semi-conscious condition when he arrived, and was sent to emergency surgery.

Mills' 30-day sentence grew out of an arrest last July 23 when he was charged on grand theft merchandise. He was freed on bail and rebooked on a lesser count — collecting money fraudulently for an alleged charity. He was convicted and sentenced on that charge Feb. 2, when he started serving out his time.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Rickie Collins, and a brother, Frank Mills. Funeral arrangements had not been completed at press time.

PLANNING MUSICAL PROGRAM—Richard Moffatt, right, the new musical director of People's Independent Church, discusses the new program of the department with Rev. Maurice A. Dawkins, pastor of the church, and Mrs. Fannie Benjamin, organist. (Chuck Williams)

Composer Hired as Choir Director at Independent

Young composer Richard Moffatt, of Portland, has been hired as the new music director at People's Independent Church, 1025 E. 18th street.

Until recently Moffatt was choir and music director at St. Phillips Church in Portland, where he also served on the Oregon Park and Recreation staff in Portland.

In addition to his choral works, he has written operas and religious plays. Last year the Ford Foundation televised his "Ballet Man" on KCOP.

Among his works are "Oh, Divine Master," "I Will Lift Up Mine Eyes," "Allelulah" and "O Praise the Lord."

Rev. Maurice A. Dawkins, pastor of the church, said this week that it is expected that the long tradition of outstanding musical performances and sacred worship through music will be extended into new frontiers of cultural and religious experience at Independent.

Woodlawn Y Expansion Program Blocked Again

By Barbara Mounts

The hopes of members and volunteer workers of Woodlawn YWCA Center suffered a severe blow last week when they learned that their plans for moving into new quarters had been stymied.

Purchase of a building at 1104 Browning street had been arranged and $1500 had been placed in escrow, contingent upon the granting of a zone variance to permit use of the building for public gatherings.

On Friday the zone variance was denied and the Woodlawn Center was right back where it has been for the last year — ready and willing to move but with no place to move to.

Too Close

This is the third time the members have found a location which the workers felt was suitable, only to learn that technical or other difficulties prevented their closing the deal. One location, though zoned right, was too close to the Mid-City Center, according

Tormenting Rectal Itch Stopped In Minutes

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) — One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles." It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night.

No matter what you've used without results — here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids — without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. This improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' duration.

The secret is this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H®. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters.

Understanding is Brotherhood Key

"Brotherhood Through Understanding" is the theme of the 11th annual Brotherhood Week Celebration sponsored by the National Council of Christians and Jews, Feb. 19-26.

The Junior Choir of Second Baptist Church and the United Nation's Children singers, will be among the choral groups to appear on the program Sunday, Feb. 19 at 10 a.m. in the University Synagogue, 11960 Sunset blvd. in West Los Angeles. Other ethnic groups will be represented.

Mrs. Sara Page has written the pageant and her husband Eugene Page, Sr. has written the original music and orchestration for the presentation.

The program will be chaired by Miss Shirley Mae Polk under the general program of the national brotherhood observance under the leadership of President J. F. Kennedy and Bob Hope.

The NCCJ is a civic and educational organization for the promotion of good will, justice and understanding among all men. Dr. David Cunningham is the executive director.

Pasadena

Westminster Presbyterian Church, 1737 Lake avenue in Pasadena will be host to a brotherhood program, sponsored by the Pasadena Association for the Study of Negro Life and History and the Forum Lycium Associates of Southern California, at 3:15 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 19.

The program will feature the Voices of Hope Choir, under the direction of Thurston Frazier, with Dr. Marvin T. Robinson, pastor of Friendship Baptist Church as guest speaker. This will close out the Negro History Week celebrations for the two groups.

Rev. Max Merritt Morrison is the pastor of Westminster.

World Day of Prayer to be Observed

The Los Angeles Westside Area Group 18 will observe the 75th Annual World Day of Prayer, Feb. 17, at Westminister Presbyterian Church, Rev. James Edward Jones, pastor, 2250 W. Jefferson blvd., at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The Fellowship hour will be from 12 noon to 1 p.m.

This day finds mankind in the midst of history, exciting history, caught up by it, a part of it. It is history that includes vast spiritual movement, throughout the world with no time limits or clime limits, no race limits or space limits, interdenominational, interracial or international, according to a spokesman for the group. The theme is "Forward through the ages."

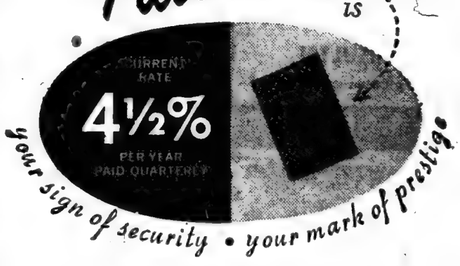
The prayer fellowship covers some 2200 communities in America, and 145 areas around the globe.

The project for this year is 500,000 books for Africa, and the Protestant strategy for Alaska.

Ineze C. Caston is general chairman for the observance.

Another service will be held at the Vermont Presbyterian Church, 5300 S. Vermont at 10 a.m.

CORRECTION
Vermont Square Methodist Church's 45th annual banquet will be served Saturday, Feb. 18, instead of Friday as headlined.



Wesley Women Plan Floral Tea

The Women's Christian Society of Wesley Methodist Church, will present its second annual Cherry Blossom Tea, on Feb. 26, from 1-5:30 p.m. in Wesley Center, 112 W. 52nd street.

Luncheon will be served this year. Prizes will be offered for the best table decoration and the most outstanding dress design and model as well.

On an invitation to "Come Fly With Me" in Tommy Tucker's flashy Thunderbird we took in a look-see at Ray (Sugar) Robinson at Cisco Andrade's newly purchased training camp which was once owned by likable Willie Orner who made famous the Main Street Gym at 3rd and Main street.

Robinson is getting ready for his third set-to with Gene Fullmer.

Training camps for such idols as Ray Robinson today can be as nerve racking as a Requiem Mass for one of your best elbow-bending buddies. It was a two-hour drive though free-wheeling Mr. Tucker would have negotiated it in half that time but he was following Joe Louis, who was being chauffeured by youthful Ray Botts, one of the most promising pro golfers ever to come out of the West.

Botts knew the route to Gilman Hot Springs; he also knew that there is a golf course nearby; and that perhaps he could talk Joe into a fast nine holes before showing up at Ray's camp. So he took his time.

Mr. "T" who also owns some golf clubs and had an idea that golfers don't normally pass up greens for resin, wisely elected to take his own car.

Arriving at the camp at 10 a.m. we were greeted by an open-air poker game, a laundryman, a cook who wasn't about to fix breakfast until we aroused trainer Harry Wiley and Millie Bruce. We could understand why, after she prepared scrambled eggs, toast, grits and coffee because everybody falls in love with her culinary art — she's that good.

As for Ray he wasn't taking his music lesson that time of the morning because the professor was. He was sleeping off a roadwork hangover, we were told.

Eddie Futch, top West Coast boxing trainer, was taking his charge Don Jordan and a newcomer Tony Montano through their paces. Jordan has a big bout in New York against Carmen Basillo and it's do or die for Jordan. The way Futch has the ex-welterweight kingpin working, he must realize it also.

George Gainford, who calls the shots and who is the big boss in the Robinson camp, had Robinson scheduled for boxing at 3 p.m. and nobody dared do anything about it. So, since the visitors had to hike ten miles to the nearest beer joint and we weren't that thirsty, we laid around camp.

Sharply at 3 p.m. Ray showed in the gym in all-white training attire and his process slightly in disarray. As he peered into the gym mirror he quickly tried to put his locks in place. He worked two fast rounds with sparmates and one got the impression they were in there to make the champ look good and they did. Who can tell how a five time champion should look in a training camp? But one thing is for sure — he is physically fit. For a guy who is used to the bright lights of Broadway and as skillful in his trade as a boxer as Robinson to select the far-off Gilman Hot Springs camp — that's an indication that he is taking this matter of meeting Fullmer for the third time sort of seriously.

The nicest thing that could happen to Robinson this trip is to knock out Fullmer and then quickly tell the National Boxing Association he is retiring, and retire for keeps. If money is Ray's problem he can always make it. There are a lot of people who will pay to see him in exhibition bouts.

Title Bout At Theatres

Ticket sale opened this week at nine Southern California Theaters for the large screen, closed circuit TV screening of the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson championship heavyweight prize fight bout to be held March 13 at Miami, Florida.

The 15-round event will come direct from ringside and will get under way at 7:30 p.m. local time.

Scheduled to take part in the showing are the following theaters: Orpheum, Hillstreet and Warren's in the downtown area, Pantages in Hollywood, Fox Wilshire in Beverly Hills, Crown in Pasadena, Wiltern in the Wilshire district, Alex in Glendale and the Warner's Huntington Park.

Box offices are staffed at all nine theaters with all seats being sold on a reserved seat basis. Mail and phone orders are being accepted, according to Pat Notaro, division manager for Warner's theater chain, who is coordinating the event for the theaters.

Johnny Smith Seeks 14th Win at Olympic Tonight

"Joltin" Johnny Smith, the Pacoima knockout artist, is an early favorite to chalk up his 14th straight ring victory when he faces Ramon (Buffalo) Hernandez tonight (Thursday) at the Olympic.

Smith, holder of the California middleweight title, has won his last six by knockouts. His latest victim was Neal Rivers, well regarded veteran middleweight.

Gaspar Ortega and Benny (Kid) Paret, rivals at the Olympic, Saturday, Feb. 25, will attend Thursday's fight card. Paret will not be risking his world welterweight championship in the national TV scrap.

Both Ortega and Paret are prepping at the Main Street Gym. Ortega works first at 1 p.m.

The TV feature Thursday brings together featherweights Tony Herrera and Paddy Read. KTLA-TV, channel 5, will carry this bout as well as the entire prelim card.

JOHNNY SMITH, Al Wiess and Cal Woods' promising middeweight from Pacoima, goes after his 14th straight win tonight in a ten-round bout at the Olympic Auditorium.

TITLIST — Benny (Kid) Paret, the world welterweight kingpin, makes his first ring appearance in L.A., meeting Gaspar Ortega at the Olympic in a non-title bout.

Angels Pay City $200,000 For Wrigley

City officials and representatives of the Los Angeles Angels met last Thursday in City Hall to sign the license under terms of which the new American League baseball team will play its 1961 home games at Wrigley Field.

The document was signed by Herm Alber, president of the Recreation and Park Commission; Mrs. Ruth Knight, its secretary; Robert Reynolds, the Angels' president; and Paul A. O'Bryan, the team's secretary and attorney.

During the 1961 season, the Angels will pay $200,000 to the city and will condition the property for public use at an estimated cost of $150,000, which the city will share, on items to be approved by the Recreation and Park Commission, in an amount not exceeding $50,000.

24 Drivers Ready For Race Classic

Twenty-four cars, 12 rows of 'em two abreast, will scorch off to start the 100-lap USAC national championship late model stock car race Sunday afternoon, Feb. 19, at Ascot Stadium, Gardena.

J. C. Agajanian has posted a guaranteed purse of $4000 against 40% of the gate to attract the finest field ever to compete in a Southland stock car chase.

UCLA Cage Team In Two Road Tilts

The UCLA Bruins basketball team, still very much in the Big Five title race, took off for games with Kentucky and Loyola of Chicago on Feb. 17 and 18.

The Bruins then will head for the Bay Area to battle California Feb. 24 in a conference game.

Don Lawson, classy Bruin's forward, is the team's leading scorer with a fat 159 points for 17 games, an average of 15.2.

Lincoln Posting 14-4 Cage Record

Lincoln's Tigers hit a sizzling 55-plus per cent of their field goal attempts Friday night and romped to an 88-49 victory over Kansas City University. It was Lincoln's 14th win against four losses this season.

During the last quarter the Tigers played without the service of their coach, Jim Frank. Frank left suddenly during the last quarter to take his wife, the former Zelma Lloyd of Kansas City, to the hospital, where she was delivered of a baby boy. Assistant football coach, Don Hudson, filled in for Frank.

Frat Series Set

The Interfraternity Basketball Council announced that the 1961 basketball series between the Kappas, Alphas, Sigmas and Omegas will get under way March 18 at the Loyola Gym.

Yo-Yo Meets Slated

Winners of the neighborhood playground Yo Yo contests will clash in district meets slated at eight centrally located playgrounds on Saturday, Feb. 18.

Riis vs. Wilson

Riis track and field team opens its cinder season in the Eastern League with a practice meet against Wilson at Wilson on Feb. 28.

Volleyball Jamborees In 3rd Set

The third in the current series of seven volleyball jamborees will be staged for North and East area women's squads this Thursday, Feb. 16, at Wilmington Playground, 325 Neptune avenue, with Recreation Director Evelyn Wyatt serving as chairman.

Teams participating in playground volleyball action are classified according to ability in "AA," "A," and "C" divisions, but wholesome fun and recreation are primary purposes of the jamborees and round-robin playdays, which are being staged at municipal playgrounds.

A city-wide Class C jamboree will be staged on Thursday, March 23, at Palisades Playground, 851 Alma Real drive. The following jamborees slated at Wilmington Playground on Thursdays:

March 16 — South-West, Class A. Miss Jackie Jamison, chairman;

March 23—City-wide, Class AA, Mrs. Alicia Wong, chairman;

April 6 — — North-East, Class A. Mrs. Matt Noonan, chairman.

Sports Banquet

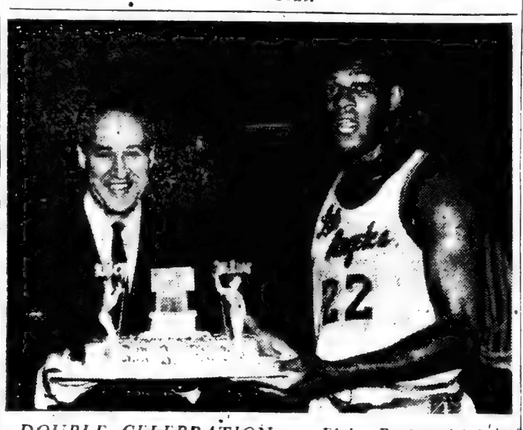
Ross Synder Playgrounds annual Sports Banquet will be held tonight (Thursday), Feb. 16, in the gymnasium, 1501 E. 41st street.

Leon E. Whaley is chief director at the playground and John Fortson is banquet chairman.

Angels Ink All-City Pitcher

Morris Cigar, 23, 6-3, 205 pounder, All-City pitching ace for San Pedro High School in 1955, was signed from among the 277 baseball hopefuls at the L. A. Angels' first tryout camp held in Sawtelle two weeks ago.

Cigar is credited with throwing a no-hitter during the Dorsey High baseball tourney in 1955. Since turning pro he played outfield for Douglas, Ariz., in the New Mexico League, and later played with the Wilson, N. C. team of the Carolina League.



The Angels' publicity department announced that the youngster will be signed as a pitcher and will report to Spring camp with the Angels. If he fails to make the grade he will be shipped to their Dallas farm club for more seasoning.

Bat Champion Signs

Frankie Robinson, who was the slugging champion of the National League last season, inked his 1961 contract with the Cincinnati Reds.

Marbles Competition

Elimination contests in this year's marbles competition are under way this week at municipal playgrounds throughout the city.

DOUBLE CELEBRATION — Elgin Baylor (right) shares spotlight with broadcaster Bud Blattner at recent St. Louis Hawks-L.A. Lakers basketball game at Sports Arena. Baylor scored his 2000th point of the season and Blattner celebrated his 41st birthday. BEAUTIFUL CALIENTE IN OLD MEXICO—Even a dead-heat and a fairly formful day failed to produce more than two winners last Sunday at Caliente Race Track in the 5-10 public handicapping contest.

Two brothers had the solution and received $40,713.20 each for selecting all six winners correctly, a total of 119 ticket holders collected $228 shares for consolation by selecting five winning horses correctly.

The winners were Alfred Gonsales of Imperial Beach and Tony A. Gonsales of Spring Valley.

The 5-10 pool grossed $120.632. Winning numbers were 9-2-IA (3-6) 9.

WITH MAGGIE HATHAWAY

Rafer L. Johnson

One year ago while taking a stroll on one of the 20th Century Studio sets we decided to walk down a lonely dirt road in order to find a little shade from the camera. When we were sure that we were far enough away from the studio crowd (who were too busy shooting a picture called "Rachel Cade") we sat down to cool off but found that we were not alone. Suddenly out of a cloudless sky a golf ball dropped at our feet and guess who came to find it? No other than the world's greatest athlete, Rafer Johnson.

"What are you doing out here away from the cameras," we asked.

Rafer smiled like a little boy who had been caught in the cookie jar.

"Oh," he said, "the cameras are on Woody Strode and Angie Dickinson right now so I decided to practice a little chipping."

"Where did you find golf clubs," we enviously asked (because we had been wishing for a club to do a little putting with to pass away the time.)

"Scatman Crothers loaned them to me," he replied as he went back to the middle of the road to set up another shot.

Just as we started asking him more about his golf game the director was heard to say, "Will some one find Rafer? We are ready for his part."

"I have to go," he said quietly, but look me up later and I'll be happy to finish telling you what caused my interest in golf."

"O.K.," we said, "See you next week" (never dreaming that "next week" would be a year later).

We did not catch up with Rafer until he had practically conquered the world. He had been to the Olympics in Rome representing the United States, and had become the world's decathlon champion when we "bumped into him" in the May Co. parking lot.

"Come by the house and we will finish our golf talk," he said when he saw us pull out pencil and pad.

When we entered his home the first thing that greeted us was a wall full of plaques, citations and trophies. Rafer kiddingly explained that he was not a top golfer but liked it well enough to use his youngest brother's clubs occasionally. His brother is 21-year-old Jim Johnson.

Rafer had played the Kingsburg Municipal Golf Course several times but did not really get interested in golf until he went to the Air Force Base in San Antonio last year. He played several rounds on the service course with J. Howard. Howard was stationed in Texas and had been drafted from the University of California at Berkeley.

While smothering Rafer with questions we found out that he also played tennis. He has been placed under contract at Fox Studios and admitted that he is a "record bug." His favorite music is "all kinds of music including pops." He has no favorite vocalist; he likes all of them, but admitted that he had all of Nat "King" Cole's records.

As we rambled around reading inscriptions on some of the most attractive trophies we had ever seen, our eyes suddenly saw one made of two hands carved in mother of pearl.

"This is the most touching trophy we have ever seen," we remarked.

"Oh, by the way," Rafer said, "that one is my favorite." The hand trophy was simply inscribed, "To One of the 10 Outstanding Young Men of the Nation for 1960—U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce."

The highest trophy he has received was a jet black mounted horse, and it read, "Athlete of the Year — James E. Sullivan Award, 1862-1914. Rafer is the third Negro in history to win that award.

Golf Tourney Starts Feb. 20

The eighth annual North-South South Golf Tournament, which annually has grown in size as well as stature, will have a "foreign" influence this year when play begins Feb. 20 at Miami Springs.

"Five players from Nassau have written they plan to compete this year," explained Ray Mitchell, tournament director. "In addition some swimmers from that British colony have expressed a desire to participate in our Aqua Show."

Mitchell announced he's received 100 entries, including ex-boxing champion Joe Louis — the most in the tournament's history for this early in the year. Participants will be coming from all parts of the country as well as Nassau.

The tournament will be five days long with amateur and professional divisions for men as well as women. The 12 prizes for pros have been increased to a total of $2,500 while among the women, three trophies in each of the six flights will be awarded.

Danny Valdez May Be Next for Moore

World Featherweight Champion Davey Moore currently touring Europe with his manager Willie Ketchum may make his next title defense against California's Danny Valdez.

Ketchum said in Rome last week he would welcome the Valdez title fight "if the terms are right."

Women's Industrial Cage Tourney in Second Round

The 1961 Women's Industrial Basketball Tournament, sponsored by the Los Angeles City Recreation and Park Department, is being staged evenings through March 14 at Fairfax High School's girls gymnasium, 7850 Melrose avenue.

In initial games, the Go-Getters from West Los Angeles tangled with the Emanons from the San Fernando Valley; the Thunderbirds from Long Beach met the Oxys from central Los Angeles; and the Pixies from La Crescenta battled the Centaurs from Manhattan Beach.

Second-round action in the tourney is slated Tuesday, Feb. 14, when the Oxys and Emanons take the floor at 6:30 p.m.; the Thunderbirds and Pixies are scheduled to play at 7:50 p.m.; and the Go-Getters and Centaurs will square off at 9:10 p.m.

L.A. Dental Study Club Holds Gay Second Annual Valentine Picnic

Distinguished members of the Los Angeles Dental Study club entertained last Friday night in the brightly decorated Victoria Hall with their second annual Valentine indoor picnic.

Some 150 guests attended bearing the traditionally famous picnic baskets to tables covered with red and white tablecloths. Guests enjoyed sharing a little of this and a little of that from each table.

The 300 membership organization's main purpose is to study the latest techniques in modern dentistry and to promote the practice of good dentistry in our community.

In addition, the organization selects various projects of community betterment and once a year they contribute to them financially.

Last Friday during their social, with Dr. C. L. Taylor, vice-president, acting as master of ceremonies, they presented checks to the YMCA, Cleveland Club and the NAACP Legal Redress Committee to be used to support the Sit-Ins.

Entertainment Committee members who arranged the affair and decorated the hall with varied color balloons were Drs. W. K. Duffy, chairman; H. Thomas, C. Taylor, L. Nichols, and K. Neal.

Officers of the group are Dr. Thomas Boger, president; Dr. Christopher Taylor, vice-president; and Dr. Artis White, treasurer.

Among the guests enjoying dancing to the music of the Jeepsters were Dr. and Mrs. Roy C. Johnson, Atty. and Mrs. Crispus Wright, Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Johnson, Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Nichols, Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Watson, Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Wiliams, Dr. and Mrs. R. P. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Varnes, Dr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hespatch,

Also Dr. and Mrs. George Porter, Dr. and Mrs. A. Stevens, Dr. and Mrs. G. Sealey, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Singleton, Dr. and Mrs. H. Bavritte, Mr. and Mrs. R. Dash, Dr. and Mrs. H. Claude Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Murrell, Mrs. Ellis Knox.

Likewise, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. Pharris, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Hall, Dr. and Mrs. W. Tucker, Dr. and Mrs. Warren Brooks, Dr. Roy and Gwen Andrew, Dr. Russell and Jean Andrew, Dr. Ted and Gloria Jackson, Dr. and Mrs. E. Foster, Dr. and Mrs. J. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. L. Wauls, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Sobley, Dr. and Mrs. A. West, Dr. and Mrs. James Swan, Dr. and Mrs. A. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. P. Brooks and Dr. and Mrs. W. Nelson.

SECOND ANNUAL AFFAIR — Los Angeles Dental Study Club vice-president Dr. C. L. Taylor, left, presents two of the group's three checks to Dr. Roy Andrew, representing the YMCA Support Campaign and Ernest Foster of the Cleveland Club. A third check went to the NAACP Legal Redress Committee for support of Sit-Ins. (Adams)

Miss Sandra Hoskins Becomes Bride Of Alonzo Mills Wilkins III at Holman

At a four o'clock ceremony last Saturday afternoon in Holman Methodist Church, Miss Sandra Hoskins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Lishey Hoskins, exchanged vows with Mr. Alonzo Mills Wilkins III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Arbor and the late Dr. Alonzo Mills Jr.

Rev. Lanneau L. White, pastor of the church, read the rites.

The bride wore a Bianchi creation of candlelight white peau de soie and re-embroidered lace. Her fingertip veil was an original net French pouff held by a single satin rose. Escorted to the altar by her father where she was met by the waiting groom, she carried a bridal bouquet of orchids and stephanotis and an old Spanish lace hankerchief from the collection of Miss Birdie Lee Bright and the late Mrs. Marjorie McPherson.

Her attendants, who wore identical gowns of hyacinth blue satin, short pouff veils of blue net, and carrying arm bouquets of white Calla lillies, were Misses Karleen Downs, Jackie Grant, Brenda Moore, Connie Pettis of San Mateo and Sandra Speights and Mmes. Kathleen Huante, Patricia Cureton of Canada, and Inez Roberson, sister of the groom. Miss Ruel Chester of Howard University served the bride as maid of honor and Mrs. Ann Luke of Berkeley was the matron of honor. Both carried bouquets of blue lillies.

Serving as ushers were Messrs. Garfield Finely, the groom's best man; Arthur McBride, Denis Thompson, Cecil Thompson, Walton Greene, Roland Jefferson, Bruce Powers, Clarence Norris, cousin of the groom; Earl Williams, Robert Dickey, Robert Garrott, Charles Coffee, cousin of the bride; Henry McPherson Jr., Ernest Roberson, William Broady, and Rodney Wynne.

Candle girls and flower girls, wearing identical dainty frocks of white organdy, were Denise Arbor, sister of the groom; Kathy Beverly, cousin of the groom; Anita Taggart and Joan Daniels, cousins of the bride.

Master William Beverly, cousin of the groom was the ring bearer.

Mrs. Barney Haskins, escorted to her pew by her nephew, Charles Coffee Jr., chose for her daughter's wedding a lovely ensemble of imported Dior blue re-embroidered lace, with matching accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. Dave Arbor, wore powder blue lace with contrasting accessories.

Mr. Leon Simmons, organist of the church, was at the console for the bridal procession and as accompanist for the well known soloists Mr. Lewis Johnson, tenor who sang "All Through the Years," and Mrs. Jacqueline Broussard, mezzo soprano who sang "The Lords Prayer."

Mrs. Harriette Flowers Williams, directing the wedding, was assisted at the church by Mmes. Peggy Smith and Delores Harris and Misses Patsy Watson and Letha Coffee, cousins of the bride.

The bride's maternal grandparents were the late Rev. and Mrs. George W. Slater Jr., of the Chicago and Western Canada Conference of the A.M.E. Church. Her paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Barney W. Hoskins, pioneer residents of South Los Angeles.

The groom's maternal grandparents are Mrs. Samuel Beverly and the late Mr. Samuel Beverly, well known pioneers of San Antonio, Texas. His paternal grandparents were the late Dr. and Mrs. Alonzo Mills Wilkins Sr., of Griffin and Atlanta, Georgia. Mr. Wilkins Sr. was the first president of the All Negro Citizens Trust Bank of Atlanta.

Over 500 guests attending the six o'clock reception following the wedding were received in the living room of the Hoskins' Victoria avenue home to meet the newlyweds. The garden was tented to receive the guests for wedding cake, champagne and hors d' oeuvres in a setting of decorated tables skirted in pale blue satin and net coverings.

POPULAR YOUNG COUPLE WED—Miss Sandra Hoskins is shown with her husband, Alonzo Mills Wilkins III, following their wedding at Holman Methodist Church last Saturday evening.

Valentine Tea

The Tempelites' annual Valentine Tea attracted many old friends to the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Spivey, 2180 W. 30th street last Sunday evening.

The guests enjoyed viewing the creations of designer Geneva Newby, president of the Madhatters Millinary Club, who showed some of the very latest in hat styles.

On the evening program were Reo Moore, Ophelia Danforth and Ivory Warren.

The Tempelites were delighted with the return of members James Smith and Leonard Pulliam of Pomona and Elizabeth Lang of this city.

Utopian Club Inc. In Regular Meet

Utopian Club Inc. held its regular monthly business meeting last Monday at the residence of Simmie Staten, 1127 E. 47th street, followed with a social.

Four new members have been added to the club completing the rostrum to meet the club quota of 30.

Lovie Howell, president, announced that the regular election of officers has been scheduled.

Before entering into "HAPPENSTANCES"—we are impelled to thank those of you who took the time from your busy daily schedules to write, call or stop by the Boutique to congratulate us on our column's appearance in last week's publication of the California Eagle.

Della Reese

Making-up the album of out-of-towners lodging and visiting recently and presently at the Hotel Watkins are folk like Chicago's Rev. CLAY EVANS and Detroit businessman WILLARD STOVALL (he lodged at the Statler Hilton, but looked-up his old cronies in our neck-of-the woods).

DELLA REESE started singing gospel songs at the age of six. During her summer vacations she sang with the Mahalia Jackson group and by the time she was 17 years old she had her own group, called the Meditation Singers. It was in 1953 while she was employed as a hostess at the Oriole in Detroit that STEVE MASSEY, from the PETE IODICE office, heard her sing and signed her up for a one-week engagement at the Flame Show Bar. Della appeared for 18 weeks at the Detroit nitery. It was in this same year that she cut her first Big Hit Record, "In the Still of the Night." In the wake of this hit record, nobody doubted that she had at last hit the high road to big stardom—had landed right smack-dab in the center of the gold-paved path to great fame.

School Teacher On World Tour

Miss Lillian F. Duffy, Los Angeles school teacher, is now in Liberia at the half way mark of her 12-month tour. Her itinerary, which began last September, has included Portugal, Spain, France, Italy, Israel, Cypress, Lebanon, Egypt, Sudan, Ethiopia, Ghana and Liberia.

During her stay in Italy Miss Duffy was the house guest of a native Italian family, Dr. Marco Galleano, and his sister, Miss Vittoria Galleano. At the present time Miss Duffy is the house guest of Rev. and Mrs. John B. Falconer of Monrovia, Liberia. She was the guest of honor at a tea last Friday given by Mrs. Ann Falconer. The occasion afforded the honoree an opportunity to meet both native and foreign residents of Liberia.

On Monday Miss Duffy was the guest speaker at the University of Liberia where she addressed in-service training teachers.

During Miss Duffy's visit in Liberia some of the other courtesies extended to her included a coffee by the American Ambassador's wife Mrs. Elbert Mathews; a luncheon by Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Smith of Firestone Rubber Co.; a dinner by Mrs. Steve Tolbert, wife of Secretary of Agriculture of Liberia; a tea by Rev. and Mrs. William Poe of Southern Baptist Mission; and a dinner by Mrs. Mattie Davis of Liberia.

One of the highlights of the visit will be a party given by the Liberian Alumnae Chapter of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority in honor of their visiting soror next week.

Wives Form New Club

During the exciting holiday season a new club consisting of police officer's wives was formed at the home of Mrs. Alice Edwards.

Its purpose is to bind its members in a closer band for mutual understanding, and to aid one another in distress and emergencies, and to promote social and charitable activity on the part of the members. Also the club will be ready to help any worthy cause or individual in need, if and when they're called upon to do so.

At the heim of the club will be Genevieve Stewart, president-elect; Mrs. Ella Scranton, first vice-president; Mrs. Delores Allen, second vice-president; Mrs. Vivian Metlock, recording secretary; Mrs. Amanda A. Johnson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Velma Green, financial secretary; Mrs. Alice Edwards, treasurer; Mrs. Marie Renty, auditor; Mrs. Thelma Hunter, historian; Mrs. Olga Stovall, parliamentarian; Mrs. David Hollingsworth, sergeant-at-arms; and Mrs. Mary Jackson, club reporter.

Lt. Thomas Bradley, of the Los Angeles Police Department, presided over the installation of the newly-elected officers.

LANGSTON HUGHES IN CONCERT SAT.

'BETWEEN ACTS—From the expression on co-author-director J. Hatch's face (the bearded one) we can tell the show was going fine. Message play "FLY NOW BLACKBIRD" should enjoy tremendous run here and on the road. Received enthusiastic opening at METRO last Thursday, and is theatre experience you shouldn't miss. (V. Young photo)

EVERYBODY'S FRIEND—Making the scene at the Shrine Wednesday, March 1st, to spend "An Evening with Pearl Bailey" will be some 35 singers, dancers and musicians, headed by Pearl's handsome husband, Louis 'Drummer-Leader' Belson. Versatile Pearl Bailey has specialized in every phase of the entertainmnt whirl and this one night stand will definitely be grand.

LOU RAWLS—Handsome young singer currently sharing bill (with Preston Epps) at PANDORA'S BOX in Hollywood. Hear him sing his top recording, "My Little Black Book,' and others nitely.

NOTES OF AN INNOCENT BAR-STANDER

Shouldn't you toss those DINAH WASHINGTON-RAFAEL CAMPOS rift rumors in the ashcan once you realize the pair will subscribe to a diaper service??? . . . Actress JUANITA MOORE latched on to a choice role in a film dealing with the numbers racket to be filmed in New York. Movie will also star FRANK SILVERA. . . .

The column was saddened to learn of the death of vocalist VELMA MIDDLETON, who was SATCHMO'S co-starring girl singer for 15 years. The size of her girth was only equalled by the size of her heart. Her infectious grin, her very large talent and her sense of humor will be sorely missed on the theatrical horizon. . . .

Those expecting a convoy of Black Mariah's to swoop down on the "Ballet Africains" opening night were disappointed. The show isn't bawdy. It's beautiful. Those who came to witness a flesh show came away cheering a sensuous exhibition of sheer artistry. . . . Are there a few fireworks sputtering on the rehearsal scene at Players Ring???

EMILE CHELETTE, who was sporting a turban and playing host at the Turban Room on Central Avenue the last time we glimpsed him is back on the scene after several years of globe trotting. . . . Have you entered the "How Big Is Big Miller" contest? Miller, the blues thriller is "weigh out" but weighs more when he works out. Now, you figger it out! . . .

What Central Ave. drug clerk almost lost her "gig" when she allegedly made a rash statement that her boss who is half of an interracial marriage is unhappy about his forthcoming blessed event??? . . . Boss man is furious! . . . Actress ALIBI COPAGE (wifie of realtor JOHN) nabbed a meaty role of a sexy voodoo priestess in a forthcoming episode of "Thriller." . . .

RUMBLING — Overheard in a Westside elbow bending parlor — if and when that battery case reaches court some awfully big names in the medic profession may get a call as witnesses, along with a number of party girls!

ARCHIE MOORE — Flew into town last week in a private plane belonging to one of his friends and held court in the Playroom and King's Lounge, passing out business cards of his new San Diego Bar-B-Q place.

NEW YORKERS—Ronald and Connie Timberlake ducking the snow in the Big Apple by taking up residence in the city for a while and getting a bang out of meeting such personalites as Archie Moore, Joe Adams, Bill Lanier and Elihu McGee!

THELMA OLIVER — She has been dancing since the tender ago of 14 and she is terrific in the stage play "Fly Blackbird," a play about the sit-ins, one too hot for Hollywood that carries a message much too strong for the downtown critics to give it a decent review but Negroes can keep it running by attending because the play is just great!

JACKIE WILSON — Explosive 'Rock N' Roll singer was shot three times in front of a New York City Apt., the other eve and doctors report his condition is serious!

HUNTERS — On an invitation extended Dr. J. K. Lightfoot, Dr. George Thomas and Virgil Benson by Dr. Jack Benson, the party went hunting for wild hogs in Douglas, Ariz., the other eve!

Cold Cure Floors Star

Janet Leigh caught a cold while in Washington for the Presidential Inauguration and flew to Florida to shake it.

She couldn't rid herself of the cold and it began getting worse. She got very ill one night while entertaining guests and had to call a doctor. He informed her that the cough medicine she was taking didn't agree with her system and was causing all the trouble.

Gleason Movie Star

Paul Newman is delighted that Jackie Gleason will appear in his upcoming flic, "The Hustler."

Newman worked as an extra on three Gleason TV shows and remembers how great Gleason was with the cast of his shows.

Sammy Davis a Dynamo

Sammy Davis must have an energy machine inside his body. Davis flew into L. A. Monday night and recorded a full album of songs Monday and Tuesday nights. Album will be Davis' first for Frank Sinatra's "Reprise" label since leaving Decca.

Upon finishing sessions Tuesday night, Davis immediately planed out for Pittsburgh for a three day night club stint. He then leaves for The Fontainbleau in Miami Beach for a month's stay. Wife May Britt will join her busy hubby in Miami.

Group of popular young businessmen champagned capacity crowd of friends and promised to make event and annual affair. (Verdell Young photo)

FLY NOW BLACKBIRD—Shown backstage after the inspired premier performance are C. Jackson (co-producer, director, author) and chorus lovlies, Brenda Saxton, Janice Johnson, Thelma Oliver and Gloria Calomee. Dramatic musical drew immediate universal acclaim for timeliness and skillful presentation. Mr. Jackson is presently on the staff of U. C. L. A. Dance department. His own views about "Blackbird" are "it can be viewed as an elaborate demonstration. Topic: Old Black Joe, a dying institution. If it hammers and I think it will, it is because we are eager to see the last nail driven into thecoffin." Performances Fri., Sat. and Sun. at remodeled METRO THEATRE on Washington blvd. NEW YORK SCENE

By PHIL GORDON

So you know we had 17½ inches of snow, the city was grounded as far as pleasure cars were concerned, so I could not get around as much as usual. So why rub it in 'cause you think I don't have any news for you?

Anyhow . . . the Gospel Caravan at the Apollo Theatre had good crowds, and this week Nina Samone, Horace Silver & Co. have been doing fine jazz business, with Brook Benton and his revue set to arrive tomorrow for a week.

Frances Faye, Louis Jordan and Gene Bayles had a swinging opening at Basin Street East, while Sil Austin is keeping the sax sounds smooth at that fine comedian, Timmie Smalls. Don't forget to watch Rogers on the Ed Sullivan Show this Sunday (19th) as Timmie breaks some of the TV Ice regarding 'soul brother' comics.

Important Natal Day

The Heat, Patrolman Steve Gonzales, had another birthday on the 12th, along with 'Abe' Lincoln, and he, Steve, really didn't look a day older. (YEARS, would be closer to the truth!) Heh. . . heh!! All his many friends (note the singular.) wished him well.

Beaux Arts Ball

The big event of the season will take place tomorrow (17th) night, when the 21st Annual Beaux Arts Ball at the Palais Royal de San-Souci in the style of "Haiti 1815", is presented at the Waldorf Astoria, for the benefit of the National Urban League.

As always, this affair is under the sponsorship of the National Urban League Guild, with Mrs. Ralph J. Bunche, Mrs. Robert F. Wagner and Mrs. Ronald Tree as honorary chairmen, along with a host of other chair and committeemen.

The theme will be to recreate the Court of Henri Christophe, the first Negro King of Haiti, who rose to this exhalted position from slavedom, and costumes of the period will be worn by most of those in attendance. Otherwise formal wear will be in order.

The orchestra of Sy Oliver and Dick Vance will provide the dance and pageant music, Dick Campbell will be Master of Ceremonies, and the added attraction will be Talley Beatty, accompanied by Alphonse Cimber and Alexander Cambrelin, arranged through Susan Pinsleur, Musical Artist. I shall report in detail on the affair in my next. It should be a ball.

Legitimate Theatre

Also starting tomorrow night, and for two weekends, there will be a repeat of "Dramatic Potluck Of Hits, Bits, & Skits", presented by the American Community Theatre, sponsored by Walters Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church, conceived by, Lee Hunkins and Maxwell Glanville, with original scripts by Al Davis, Louise Jeffers & Lee Hunkins. As an extra added attraction they are presenting "Limitations Of Life", by Langston Hughes, and featuring a cast of 20 or more actors.

PHIL GORDON

MISS CLEANHEAD — Following up to last weekend's overflowing audiences, hairless chanteuse appears again at CLUB STARLITE on Manchester avenue.

TEAMWORK — Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher, married in real life, likewise share their first dual role in 'reel' life in MGM's "Butterfield 8" at the Manchester Theatre, where children under 12 are admitted free every Tuesday when accompanied by either parent.

Sammy Davis Lawman Show Star Mar. 12

Sammy Davis, Jr., the little dynamo of stage, screen and TV, will be seen in "Blue Boss and Willie Shay," a segment of the Warner Bros. "Lawman" series for ABC-TV on Sunday night, March 12.

The role of Willie Shay, a cowhand who is in love with a bull that ruffians rough up, was created especially for Sammy, who had long expressed a desire to perform in a Western.

Starrring John Russell as Marshall Dan Troop, Peter Brown as his deputy, Johnny, the "Lawman" series gets its female glamour from the presence of pretty Peggie Castle, who plays the part of Lily, operator of the Birdcage Saloon.

In the upcoming segment, Davis not only rides and holsters a gun, but he sings two songs while strumming the guitar.

'Fly Blackbird'

By Maggie Hathaway

If you are alive, walking and talking, a Negro, a member of the NAACP or a parent, don't walk, run and run fast to see the Jackson & Hatch Production of "Fly, Blackbird."

The premiere was held last Thursday at the Metro Theater on 4720 W. Washington blvd. to a packed house that stood and insisted on more than a dozen curtain-calls.

It is almost impossible to say who was the most outstanding actor because they all were terrific, singing and dancing for all they were worth.

This play is about the Sit-In, Stand-In, Sit-Down Students, who are fighting for everything that the Negro race should have received the next day after the slaves were freed.

Most Dynamic Message

There is a message and it is a most dynamic message, so direct and so truthful until the real facts (as presented in good old American style) are almost comical.

You will really find yourself laughing at the most tragic facts, such as 3 Caucasian boys continuously chasing Negro boys (running faster than Jessie Owens did) from school or any other place that they encountered them. The part of "Mr. Boy" was played by Paul Palmer.

Micki Grant and Russ Ellis will make you want to go back to college and fall in love again when they sing

SHOW BIZ

(together) "The Lilac Tree."

Loraine Carter (Librarian) is quite convincing when she discovers that she has Negro blood (she is an attractive blonde with blue eyes and white skin). This shocking revelation was discovered when Clarry Smallwood (Officer Brown) wanted to transfer from his Negro beat to an exclusive Caucasian neighborhood. His superior officer suggested that he would have to go to the library and look up his family tree before he could be transferred.

Highly Spirited Cast

George Takei (an Oriental) really tightened the plot when he joined the sit-strikers and got thrown in jail (he also sings).

Thelma Oliver (Big Betty) is a natural bomb shell when she hits the stage and from that moment on she steals the show (singing, dancing and acting).

Carl Gipson (Mr. Piper) brought laughter from the first nighters when he portrayed one of our '61 "handkerchief head" leaders but the most pleasing surprise came when he sang in a flawless voice "Think It Over," almost stopping the show.

Pierre Fauteux (Judge Crocker) was terrific as the "Mr. Charlie" who usually promotes our "handkerchief heads" but changes their white Cadillac to a Lincoln rather than have anything resembling their inferior Negro "yes men."

There are 8 dancers (who are no less than sensational) and six singers, all UCLA and USC students.

Definitely Merits Support

We will not expose the last act but will just recommend that you see the play. If the Negro community allows this play to close, shame, shame, shame on each and every one.

Applause and congratulations to Jackson and Hatch who did a superb job when they wrote, produced and directed the stage play of the decade, "Fly, Blackbird."

Woodlawn Y

to the central office, another had insufficient parking facilities, and was too close to the Coliseum.

The zone variance was denied by Charles Cadwallader, associate zoning administrator, reportedly on the grounds that "granting of the petition would be materially detrimental to the development program of the vicinity and its program would be out of keeping with the immediately planned future by the planning commission." YWCA officials reportedly have advised against an appeal suggested by Woodlawn workers.

Alternative

The Woodlawn Center removal project developed when the long established facility lost much of its effectiveness in the rapidly commercialized area. Young people using the center had to travel from the Westside to the Eastside for recreational programs and study groups.

Only alternative to finding a new location for the branch is to transfer its operations to the Metropolitan Center, 722 S. Oxford.

This, most of the branch members feel, would be a great loss to the community, which has need of the branch facilities. This is especially true in this area because of the lack of other facilities, the lack of parks, plus the heavy pressure of the rapidly increasing population.

Kings Four

The Kings IV, acclaimed one of the greatest acts in show business, open at The Summit on Monday, Feb. 20, for a two-week engagement.

Composed of George Worth, Frank Ciciulla and Bill Kay, the Kings IV play more than 30 instruments, sing and fracture each other, as well as the audience, with their hilarious ad libs. Besides appearing on many network TV shows, they have performed in leading nightclubs in the country.

—Suspect in Doris Willis Murder—

BROUGHT BACK FROM TEXAS—Robert Rudolph Willis, 28, suspect in the strangling of Doris Willis two weeks ago, was brought back from Texas for questioning. He is being held for the murder. Escorting him at the jail is Officer John Alston, left.

5 'Dodge City' Members Bent On Gang War

Acting on a tip Friday afternoon, police prevented a threatened all-out gang war by arresting five teenagers armed with "Molotov cocktails."

Four gangs—Dodge City, Gladiators, Rebel Rousers and Business Men—were set for a no-holds-barred set-to at Manual Arts High School or Denker Playground.

Revenge Fight

The battle was a "revenge" fight for a one-sided go a few nights earlier at Denker Playground when some of the Dodge City boys got the worst of a bout with some Gladiators or Business Men.

Police, scouting the neighhood of 37th street and Halldale avenue about 4 p.m., spotted what looked like the gathering of the Dodge City clan.

They saw various autos which they tabbed as belonging to the clan cruising the area, and noticed one of the cars making a U-turn, backing up and then streaking north on Halldale to 37th in an unsafe and dangerous manner.

Hurled 'Cocktail'

They stopped the car and, as they did so, they saw one of the youths hurl a bottle out of the open front window. It landed on the cement driveway at 1507 W. 37th place, breaking into small pieces.

When the officers approached the car they observed another bottle on the front seat next to Hayward Lawrence Webb, 17, of 3041 7th avenue. The bottle looked suspiciously like a "Molotov"—a bottled filled with gasoline with a cloth wick extending from the bottle's mouth.

Police arrested all five occupants of the car and, on

Suspect Booked in Doris Willis Killing

The man who police believe strangled attractive Doris Willis in her apartment Feb. 1 was brought back to Los Angeles last Friday from Houston where he had been spotted in the popular young market checker's car.

Robert Rudolph Willis, 28, a distant cousin of the slain woman, returned willingly, police said, waiving extradition.

Tells Story

He made a statement to the officers, in which he apparently detailed his actions on the night of the crime, explained how he obtained Miss Willis' car and accounted for his whereabouts from the time he got into the automobile until he was picked up in Houston.

Whether or not he admitted committing the murder, police would not reveal. They did say, however, that he "cooperated fully," and indicated they believed he was telling the truth. He is the No. 1 suspect.

They are holding him for the crime, with the preliminary hearing set for March 7 at 9 a.m. in Division 40.

Nabbed in Car

Police said that he was driving the Thunderbird that had been missing from outside Miss Willis' home at 5149 W. 21st street from the time of her murder. Also found in his possession were other items belonging to the slain woman.

When spotted by an alert Houston policeman last week, Willis claimed he was Miss Willis' husband. This, however, was known to be false, since her husband lives here in Los Angeles and had been questioned, and cleared, shortly after her body was found.

Miss Willis was last seen by her fellow-workers and friends the night of Feb. 1 at the Studio Bowling Alley where she and other members of the Thriftimart bowling team played every Wednesday night.

She left in her automobile and was never heard from again.

The murder was discovered Friday morning by the manager of the Thriftimart Adams and Vermont store who became concerned when she failed to report for work and also did not answer the telephone.

He found her fully clothed lying at the foot of her bed. A rope was tied around her neck. She had been strangled.

There was no sign of a struggle, the lights were on throughout the apartment and there was no indication that

College Paper Confiscated in Negro Insult

The latest issue of the "Roundup," school paper of Los Angeles Pierce College in Woodland Hills, was confiscated Wednesday night because it contained a letter insulting Negroes.

The school president, John B. Shepard, acting in a responsible manner, ordered the issue withdrawn when he was informed of its contents.

"We are embarrassed by the article even though it was written by an individual," he said.

Shepard said it was possible that a few of the copies got out before the issue was withdrawn. It was to have been distributed to the school's 8000 students Thursday.

Jackie Wilson Still On 'Critical' List

By Chazz Crawford

Jackie Wilson, male torch vocalist who was shot twice last week by one of his "fans" was still in critical condition in a New York hospital this week, fighting for his life.

Jackie's other fans are shedding the "Tears of the Year" for the rhythm and blues thrill songster who is one of the most beloved of all Negro artists. His discs are in the million seller listings.

The pistol-packing assailant was identified as Juanita Jones, 28, who was recently discharged from the Women's Army Corps.

She attempted to crash the door of his apartment about 4 a.m. last Wednesday after numerous ardent phone calls in which he rebuffed her romantic advances.

Jackie was rushed to the hospital with two bullet wounds, one in the thigh and one in the abdomen.

The handsome young vocalist who usually sheds his jacket and drops to his knees while torching a love ballad is perhaps the hottest rhythm and blues or torch balladeer a-going.

Speculation was running

'Chris' Scott Is Appointed to High Gov't Job

Christopher "Chris" Scott, who's known to—and liked by—practically everyone who's been around the Los Angeles Post Office for the past few decades, is heading for Washington, to take over the top position ever held by a Negro in the U.S. Postal Service.

He was informed Monday night that he had been selected to serve as deputy assistant to Postmaster General J. Edward Day, in charge of transportation.

To Washington March 1

Scott plans to go to Washington next week, for a preliminary survey, to get acquainted and to look around for a house and attend to other details, and then to make the definitive move to the nation's capital about March 1.

Being a "first" is no novelty for Chris Scott. He ploughed new ground both down at the Main Post Office and at the old Station "K" on Central, later on Vernon, where he served successively as the first Negro clerk to be sent out to any of the stations, the first assistant superintendent and the first superintendent of a station, an appointment he received in 1942.

Scott, 58, lives with his wife Myrtis, at 3799 S. Edgehill Drive. Their daughter, Juanita, is a teacher in Houston.

Serious Challenge

"I realize that a great honor and a great deal of prestige has been conferred upon me," Scott told the Eagle Tuesday. "At the same time," he added, I am fully aware of the responsibility and the seriousness of the challenge it presents to me."

Born in Houston, Texas, Scott joined the Post Office in Los Angeles in 1923 as a substitute clerk. He held that post for five years, being sent as a clerk to Station "K" in 1928. In 1936 he was promoted to assistant superintendent and then to head of the station six years later.

In 1949 he became he first Negro appointed to the post of Assistant Superintendent of Mails in charge of the Main

End of an Era

An American era came to an end when they buried Perry Howard in Arlington Cemetery in Washington last week. There must be many of my readers (look, the man's bragging) who have only a faint idea of who Perry Howard was. For them, I'll put it shortly and say that he served as Republican National Committeeman from Mississippi from 1924 to 1960 although he had lived, and practiced law in Washington,

Police Held Liable Under Federal Law

WASHINGTON — Police officers who invade the rights of persons they arrest are liable in damages under an 1871 federal law, the United States Supreme Court held in an 8 to 1 decision Monday.

Civil rights attorneys hailed the decision as a victory because it means that victims of police lawlessness may go directly to federal court even where state law purports to provide remedies for ill treatment.

Specifically, the ruling authorized the Chicagoan, James Monroe, to bring a civil damage suit against city policemen, who Monroe claimed ransacked his home in 1958, abused his family and himself and placed him under false arrest.

Slate Action

Chicago city authorities had claimed that the police in the Monroe case had violated the state constiiution and Illinois laws, therefore he should seek redress in state courts.

Speaking for the majority, Justice William O. Douglas rejected that argument.

"It is no answer that the state has a law which if enforced would give relief," he said. "The federal remedy is supplementary to the state and the state remedy need not be first sought.

"Klan Statute"

Monroe brought suit in Chicago Federal District Court under the so-called Ku Klux statute of 1871 which was aimed at supplementing the 14th amendment protecting life, liberty and property regardless of race, color or creed.

In the past the federal government has brought cases where individual civil rights have been abused by local authorities. Monday's ruling opens the way for the individual involved to bring suit.

—Don't Close Centers!—

MOTHERS SPEAK—Mothers whose children attend 13 Child Care Centers scheduled to be closed told the Board of Education, Thursday, "We need the centers! We'll fight to keep them open!" Shown at microphone is Mrs. Ocie Sampson, whose children attend Main Street Center. At her right is Mrs. Laura Flores, Main Street, and left, Mrs. Billye Pruitt, 75th.—(Adams).

Mothers Sob, but Warn They'll Fight To Keep Centers

"Don't close the Child Care Centers!"

This was the message that some 125 mothers took to the Board of Education at its meeting last Thursday — and they got their message across.

Some of the mothers wept as they stood before the microphone, some sobbed, some pleaded, some warned—but they, all made it clear that they were prepared to fight and keep on fighting to save the centers.

Mothers Alarmed

Board members, who a week earlier had given a brief seven minutes to the "public" in a chilly meeting that lasted a scant hour and in which only one Board member seemed opposed to the closings, now seemed sympathetic and anxious to calm the mother's fears as about a dozen women appealed on behalf of their children.

Despite the reassuring approach of the Board members, the mothers, who listened attentively to the comments, expressed alarm and apprehension.

"You say, 'We hope . . . we hope . . . ;" one mother told the Board, "but if you don't find other places, then what happens?"

New Approach

Dr. Ralph Richardson brought in a motion, that was seconded by Mrs. Mary Tinglof, and passed unanimously, instructing the superintendent to begin immediately "exploratory conferences and negotiations with the several appropriate agencies of the City of Los Angeles, the County of Los Angeles and the State of California, in order to locate land and facilities for the operation of the Child Care

Congo's Freedom Fight Dealt Blows

By Grace E. Simons

The fight for freedom and independence in the Congo suffered crushing blows this week when the United Nations voted itself increased power to use military force to prevent civil war in the Congo, following the assassination of seven more Lumumba supporters.

The new killings followed the murder 10 days ago of Patrice Lumumba and two of his aides who had been shipped off to his arch enemies, Moise Tshombe and the Belgians in Elizabethville, Katanga Province.

Closing Barn Door

The U.N. action is like closing the barn door after the horse has run away. Had U.N. forces acted to protect Lumumba as they were prepared to protect Belgians when the latter were threatened, the former premier would not have been murdered.

The stepped-up authority comes too late to prevent the decimation of the ranks of the leaders who were elected by the people of the Congo and whose greatest crime was that they insisted upon a strong central government free of foreign domination.

Preventing a civil war in the Congo, under present conditions, could well be interpreted as authorization to

Doctor Asks Delay in Suit Over Punch

The hearing on the damage suit brought last week by Mrs. Noraniece Bacon against Dr. James Swan, in which the attractive young telephone employe claims she was knocked to the ground by a "$50,000 punch," was postponed when the complaint came up in the city attorney's office Monday.

Dr. Swan, through his attorney, Carl Earles, asked for the delay since his witnesses were unable to appear at the appointed time.

Mrs. Bacon, who claims she was struck on the back of the head when Dr. Swan mistakenly took her for another woman with a look-alike hairdo, is being represented by Atty. Stanley Malone. The incident occurred at the Mem-

Mother of 4 Arrested for Killing Mate

Mrs. Joyce Mae Williams was jailed by Santa Monica police Monday after she admitted she shot and killed her estranged husband, Johnnie Lee White, 31, of 10719 Mona blvd. in Los Angeles.

The shooting occurred late Saturday night when, she said, White attempted to force his way into her apartment at 1517 18th street, Santa Monica. Mrs. Williams said she fired through the door with a two-shot .22 caliber Derringer, striking White in the chest.

Mrs. Williams said she did not believe she was legally married to the man because she learned after the wedding that he had not divorced his first wife. He is, however, the father of two of her four children, all of whom were sleeping in the apartment at the time of the shooting.

EXHIBIT

On March 1, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., Mrs. Leona Franklin will be in the conference room at Safety Savings & Loan Assn., 2638 S. Western avenue, where her paintings are being shown. The public is invited to see the paintings and to talk with Mrs. Franklin.

Spies Try to Trap Civil Rights Editor

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Two women and a man, all white, told this past week how they joined integration groups as spies for Florida officials. The three made known their role at a hearing of the Florida Legislative Investigation Committee.

The committee was hearing charges against Carl Braden, an editor and field secretary for the Southern Conference Educational Fund of New Orleans.

Refused to Testify

Chairman of the committee, Rep. William G. O'Neill of Ocala, accused Braden of being "interested in agitation, stirring up sit-ins," and having "no desire to improve the position of the Negro but to further the Communist cause."

After consulting with his attorney, Len Holt of Norfolk, Va., Braden told O'Neill that his statements were based on "inaccuracies and false assumptions," and refused to testify, claiming his rights were being violated under the First Amendment.

The three spies told how they attended integrationist meetings and subscribed for integration literature at the instigation of the committee investigator, R. J. Strickland.

Big Scoop

One of them, Ernest M. Salley, even had himself "subpoenaed" so he could seek legal "help" along with Braden. He turned over to the committee a copy of the statement Braden had prepared for reading to the committee.

Salley told how he spied on SCEF, the NAACP, and the Council on Human Relations. He also made reports on peace groups.

Reporters later asked Braden if he and SCEF were concerned about spies and informers in the groups with which they work. Braden replied: "We never give it a thought. We are not doing anything subversive or unlawful. We take everybody at face value until they show that they are not what they say they are. We refuse to play into the hands of the segregationists by being suspicious of people. That's what they want us to do."

None of Your Business

In his statement — the one Sally had swiped and turned over to the committee in advance—Braden said:

"I join other victims of this committee in declaring that you are trying to hamper our work for integration under the pretext of looking for subversives. I refuse to cooperate in such an endeavor because it violates my conscience, my religious principles, and my constitutional rights.

"In other words, gentlemen, my beliefs and my associations are none of the business of this committee."

The committee indicated that it did not plan any action against Braden because of his defiance of it.

Shoots Mate in Hip After Fight About 2 Beers

Separated for two weeks after suffering severe beatings from her estranged husband, Mrs. Juanita Jones, of 1254¼ E. Vernon Ave. told police she shot her husband in self defense when he came over to visit her early last Saturday morning.

After her husband, David C. Jones, 28, of 2701 Long Beach, found two cans of beer in the refrigerator, he began to question her. She told him a friend had been in to see her by the name of Harold.

Jones took his wife over to the gas station at Vernon and Hooper and asked the attendant where Harold lived. When he refused to give out any information, Jones got mad and began to choke his wife, she claimed. He became more violent as they walked back to her house.

During the scuffle her blouse was ripped off.

Howard R. Giley, 201-A Central avenue, Monrovia, a friend of the husband attempted to separate them.

Finally Mrs. Jones broke away and ran into the house.

She said she got a gun from the trunk and when she saw her husband coming up the stairs after her she shot him in the left hip.

A witness said Jones had beaten up his wife on several occasions.

Garment Union Gives $1000 To NAACP

BIG THREE FOR POULSON—Big talk for the re-election of Mayor Norris Poulson got underway this week at a conference of the "Big Three," Norman O. Houston, Sr., left, president of Golden State Mutual Life Ins. Co.; George A. Beavers, chairman of GSM Board, and Mrs. Emily A. Johnson, who heads the realty company that bears her name. All three endorse Poulson.—(Chuck Williams).

Group Tells Program to Increase Representation

Several hundred persons met Sunday at a mass rally at the First AME Church, to voice support of the Fair Representative in Government Committee's plan to send Donald Derricks and Finney Jackson to Sacramento as lobbylists for the committee's "2 and 4 Plan." Wendell Green, chairman of the group, gave a detailed report on the group's program.

Individuals were asked to sign and distribute petitions prepared by the committee and to send a postcard or letter to Gov. Pat Brown, Assemblyman Crown, and their individual assemblymen urging support for the "2 and 4 Plan." The "2 and 4 Plan" of the committee is designed to assure the election of two Negro congressmen and four Negro assemblymen from Los Angeles County.

Dr. Leroy C. Hardy of Long Beach State College consultant to the Assembly Committee on Election and Reapportionment, congratulated this community on its interest in reapportionment and discussed some of the technical problems involved in reapportioning the state each 10 years.

Marnesba T. Tackett, chairman of the group's communication committee, informed the meeting of the committee's desire to have more than 50,000 cards and letters directed to the elected representatives of the state. Mrs. Tackett stated that plans were now underway to organize in each Congressional District and Assembly District committees to stimulate the mailing and petition program.

Urban League to Show School Film

The Los Angeles Urban League has scheduled a showing of the film "A Morning With Jimmie." The subject should prove helpful to parents with youngsters attending school.

The adult public is invited to be present at the Urban League Office building, 3839 S. Western avenue, at 7:30 p.m., Friday, Feb. 24. All campaign workers are urged to be present. Come and bring a friend.

NAACP Meets This Sunday

The Los Angeles Branch NAACP will hold its regular monthly membership meeting on Sunday, Feb. 26, at 3 p.m. at the 92nd street Christian church, 1478 E. 92nd street, of which Rev. C. W. Arnold is pastor.

• Branch President Edward Warren said some very important questions of branch polcy and program are on the agenda.

Sunday, Feb. 26, is being observed in most of the community churches as NAACP Day.

BLIND SPOTS

"Less than one million dollars a year is currently going into research efforts to solve the problems of blindness," Dr. M. D. Graham, director of the Division of Research and Statistics of the American Foundation for the Blind, stated in a speech delivered in Boston. "And at least double the present research effort is necessary," he added.

Poulson Wins Approval in Mayor's Race

Norman O. Houston, president of Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company, Mrs. Emily A. Johnson, realty broker, and George A. Beavers Jr., chairman of the Board of GSM, this week added their names to the growing list of community leaders endorsing Mayor Norris Poulson's bid for reelection.

In commenting on the administration of Mayor Poulson, the leaders said that they were satisfied that Los Angeles has enjoyed enviable economic and civic progress during the last eight years, and that the new "face-lifting" being done throughout the city deserves the follow-through of the progressive-minded mayor.

Advances Noted

It was pointed out during the meeting "that many of our citizens have not kept abreast of the important contributions of the mayor, in cooperation with the governor of the state and legislative bodies for the betterment of our area.

Assemblyman Augustus Hawkins, it was pointed out, introduced the Sports Arena bill to the legislature and was supported by Mayor Poulson. The Mayor, more than any other person, the "Three" said, was responsible for the first National Democratic Convention being held in that same Sports Arena.

The Urban Redevelopment program that will include the eastside was a topic for conversation by the "Big Three" as one of the many projects supported by the Mayor.

Emily Johnson stated that her keen political interest in the past eight years can be credited to Mayor Poulson, who was responsible for her first political activity.

In war an engagement is a battle; in courtship it's surrender.

New Buildings at Carver Inspected by Press Corps

By C. Marie Hughes

Representatives from local newspapers were guests at a press luncheon last Thursday noon at George Washington Carver Junior High School, to get a preview of the extensive rebuilding that is nearing completion.

After lunch, the group was taken on a tour of the "New Look" on the campus. The remodelling has been in progress for the past six years. The new buildings and the expansive gymnasium, one of the best equipped in the city, represent an expenditure of $2,300,000.

This, said William Bailey, public relations consultant of the school, is an exciting news-worthy event of major educational importance. He also stated that Carver is the only junior high school in the city that has a turf field.

Before the building project is completed, the buildings on the playground will be torn down and an overpass will be built to lesson the hazards of crossing McKinley avenue.

The Ladies and Knights, a group of students who L. A. Mazique, principal, called Carver's "Cream of the Crop," were on hand to escort the visitors through the handsome new additions.

The "moment to remember" for all Carverites will be the official dedication activities which will be held March 9.

Chief Testifies On Frame-Up Of Dr. Garland

The lengthy extortion trial against two Long Beach police officers accused of framing Dr. J. O. Garland, prominent doctor, and swindling him of $400 a month, continued into its third week.

Police Chief Bill Mooney took the stand, as the prosecution continued to put on witnesses against James Allen Thiele, 48, and Harry P. Finch Jr., 42, who are accused of threatening to arrest Dr. Garland on a trumped up abortion charge unless he paid off.

Dr. Garland paid, but he also went to Chief Mooney, told him his story, and asked what he should do. Warren Jordan and a white fellow-officer, Ray Henry, also went to the "Chief."

They reportedly told him that Finch and Thiele had asked them to act as go-betweens, pick up the monthly payment and hand it over to them.

Chief Mooney investigated Dr. Garland's record and then set the trap that resulted in the arrest of the two detectives who had been on the force for many years.

The trial is expected to last into the middle of next week, and perhaps beyond. It started Feb. 1 in Judge J. Howard Ziemann's court after many postponements and delays sought by the defendants.

Cool Cats Play Coon-Can, End Game in Can

Answering a call last Wednesday, officers found two men bleeding from injuries when they arrived at 440 E. 42nd place. Each named the other as the attacker.

Ray George Washington, 65, of 440 E. 42nd place, told Newton police that he was playing Coon-Can for a dime a game with Nelson White, 45, of 309 E. 52nd street.

They had been drinking vodka during the game. When Washington stopped playing, White started toward the front door. Then, he took a knife from his pocket and cut Washington and knocked him down, Washington said. He added that he reached into his drawer for his gun and shot White.

Nelson White, laborer, told police a different story. "Old man George Ray shot me," he said. "While we were gambling, playing tonk, I beat him out of $3 and he got mad.

Washington was treated for lacerations on the face and right hand and booked at Central Jail. Nelson was treated for gunshot wounds and transferred to the prison ward at General Hospital.

A pocket knife belonging to White and a gun belonging to Washington were kept by police for evidence.

Poetry-Jazz Draws Large Beach Crowd

A large and enthusiastic audience heard Langston Hughes read his poems at Santa Monica High School last Saturday evening as a rumored protest against his appearance fizzled.

The expected uproar and demonstration outside of Barnum Auditorium failed to materialize. The Santa Monica police stood guard outside, however, as the concert ran off smoothly, without incident.

The warm, engaging personality of the poet, essayist and novelist set the audience at ease. They listened attentively and applauded lustily as Hughes read some of his poetic gems accented by the musical background played by the Buddy Collette Quintet.

The poetry reflected Hughes' great concern for the fight for equality by Negroes and all freedom loving people.

His poems of protest triggered accusations that he is a Communist. Anonymous callers telephoned the school threatening to picket the auditorium if Hughes appeared. The school authorities ignored the threats.

Hughes received the NAACP Spingarn Medal in 1960 and was admitted last week as a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

searching it, found an icepick, in addition to the "cocktail."

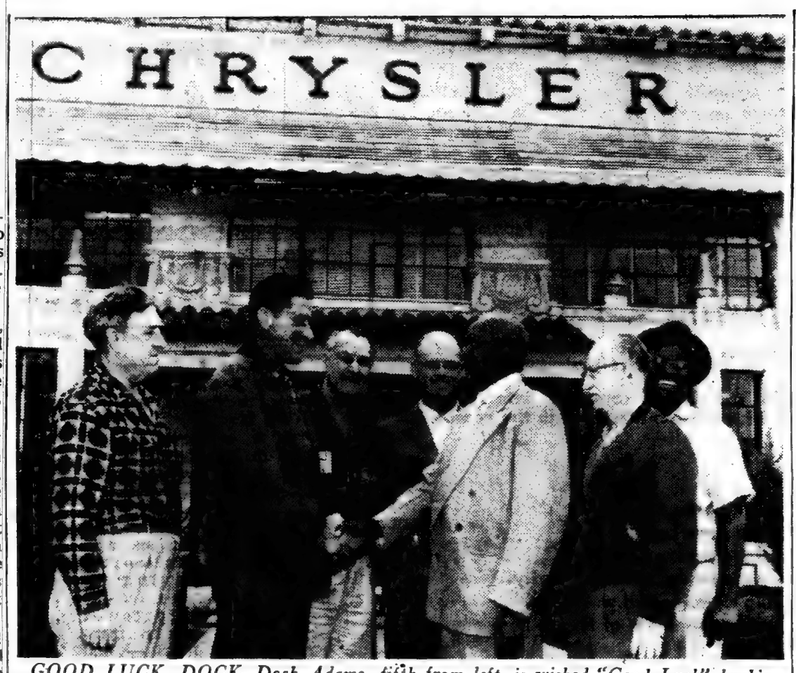
Won't Snitch

Webb told police that he didn't throw any gas bombs out of the car and that he didn't want to tell who made the two bombs "because they wouldn't snitch on me."

The others arrested were: Tommy Lee Hollins, 17, of 1817 S. Harvard blvd., driver of the car; Frank Harris, Jr., 18, of 4810 Halldale; Essex Howard Grant, 18, of 1510 W. 35th place; and Gene Harold Williams, 17, of 8503 S. Olive street.

Friends 'Jumped'

Williams said, "Last Monday some of our friends got 'jumped.' We had gas bombs in our car to protect ourselves." Then he added, "I guess we were going to use the bombs to shake those people up."



Harris said he didn't know anything about a gas bomb, but added the information that the Gladiators who jumped "some of our guys" are "older studs" who "beat up kids and 14 years old."

Hollins didn't know about the bombs, either, but explained that "we have to protect ourselves from these other gangs who want to break up all our parties."

Grant said he was asleep when "five thousand of those guys jumped me at Denker the other night." He didn't know anything about the bombs, either.

TRAFFIC DEATHS

Traffic accidents occurring in the unincorporated areas and in cities of Los Angeles County during 1960 caused the death of 864 persons and injuries to 66,722 others, the California Highway Patrol reported.

UAW-Chrysler Pension Benefits Negro Worker

Dock Adams, who started working at the Los Angeles plant of the Chrysler Corp. in 1947 as a janitor, retired this past week with the classification of spray painter, and with the well-wishes of officers and fellow-workers of Local 230 of the United Automobile Workers AFL-CIO.

The union announced that he is the first Negro to retire under the UAW-Chrysler Pension Plan at the local plant.

Lifetime Member

Upon his retirement Adams was given a lifetime membership in the UAW which entitles him, among other things, to participate in the retirees recreation program of Local 230, which is considered to be among the best in Southern California.

In negotiations in 1946, the union's officers and Plant Shop Committee successfully proposed that Negroes, who had been hired during wartime, should also be hired in peacetime.

Under the union-negotiated seniority agreement, Adams was advanced progressively from his janitor's job to jobs requiring greater skill and affording higher pay.

Elected Officer

During his years with Local 230, Adams served as an elected officer of the union and for many years served as a delegate to the UAW Citizenship Council and the Greater Los Angeles CIO Council.

Among those who gathered to wish him well were: Bob Thimmes, union president; Sim Huff, vice president; Clarence Gentry, committeeman; Bill Goldmann, international representative; W. W. "Scotty" Young, financial secretary; and Dudley Walton, committeeman.

Adams was born in Gilmer, Texas on March 1, 1893, and came to California in 1946.

Masked Thugs Hit Post Office

Three postal employees were shot at and pistol whipped in an attempted hold-up at the rear of Dockweiler Station, 1219 W. Jefferson blvd., Monday night.

Two armed bandits, wearing stockings over their faces, slipped around the side of the building and ordered the men, who were loading mail, to face the wall.

Vincent World, 25, driver of a mail pickup truck, was knocked to the ground. Then he heard the shots, so he "stayed down." He was struck on the head, leaving a gash that had to be sewed up later.

Thomas Mosley, 42, a clerk, was also severely pistol whipped, and also had to have stitches taken in his head.

Philip Rousseau, 61, driver of the Central Post Office truck, missed death by a fraction of an inch when a bullet brushed his temple and forehead.

None of the injuries, however, was listed as serious.

Apparently frightened away, the masked bandits fled without getting any loot.

This was the third such holdup in the last two to three weeks. The most recent one was at the Hilldale Avenue station when the thugs got away with two sacks of mail, one of registered mail valued at $768. They also grabbed a .38 special revolver from one of the guards.

Both attacks were made while the trucks were stopped at the loading block.

World, a veteran of the Korean War, has been with the Post Office since 1957. He is a temporary collection carrier.

Mosely has been with the P. O. for 10 years. He is a clerk at the window at Dockweiler.

Experts who've timed it say a wink takes one-fortieth of a second. Anyone know a quicker way to get into trouble?

With Dr. Frank R. Veal, President of Allen University, Dean Cumbo discusses second semester plans during coffee break. "Most of us here at school prefer Carnation to cream in our coffee," Miss Cumbo points out. "It makes coffee taste so delicious—and it's nice to know Carnation cuts fat calories in half!"

Allen University students gather for an informal supper at Dean Cumbo's apartment. Left to right are Sitrena Burris, Miss Cumbo and Gloria Massey. Main dish will be chicken with Carnation cream sauce (recipe below). "Carnation has been the milk in my home as long as I can remember," Miss Cumbo says. "In fact, it was my formula milk when I was a baby." This milk in the red and white can is the world's favorite, by far.

Dean of Students at Allen University tells why...
"Carnation is the milk I use like cream for coffee and cooking—even whipping!"
During her busy day at Allen University in Columbia, South Carolina, Miss T. Lorraine Cumbo likes to relax for a coffee break now and then. After school she comes home to her attractive apartment on the campus—and relaxes by serving dinner to student guests!
"Cooking is my hobby—but I'm careful about calories. That's why I cook with Carnation. It makes everything taste so creamy—but it has only ½ the fat calories of cream."
Today's Carnation is evaporated a special way that makes it look, pour and even whip like cream—with ½ the fat calories, and at ½ the cost of cream. Even when you mix it with an equal amount of water, Carnation gives smoother cooking results than ordinary milk, at far less cost.

recipe:
Creamed Chicken with CARNATION LUMP-FREE CREAM SAUCE
(Makes about 4 servings)
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
1⅔ cups (large can) undiluted CARNATION EVAPORATED MILK
Blend flour, salt and butter together in saucepan over low heat until smooth. Gradually add undiluted Carnation to butter-flour mixture. Stir constantly until thickened and smooth. For Creamed Chicken or Turkey: Pour "Lump-Free" Cream Sauce over mixture of 2 cups chopped cooked chicken or turkey, ½ cup chopped celery, ½ cup sliced stuffed olives. Serve over toast slices or toasted buns.

Murder in Congo

Cold blooded murder is the only phrase that describes the killing of Patrice Lumumba, Congo's first prime minister, and eight of his followers.

Lumumba and two of the others were murdered on the direct orders of Moise Tshombe, a Belgian puppet, who controls the mineral rich Katanga province. The other six were put to death by Albert Kalonji, another Belgian puppet who rules a piece of Kasai Province.

However, President Joseph Kasabuvu and General Joseph Mobuto, comic opera strong man, share the blame for the murders. They sent Lumumba and his followers to the Katanga and Kasai provinces out of the certain knowledge that they would be killed whenever it was expedient.

Lumumba's murder became expedient when his following continued to grow despite his imprisonment. It became apparent that he was the only Congolese of national stature who could command a following among all tribes.

The greater his strength the more necessary it became for the Belgians and their stooge, Tshombe, to dispose of Lumumba. Tshombe had him murdered and cooked up an "escape" story to cover up the crime.

It is too late for might-have-beens but it is apparent that United Nations policy played into Tshombe's hands. The UN asserted neutrality but permitted Lumumba's arrest and consequent transfer to Tshombe's jails; it failed to take any precautions in the face of the fact that imprisonment in Katanga was a prelude to murder.

Belgium, which is backing Tshombe, wants chaos in the Congo. It hopes to move back into control in the event of civil war. In order to prevent that tragedy the United Nations must take a different tack than the one it has pursued.

The UN leaders who hope to patch up a peace in the Congo without inclusion of Lumumba's followers in its government are deluding themselves and the world and laying the basis for more bloodshed and murder.

What the United Nations should do now is to take the advice of African leaders such as Nkrumah of Ghana and Padmore of Liberia and force Belgium to keep hands off while the Congolese people decide their own fate.

Complaints About Police

Mayor Norris Poulson last week commented that complaints of "alleged police misconduct can be filed directly with the Police Commission" and added that the method "has not been used in the past."

The mayor believes that those who have been urging a police review board should try the method of direct complaints to the Commission before pressing for a new agency.

We agree that complaints can be made directly to the Commission and that such procedure has certain advantages over complaints made directly to the police department. However, there's a gimmick in the method that the mayor didn't mention.

Police Commission rules provide that it may refer the complaints to its "general manager" and that's exactly what it has done in the past when complaints have been made. And who's the "general manager"? You guessed it: the Chief of Police himself.

It is quite true that the Police Commission may refer the complaint to a Hearing Examiner who may hold a hearing and take evidence under oath. After taking that evidence the Examiner must make a report to the Commission setting forth his findings and recommendations.

The Commission may then take such action as it deems advisable, including instructions to the Chief of Police as to the disposition of the matter.

We know of complaints having been made to the Commission but we can't recall a case in which the Commission has exerted the power of appointing a Hearing Examiner. We would like to see the Commission assert its powers and make independent investigations. Perhaps it could demonstrate that a police review board isn't needed.

Federal Civil Rights

Monday's decision by the United States Supreme Court that an aggrieved individual may sue police officers under a federal statute may point the way to curb police lawlessness.

The plaintiffs in the Illinois case complained that police officers broke into their home without a warrant, roughed them up and damaged their property. The defendant police officers claimed that they couldn't be sued in federal courts because state law provided redress for the plaintiffs.

The Supreme Court decision is important because it holds that persons who complain of police brutality don't have to file their cases in state courts but may sue under the federal law in federal courts.

Prospects for a redress of grievances are much greater in federal than in state courts. That's true even in the North and goes double for the South.

We hope Los Angeles lawyers will take a look at the decision and ascertain whether or not it can be used in this city.

Battleaxe & Bread

By Lester B. Granger

By Lester B. Granger

MEMPHIS—To the average well-read resident of the North or West, the tragedy of Tennessee is currently being played in Fayette and Haywood Counties, a couple of hours ride from Memphis and less, where Negro farm families are stubbornly paying the price for the efforts of their menfolks — and womenfolks too — to exercise their constitutional right to vote. And it is a grim price — dispossession from farm tenant and laborer homes, boycotts against purchase of essential supplies and continuous efforts at intimidation by the "lawmen." (God forgive the use of the word in this connection!)

Granger

But to thousands of colored Memphians who have lived in this southern metropolis all their lives, the real tragedy is not out in the rural counties but right here in this former province of the notorious Boss Crump, now happily deceased.

Won't Betray

For the farm folk are living in what one newspaper writer calls "the area that God forgot." The soil is poor; it would take thousands and thousands of dollars for a family to realize a decent return on cultivation of a hundred acres—and even half of a thousand dollars is something that most of these families will never own, free and unencumbered, as long as they live.

The people of Tent City can, with help, solve their problems over night if this is all they want—by accepting help with transportation and taking employment and residence on some other farms under more promising conditions. They have turned down at least one attractive, bona fide offer along this line because they feel that they represent a principle that must not be betrayed.

But Not For Negroes

But the city of Memphis is not a run-down, old-plantation area. It is a thriving commercial and industry center—"the capital of the Cotton South," as the local Chamber of Commerce puts it — and there is enough prosperity here for all of its half-million residents to share in.

Nevertheless, from that prosperity a majority of 160,000 Negro Memphians are carefully excluded. The methods of exclusion are ingeniously contrived — as if it were by scientific planning. Actually it's a matter of happenstance, largely — the trial and error method applied to race relations, so that those methods of racial discrimination proven to work in keeping Negroes at a disadvantage are retained, while those that don't work are put aside.

For instance, nobody would ever accuse the white carpenters of Memphis of being scientific as a group, or even smart. In large part they are former farm boys from rural Mississippi, just south of Memphis, or East Arkansas, just across the river bridge. They came into Memphis and found jobs as building laborers and the more steady and dependable of these became carpenter apprentices, graduating in time to craftmen's status.

Separate Local

When they came, they met Negro carpenters who had also come up the apprentice route — but for these it had been a hard grind. They had fought against race discrimination at every step of the way —finding a job and a master craftsman who would accept them, being denied union membership and finally setting up a separate local of their own, being denied many union jobs claimed by the white local for its own membership.

Yet there were six or seven hundred of these colored union carpenters who were making their union rates, working possibly two-thirds or three-fourths the number of days as their white fellows but still making considerably more than the average Negro worker of Memphis. But the vicious trial-and-error process never stopped.

The white carpenters local found job after job—contractor after contractor—to be drawn into the tight little ring marked, "No Negroes need apply." Discouraged, more and more of the older colored men passed up their expensive union cards; fewer and fewer younger men found opportunity to train for the craft. The membership of the colored local shrank by nine-tenths; the group was no longer a serious threat — however well-organized—to the white local with more than 1500 members well-employed.

Murder by Starvation

There's the tragedy — the murder by starvation of well-trained, hard-working men who have given their lives to mastery of their craft and who now see their race's future in this field being destroyed by ignorantly brutish, slyly scheming, hate-sick men who do not even know what they are doing.

You ask, Where's the AFL-CIO? Why don't the carpenters' international union officials step in and stop this? Well, they have stepped in—and stepped out again—and nothing has happened. Because the mechanics of trade union jurisdiction and operation are as complicated as politics in Tammany Hall. Just when you think you've got what you want, it isn't there at all.

U. N. Strengthened in Congo, Supports Killers of Lumumba suppress all authentic liberation movements on the part of the Congolese which now must take the form of rebellion against the artificially propped-up authority of the impotent "strong man" Joseph Mobutu and the pliant president, Joseph Kasavubu.

Signed Death Warrant

It was this pair which consigned Lumumba to the hands of Tshombe's murderous gangs, thus virtually signing his death warrant. The U.N. forces stood by and refused to intervene.

It was this same pair that sent the seven other Lumumba men to their death by shipping them off to the prisons of Albert Kalonji, the puppet who has set himself up as ruler of a so-called "Mining State" in Kasai Province.

The Soviet Union, which had called for the withdrawal of U.N. forces in the Congo, following the death of Lumumba, failed to press its demands and, for its own reasons, abstained from voting on the motion granting increased powers to the forces it had sought to expel.

Contradictory

The actions of the United Arab Republic are also contradictary. On Feb. 1, the UAR expressed its lack of confidence in the U.N. handling of Congo affairs by withdrawing its troops. After Lumumba's assassination, it was the first nation to recognize the government of his supporter, Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville, in the north — Lumumba territory.

Yet when the debate opened in the Security Council, the UAR combined with Liberia and Ceylon to propose the resolution that was finally approved, 9-0, which places confidence in the U.N. to bring order out of chaos.

Tshombe Howls

The resolution also urged that measures be taken for "immediate withdrawal of Belgian and other foreign military personnel and advisers not under the United Nations command."

That proviso brought forth a long and agonized — and defiant — howl from Tshombe who rules the wealthy mining and industrialized Katanga Province as an Uncle Tom on behalf of the Belgians, in return, of course, for favors rendered.

Tshombe, in effect, declared that he was being robbed, and called for a general mobilization of white and Congolese to defend his Congo province against a "declaration of war" by the United Nations.

Whether or not the U.N. will carry out this section of the resolution appears problematical—unless an "arrangement" satisfactory to Belgium can be reached. During the past eight months ever since Lumumba invited the United Nations to come in and help restore order — never foreseeing that these same forces would stand by while he was brutally beaten and would permit him to be sent to his doom — the U.N. has repeatedly called for the withdrawal of Belgian military men.

Today, however, Belgian officers function openly in Katanga Province and, miraculously, Tshombe's forces seem equipped with the latest in planes and guns and suffer no lack of ammunition.

The proposal now is to get together some kind of a "representative" government which will form a "federated" union, leaving the provinces virtually autonomous, with little prospect of developing a strong, unified country independent of outside influences.

Nationalism and freedom will have to struggle against heavy odds in such an environment to develop and flourish.

Mothers to Fight Closing of Centers

Center program, especially in those areas where the program is in jeopardy because of the pressure of school enrollment."

This represented a shift from the position taken a week earlier, but it fell far short of what the mothers want.

"We're against the closing of the centers," Mrs. Doris Berryman told the Eagle Tuesday. "We don't want them relocated. And we're ready to fight!"

"They can promise, and then nothing comes of it," she continued.

Like Chavez Ravine

"Just like Chavez Ravine. They pushed the people out and promised us public housing. Then they turned it over to a ball club!

"We don't want the centers moved," she insisted. "And I'm speaking for the majority of the mothers. We don't want the children crossing the streets, walking several blocks, sometimes without enough warm clothing. We don't want them relocated!"

As the situation now stands, a memorandum was submitted to the Board by Robert J. Purdy, associate superintendent in charge of the city's elementary schools, providing for the closing of 13 Child Care Centers and Extended Day Care Centers in nine schools, all in the heavily populated Negro and Mexican areas. None of the 70 other centers under the Board's supervision are to be shut down.

No Alternate Plan

No provision was made for relocating the centers, and the Board seemed to take the position that whether, or if, the centers are relocated is not its concern.

The proposal was passed to Superintendent Ellis A. Jarvis, with the understanding that in a week or two he would bring in a report to the Board of Education embodying Purdy's proposals — that is, that the centers be closed.

That proposal still stands, despite Dr. Richardson's proposal that the superintendent try to find alternate locations and despite a motion passed Monday that parents would be notified at least 60 days before the centers are closed.

Not Binding

The mothers were quick to understand that Dr. Richardson's motion binds the Board to no commitment to retain the centers, and the 60-day notice was dismissed as offering nothing at all.

The mothers say they don't want to be told WHEN the centers are to be closed, but that they are NOT going to be closed.

The next meeting of the Board is today, Thursday, at 4 p.m. As of Tuesday, Superintendent Jarvis had not placed the Purdy proposals on the agenda, but the Eagle was informed that the centers could be brought up at today's meeting nonetheless.

Meeting Tonight

A meeting, to be addressed by two of the Board members, Dr. Richardson and Mrs. Tinglof, has been scheduled for tonight, Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. at 1138 W. Manchester blvd.

Mrs. Ocie Sampson, one of the mothers at the Main Street Center, in appealing to the Board not to close the centers, said that some of us work from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m., and asked, "If the centers are closed, what will we do with the children?"

Mrs. Laura Flores, the sole support of her two children, said, "I don't know what I would do without the centers. They are part of my life."

'Must We Starve?'

Mrs. Doris Austin, the mother of four, wanted to know what the mothers are to do if the Board doesn't come up with an answer on the relocation of centers. "Are we to stay home? Are we supposed to starve?" With tears in her voice, she asked, "Who would I turn to? Where would I go?"

Mrs. Billye Pruitt said the centers are "very, very important to me," and added, emotionally, "We will continue to fight you if you close our centers."

"That's right! That's right!" came a murmured response from many voices in the audience.

Mrs. Velma Walker fought to keep back the tears. Then she said, "I love my child, my little girl. I'm afaird of her being molested. I can't let her go alone.

Only a Small Area

"These children are our future," she went on. "Unless we give them a solid foundation, guidance, security in their youth, there will be no security in our future."

Mrs. Dora Hawkins pleaded, "The children take only a very small area . . . We have to plead for your understanding and help. If they close? What are we to do if they close? Baby sitters cost $15 a week.

"They have better education in Beverly Hills," she pointed out, "but we have to stay in the slums. And they get worse."

D. C. since 1921.

Perry was head of the Black and Tan faction of his party in Mississippi and he fought a cagey 40 year battle to fend off the lily-white faction of the party. He finally lost the battle in 1960 because the lily whites had the support of the Eisenhower administration and of those northern Republicans who dream of an anti-Negro GOP in the South. The vigor of the 40 year battle he waged may be guaged from the fact that he was indicted during the Hoover administration for alleged sale of political favors.

He fought back vigorously and when the political smoke had cleared away he had been acquitted by an all-white southern jury. The Hoover administration which had secured the indictments took him back on his own terms as the titular leader of the Republican party in Mississippi. It wasn't long before his Black and Tans—the Negro dominated faction of the GOP —were back in the saddle. I've just pointed out that he finally lost power in 1960 but by that time Perry was more than 80 years old and I'm sure that some of the zest for the battle had gone out of him.

I knew Perry best as a lawyer. We were on opposite sides of the political fence: he a bitter end Republican and I a New Dealer. I was a youngster in the law practice when I first knew him back in the 1920's. He was an old and seasoned lawyer. I suppose that if you had added it up you would have said we were in complete opposition one to the other. The truth is that I counted him as my friend, as a man who ever went out of his way to give me a tip here or there or a word of advice on what to do or not to do.

We shelved the political question by laying it completely to one side. Perry's premise was that, all else aside, we were Negroes and that as such we had plenty of problems in common. "We have got more to get together on than we have to fight about," he told me once. I guess he was right.

Democrats Did It

Howard's father had been a power in Reconstruction government in Mississippi and a member of the state legislature. He was old enough to remember the tactics which were used to discredit Negro legislators and to impose the Jim Crow system on a state which had more than 50 per cent Negro population. It rankled in his heart. He remembered that the disfranchisement and the imposition of Jim Crow was the work of the Democrats and he never forgave them. I could understand that.

To him, the Republican party remained the party of Abraham Lincoln and the party of Emancipation, no matter how much it erred in the latter days. He dreamed the dream that it would return to the glories of its past. It never did. But Perry Howard never forgot the dream that it might do so, indeed would do so. To him, the Republican party was the ship and all else was the sea.

Dying Generation

Perry's generation is dying out. The younger Negroes regard the Republican party as the party that gangs up with southerners to defeat civil rights legislation and that opposes social security, old age benefits, and medical insurance. They can never see it through Perry Howard's eyes.

Like I said, his death marked the end of an era. He was a link with a past that is forever gone. I'm glad I knew him. I heard him talk many times about Reconstruction and how close the South came to adopting the democratic way of life. He blamed the Democrats for the failure. I used to try to convince him of the error of his ways and views. Nothing came of that attempt. He was a gallant warrior in a lost cause.

Talbot of 812 Brooks avenue and little Miss D. Cole of 1337 6th avenue were converted during the services and will be baptized on March 5.

Mrs. B. McClendon on Westminister avenue has returned home following surgery. Also the mother of Mrs. L. Hoskins. Mrs. V. Cole and Mrs. A. Williamson visited the two last week.

Baha'is Set Intercalary Celebration

The Baha'is of Los Angeles will celebrate the Baha'i Intercalary Days at the Baha'i Center, 331 New Hampshire avenue, Feb. 25-28.

These four Intercalary Days —literally meaning "inserted between months" — round out the Baha'i 19 day, 19 month calendar. It is a time of gift-giving and joyousness, and precedes the beginning of the last month of the Baha'i year, during which Baha'is fast from dawn to dark. The Baha'i New Year begins on March 21, the first day of Spring.

Young People Score at Ward

Southern California ministers were reported to have cooperated beautifully with the youth of the district in the seventh annual Youth Fellowship meeting held recently at Ward AME Church.

Rev. J. N. Ferrell, of Santa Ana, chartered a bus to bring his two choirs here while Rev. William Jacks, of San Bernardino, chartered one bus to bring his Junior Choir to the fellowship service.

The ceremony opened with a 13-choir processional augmented by representatives of each church marching to the opening hymn. Deana Payne served as mistress of ceremonies. Witnesses reported the program to be one of the finest spiritual Christian experiences ever witnessed.

Isaac S. Stewart was host president with Benjamin Ingham director of the event, whose theme was "His Word Commands — To Regions Beyond I Must Go."

Miss Ira Woodfin was the speaker for the afternoon program. Miss Jean Trezvant, Huey Weatherby, Helen Lewis, Stanley Hollis, Philip Robinson, Eugenia Clark and Moses E. Webb participated in the Youth presentation.

Rev. L. S. Odom was host pastor.

Speak at Ward

Ward AME Church, 1177 W. 25th street, has outlined a year long celebration of its 50th anniversary. One of the first guest speakers on the agenda is the Rev. G. Wayman Blakely.

Freedom Village Leader to Speak at Youth Workshop Sat.

The facts and problems involved in segregation will be dealt with at a mammoth all day session of the youth of Hamilton Methodist Church, 6330 S. Figueroa street. The object of the workshop, however, is to improve relationships between young people of all races and creeds who have been invited to the workshop. The sessions open at 9:30 a.m. through 5:30 p.m.

The youth will strive to remove the causes of needless tensions and fears created by false notions promoted by race baiters.

Youth's Battle

Charles Jones, program chairman, will introduce speakers on the panel: Odell Sanders, leader of the "Freedom Village," Haywood County, Tenn.; Felton Valdry, ousted sit-in student from Southern University and Preston Taylor, vocational service secretary of the Los Angeles Urban League, who will present the film, "Youth's Battle With Segregation."

The following persons will lead discussion groups:

Miss Nira Hardon, International Affairs specialist; Rev. Jack Boyce, Pasadena Minister and Los Angeles Urban League Board member; Earl Walters, chairman of Los Angeles CORE; also Mrs. Glendora Dawson, of Women for Legislative Action; Rev. Charles Doak, minister at large; Dr. H. Claude Hudson; Melvin L. Riley; Felton Valdry, Maxcy D. Filer and Alvin Levin.

At 2 p.m. a demonstration will show appropriate use of voting rights, adequate housing, full education, recreation opportunities, and employment and political representation for all.

Mrs. Jessie Lee Catley is superintendent of the Youth department and Rev. John N. Doggett, Jr. is pastor of Hamilton Methodist Church.

Baptist Ministers Union Repudiates McDonough

Representative Gordon B. McDonough was the recipient of a letter written on Feb. 15, which read as follows:

"Honorable Sir—

In a largely attended meeting of the Baptist Ministers Union of Los Angeles and vicinity, the Union took cognizance of the fact that you voted against enlarging the House Rules Committee from 12 to 15, thus making it possible for liberal legislation affecting, among other things, Civil Rights.

We hasten to say to you that we were shocked and amazed at your conduct. You have been elected and kept in office for many years largely with the help of the Negro vote. We consider you vote as a definite alignment with Southern sentiment which still seeks to consign the Negro to continuous second class citizenship.

We consider your vote a slap in the face of your Negro friends who have supported you. Your liberal attitude while Supervisor of Los Angeles County is not sufficient to command our future support, in view of the fact that you so recently turned against us.

You have shown gross ingratitude to your friends. We have, therefore, no other choice except to repudiate you, even as you have betrayed us. When, therefore, you come up for re-election, it is our plan to do all we can to help defeat you. This action of ours, together with this entire communication to you, is being widely publicized in the Negro Press, the Associated Press, the Crisis, and all local papers.

We wish you good health, but we cannot sit idly by, and help keep a man like you in office who has voted against our best interest."

AME Women, Men Present United Effort

Mrs. Ruth H. Kodani, an international figure in Humanities, will be the Women's Day speaker at First AME Church, of which Dr. H. H. Brookins is minister, on Sunday, Feb. 26, at 10:45 a.m., in connection with the joint Men's and Women's Day effort.

Mrs. Kodani is a member of the Board of Directors of the Church Federation of Los Angeles and a member of the Southern California Advisory Committee to the Attorney General on Constitutional Rights.

Special music will be rendered by the Women's Day Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Eugenia Clark. Mrs. Marion Downs Pierce will be guest soloist. Mrs. Ruth Butler will chair the program and Mrs. Martha Jones will be acting Women's Day chairman.

Promptly at 3 p.m., the Rev. M. J. Bell, pastor of Phillips Temple CME Church, will be the speaker for the men who share the honors of the day.

Don Lee White

Mrs. Jean Prescott

Concert of Year to Be Heard at Grant

The "Concert of the Year," to be presented by the laymen of Grant AME Church, 105th and Central avenue at 5 p.m. next Sunday, is expected to be one of the outstanding musical events of the season, according to Mrs. Dorothye Boswell, chairman of the committee. Rev. Henry W. Murph is pastor of the church.

The artists are members of the Grant music department, —Don Lee White, the award winning choir director, and organist of the church and Mrs. Jean Juniel Prescott, pianist, who is known throughout the southland as the "Incomparable Jean."

Both artists are graduates of accredited colleges and are constantly striving to improve their artistic ability. Mrs. Prescott is an instructor of the piano and before coming to Grant, she served 11 years as pianist at Zion Hill Baptist Church. She is a student of Dr. Gerhart Albershiem and Mrs. Bernice Lawson.

Mr. White directs the three choirs at Grant and has worked with the "Dorians" and the "Profesional Chorale," as well as training choirs for Hollywood musical productions. He served as organist and choir director for New Hope Baptist Church for a number of years before joining the Grant staff.

A reception will follow the concert.

Men's Day

Hamilton Methodist Church, 6330 S. Figueroa street, will observe Annual Men's Day, Sunday, Feb. 26 — the theme of the day: "The Way of Good Men." The goal of the day, $5,000.

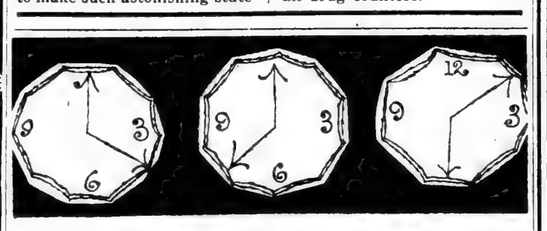
Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.



Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

RACING WITH RAMSEY

George Ramsey

CALIENTE: An unidentified selector who invested only a $2 ticket took the entire first-place pool of $78.277 in the 5-10 public handicapping contest at Caliente Race Track last Sunday.

The big winner, who hadn't appeared at the customary time to identify himself, named five winning horses. Flaggs Dream, the horse he missed, was the only mutuel favorite to score in the 5-10 races, paying $5.60.

Eighty-three shares in the consolation pool paid $314.20 for four winning horses. The pool grossed $115.966 on an afternoon when a crowd of 17,153 turned out for the races. Winning numbers were 2-3-4-2-4-8.

SANTA ANITA: Two big features are in store for the fans this week at Santa Anita. The first will be Wednesday, when the $40,000 added Washington Birthday Handicap will be run over a distance of 1½ miles. On Saturday, Feb. 25, the big main event will be the 24th running of the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap over the distance of 1¼ miles.

Your writer picks Prove It to win very handily, with American Comet second, and First Balcony, third.

Willie Davis Wins Golden Gloves Title

Willie Davis, scoring a third round knockdown in the feature match of the Golden Gloves finals last Friday night at the Olympic Auditorium, went on to win the light-heavyweight title over Richard Ellis in a free punching, bloody brawl.

In the middleweight division Leon Hardison of Las Vegas scored a first round knockout over Duke Hollyway's promising amateur Henry Barnes, to eliminate him in the semi-finals.

David Shavanaux of Las Vegas won the lightweight trophy and was voted the outstanding boxer of the two-night eliminations tourney.

Two knockouts highlighted the finals. Al Bolton of L. A., cooled Rudy Astinzo, Las Vegas, in the second and Louis Prez, L. A., scored a second round KO over Frank Continas, L. A.

Redord Clagg out-gunned Henry Gamble in the all Los Angeles heavyweight bout.

FINALS

Bantamweights—Bolton KO (2) over Astinzo.
Featherweights — Perez KO (2) over Continas.
Lightweights—Montes dec. Shavaneaux over Miner.
Middleweight—Murrell dec. Hardison.
Light Heavyweight — Davis dec. Ellis.
Heavyweight — Clagg dec. Gamble.

Boy's Cage Tourney Underway

The 1961 Inter-District Boys Basketball Tournament will get under way this Thursday, Feb. 23, at four Los Angeles municipal playgrounds.

District champions in two divisions, junior for boys 13 and 14 years of age and senior for those 15, 16, and 17 years old, are slated to compete in the tourney which will continue Feb. 28, with final tilts scheduled at Ross Synder Playground, 1501 E. 41st street, on Thursday, March 2.

In Thursday's initial clashes, Central and East Valley champions will meet at Ross Snyder Playground; West and Harbor District kingpins will tangle at Echo Playground, 1632 Bellevue avenue; East and North District title-holders will battle at Green Meadows Playground, 431 E. 89th street; and top teams from the West Valley and South districts will take the field at Queen Anne Playground, 1240 West boulevard.

Loyola Cagers Eye Loop Title

Loyola University, demonstrating brilliant shooting and strong rebounding, took a giant step toward the West Coast Athletic Conference basketball championship last Friday by defeating University of the Pacific, 70-61.

This was the Lions' eighth WCAC victory against one loss.

TRYING OUT FOR SIZE — Morris Cigar (right) smiles approvingly as he tries out the new L.A. Angels uniform. Assisting him is farm director Roland Hemond. Cigar, a former San Pedro High All-City pitcher, signed a contract with the Angels' top farm club, the Dallas-Ft. Worth Rangers of the American Ass'n. He'll go to spring training, however, with the Angels at Palm Springs.

Travel Agency Offers Robinson, Fullmer Deal

(By Edw. 'Abie' Robinson)

Ray (Sugar) Robinson, in training at San Jacinto since last month, plans to break camp Sunday and head for Las Vegas for his upcoming meeting there March 4.

This is the fourth meeting of this couple and should be the last. Since Robinson arrived at San Jacinto he has adopted a do-or-die attitude and crafty George Gainford, his trainer, came up with a strenuous training program for him. Robinson admits to the Jack Benny age of 39. He's been following the schedule of two hours of wood chopping, in the morning and evening, plus 15 miles of road work in the rugged San Jacinto mountains.

Camp aides say the slick punching, song-and-dance boxer who five times ruled the middleweight crowd, elected this tough schedule all by his lonesome because he recalled that such a program back in 1951 was the reason he was able to stop Jake LaMotta in the 13th round. However, Estes Kefauver, famed for his findings in boxing, hasn't looked into that as yet.

Considering Robinson's recent showing at the Sports Arena and the fact that he and Fullmer have met so many times in the ring, our assumption is that the only way Fullmer can last the route this trip will be if Robinson's arms and legs are amputated.

Emerson Smith, connected with the Small World Travel Agency, has been caught up in the big build-up for the fourth meeting of Robinson and Fullmer.

For $70 per person or $135 per couple you can leave L.A. March 4 at 1 p.m. and arrive in Las Vegas at 2:30 p.m., check in at the famous Las Vegas Hotel and be greeted with a cocktail party.

A charter bus will take you to the Municipal Auditorium for the fight and following the fight you will enjoy a fabulous show at the New 1961 Follies Bergeres with cocktails—with a reasonable time provided for you to sleep off your hangover. The flight arrives back in L.A. on Sunday at 5:30 p.m.

Small World handles all reservations at their office, 8933 S. Sepulveda, OR. 1-6151. A deposit of $15 is required, the balance to be paid in full by Feb. 28.

Russian Ace Tops Thomas

A capacity crowd of 15,930 track fans jammed New York Athletic games last Friday night to watch Valery Brumel of Russia and John Thomas of Boston University stage one of the greatest duels in the history of the high jump.

The 18-year-old Russian lad won the first round, clearing 7 feet 3 inches, which equaled Thomas' indoor record. Thomas missed three times when the bar reached 7-2 while Brumel cleared with room to spare. On the third try with the bar at 7-3, he sailed over it gracefully.

Thomas and Brumel will meet two more times in the national AAU championships and on March 3 in the Knights of Columbus games.

Thomas took his defeat in stride with the comment that Brumel was the greatest, while Brumel was equal in his praise of Thomas.

Ralph Boston of Tennessee A&I broke all existing indoor broad jump records when he leaped 26 ft. 13/4. He held the previous mark of 25 ft. 10 in., set during the recent Los Angeles Invitational held in the Sports Arena.

FROSH MEET GLENDALE FRI.

Pepperdine College's Frosh cagers, in the midst of a two-week break from hardwood activity, make their final afternoon appearance of the year Friday, Feb. 24, in hosting Glendale City College.

Coach John Friend's Riplets, with three games yet to go on their 1960-61 schedule, currently own a 14-6 record.

Led in both scoring and rebounding by Washington High graduate Ted Bridges, the Wave yearlings have been sensational on the boards all year, using men like Bridges (6-5), Dave Dougan (6-4), Zay LeFevre (6-6), and Jay Le Fevre, (6-7) to haul down 1,244 rebounds in 20 contests.

Benny Paret In L.A. Debut With Ortega

Welterweight King Benny "Kid" Paret is the early choice over Gaspar Ortega in their nationally televised bout Saturday night, Feb. 25, at the Olympic Auditorium. The show starts at 6:30 p.m.

Paret, who will be out to reverse a 1959 defeat by Ortega, is listed as a 10-6 favorite.

The aggressive Cuban will be making his first ring showing here. He captured the title last May in Las Vegas, defeating Don Jordan.

Tonight (Thursday) two main events will be presented at the Olympic. Jesse Jones and Kid Rayo tangle in the non-televised 10-rounder, while newcomer Gene Johns of New York debuts against Tony Montano.

Frat Series Scheduled For Jeff Hi

The colorful Interfrat Basketball Series has returned to Jefferson High, the site of the series birthplace some 29 years ago.

School Principal Sam Hamerman's willingness to interest himself in working out an arrangement for the eight-week series' games resulted in the Interfraternity Basketball Council voting to return to Jefferson.

The series gets under way Saturday, March 18, with the Alphas meeting the Sigmas and last year's champion Kappas taking on the Omegas.

THE TEE

WITH MAGGIE HATHAWAY

We just received our membership news letter from the Sepulveda Women's Golf Club. This little news informer, called "The Sputter," has more news than the Sunday Examiner though it only contains two pages.

For the past 13 months we have not been able to visit and play at Sepulveda because we were too busy fighting for integration at Western Avenue. Now that it is all over and that fight has been won, we are going to return to our favorite golf club. It is our "favorite" because it is the only club that did not turn our application down. (We were voted out of Santa Anita, Lakewood and Western Avenue).

We notice that in the past year two of the Negro women golfers whom we carried into the SWGC (Marie Coker and Ethel Bryant) are now shooting in the low 90's. They now are sporting the same handicap as I (18). They have progressed and I have gone backwards (in scoring). Nevertheless, girls, get ready, here I come and if you don't beat me this month you won't get the chance again.

It is so nice to leave an integrated club and to find others carrying on. (While speaking of integrated clubs we wonder when some of the Pasadena Negro golfers are going to make "lilly-white" Brookside golf clubs accept them; and when they are going to stop driving 100 miles away from Brookside to join Griffith Park and Sepulveda rather than start a crusade of their own. Why not join close to home?)

If you think integrated golf clubs are not interesting then take a look at Sepulveda's "60" Social Calendar.

March 16 (Wednesday) 12 Noon-Luncheon $2 at the Rams Horn, 1605 Ventura blvd.; June 11, 7 p.m., Dinner Dance, $4 per person, Cork & Dine Club, 18373 Ventura blvd.; October 19, Luncheon $2, Fireside Inn, 15927 Ventura blvd.; December 3, 7 p.m., Dinner Dance $14 a couple. This dance was the "living end" with free cocktails at the bar and tables, a good band and fine food.

Every member at Sepulveda is allowed a guest on Guest Day which is the last Tuesday in every month.

Club play is every Wednesday and all members are qualified to win a prize on Club Day. Prizes are presented at the various social events.

It is most interesting to pick up a prize at Sepulveda (attention Negro golf clubs) every time you play competitive golf because it will make you improve your score.

Every time a member golfer breaks 100, 90, 80 (or 70?) he is presented with a gold club pin with his lowest score attached to a little chain.

Dodgers Head for Camp Site

Baseball's busiest camp will swing into action this week with 69 players suited up and ready for action. That's how many Dodgers and Dodger farmhands are scheduled to be at Vero Beach, when Skipper Walt Alston calls them together for his first clubhouse chat before sending them out on the various Dodgertown fields.

The roster runs all the way from four youngsters, with no previous professional experience, to Don Newcombe, seeking a comeback after his release by the Cleveland Indians. Big Newk was the Dodgers' last 20-game winner, hauling in 27 victories during their 1956 campaign.

Sixteen pitchers, six catchers, four infielders and six outfielders make up the non-roster players invited to camp. Among them are several with an outside chance of making the Dodgers of 1961, for progress in the club's organization has been, on many occasions, speeded by the fact that all are assembled at the same base. Art Fowler, Jim Baxes, Ed Roebuck and others have, in recent campaigns, gone to Florida on minor league lists and emerged as full-fledged Dodgers.

ISN'T THIS WORTH NINE CENTS? Think of it...the television providing an evening's entertainment for the whole family...hot coffee close at hand ...the baby's bottle heating within easy reach...and all the while the electric washer and dryer are doing the family's laundry. And all this is yours to enjoy for only about nine cents...thanks to low-cost electricity. Yes, electricity helps you live better in so many ways...provides comforts and conveniences, as well as such necessities as light, heat and cooking appliances. Yet, electricity costs very little, especially here in Los Angeles. Your electric bill may be getting higher, but that's probably because you are using more electricity in new and different ways. Actually, electric rates in Los Angeles are far less than the national average, and about one-third less than the average of the 15 other largest U.S. cities. That's why we can all Live Better Electrically...and do it economically.

Since 1940, the over-all cost of living has increased 113%, but electric rates in Los Angeles have had a net rise of only 4%.

Talent Show Slated

The Zenith Charity and Social Club plans are well along for their forthcoming annual Benefit Talent Show to be held March 12 in the Satellite Room of the Miramar Hotel, Wilshire blvd. at Ocean avenue in Santa Monica.

Mrs. Christabel Jacobs, chairman of the Talent Committee, has completed plans for the auditions to be held Saturday, Feb. 18. Clubs or contestants who failed to receive communications from the Zenith Club and are interested in participating are urged to contact Mrs. Versie Hawkins at WEbster 1-8095 or REpublic 1-2165, or Mrs. Christobel Jacobs at WEbster 3-2309.

Winning clubs and contestants will receive attractive prizes. In addition to the contest an array of guest artists will entertain. Among those who have consented to appear are: Herb Jeffries, Toni Harper, Johnny Otis, Jimmie Witherspoon, Barry Sullivan, Eddie Beale and Bixie Crawford. Music will be furnished for the evening by Ernie Freeman and Band.

Club members are: Versie Hawkins, president, Julia Bailey, John Ella Davis, Eula Earles, Eulalia Evans, Wilma Shannon, Mary Wiley, Billie Kiah, Anzwilla Stewart, Evelyn Lockett, Christabel Jacobs, Josephine Mims, Margie Stewart, Mabel Harris and Maurice Saunders.

NAFAD SHOW PLANS—Designer Roberta Welch, right, goes over sketches with Helen Hasker as they work out details for their club's forthcoming "Fashions In Summit," at Wilshire Ebell Theatre on Mar. 19.

Seven Jades Plan Dance

The Seven Jades Club will kick off the fall social season with a dance scheduled for Friday, May 26, at the Victoria Hall.

Darlene Moore, president, and Audrey Rainey, vice president, announced that this is the group's initial public affair since they have been organized for a little over a year.

Tickets to the affair can be secured from such members as Doris Lane, Lee Crawford, Beverly Malone or Carolyn Howard.

Social Knights Slate Affair At Park Manor

The Social Knights Social and Charity Club, in preparation for its Easter Promenade held annually at the Los Angeles Breakfast Club, will kick off its fall season program with a "Bring Your Own" dance at the Park Manor on Sunday, March 5, from 5 p.m. until 10 p.m.

The club has been active for more than a quarter of a century and is one of the Southland's most popular groups.

Members especially invite newcomers to the city to join them in an afternoon of fun and frolic and meet such members as Stonewall Jackson, Charles U. Macon, Gus L. Patterson, Carlton Scott, Curtis Thompson, Jimmy Davis, Johnny Smyles, Victor Bostic, James Calhoun, Robert Atkins and Leo Lindley.

DESIGNERS' SHOW—Anita Bogan, left, and Roberta Stephens, president of the National Fashion Designers, Los Angeles chapter, go over details of the group's spectacular Designers' Show which will feature all facets of fashionable attire. Mrs. Bogan and Mrs. Stephens, florist and dress designer, respectively, will team up to display a complete garden wedding during the show, slated for Wilshire Ebell Theater at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 19. —(Adams)

Founders' Day Observed at Ascot PTA

Founders' Day was observed by the Ascot PTA last Wednesday in the school auditorium, when the theme of "opening the door to new frontiers for youth" was carried out in the evening program.

Highlighting the occasion was the awarding of a life membership to Mrs. Ann McArthur by Mrs. Esther Williams.

Mrs. McArthur has been active in Ascot PTA since 1943 and the valuable service she has rendered in the past 18 years made her a fitting choice for Founders' Day honors.

Mrs. Artie Williams was chairman of the program. Those appearing on the program included Willard Mann, Mrs. O. Wade, Mrs. W. Caldwell, Mrs. F. Chambers, Mrs. Ida M. Franklin.

NAFAD Show Slated

Fourteen of California's foremost designers who make up the Los Angeles chapter of the National Designers Association have scheduled an exciting show entitled "Fashions in Summit," on Sunday evening, March 19, at the Wilshire Ebell Theatre.

The show, as conceived by the members, will feature a wide variety of wonderful creations that each designer has created in his or her own artistic manner.

A number of fashion models will be featured in many of the creations and for side interest the members of NAFAD have arranged for all the creations to be on display in the theatre's Green Room. Refreshments will be served while patrons examine the new styles again at close range and meet the members of the organization.

Tom Hawkins, of radio station KGFJ, will act as master of ceremonies while Mildred Wade and Jessie Mae Beavers will narrate the fashions.

Anita Bogan, well known florist, and Roberta Stephens, fashion designer, will combine talents to give their version of a garden wedding with Mrs. Bogan doing the floral arrangements and Mrs. Stephens creating the gowns for the bride and bridesmaids.

NAFAD members are making a special effort to bring to the public the exciting new trends in fashions from sizes nine to the larger sizes and to demonstrate how to take advantage of effects such as the proper place for buttons, the low and oval necklines and how pastel pinks, almond green and turquoise can complement one's personality.

Educational Beauty Aid Trade Show Scheduled

"Omar," one of the most talented hairstylists and cosmetologists in the field of beauty culture, has scheduled a two-day Educational Beauty and Trade Show on Sunday and Monday, March 12 and 13, at Park Manor.

This show will be different from the usual trade variety because it is designed to benefit licensed cosmetologists who are seeking to improve methods of hairstyling, haircutting, tinting, pressing, and permanent waving.

Ten years of experience in the field of beauty has proven to "Omar" that it is the every day work routine which prevents most operators from keeping abreast of the latest trends in the field. They have the training, but lack the time to develop new techniques due to the fast pace we are traveling today. Therefore, to introduce new trends and to help operators attain top efficiency, this show is especially designed for professional hairdressers.

Among the features scheduled for the two-day session will be a style show featuring Beth Dade modelling fashions designed by Fanny Peake. Jheri Jackson of New York will be one of the special guests of the Trade Show; "Omar" will demonstrate the "Jackie Kennedy look for 1961." Licensed hair dressers may compete for three awards.

State officials will be on hand to present information regarding new laws under consideration affecting the profession.

TO MODEL—Beth Dade will model dazzling creations in the First Annual Educational Beauty and Trade Show slated for Mar. 12 and 13 at Park Manor.

AKAs Plan Latin Mood For Affair

Latin is the mood as Alpha Kappa Alpha sorors make final preparations for their Fantasia Americana. The event is scheduled for Friday, March 10, from 10 to 1. Sure to please Latin enthusiasts are the Beverly Hilton International Room setting and the dance tempos of Peppy Prince. Entertainment is to be presented at 11 p.m. Exact details of the show are still being kept secret. However, Co-Chairmen Derotha Allen and Norma Earles state that it will carry out the Latin-American theme.

Alpha Gamma Omega, Rho, and Alpha Gamma chapter members are combining their talents and efforts toward a successful and entertaining evening. Ivy Leaf Club members with a touch of Latin in their costumes will serve as hostesses.

Some reservations for the black tie affair are still available, but quick action is necessary. Reservations may be obtained from any active AKA soror or by calling Inez Brown at WE. 1-5523.

Bill Smallwood

Pegga Hawkins swoops in via jet Sat. from Trinidad and a glorious week of Panama high life. Betty Vaughn is packing: she takes off on the sixth. The Dadsons, eye to eye and man to man, every son and dad of 'em, spent all Sun. at Sugar Ray Robinson's training camp. CC's gather Sat. at Mildred Hawkins'. Golden State Insurance hierachy picked Mar. 6 for their annual banquet of the top-drawer: cocktails at 6:30, dinner at 7. Joan Green Henry, who is Toni Atkinson's cousin, was baby shower honored Sat. at the home of the latter.

Lucille Ashford's place was the Tues. night scene of a gathering of folks who are interested in helping spearhead the Roybal campaign. The Twelve Links (their husbands joined them later) threw back their furs, pulled off gloves and settled down to club business Sun. at Mildred McKinney's.

To Africa

Church of Christian Fellowship's stimulating Rev. and Mrs. Jim Hargett have their fingers crossed and hopes high for a chance to get to Africa during the summer; they, by the way, have a modern oil painting which helps fill a large wall of their living room and who unabashedly envies their ownership of it is me. Today (23) is happy anniversary day for Juanita and Kelly Williams.

Sun. was Blanche Simmons' natal doin's so she had the customary party, naturally. Mildred and Tom Daughtery had a son, to be christened Kevin Timothy. Sat. Afternoon Club meets with Margaret Rene .

Following Langston Hughes' (he was at Horace Clark's Inn as usual, went on to the Bay area) Santa Monica appearance Sat. night, an intimate culling of friends joined him at the cozy house of Lucille and Ed Llorens who are part of that town's avant-garde. Pittsburgh's Jessie Vann will visit here during the summer.

Reception Honors Pair

Following the wedding of Charles and Doris A. Burnley last Sunday, a reception was held in the couple's honor at 13031 Norris street in Sylmar.

Among those attending were: Maripearl and Edward Johnson, Alice and Richard Taylor, Ernestine and Jack Dunn, Melissa Nixon, Mrs. B. Clayton, Miss E. Cadle, Miss Annie Downs, Rev. R. J. Andrews, Simon I. Pittman, Mrs. Elma Flowers, R. Green, Clarence Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wilson, Charles H. Dungey, and Harold J. Simmons.

The new Mrs. Burnley came from British Honduras.

Marian Claudette Hayes Weds Willie J. Danfort

A reception in the suburban home of the bride's parents followed the wedding of Marian Claudette Hayes to Willie Jay Danfort in Bel-Vue Presbyterian Church last week with Rev. St. Paul Epps officiating.

The bride wore a white princess style gown. Her maid of honor was Miss Yvonne Richardson. Herman Payton, a long time friend of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Hayes of 841 E. 116th street and the bridegrom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Danfort.

The new Mrs. Danfort is a graduate of Fremont High. Her bridegroom attended Dunbar High in Arkansas.

FAN CLUB—A group of fans of singer Della Reese, sponsored by Dollie Walker, have organized an L. A. fan club. Shown attending the Cocoanut Grove to hear their favorite are members of the club and its organizer. Seated from left: Cena Walker, Dollie Walker and Della Reese. Standing: B. J. Quick Pivot

Jay Moss, who used to help liven up things locally before he moved to Cuba and, later, D. C., returns here with his Dad to, presumably, resume being Angelenos; they choo-choo in on Easter eve. Balto. schoolmarm Mary West Jones, glamour gal that she incessantly is, will arrive to spend part of the summer with Edna McCormick. Tess and Gil Lindsay have Cincinnati and Detroit on their mid-summer travel list. Quick pivot: The better to see statuesque Ernestine Holloway at the wheel of the car, a gift from her parents.

Jeanette Paront plans to do Easter Sun. in NYC and hasten to Chi on business before reporting back here for school duties. Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Bledsoe (Alice) are expecting. N.C. Mutual Insurance Co. picked a building on S. B'way and their home office top-echelon Wm. Clement and Jos. Goodloe grabbed their kit bags and jetted out to D.C. for a national insurance confab before going on home. Look-alike: Andy Razaf and Ray Walls (he and his wife are eastbound in late May for six weeks). Holman Methodist's Wesleyan Service Guild annually draws a large, appreciative turn-out for their Spring tea. This year's version is Sun. at Onita Chretien's place on Buckingham.

Fan Club Lunch For Della Reese

A group of fans of Della Reese, sensational night club singer, accompanied by Mrs. Dollie Walker, organizer of the new Della Reese Los Angeles Fan Club, enjoyed her show at the Cocoanut Grove last Sunday evening.

Miss Reese thrilled the audience with her "That Reminds Me," and numbers from her album, "Della Cha Cha," "Love for Sale" and others, including "The Most Beautiful Words in the World."

Fans wishing to join the fan club should contact Dollie Walker at AX. 1-8555.

Fantasia Americana

Alpha Gamma Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority will hold its Fantasia Americana on Friday, March 10,

Neighborhood Club in Meet

Members of the Neighborhood Friendship and Charity Club held their first business meeting in the home of Annie B. Walker, 4334 Morgan street.

The newly elected officers are as follows: Mae Richarson, president; Jearlene Biaes, vice-president, Arthalene Woodard, secretary; John Richardson, business manager; G. Jackson, chaplain; Annie B. Walker, treasurer; Leola Nichols, club reporter, and Versie Lomax and Doris Brown, social hostesses.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed. The next regular meeting is slated for the home of the president, 1588 E. Vernon avenue.

Membership Drive

Humanitarian Inc., a social, civic and charitable organization, is conducting a membership drive for new members, Vance Ramsey, 2015 2nd avenue, founded the group last August. Applications will be accepted up until March 21.

Pasadena Club Plans Formal Sat.

The Nine O'Clock Club of Pasadena will hold its 34th annual formal dance on Saturday, Feb. 25, at the Los Angeles Breakfast Club, 3201 Los Feliz blvd.

The formal affair will get under way at 10 p.m. Officers of the club are: Franklin J. Brown, president; Clarence E. Dandridge, vice-president; Charles Taylor, treasurer; Anderson L. Taylor, secretary; George H. Crowder, recording secretary; and Clifford M. Prince, business manager.

Members are as follows: George Armelin, Marcie M. Austin, Chester D. Baccus, Clarence Brooks, James E. Bright, John E. Cole, I. B. English, Robert D. Filer, Wallace T. Moore, Thomas Swayne, A. R. Traylor, Antonio Valencia and O. D. Williams.

Honorary members are Arthur W. Charlton and Marcus Jenkins.

Ruth Ford Smith In Town for Visit

Ruth Ford Smith, well known Angeleno, returned to the city last week to visit with friends and members of her family.

Mrs. Smith has been residing in Chicago following her marriage two years ago. She will be in the city for the next two weeks. At present she is the house guest of Marie Holmes, her long time friend, at 2501 Harcourt.

CIVIL DEFENSE—Mrs. Ferrol Bobo Starks, regional director of the National Council of Negro Women in the Western Area, was named Civil Defense director, in a meeting held at the State capital in Sacramento, last week. NCNW is promoting women's defense activities throughout California.

Orchid Club Holds Meet

The Orchid Club, Inc., held its regular business meeting last Saturday at the home of Juanita Motley, followed by a social. One new member, Viola Dancy, was added to the club.

Guests for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. James Batiste, Thelma Houston, Ruth Smith of Chicago, Anne Heywood, Etta Mae Estorage, Lolette Davis, Virginia Kaufman, Lillian Thompson, Roberta Jackson, and Rodney Motley.

Dinner Party Fetes Students

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sibrie hosted a number of African students newly arrived in Southern California with a dinner reception on Sunday. Their beautiful ranch style home in Compton provided a gracious setting for the lovely affair.

Dr. A. Branden Bowlin, president of the Association for African and Afro-American Relations, earlier had presented the students at the Church of Christian Fellowship, 3125 W. Adams blvd.

The students are visiting here in quest of the knowledge they will need to become effective leaders in their own countries. The AAAR holds regular meetings and those interested in attending can contact the president at 140 Walnut street, Pasadena.

"HAPPENSTANCES"

By THELMA BROWNE

Thousands of folk are milling into California and after a few days, you can find some of them trying to unfix fixed ideas about never leaving their present homestead. No matter how deep their roots are back home, they are pulling up and joining the throng that this area of rapid growth has fascinated.

Enjoying the enormous attraction of this neck of the hemisphere recently or at present are such globetrotters as MRS. JAMES B. THOMAS of Chicago, who has nestled like a jewel in the hospitality of her many friends for the past six weeks. Cosmetologist BILLIE L. GULLY and KATIE MAE LEWIS treated the windy city charmer to dinner among the celebrities in the Rubaiyat Room last Sunday evening.

Also settling in these parts, for the next five months, is New York's JIMMIE DAVIDSON, who is the dresser for actor ROBERT PRESTON.

Country Squire

Detroit's PHIL DEAN plays a game of golf every day and I'm beginning to think that it's the putting and parring that has this gentleman looking the part of a country squire. He spends his winters in L.A.

Chicago's insurance executive JOHN F. MORNING arrives in the Angel City late Sunday night. Seems this gentleman comes this way at least once a year.

SAVANAH ROOTS was in L.A. a fortnight ago to spend a few hours with her friends ARENE HOLLINS and SADIE PRICE. MRS. ROOTS moved to San Diego recently.

"SISSY" WELLS is sporting a beautiful antique gold heart charm bracelet (which is stoned, no-end) that her hubby, SONNY, surprised her with on St. Valentine's day.

Animal Kingdom and All

MASTER EUGENE ELBERT HENDERSON, II, is still bubbling over his fourth birthday party that took place last Sunday afternoon. His mommie, MRS. SISIE O. HENDERSON, was thrilled over the way GENE and his 20 or more guests enjoyed his "Circus" birthday cake—clown, animal kingdom and all.

Last week, we were delighted by having dinner with GEORGIA THOMPSON in the lovely home of BISHOP and MRS. WILLIAM E. HOLMAN.

HANK BALLARD of the midnighters is as happy as a lark now that his lovely wife, HELEN, is out here on the West Coast with him. She flew out last Friday to be with her famous husband and to attend the Della Reese Testimonial and Award Night at the Hotel Watkins.

Incidently, all hands were on deck (at press time) at the Hotel Watkins for a grand salute to Detroit's fabulous song stylist, DELLA REESE.

Drew Medical Auxiliary Holds Monthly Meet

The Women's Auxiliary to the Charles R. Drew Medical Society held its monthly meeting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Walker on Rimpau blvd., last Saturday, with Mmes. John Carney and Earl Claiborne serving as co-hostesses.

Many of the Auxiliary members are assisting in the annual Heart Sunday Weekend Fund Drive, Feb. 23 through 26, and also in the annual Health Week program under the auspices of the Community Health Association, headed by Dr. Ruth Temple.

A Leadership Luncheon is being slated for March 22. Preceeding the luncheon a film "The Narcotic Story," will be shown in the Music Room and a panel on Senior Citizens will follow.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Roland Nickens introduced Festus Higiro of Ruanda Urundi, which is in Central Africa near the equator. He gave a very interesting talk centered around the climate, food, clothing, transportation and education in his native land.

Southland Socially

By BETTY CLARK

Southland Socially, a column found exclusively in the California Eagle, is devoted to bringing its readers delightful and interesting personalities of our community. This week we are exceptionally proud to have as our guest Betty Clark, considered by fashion experts as one of California's best dressed women. She is also a business woman and the wife of Horace Clark, owner of the popular and nationally famous Clark Hotel. Mrs. Clark, in addition to being well known socially, has traveled extensively throughout the world. (Editor's Note).

Mrs. Clark

Hi there, we're thrilled to take pen in hand per request of MAGGIE HATHAWAY and EDW. "Abie" ROBINSON and attempt to tell you our findings socially . . . hope you'll enjoy same.

We'll start by telling you that the LANGSTON HUGHES concert for the NAACP was a grand affair. Langston is stopping at the Clark Hotel and tells us this was one of the most important concerts he'd signed for . . . loves this California hospitality. MRS. S. P. JOHNSON and party enjoyed a lovely buffet luncheon as part of the Negro History Week observance. A reminder, too, that the Sunday cocktail hour at Le Caribe is catching on fast with the smart set. From 4 to 6 p.m. cocktails and hors d'ouevres in the Le Caribe.

Back from Trinidad

Chatted and visited with girl friend MARYLYNN HOLDER who's convalescing from recent surgery and looking forward to a whirl of activities in March. PEGGA HAWKINS back from Trinidad, reports an exciting holiday. Socialite CHARITY WHITE heads for Chicago in early March for a few weeks. VIRGINIA JOHNSON adding a beauty and barber shop to her Bath House business. MABLE ASBURY PRICE making plans for a visit from brother C. G. PRICE. He'll arrive in mid-March.

ELSIE PULLIAM opened her new "Windy City Cafe" recently and is elated over the response. THELMA HAYES driving around town in her new T-Bird, gift from hubby OLES, undecided about a summer vacation, turning over thoughts of Mexico City or a second European jaunt—which reminds us to tell you that AUDREY SCOTT'S "thank you" party was a champagne sip!

CHARLES and BILLYE BROWN receiving congratulations on their 17th wedding anniversary Feb. 28. Twelve Links entertained by MILDRED McKINNEY on Sunday. SYBIL THOMAS, chairman of Delta Sigma Theta Jabberwock Committee, says the event will climax May week activities. May 20 is date, Wilshire Ebell theater, the place. More than 30 girls are vying for the queen's crown.

Dance Dates

Omega's ball swelegant! Delta's Sweetheart ball on the 25th should be fun. Zeta Phi Beta banquet and awards presentation at Ambassador honors six of the city's leading women: Mmes. HILDA ALLEN, ALPHA P. ARNOLD, FANNIE E. BENJAMIN, JUANITA M. MITCHELL, NAOMI SMITH, MARY LOU TOLBERT. LA VERNE ARMSTRONG is chairman of the event, NELLIE B. RENDER is local basileus. Key speaker for the evening will be national basileus DR. DEBORAH P. WOLFE who planes in from New York City Thursday, Feb. 23.

Rinkeydinks secretary LILLIAN KAZARIAN convalescing ('nother surgery patient). HILDEGARDE BOSTIC ordered to rest for a few days. GERALDINE WOODS back from a San Francisco trip where she spoke during Delta Founders' Day program at Berkeley U. of C. campus. This week, she spoke to Jack and Jill members about the sciences, her field! The Pasadena meeting very successful.

Las Madrecitas club, headed by VIRGINIA HARRIS, readying plans for spring that include a dancing party. Lullaby Guild celebrates 10th anniversary this year. Plans under way for a luncheon observance. North Carolina Mutual Insurance company's Los Angeles office will open with a staff of more than 60, according to senior vice president, J. W. GOODLOE, and agency director, W. A. CLEMENT. Opening is tentatively scheduled for mid-March and will be first California branch for the world's largest Negro insurance company.

Air Force Mothers

Officers of the United States Air Force Mothers Club Flight 13 are as follows: Blanche Craig, first vice president; Ruth Johnson, second vice president; Marian Holmes, secretary; and Leora Stanford, treasurer.

Seek Club Members

Applications for new members are being accepted by Sgt. John Pulliam, recruiting officer, or Mrs. Craig at Holman Methodist Church.

CHAZZ CRAWFORD'S SOUNDTRACK

NOTES OF AN INNOCENT BAR-STANDER

There was grave concern in the voice of suave AL VIGAL as he told us of a long distance call from a friend in New York giving him sketchy information about the accidental shooting of his fiancee, RAVELLA HUGHES. Al was about to check out the report that the woman he hopes to marry injured herself and a gentleman bystander when an automatic discharged in the process of packing. He said Miss Hughes is a former musical comedy star (with Shuffle Along) and is an heiress to the Adams Chiclet chewing gum fortune.

We were feeling no pain when we did the opening night "bit" for JOE WILLIAMS at the Cloister. Jolting Joe really "cooked" and the Strip devotees witnessed a real down home blues session. HARRY "SWEETS" EDISON provided a solid backdrop for the former Basie warbler. A surprise Extra Added Attraction was JOHNNIE LEE, famous for his Lawyer Calhoun role on the Amos 'N' Andy show. Johnny, a comic of note in his own media, was miscast here. The A & A type humor didn't rock Sunset blvd. It takes a MORT SAHL or a BELLE BARTH to fracture a "hip crowd" at the "in place" . . . our spies tell us that JOHNNY has been replaced by "music for dancing" . . . but he'll find his niche.

JOE WILLIAMS' competitor, LITTLE JIMMY RUSHING, has opened at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas with the BENNY GOODMAN band. Another rival, BIG MILLER, is warbling some "let's cook a pot of greens" type blues on his forthcoming Columbia album.

BROTHER JOE MAY, the world's foremost male gospel singer, is touring the forty-eight and upsetting many a congregation with his soul stirring songs. Brother May will bring his herculean talents to our clime some time this summer.

FRENCHIA GUIZON and ROCKNE TARKINGTON both snagged muscle men roles on a SHIRLEY TEMPLE show... PEARLIE MAE BAILEY, bless her swinging self, brings her fabulous revue to the Shrine for a one nighter "gig" on March first! . . . Sortuve stuck on the yarn about the actress phoning her studio asking had all her fan mail arrived yet. The answer: Yeah, a postcard came pouring in.

JOHNNY MATHIS is set for a television spectacular! . . . Folksinger ODETTA getting rave review notices for her role of a murderess in 20th Century Fox's "Sanctuary."

Sudden thot: Who has more drive or ambition than JOHNETTA STARKS? Like nobody. Works around the clock furthering her vocal career . . . Attractive FELICIA WOOD now dabbling in the real estate biz . . .

We can't even (sob) BUY a ticket to the Player's Ring stage showing of "Raisin in the Sun" and could (sob) kick ourself for not accepting the invite to attend a dress rehearsal. But we understand from a number of folks that actress RHODA JORDAN is do-

Joe Williams Cloister Date Great Success

By STANLEY MALONE

There is a sign above the lobby of the Cloister, 8588 Sunset blvd., that reads "Swinging" and this is just what happened Friday night, Feb. 17, when Joe Williams made his debut as a solo artist. This is the first local appearance of Joe Williams without Count Basie, and his debut was a very successful one.

Polished Performer

Starting off with his rendition of the wonderful tune, "I'm beginning To See The Light," Joe felt the pulse of his large audience and in his own inimitable style, belted out such well known numbers as: "The Comeback," "I Only Have Eyes For You," "A Man Ain't Supposed To Cry," "Lover, Come Back To Me" and, of course, "Everyday."

Stellar Sidemen

Joe was backed by excellent sidemen in the persons of Jimmy Foley on sax; Clarence Johnston on drums; Tommy Potter on bass; Frank Strazuri on piano and the great trumpeter Harry "Sweets" Edison who rendered a magnificent solo of "My Funny Valentine."

Joe Williams

Joe's audience, consisting of such ringsiders as Benny Carter, responding to his splendid presentations with warm applause, called him back for many encores, and especially appreciated Joe's styling of "By The River Saint Marie" and "Roll-Em-Pete."

Cancer Films Available Free

Mrs. Olive Schlosser, 1019 S. Highland avenue, District II American Cancer Society education chairman advises that a variety of interestineg films about cancer are available on a free loan basis from District II Information Center, 4360 Leimert blvd., AX. 5-4341.

In addition to providing the films, the Information Center supplies projector and projectionists and arranges for a local physician to answer questions of the audience.

EVELYN SCOTT—An awfully nice 18-year-old, has enrolled in school in pursuit of a pharmacist's career, sponsored by the Save Way Drugstore in South Los Angeles!

Eddie's Date

TALK OF THE TOWN—April Ferris is currently pleasing patrons with her pulsating pipes at Eddie Atkinson's Town Tavern, 3651 South Western avenue, southwest corner of 36th place. Featured Friday through Tuesday with this vocalovely will be D'Vonya White, a swinging delight on the keys playing your favorite tunes with ease that are guaranteed to please. No room affords you the friendliness, food, fun and frolic that you'll find at Eddie Atkinson's Town Tavern. Why not make a date to entertain your group at a special club rate?

Pearl Bailey Plays Shrine Wed., Mar. 1

Miss Pearl Bailey—one of the most renowned song stylists in the country today currently is touring the nation on an extensive concert tour. Called "An Evening with Pearl Bailey," the Audrey p. Franklyn production concert comes to the Shrine Auditorium, on Wednesday night, March 1.

Joining with Miss Bailey to make the concert one of the most spectacular ever presented is a revue of 35—singers, dancers, and musicians, all hand-picked by Miss Bailey for her tour. Orchestra is under the direction of Miss Bailey's husband, Louis Bellson.

Pearl Bailey is one of the most successful, established singers and performers in the country today. Her perfectly natural singing style has made her a favorite recording star, appearing regularly on TV spectaculars and as a nightclub favorite. She is known to be one of the strongest drawing artists in the musical world. She appears in motion pictures, but is very careful on the parts that she selects, her recent role in Porgy & Bess got brilliant commendation.

PEOPLE & PLACES

CARL GIPSON — He plays the role of "Sweet William" in the hit play "Fly Blackbird," currently running at the Metro Theater and the audience cracks up especially those who know "Brothers" who play the game of the white boss. It's the talk of the social, church, club and politcial set! And everybody is rushing to see if it is the gospel—it is!

CLIFFORD PRINCE — Well known pharmacist in Pasadena, was among the Wednesday nighters attending Pasadena Civic Auditorium to catch the concert of Henry Lewis and his wife Marilyn Horne!

KEY WITNESS — Private eyes investigating that Bacon-Swan Memory Lane affair came up with this bit, that the key witness to the punching brawl is a good friend of the "Doc" and also is acquainted with the victim. Also, the mystery gal in the case isn't a mystery any more!

GLORIA GARDNER — Pretty brownskin executive secretary in Atty. H. Clay Jacke's office is expecting her first child!

STEVE ROWLAND JR. — Six foot son of Dorothy and Steve manages his father's liquor store out south with all the class of a top executive—and he is still in his teens!

PETE MILLER — He is shy telling his papa Loren but he is the top student in his law class at Loyola University, and his mama Juanita is also shy about telling papa about her passing her recent State examination only missing a perfect score by nine points!

FORECLOSURE — Understand that certain doctors will have to find a new rendezvous since proceedings have been set in motion for that West Santa Barbara establishment!

SAM YORTY — He doesn't know it but when he enlisted the doctor in his campaign in his bid for Mayor, it didn't help his cause because it revealed Yorty's cross filing a few years ago and his role in the Eddie Atkinson bid for a city council seat!

LOCKSMITH — When that Tophatter changed the locks on the doors of his Wellington home it left wifie out in the cold when she continued to

National Urban League Guilds Annual Beaux Arts Ball Finest Event of Season at the Waldorf

By PHIL GORDON and LAURA PRESCOTT

On Friday, Feb. 17, with California Eagle's charming "special events" assistant reporter, Laura Prescott, on my arm, I attended the 21st Annual Beaux Arts Ball at the Waldorf Astoria, under the sponsorship of the National Urban League Guild, and for the benefit of the National Urban League itself. There was a full-house, with all the tables, which cost from $50 to $100 each, taken, and a galaxy of costumes depicting the period of the Court of Henri Christophe, among other things, being displayed.

Outstanding Participants

There was a contest, with terrific prizes given, for the most unique costume, the most authentic, and the most beautiful. The panel of judges consisted of Walter J. Hausman, Public Relations Director for the F. & M. Schaffer Brewing Co., Giovani Buitoni, President, Buitoni Foods Corp., Carmen DeLavallade, starring in "Ballads Ballet," actor, Melvin Douglas, starring in the Broadway play, "The Best Man," Judge Samuel R. Pierce, Edward B. Dudley, Borough President of Manhattan, and last, but by no means least, George Olden, Art Director, BBD & O; certainly an auspicious group.

The elaborate costumed presentation of the Court of Henri Christophe, Haiti 1815, by the members of the Guild, headed by its President, Mrs. Mollie Moon, was most impressive. This, was the pageantry for the evening, and the rest of the time was really for table hopping, dancing and fun.

Significantly Attended

Among the outstanding people there was the Gorgeous One, Miss Lena Horne (looking ravishing), her husband, Lennie Hayton, Mayor and Mrs. Robert Wagner, Althea Gibson, Assemblywoman Bessie Buchanan, her husband, and President of United Mutual Life Insurance Co., Charlie Buchanan, Deputy Commissioner, Robert Mangum and spouse, and Al Hibbler.

Swinging Session

Sy Oliver and Dick Vance, and their orchestras provided excellent music the entire evening, and a good time was had by all.

'Raisin in Sun' Real Thing at Player's Ring

By BETTYE HOWARD

It was a brilliant opening night for Miss Juanita Moore in the Paul Levitt and Ted Thorpe presentation of "A Raisin In The Sun" at the Players Ring Theatre last night.

The mink-studded audience greeted her entrance with thunderous applause. The role of Lena Younger with its formidable demands in the way of humor, pathos and drama is, to say the least, taxing but Miss Moore gives the part a special dramatic eloquence which arose partly from the rich vibrant quality of her voice and partly from the authoritative artistry of her interpretation.

Morris Erby of "The Connection" fame gave a very sensitive portrayal of Travis. He is a brilliant artist. Isabelle Cooley as Beneatha was fascinating to watch, and gave special significance to her role with every nuance. Here is a technician. Rhoda Jordan as Ruth gave the taxing part of her role a very believable interpretation.

It was the mastery of Oliver Cliff's direction that gave this production the touch of genius. Make it a must on your theatre list.

Shrine Star-of-Stars Annual Show To Feature an Array of Big Names

Talent Committee members for the Shriners' Egyptian Temple No. 5's annual Star-of-Stars Charity Show, to be held this Monday, Feb. 27, at Frank Sennes' Moulin Rouge on famed Sunset blvd., report an array of outstanding artists have announced they will be on hand.

Milton Berle

Highlighting the annual show will be the presentation of the Shrine Humanitarian Award, the highest award an individual can receive from the organization.

Georgia Carr

Annually the award is given to a person who unselfishly served humanity in an outstanding manner during the year.

Award Committee members unanimously selected Milton Berle, famed star of Hollywood, stage, radio and TV. The committee members all agreed that his many wonderful contributions have helped pave the way to the better understanding of people of all races.

In addition to Milton Berle, Joe Adams, well known disc jockey, will serve as master of ceremonies for the dazzling show which will feature such personalities as Benny Payne, Billy Daniels, Archie Moore, Ann Weldon, Joe Williams, Georgia Carr, The Platters, Hank Ballard and his Midnighters, Jimmy Witherspoon, Kay Starr, Vic Damone, Pearl Bailey, and Jerry Lewis. Along with a host of others that are set to spark the great Shrine Show.

THEATRICAL

BILLY DANIELS—Shown with Benny Payne, his pianist, Billy Daniels will perform for the Shriners when they hold their annual Star-of-Stars Show at the Moulin Rouge Monday night, along with a number of other big name stars.

JIMMY WITHERSPOON — He will be among the many stars appearing for the annual Shriners' Star-of-Stars Show Monday night at the Moulin Rouge. He will then head for San Francisco and the Jazz Workshop for an engagement there.

NEW YORK SCENE

I knew if I kept on winning bottles of whiskey and hanging out in bars and nightclubs, eventually it would have to get me. Well, it did, at long last, so I am now permanently employed at 136th Street Liquors, and selling juice every day the law allows (which in this fair city excludes Sundays) and then hanging out later.

Also, need I say that I am busy trying to prepare all the tax returns my little ball-point will write?

History Week Observance

Friday (17th) was a busy little day for me, as I had the privilege of being one of the guest speakers at P.S. 175, at their 3rd Grade assembly in the morning, on a beautiful program dedicated to National Negro History Week. This is the school where my aunt, Mrs. Harris, teaches, and the assistant-principal, Mrs. Edith Seiden, kindly asked me to participate.

I found myself in fast company, with the other guest speaker, Mrs. Augusta Baker, a librarian of long-standing, now working out of the Office of Children's Services. Mrs. Baker is a very charming and talented woman, with an artistic knack for storytelling and delighting an audience, both young and old, and she told a very cute story that thoroughly pleased the enthusiastic filled assembly.

Well-Rounded Program

Mrs. Baker's remarks were preceded by a recitation of "Nancy Hanks" by the pupils of one class, a picture and placard illustration of recent Negro History by the children of another class and the singing of the Negro spiritual, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" along with a dance interpretation, by the youngsters of still another class. These children were quite conscientious and very effective in their deliveries, and it was a joy to behold.

Inspiring Participation

Then came Mrs. Baker, followed by yours truly, with a few brief remarks, and then the President of the PTA, Mrs. McKinney made a heartwarming, short, but inspiring speech just prior to the closing of the assembly. This was a real kick.

PHIL GORDON.

To Address Meeting

The Los Angeles Organization for Mentally Ill Children, Inc., has as its guest speaker for its meeting Friday, Feb. 24, Mrs. Nadine Lambert.

Mrs. Lambert will speak at 8:15 p.m. at the Hollywood Health Building, 6501 Fountain avenue. She will tell how to meet the needs of emotionally disturbed children.

Ascot PTA Officers

Officers nominated at the recent Ascot PTA Board meeting were: Mrs. Joe Williams, president; Ida Franklin, first vice president; Irma Wynn, second vice president; Mr. M. Williams, secretary; Mrs. Eloise Myers, treasurer; Reulah Porter, historian and Grace Davenport, ways and means.

Medical-Dental Convention Set

The convention, scheduled to be held here August 7-10 with the Hotel Commodore as headquarters.

True Story About Cuba

What is really happening? Is Cuba a threat to the United States? Has our government followed a constructive policy toward Latin America? Why did Herbert Mathews of the New York Times declare: "I have never seen a big story so misunderstood, so badly handled, so misinterpreted as the Cuban revolution"? What really is happening in Cuba?

"What have we done . . .?" asks a new and hopeful generation of Cubans, viewed with hostility in Washington and Wall Street, accused of "impudence" for seeking their independence, threatened with economic and diplomatic "isolation" in the hemisphere.

ARWIN PRODUCTIONS EXPAND

Arwin Productions, the Marty Melcher and Doris Day film company, signed Dick Shawn to a two picture deal. The first picture will be "Beauty and the Beast," a story by Michael and Fay Kanin about a girl who 'inherits' a wrestler.

DORIS DAY CO-STARS

Second picture is a projected co-starrer with Doris Day. Various properties are being considered.

Tied into the deal is a television format, under which Shawn will star in a TV series to be produced by Arwin Television Productions.

'CHALK GARDEN' DELAYED

Due to her pregnancy, Joanne Woodward has had to cancel out of "Chalk Garden."

Best probability for the starring role appears to be Eva Marie Saint. Miss Saint was originally approached to star in the stage production but could not accept the part due to her filming commitments on "Raintree County."

'COWBOY' SAMMY DAVIS, JR.

Sammy Davis, Jr. will play a cowboy in the upcoming Frank Sinatra Essex Production that has yet to be titled. Though Davis has portrayed western parts for TV the role will be his first of the type for films.

Davis does not enter the films unprepared, however, as he is acknowledged to be "the fastest gun" in Hollywood, constantly practicing his "quick draw" technique.

Thriftimart Opens Garden Grove Market

To celebrate the Grand Opening of THRIFTIMART'S newest and finest supermarket, THRIFTIMART will stage a gigantic six-day food sale, Tuesday through Sunday. Months of preparation and special buying efforts have made it possible for THRIFTIMART to offer tremendous savings in every department during this big Grand Opening event. THRIFTIMART, as always, will feature nationally advertised brands in all departments. Because of the careful planning and the design of this store, shopping is made easier and a housewife can complete her buying in a minimum of time.

Unlimited Parking

The big easy-to-see, easy-to-reach displays, with roomy aisles, large enough for several shopping carts to pass, is just another part of Thriftimart's scientifically arranged markets with no one in mind but the shopper. Acres of free, easily accessible paved parking area provides room for over eleven hundred and fifty cars.

Among the many courtesies for the customer are the convenient check cashing department, central check-out system, air current dairy box, complete self-service meat department, a beautifully displayed produce department with all fresh vegetables refrigerated to maintain the peak of freshness. Also, to be found in the market is a complete delicatessen department that should satisfy the most selective gourmet.

The big new 31,370 square foot THRIFTIMART is equipped with automatic entrance doors, background music and central heating and air-conditioning throughout.

Free Prizes and Surprises

THRIFTIMART is so proud of this new unit that the entire chain will join in a gigantic company-wide celebration sale. Grand Opening features at the new Eastgate store will be—free Kiddie Rides, free Cotton Candy, free Food Samples, a large array of free prizes, which will be given out to the lucky shoppers who register during the Grand Opening.

Market Supervisor of this newest THRIFTIMART unit will be Bob Reutzel, who is well-known to many people of the Garden Grove area. Bob has successfully managed many of THRIFTIMART'S finest stores and will be doing his utmost to offer you the best in courtesy and customer service. Bob extends his personal invitation, along with THRIFTIMART, INC., to come in and get acquainted and see this most modern market designed for customer convenience.

A clergyman was overheard telling another gentleman of the cloth: "Oh, I know what the world is coming to eventually. I'm worried about what's coming to it in the meantime."

Residential Collection for Heart Fund Starts Tonight

Today marks the start of Heart Sunday Weekend in Los Angeles and all over the United States. Volunteers will visit their neighbors to call for Heart Fund contributions and to distribute health-saving information.

Los Angeles' collection will begin at 6 p.m. and continue through 9 p.m. Calls will be made from Thursday through Sunday, Feb. 23-26, in the residential areas. Each Heart Sunday volunteer will carry an official identification form that will identify him when he stops at your door.

Volunteers will leave at each home the pamphlet, "Good Heart Health Habits," telling how to give your heart the care it deserves.

The pamphlet was designed specially for the Los Angeles area.

"In addition to distributing this important information," said, Region Heart Sunday Chairman Mrs. Lois M. Carr, "the Heart Fund volunteer gives each citizen an opportunity to play a personal role in the crusade against the nation's Number One health enemy.

"Your gift will strike a blow at the diseases which took more than 900,000 American lives last year—54 percent of the total number of deaths in this country," she said. "So please give to your Heart's content," Mrs. Carr urged.

"A large proportion of the funds collected in this area will remain here to help support the research, education and community service program of the local Heart Association," Mrs. Carr stated. A minimum of 50 percent of the amount sent to the American Heart Association is automatically ear-marked for research. The American Heart Association is the only national voluntary health agency devoted exclusively to combating heart and blood vessel diseases. Contributions can be accepted only through the Heart Fund.

Voices of Hope Concert Slated

The Voices of Hope, a group of 100 recording artists, will sing a full concert at 3:30 p.m. at Westminister Presbyterian Church, 1737 N. Lake avenue in Pasadena, this Sunday, Feb. 26.

Thurston Frasier will conduct, with Gwendolyn Cooper as accompanist.

Awards will be made to outstanding members of the community following the concert, which is sponsored by the Pasadena Ass'n for the Study of Negro Life and History and the Forum Lyceum Associates of Southern California.

Santa Fe Found Guilty On Two Counts of Bias

SHOT — Bus driver Robert Lee Briggs, above, was shot and killed early Monday by his brother-in-law, Phillip Dorsey, owner of the Arlington Liquor Store.

Slain Bus Driver Never Used Dope, Wife Declares

Denies Mate Taught Habit to Son of Killer

Mrs. Elzera Briggs, wife of the bus driver who was slain early Monday morning by his brother-in-law, Phillip J. Dorsey, owner of the Arlington Liquor Store, told the Eagle Tuesday that there is not a word of truth in the report that her husband was a dope addict or a dope peddler.

She said emphatically that he never touched dope in any form, and that the story that her husband, Robert Lee Briggs, 40, of 2410 S. Budlong avenue, had induced Dorsey's son to follow a life of addiction and crime was an absolute falsehood.

'Insanely Jealous'

Her explanation for the killing was that Dorsey was "insanely jealous" of his wife. Mrs. Romie Dorsey, and suspected anyone who was seen with her. She said, also, that Dorsey, a former Post Office employee, had spent six months as a mental patient at Norwalk.

Early Monday morning Mrs. Briggs and her husband drove her sister Mrs. Dorsey to her home, 2418 Gramercy Park East.

Dorsey was waiting for them. He snatched open the car door, leaned over the two women, threatened, "I told you" and fired one shot from a German Luger pistol.

The bullet struck Briggs under the right arm.

Gun Jammed

Dorsey pulled the trigger again and again, but the gun jammed. He went into the house, called the police and sat down to wait.

Briggs, fatally wounded, toppled from the car to the lawn. He was dead.

The two sisters, terrified at the shooting, fled.

"He got my son started on narcotics," Dorsey told police, adding, "and when the habit got so bad, my son went out and robbed to pay for the junk . . . I warned that man many times to stay away from me and my family."

No Remorse

Dorsey, whose liquor store is located at 2489 W. Washington blvd., showed no remorse for the killing.

"If he's not dead, it's because the gun jammed. I'd do it over again if I had to," he WINS CASE AGAINST SANTA FE — Lennie Andrews, Santa Fe coach cleaner who was fired last March 30, was ordered reinstated with back pay by the FEP Commission, which upheld his charge of bias.

Railroad Told To Reinstate Negro Worker

The Santa Fe Railroad was found guilty of two counts of bias and ordered to reinstate and upgrade Lennie L. Andrews of San Bernardino, in a decision handed down Friday from the California Fair Employment Practices Division.

The railroad, the ruling held, has discriminated against Andrews for refusing to promote him to the position of carman (mechanic and inspector) because he is a Negro, and had further discriminated against him by firing him after he filed a complaint with the FEPC.

Back Pay

Reinstatement "forthwith" was ordered, with 10 months back pay and with all rights unimpaired. Promotion was ordered "to the next vacancy in the class of carman, probationary carman or car inspector occurring, in Barstow in line with his seniority.

The company was further ordered to "cease and desist" from discriminating against Andrews because of his race and to "cease and desist" from discriminating against all other Negroes on the question of promotion.

The far reaching decision, which was handed down in the first case to be brought to a public hearing since the establishment of the Fair Employment Practices Division Sept. 18, 1959 further provides that the FEPC will retain jurisdiction of the case for one year.

Harold Burroughs, travelling representative of Santa F., advised the Eagle that the company has not yet had an opportunity to examine the ruling and therefore is unable to comment at this time.

Penalty Permitted

In its findings, the FEPC followed closely the recommendations made by its attorney, Charles E. Wilson, who presented the case on behalf of Andrews at a hearing held in Los Angeles Jan. 9-13, including permitting the company to deduct one month's pay and chalk up 30 demerits on his record as a penalty.

The penalty was permitted for an admitted infraction of rules on Andrews' part for sitting down in an empty coach one night last March when he had no duties there. The company claimed Andrews was asleep in the coach. This he denied.

In commenting on the charge, the Commission made no finding on the "sleeping" allegation, but stated that

Ghana Says U. S. Ready to Fight in Congo

By GRACE E. SIMONS

Charges that the United States is planning a "strong military intervention in the Congo" and has five warships ready and cruising in West African waters were made Sunday by the "Ghanaian Times," official newspaper of the Ghanaian government party.

The charge came as the forces of "General" Mobutu, and President Joseph Kasavubu, whose government is recognized by the United Nations, seemed to be melting away without a fight before the armies of the rival regime in the North under Antoine Gizenga, slain Premier Lumumba's second in command, and as a new three-way coalition was being formed.

Emergency Action

The Ghanaian newspaper article claimed that five U.S. warships in West African waters on goodwill visits have been told to "hold themselves in readiness for emergency action in the Congo."

The article named two of

Jackie Wilson Death Rumor Alarms Fans

While Jackie Wilson still remained on the critical list, according to the latest word from New York, false rumors of his death or that he was dying have brought mourning in midwest cities.

In Chicago one night club was draped in black and patrons observed a period of mourning. They believed the rumor that Jackie was dead.

Cancels News Date

In Detroit teen-age fans, also believing the rumor, staged a funeral procession for their idol.

The gloom about his condition deepened Friday when a news conference he had been scheduled to hold in his room at Roosevelt Hospital in New York was cancelled.

Doctors, however, were hopeful that Wilson would pull through and were giving him better than a 50-50 chance.

One of the bullets fired at Wilson by a love-crazed "fan" who went to his apartment about 4 a.m. two weeks ago was still lodged in his abdomen. Surgeons said they were reluctant to operate because of his condition, for fear of possible hemorhaging.

Thus far, only his wife,

Plan Proposed to 'Save Our Centers'

Working mothers of 736 small children were set to tell city authorities and all others once again this week that they will fight with all the power they can muster to prevent the closing—or relocation—of 13 Child Care and Extended Day Care Centers.

They were ready to tell that story Wednesday night at a meeting called by the Welfare Planning Council for 7:30 p.m. in the California Teachers Association Building, 1123 W. 6th street. Unfortunately, however, they were not invited to be present at the meeting that was to consider the fate of the centers.

Mothers Organized

It was scheduled about a month ago, before the mothers knew very much about the planned closings. Since then they have organized and have marched on the Board of Education to plead their cause, and have drawn up a nine-point program.

Most Board members, however, judging by their reactions, still plan to vote for the closings. Only Dr. Ralph Richardson has given an unqualified assurance that he opposes the shutting down of the centers.

Dr. Richardson and Mrs. Mary Tinglof, both of whom are up for reelection in April, attended a meeting of the mothers last Thursday night at 1138 W. Manchester blvd. Dr. Richardson made his opposition to the move known at that meeting. Mrs. Tinglof, who expressed concern for the mothers and the children affected, did not give the firm assurance the mothers wanted.

Favors Closing

Mrs. Georgiana Hardy, Board member who is not running for office this year, has stated her intention to vote for closing the centers, though she has also stated that she would do what is possible to find alternate locations.

The other Board members have made no statements as to how they will vote on the child centers, but their silence is interpreted by the mothers as an indication they will push the plan through, once the Spring elections are over.

The mothers' nine-point plan has as one of its key planks a demand for assurance from the Board members before the elections that the centers will neither be closed

SUCCUMBS — Gladys M. Lott, member of the pioneer Collins family, died Sunday. Funeral services will be held at First AME Church at 11 a.m. Saturday, March 4. (Story on Page 3.)

Beautician's Body Found Nude, Raped

The nude, raped and murdered body of a 27-year-old beautician was found sprawled on her bed at 427½ W. 81st street last Tuesday evening.

Police feared that the young woman, Bernice Kelly, may have been dead for several days.

The crime was discovered by two friends of the stabbed woman, Earl Morris and Nathan Joe Calhoun who went to her apartment when she could not be reached by phone and failed to show up at work.

Miss Kelly's body was covered with stab wounds.

Her purse had been ransacked and money stolen.

Civic Leader Sets 3 Fires in Home

DIES—Attractive Ornette Henry, 13, Audubon Junior High student, was found dead in the burned ruins of her home.

Family Believed 'Model'

"He was a good boy," said Mrs. Juanita Stewart, 54, who is in General Hospital recovering from first and second degree burns.

"He was a very fine man," said his neighbors. "Everyone is shocked. People burst into tears."

Three Die

Mrs. Stewart, the mother-in-law, and the friends were talking about Irvin Evans, 38, a shipping clerk. Evans is accused of strangling his wife and his two step-children and putting the torch to their home at 4519 Sixth avenue early Friday morning.

Dead and burned beyond recognition are Evans' wife, Mrs. Zanaida Evans, 38, and her two children by a former marriage, Ornette Henry, 13, a student at Audubon Junior High School, and Keith Henry, 10, a student at the 42nd Street School.

Father of the children is Marco Henry, a mail carrier who works out of Station K.

The three will be buried in a single grave. Their coffins will be closed. The Rev. C. D. Toliver, pastor of the 2nd AME Church, 55th and Hoover streets, will conduct services with burial in Lincoln Memorial Cemetery. Ashley-Grigsby Mortuary is in charge of the triple funeral, but the date had not been set at press time.

Devoted Kind

Evans was a member of the Board of Directors of the 42nd Street School's PTA. He was a "Den" father. He was a fine civic leader, a devoted father, a kind husband. He was exceptionally good with children. That's what they said.

Evans, 38, is in the Prison Ward of General Hospital, like his mother-in-law, suffering from severe burns over most of his body.

He doesn't remember what happened. He said he didn't choke anybody. He was in bed, he said, when Mrs. Stewart and Ornette awakened him. He was unable to arouse his wife, though he tried. He took his step-daughter by the hand to lead her out of the house.

Fires Set

"I don't remember anything after that," he said.

The Fire Department, how-

Head-on Crash On Freeway Kills Brothers

Two teen-age brothers, John Bufford, 16, and William Bufford, 17, both of 816 W. 58th street, were killed Saturday night on the Harbor Freeway near Santa Barbara avenue.

The car, reportedly being driven by John at a speed of 85 to 90 miles an hour, jumped the dividing strip and collided head on with an inbound car. The driver of that car, Robert R. Kent, 46, of 1665 W. 182nd street, Gardena, was also killed.

Injured in the accident was a third brother, Paul, 14, and two other passengers in the Bufford car. Alcide Munroe 16, of 916 W. 50th street, and Bobby Burris, 19, whose address was not given.

The three reportedly suffered major injuries in the crash.

Police advised that no inquest be held into the accident since, according to their findings, young John Bufford was responsible for the accident.

Court Upholds Jail Sentence Of Wilkinson

WASHINGTON—In what is considered here a severe blow to civil liberties, the Supreme Court Monday, in a 5-4 decision, upheld contempt convictions of two fighters for Negro rights, Frank Wilkinson of Los Angeles and Carl Braden of Louisville, Ky.

Both men must now start serving a year's sentence for refusal to answer questions at a hearing of the House Committee on Un-American Activities in Atlanta in 1958. Both had claimed that their rights under the First Amendment were violated, but neither claimed immunity under the Fifth Amendment.

The cases of the two men were similar. They maintained that they were singled out for questioning primarily because they were active in promoting integration.

Braden is a field secretary of the Southern Conference Education Fund, of New Orleans, and associate editor of the Southern Patriot, an integrationist journal published by SCEF.

Wilkinson planned to return briefly to Los Angeles before commencing to serve his sentence.

Armed Men Rob Avalon Food Center

David Flanders, 23, was arrested last Wednesday after he and two companions attempted to rob the Avalon Food Center. The super market is located at 7209 S. Avalon.

Just as James B. Recabaren was closing early, around 7:30 p.m. because of Washington's birthday, a man walked up to the store's special officer and told him to hand over his gun. When the officer hesitated, the suspect placed his gun in his left hand and took the policeman's gun with his right.

While his two accomplices were staked out outside, the robber ordered Eddie Roberts, of 826 E. Century; Pictro Tennini, of 425 E. 75th and John Burnett to lay down on the floor—and to remove their trousers.

Flanders asked where the money was. Recabaron said it was upstairs. The burglar ordered him upstairs. Unknown to the suspect, Recabaren tripped the silent burglar alarm.

As the suspect was filling a pillowcase full of the store's money, police from 77th street were surrounding the Florence and S. Avalon blvd. area.

When the robber came downstairs with his bulging money sack, he found his victime gone, got excited and dashed to the front door—right into the waiting arms of the police. His two companions fled the secene in a '58 or '59 red and white Oldsmobile.

Nkrumah Blames U.N., West for Assassination of Patrice Lumumba

The following is the broadcast delivered in Accra, Ghana, by Osagyefo Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, president of the Republic of Ghana, on the death of Patrice Lumumba:

Countrymen, African Freedom Fighters, Comrades and Friends:

Somewhere in Katanga in the Congo—where and when we do not know—three of our brother Freedom Fighters have been done to death.

Blames U.N.

They have killed Patrice Lumumba, the prime minister of the Republic of the Congo, Maurice Mpolo, the minister in his government who was elected from Katanga Province, and Joseph Okito, the vice president of the Congolese Senate.

About their end, many things are uncertain, but one fact is crystal clear — they have been killed because the United Nations, whom Patrice Lumumba himself, as prime minister, had invited to the Congo to preserve law and order, not only failed to maintain that law and order, but also denied to the lawful Government of the Congo all other means of self-protection.

History records many occasions when rulers of States have been assassinated. The murder of Patrice Lumumba and of his two colleagues, however, is unique in that this is the first time in history that the legal ruler of a country has been done to death with the open connivance of a world organization in whom that ruler put his trust.

Lumumba Legal Ruler

These are the facts. Patrice Lumumba was appointed prime minister by the departing Belgian authorities because he was the leader of the parliamentary party with the largest representation and was the only member of Parliament who could obtain a majority in both the Senate and the Chamber. Kasavubu was subsequently elected as the ceremonial head of the State but it was clearly agreed and understood that he should have no more authority or power than has the King of the Belgians in Belgium.

This fact, clearly written into the Constitution of the Congo, has been deliberately ignored and distorted by those who have sought for their own ends to give some appearance of legality to the military usurpers and the agents of colonial rule who have illegally seized power in some parts of the Congo.

Shortly after independence, the Congolese army mutineed. Patrice Lumumba and his colleagues had to secure outside support from somewhere if they were to preserve the legal structure of the State.

In the interests of world peace and in order to prevent the cold war being brought into Africa, Patrice Lumumba invited the United Nations to preserve law and order. The United Nations insisted that they should have the sole mandate to do this and that the legal Government of the 'Kissing Case' Leader to Talk On Cuba Sat.

Robert Williams, president of the Union County (N.C.) NAACP and long-time fighter for Negro rights, is scheduled to speak here Saturday night, March 4, at 8:15 p.m. — but not at the Embassy Auditorium, as originally announced.

The Williams' meeting was transferred to Channing Hall, 2936 W. 8th street, when the Embassy cancelled its contract with the sponsors, the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, apparently under pressure from individauls who oppose the regime of Fidel Castro.

Williams, who successfully fought North Carolina in the famous "Kissing Case" and who recently visited Cuba, reported that he found no segregation any place in that country. He will talk on "The Case for Cuba," and tell what he saw under the new regime.

Vincent Hallinan, candidate for President of the U. S. on the Progressive Party ticket in 1952, will share the platform. Martin Hall, lecturer, will chair the meeting.

Club to Send Food Gifts To Starving

The "Theatre Party," showing films of the activities of the Women's Sunday Morning Breakfast Club, last Saturday night at the Clark Hotel, brought in an avalanche of canned goods as "entrance fees."

The price of admission was canned foods to help aid those who are hungry in the San Bernardino area.

The three showings of the club's activities during 1960 at 6, 8 and 10 p.m. were shown to capacity audiences.

Every available table was laden with canned foods of every description. Other articles of food including a sack of potatoes were piled up on the floor.

It must have been most gratifying for the members of the Breakfast Club to see its goal had been reached. A truck load of canned goods was collected to be delivered this week in San Bernardino and the surrounding areas.

The films are taken each month exclusively by the club photographer, Jesse McKinney.

Eastside Unit Organized to Assist Poulson

An impressive group of Democratic and Republican community leaders, stated Ed and Gus Hawkins, are offering their support to reelect Mayor Poulson.

Heading the citizen's Committee for the Community Campaign to retain the Mayor, the Hawkins Brothers announced the opening of the first Area Campaign Headquarters at 4306 S. Central avenue where volunteers may join the city-wide committee to keep the Mayor in office.

Attys. Crispus Wright, James Flournoy, Eddie Mae Armstrong, Vaino Spencer, Roger Mason, George Vaughn and Dean Morrow expressed admiration for the Mayor's programs, past and contemplated.

With the endorsement of the local unions, CIO-AFL, for the re-election of Norris Poulson, Spencer Wiley, Del Coffey and William Pollard showed keen concern over the classification of Negro and other minority jobs available.

Clyde Broadnax, local real estate broker and co-chairman of the local Citizen's committee for the Reelection of Mayor Norris Poulson, stated that the Vernon and Central avenue headquarters will have its formal opening Friday night, March 3, with the Mayor in attendance and refreshments for all.

Negro Workers In Anti-Bias Drive

WASHINGTON — An all-out drive against job discrimination was launched here Feb. 17 and 18 at a workshop and institute sponsored by the Negro American Labor Council, which was attended by 800 delegates and visitors from all parts of the country.

Twenty witnesses testified on the exclusion of Negro youth from apprenticeship training programs and racial and ethnic violations of democracy by trade unions, industry and government.

Unions Cited

Among the unions cited for discriminatory practices were: Sheet Metal, Electrical Workers, Carpenters, Plumbers, Bricklayers, International Longshoremen Association, Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, International Moulders and Laundry Workers, International Association of Railway Employees, Baltimore Fire Fighters, Seafarers International Union and the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers.

A 15-point platform to abolish discriminatory practices by organized labor, industry and government, presented in the keynote address of A. Philip Randolph, president of the Negro American Labor Council, was adopted.

High Unemployment

Secretary of Labor Arthur Coldberg reported that unemployment in the current recession has hit non-white workers twice as hard as whites, with 13.8 per cent of all colored workers out of work in January as compared with 7 per cent of white workers.

An over-flow mass meeting of 1800 persons at the Metropolitan Baptist Church on Friday night heard attacks on unfair employment practices by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, chairman of the House Labor and Education Committee; the Rev. Martin Luther King; and Randolph.

Congressman Powell asserted that the "New Frontier must include black men as well as white."

Blames Fed'l Gov't

Rev. King charged that the Federal Government is "the Nation's highest investor in segregation and discrimination," and said that "with the stroke of a pen, the President can go a long way toward ending the crime of discrimination."

The program adopted, called upon the AFL-CIO to require all unions to initiate desegregation and integration movements within six months, to open apprentice training programs to all and to increase Negro representation in all union appointive and elective posts including office staff workers.

It also called upon Pres. Kennedy to put the government's house in order, racially speaking, and see to it that all departments and branches of the Federal government and all agencies under its control adopt non-discriminatory policies.

S. C. Minister In Wheelchair Leads Pickets

Chain gang sentences for nine men students and jail sentences for women demonstrators have not been able to crush the sit-in movement in Rock Hill, S. C.

Last Thursday a crippled minister confined to a wheel chair, the Rev. Cecil A. Ivory, president of the Rock Hill NAACP, wheeled himself out to the head of the picket line and helped direct it.

Two demonstrators were beaten up by white hoodlums, as police watched passively.

They weren't passive when it came to taking action against the Rev. Ivory, however, who has a long history of fighting against integration. He was a leader in the Rock Hill fight in 1957 to integrate buses.

Police arrested the minister, despite the fact that he suffers from a spinal injury.

While students are spearheading the sit-in demonstrations, they are being backed by the whole Negro population. Over 10,000 of the city's 30,000 Negroes are boycotting the downtown stores.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, protested to newly elected Gov. Ernest F. Hollings against the treatment meted out to Rev. Ivory and the students who were beaten up.

CORE has asked Pres. Kennedy to intervene on behalf of the students, CORE members, who are serving out their terms in chains, and to end such acts of vengeance.

Embezzler Keeps Accurate Records

A cashier since August 1960 for the C & H Currency Exchange, 6015 S. Broadway, Barbara LaVerne Hall, 21, of 13908 Compton, told police Friday that she began making false reports last November concerning the money she handled in the check cashing booth.

Placed under arrest, she said she didn't remember how many times she had taken money, but the most she ever took at one time was $450. She dipped into the till the last time in January of this year.

Being a methodical person, she kept an accurate account of the money she stole. The total, she confessed, was $2461.01.

Miss Hall said she used the money to pay numerous bills she had owed for a long time, including a large doctor's bill. She also admitted she had bought clothes and other personal items.

Harold E. Letven, 4609 Louise avenue, Encino, a partner in the business, held the suspect at the C & H Currency branch office, 4400 S. Central avenue. The suspect admitted to him that she had been taking money and signed a statement to that effect.

Letven told officers he is unable to determine at this time the amount of money missing. Auditors are in the process of determining the company's loss.

Tom Mboya Wins Election

NAIROBI, Kenya — Tom Mboya, African Nationalist leader, easily won election over four opponents for a seat in the new legislative council here Monday.

Mboya, who heads the National African Unity Party, and who is a champion of independence for Kenya, received 31,407 votes to 2668 for his nearest opponent, for election from the Eastern Nairobi district.

Stabs Officer, Drops Dead At Bus Station

A young man, 21 years old, who stabbed a security officer at the Greyhound Bus Terminal early Tuesday morning, fell dead after he was taken to Central Receiving Hospital following a scuffle with a bystander.

Roger William Talley, of 418 E. Gage street, was taken to the hospital, along with the officer and bystander. He died while he was being treated.

The coroner reported that in the fighting he had been kicked in the chin, a blow so hard that it fractured the small hyoid bone in the throat, causing asphyxiation.

The officer, Robert Menius, 40, was in critical condition.

The reason for Talley's attack on the officer was not clear. Talley was in the bus station shortly before 7 a.m. and was stopped by the security officer when he started to walk in a restricted area.

He went into the cafe, but came out when he saw the officer and began stabbing him with a 6-inch knife. The officer fell to the ground wounded. The knife broke and a piece of the blade was imbedded in the officer's side.

Talley again tried to jab the wounded man, but a man standing near him kicked the knife out of his hand and the two began fighting. All three were taken to the hospital. An inquest into Talley's death is scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday.

Talley's brother, a sculptor who lived with him, plans to do a bust of him at the Ashley Grigsby Mortuary.

FEPC Orders Santa Fe To Reinstate Andrews

"even for the charge of sleeping, discharge was a drastic, harsh and unreasonable disciplinary action in view of respondent's general practice and in view of Lennie Andrews' long and clear record of service."

Clean Record

Andrews had worked for Santa Fe at Barstow 13 years and 8 months at the time of his discharge on March 30, 1960. Although disciplinary demerits or "brownies" are commonly received — and worked off—by many Santa Fe employees, Andrews had no demerits on his record.

His original complaint, filed with FEPC in February, 1960, charged that the company refused him promotion to carman because he is Negro.

(Santa Fe pointed to two Negro carmen promoted in 1959 and claimed that Andrews was not a good enough worker to promote.)

Ten days after the company received a copy of the complaint Andrews was fired—because, according to Santa Fe, he was found sleeping during his night duty hours. Andrews then amended his complaint to add the charge that his firing constituted retaliation — unlawful under FEP law—for having filed the original complaint.

Conciliation Fails

There followed some months of investigation and attempted conciliation on the part of Commissioner Dwight R. Zook and the FEPC staff. Finally, when conciliation efforts failed, Zook submitted the case to a hearing.

The Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, which had been a co-respondent in the case, was eliminated from the action through a consent order arrived at just before the hearing convened. The union promised to reinstate Andrews to membership, without penalty, in the event of his rehiring by the railroad.

The Commission found, in part, that Andrews was qualified for the position of probationary carman by reason of his training and experience; that the company followed a practice of hiring some carmen "off the street" with little or no previous mechanical experience; and that, although the railroad had long employed Negroes as coach cleaners and laborers in Barstow, and although Andrews had repeatedly requested promotion to carman, he was refused such promotion because of his race.

Challenged Jurisdiction

Santa Fe challenged the jurisdiction of the Commission on the grounds that the National Railway Labor Act applied exclusively in this case, but the Commission ruled it did have jurisdiction. Andrews had elected to contest his discharge only through the State FEPC, and was not represented before the National Railway Adjustment Board when the company took the discharge question to it and secured a favorable ruling. In announcing FEPC's decision that it had jurisdiction, Chairman Ford commented that a vast area of human rights would remain unprotected in California without such jurisdiction.

In the event that the Santa Fe fails to comply with the Commission order, the FEPC can appeal to the Superior Court for an order to enforce its decision. That would make possible an appeal of the ruling to higher courts.

Hearing the case and participating in the decision were John Anson Ford, chairman, and Commissioners Carmen H. Warschaw, Elton Brombacher and C. L. Dellums. Commissioner Zeek directed the investigation of the case and appeared as a witness.

In the 17 months of its existence, the Commission has handled 695 cases, of which 427 were closed, all without publicity. The Santa Fe case is the only one so far to have come before the public.

said. He explained that he "intended to go back outside and finish the job."

Dorsey said he left his store about 12:30 a. m. His wife had left earlier, saying she was going to rest. When he arrived home, Mrs. Dorsey wasn't there.

He waited around a while until he heard the car drive up. He still had the gun in his belt that he took with him to work each day.

Good Record

Briggs worked for the MTA for the past three years. He reportedly had a good record. Police records showed no arrests here for narcotics or for any other charges. Owners of the apartment building where he and his wife lived, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Cavnar, said he was honest and courteous and reliable.

Briggs was born in Paris, Texas, and was educated in San Francisco.

Mrs. Briggs said she did not want the narcotics story to go unchallenged because it was not true. Dorsey, she said, imagined all sorts of things. When his son was arrested, she went on, Dorsey blamed everyone in the family for the youth's actions.

Dorsey is being held without bail.

His son, Phillip J. Dorsey, Jr., 23, was sent to Soledad Prison two years ago for a liquor store robery, the father said.

ever, advises that there were three separate fires in the house, all of incendiary origin.

Mrs. Stewart, who lives at 450 E. 48th street but who was staying at the Evans' home, said that Evans stayed up after the others had gone to bed, "which he does quite frequently."

Then she continued:

Saw Flames

"During the morning, I was awakened by the screams of my granddaughter, Ornette. When I looked around I saw flames and could smell lighter fluid. I managed to put out the flames and Ornette and I went to the bedroom of my daughter.

"We saw her lying on the bed and Evans was lying next to her. The bed was on fire, but it wasn't a big blaze.

"When Ornette and I entered the room, Irvin jumped up from the bed and put his arms around both of us. Irvin is very strong and we could not get loose. All this time he said nothing.

"I screamed at Irvin that we would all be burned, but he paid no attention to me. After struggling for a short time, I figured something was wrong with him. I thought if I could make him think he had killed me he would let go. So I relaxed and he let me loose.

'She Didn't Move'

"When I got up off the floor the room was empty except my daughter, Zanaida. I pulled on her leg, but she didn't move. I figured she was dead, so I ran out of the house.

Ornette apparently broke away, and police said Evans strangled her.

Dets. Sgts. A. H. Burdick and E. C. Gross said Keith was found strangled in his bed that was in flames.

Evans was unconscious when he was found.

When officers arrived at the burning home, Mrs. Stewart was screaming hysterically:

"He's killed them! He's killed them!"

Golden State Opens Branch In San Diego

Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Co. opened its new San Diego district office, 3796 Ocenview blvd., on March 1.

The building is the first that Golden State Mutual has built as a district office. It cost $50,000 to construct.

C. L. Smith, district manager of the San Diego office, and his entire staff have launched a special "Appreciation Month" production drive to show their pride in their new location.

Smith announced that an open house ceremony will be held sometime in the near future.

Eagle Story Gets Sign for Library

By C. MARIE HUGHES

It pays to tell your troubles to the Eagle. That's what Mrs. Bernice Barth, librarian at the Jefferson Branch Library, 2211 W. Jefferson blvd., said Tuesday.

She pointed with pride to a large, legible sign readily visible from the street, letting everyone know that the Jefferson Branch Library is tucked away down a walkway known as Prescott court.

The sign is six feet wide. It wasn't there two weeks ago. The Eagle, in a feature article, called attention to the lack. The sign was put up Monday.

Mrs. Barth and her staff are already anticipating an increase in circulation with all facilities being fully utilized by the community at large.

Library attendants, however, are pressing for other improvements. There is inadequate lighting to and from the library, and a petition has been drawn up by the 6th Avenue PTA and has met with an overwelmingly positive response from the community.

The petition is to be submitted to Councilmen Gordon Hahn, Charles Navarro and to Harold Hamil, head librarian, in the near future. This petition asks for improved lighting at the branch library.

A display case was also delivered to the library this week for the staff to have displays to point up the various special collections.

The entire neighborhood has been invited to celebrate "Girls Day," a Japanese festival, Friday, March 3.

Oriental art objects will be on display as well as the many books in the branch on the Orient. Tea will be served during a social hour.

Gladys Lott's Last Rites Set At First AME

Mrs. Gladys Lott, 51, 2323½ Third avenue, died Feb. 26 at the home of Juanita and Nathaniel Collins, 450 S. Main street. She had been living at her brother's home for the past eight months since she returned from a trip to Europe. She was very ill at the time of her return and did not recover.

Funeral services will be conducted at First AME Church, 8th and Towne avenue, at 11 a.m. Saturday, March 4, with the People's Funeral Home in charge of arrangements. Interment will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Mrs. Lott was born in McAllister, Okla., but had been a resident of Los Angeles for 31 years. For 18 of those years she was employed by the California State Industrial Accident Commission. She was a graduate of UCLA and was an active member of First AME Church for 16 years. She was also a member of the Alpha Delta Chapter of Gamma Phi Delta sorority.

She was a member of the pioneer Collins family and is survived by three brothers, Charles, Whittier and Nathaniel Collins, and Nathaniel's two children.

Hamerman, Jeff Principal, Given Awards

Jefferson High School principal Sam Hamerman recently received awards from two organizations for his outstanding service to the youth of the Jefferson High School community.

Our Authors Study Club, the Los Angeles branch of the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, presented him an award for his service during this year's Negro History Week celebration. The Jefferson High School Band and the A'Cappella choir performed on the steps of City Hall as part of the annual program.

The Los Angeles chapters of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc., also gave Hamerman an award for his service in providing leadership opportunities for Jefferson High School students.

Each year Hamerman, in cooperation with Mrs. Opal Jones of the Avalon Community Center, sets up a Youth Leadership Conference at Camp Hess Kramer. This year students from Roosevelt High School will join with Jefferson students for the Conference March 10, 11 and 12.

The Important Newspaper

Unemployed Negroes

The gravity of the unemployment problem facing Negro workmen is highlighted by the statment of Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg that 13.8 per cent of Negro workers are unemployed, in comparison to 7 per cent of white workers.

Any discussion of those figures must begin wih the fact that in time of total employment, Negroes hold a disproportionate number of low paid and menial positions. Those jobs afford little opportunity to lay aside a substantial nest egg.

Secretary Goldberg's comparisons of the employment disparity between white and Negro workmen were made at a Workshop and Institute sponsored by the Negro American Labor Council, headed by A. Philip Randolph.

The institute listened to eight hours of testimony from witnesses who told of discrimination by "trade unions, industry and government." One of the shocking aspects of the testimony is that so many trade unions were listed.

The institute wound up its meeting with a 15 point program of action for unions, employers and government.

The recommendations are familiar. They have come out of similar meetings and institutes with unflagging regularity for the past two decades. The tragedy is that they are so widely heralded and so little applied by labor, industry or government.

Who's for Civil Rights

Politics not only makes strange bedfellows but it also produces strange "friends."

Take Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirkson of Illinois and House Minority Leader Charles Halleck, both Republicans, for instance.

Last year they ganged up with Dixiecrats to water down the already watered down Administration civil rights proposals. Dirksen, for example, had only two good votes out of a possible seven as listed by the NAACP. Halleck worked hand in glove with Democrat Howard Smith of Virginia to bottle up civil rights bills in the House Rules Committee.

Neither had a good word to say for strong civil rights laws until Democrats reconvened Congress after the political conventions of last summer. At the adjourned Congressional sessions, Dirksen and Halleck smote their breasts and wept political tears at the failure of John F. Kennedy, then the Democratic presidential candidate, to urge strong civil rights legislation.

Mr. Kennedy promptly defended himself with the statement that the Republicans were only "playing politics" and that he would recommend proper civil rights legislation after his election. We said then that Mr. Kennedy was dodging the issue and pointed out that, despite their political motivations, Dirksen and Halleck were right.

Well, John F. Kennedy has been in the White House for 40 days and 40 nights. He hasn't recommended a single civil rights law. He has listed some 15 pieces of legislation as embodying his primary program and there isn't a civil rights bill on the list.

And who do you think have turned up, shedding tears and pleading with their congressional brethren to enact meaningful civil rights legislation? Why, Dirksen and Halleck, of course.

We aren't going to argue their sincerity, or lack of it. All we have to say is that they are right about the need for the legislation they propose. President Kennedy can steal their thunder by spelling out some of those executive orders and recommending some of those laws he promised when he was on the campaign trail.

Fair Employment Order

California's Fair Employment Practices Commission acted quickly and courageously when it found the Santa Fe Railway guilty of discrimination in its refusal to promote Lennie Andrews, a Negro, from coach cleaner to carman.

The Commission ordered the railroad to pay Andrews ten month's back wages and to upgrade him at the first opportunity.

The order also hits the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen which bowed out of the case before the hearings with a promise to abide by whatever decision the Commission might make.

It is fairly apparent that the railroad and the union had been conniving at discrimination for many years. Andrews' requests for promotion were sidetracked, although he had a near perfect record and despite his study at a correspondence school to fit himself for the job.

Commissioner Dwight Zook who conducted the initial inquiries into the case and insisted on a full hearing when his conciliation attempts failed deserves credit for a good job well done as does the Commission's attorney, Charles Wilson.

The Commission as a whole served notice on employers and unions alike in its first hearing that it proposes to enforce the law and that it isn't afraid to tackle formidable opponents.

Battleaxe & Bread

By Lester B. Granger

Recently I had a letter asking for a contribution. I didn't answer. It was signed with a name well respected in liberal circles and asked for financial support of conscientious objectors who refuse to bear arms, not for religious reasons but merely because of philosophical, political or sociological reasons.

Granger

My first reaction after reading the appeal was to stuff it into the waste-basket. My second was to fish it out, smooth it and save it as an example of fantastic lengths to which the logical illogic of misty-eyed causists can be taken. For it is a perfect demonstration of how to take untruths, half-truths and dreamy speculations and string them together in what appears to be a reasonable position — if the original untruths are not spotted.

Cites Constitution

The letter starts off with, "The First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States guarantees freedom of individual conscience. Yet specific legislation often curtails that freedom."

Then the letter swings off into outer space with the claim that non-religionists can have consciences too, that it isn't fair to stipulate that objection to military service must be based upon membership in and reference to a body of religious belief, and that anybody who finds military service in conflict with his "personal moral code" or his "philosophical, political, or sociological beliefs" should be protected against a nasty old government that calls on him to bear arms.

Now I ask you, wouldn't that be a heck of a way to try to maintain a free country? Wouldn't that be the perfect Christmas gift to wrap up and send to Kruschchev and Company and to Comrade Castro and to Comrade Mao and to all the other heads of slave systems to which any independent country anywhere is an affront and a danger?

Can We Resign?

There are a lot of us whose personal moral codes and sociological beliefs would cause us to prefer not to stand at the receiving end of a bazooka, and not to be anywhere around where an enemy might drop bombs in the case of war. But does that mean that we can simply say, "I resign from responsibility," and go right on lapping up whatever benefits result from the efforts of those who do stand and fight?

As I've indicated, the letter I received starts off with a big fat lie. The First Amendment to the Constitution does not guarantee "freedom of individual conscience." What it does state is: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." And that's as far as common sense could possibly have taken the framers of the Constitution.

To have given unrestricted protection to "individual conscience" would have given license to those whose "political and sociological beliefs" would have made them refuse to pay taxes, desist from racial segregation, carry auto driver's license, obey speed laws or otherwise submit to police authority. It would have produced anarchy and made the organization of a nation utterly impossible.

Would Cite Gandhi

My own "personal moral code" fills me with a feeling of outrage over a Congress that has been hog-tied for 50 years by a small handful of Negro-hating Democrats from the South who are backed by fellow party members and Republicans from the North in efforts to pass legislation to implement Constitutional guarantees for persons of color in these United States.

But that gives me no "moral" right to refuse to do my share in defending my country in time of war against the attacker of a murderous Hitler or an even more murderous Communist cabal — not so long as I accept the benefits of the society of which I am a part. True, the Constitution gives me the right to do so if I can prove that this would be in keeping with the body of religious belief to which I have formally subscribed. But this does not satisfy the framers of the letter which I received.

This curious group would probably cite Gandhi as their model, but it would be a false citation. The Mahatma denied the right of the British to run the affairs of a free Indian people. He and his followers refused to cooperate in an iniquitous arrangement. They refused to share in the "benefits" of British administration or to take part in it. But they stood together as Indians — and now they are prepared to fight (witness the dispute with Pakistan) in order to maintain their freedom from tyranny or aggression.

I would disagree with but would respect Americans who might similarly disassociate themselves from the affairs and benefits of American living in order to change the Constitution or nullify it as a matter of personal conviction. But I would fight them every step of the way, because I carry the conviction that the Constitution still offers the best way of obtaining what I have wanted and worked for ever since I was a teen-ager.

Martyrdom is a noble state but it demands a heavy price. It looks to me as if some folks want to get it at a bargain rate — on the basis of a big lie.

Ghana Paper Says United States Threaten Landing in Congo

the ships which, it said, are each carrying 500 marines. The paper's political correspondent reported the Pentagon has prepared a "chart of operations" for the Congo which envisages the use of 900 aircraft and 80,000 men. He says further that 30 shiploads of military personnel and 64 shiploads of cargo will be required for the sealift.

It was estimated the sealift would cost the U.S. $10.6 million and that the entire operation would cost $31.7 million, the correspondent claimed.

Rival Armies

Latest reports from the Congo indicate that Gizenga's forces are giving ground in some places, but Mobutu's army is said to be more ready to yield and fraternize than to fight. The military situation seems unclear, with Gizenga's men reportedly pulling out of Luluabourg, capital of Kasai Province, which they captured Saturday without firing a shot.

They also were reported on the border of Leopoldville Province, though this likewise was unclear. The Lumumba forces, however, seem to be in possession of about half of the entire Congo.

Maneuvers

Attempting to counter the military reverses by political maneuverings and the formation of a military alliance, Kasavubu's appointed premier rushed off to Elisabethville Tuesday and patched up an agreement with Katanga president, Moise Tshombe, and the head of the splinter "Mining State" in Kasai Province, Albert Kalonji.

The curious document drawn up after the meeting indicates that none of them trust each other very far, but feel compelled to unite militarily against Gizenga. The agreement stresses that Kasavubu doesn't recognize the independence of Tshombe or Kalonji, while at the same time Tshombe and Kalonji don't recognize Kasavubu's government.

At any rate they are agreed that they are "against U.N. trusteeship, Communist tyranny and a Korean-style war."

The U.N. is not on good terms with any of the three, but the danger is that the bloc, despite its instability, could start a civil war, since Tshombe is plentifully supplied with modern Belgian weapons, Belgian advisers and Belgian officers.

Danger also lies in the fact that while the U.N. has harsh words to say about Mobutu's army and about Tshombe, it does back Kasavubu whose government it recognizes as the legal government of the Congo. The U.N. moreover is now empowered to "put down" with arms any outbreak of a civil war.

That could mean that the U.N. would become involved in battles against the Gizenga regime of the north in support of the unholy alliance, Mobutu-Tshombe-Kalonji.

—U. N. Has a Tiger by the Tail—

Nkrumah Bitter in Farewell To a Friend, Lumumba

Congo should not obtain that military assistance which would have otherwise been forthcoming from many other friendly African States.

Neutral?

However, instead of preserving law and order, the United Nations declared itself neutral between law and disorder and refused to lend any assistance whatsoever to the legal Government in suppressing the mutineers who had set themselves up in power in Katanga and South Kasai.

When, in order to move its troops against the rebels, the Government of the Congo obtained some civilian aircraft and civilian motor vehicles from the Soviet Union, the colonialist powers at the United Nations raised a howl of rage while, at the same time, maintaining a discreet silence over the buildup of Belgian arms and actual Belgian military forces in the service of the rebels.

With a total disregard of the Constitution, which expressly provided that the President could not dismiss the Prime Minister unless there had been a vote of "No Confidence" in the Parliament, Kasavubu illegally tried to remove Patrice Lumumba from office and to substitute another Government. When Lumumba wished to broadcast to the people, explaining what had happened, the United Nations in the so-called interests of law and order prevented him by force from speaking.

U.N. Connived

They did not, however, use the same force to prevent the mutineers of the Congolese Army from seizing power in Leopoldville and installing a completely illegal government.

Despite the fact that one of the most important reasons for United Nations action was supposedly to see that all Belgian Forces were removed, the United Nations sat by while the so-called Katanga Government, which is entirely Belgian-controlled, imported aircraft and arms from Belgium and from other countries, such as South Africa, which have a vested interest in the suppression of African freedom. The United Nations connived at the setting up, in fact, of an independent Katanga State, though this is contrary to the Security Council's own resolutions.

Finally, the United Nations, which could exert its authority to prevent Patrice Lumumba from broadcasting, was, so it pleaded, quite unable to prevent his arrest by mutineers or his transfer, through the use of air-fields under United Nations control, into the hands of the Belgian-dominated government of Katanga . . .

Speaking Plainly

The time has come to speak plainly. The danger in the Congo is not so much the possibility of a civil war between Africans, but rather a colonialist war in which the colonial and imperialist powers hide behind African puppet regimes.

At this very moment Northern Katanga is being laid waste by military units under command of a regular officer of the Belgian Army, Colonel Crevecoeur, armed with the most modern weapons, supplied by Belgium.

Recruiting offices have been opened in South Africa, in France, and elsewhere, and wages of over four hundred pounds a month are being offered to former German Fascist officers and to former collaborators of Hitler and Mussolini in other countries in order to persuade them to enlist in an unholy war against the African people. Where, I ask again, does the money come from to pay these big salaries and to buy all of this modern and expensive armament which is now being deployed against unarmed peasants and villagers?

Allies Must Answer

The rulers of the United States, of the United Kingdom, of France and of the other powers who are militarily allied with Belgium must answer these questions.

In Ghana we realize the great financial stakes which some great powers have in the Union Miniere and in other industrial and commercial undertakings in the Congo. I would, however, ask these powers these questions: Do they really believe that ultimately they can safeguard their investments and their interests in the Congo by conniving at a brutal and savage colonialist war? . . .

Patrice Lumumba, Maurice Mpolo and Joseph Okito have died because they put their faith in the United Nations and because they refused to allow themselves to be used as stooges or puppets for external interests . . .

Cynical Plot

The cynical planning of the murder of Patrice Lumumba and his colleagues is a final lesson for us all. We cannot ignore the fact that this crime shows every evidence of the most careful preparations and timing. First, there came the handing over of Patrice Lumumba and others to the Belgian-controlled authorities in Katanga.

Next, there came the contemptuous refusal of these same authorities to allow the United Nations Conciliation Committee any access to the prisoners. From this came the final proof that the United Nations would not effectively intervene to save the life of the prime minister or his colleagues. This was followed by the formation of the co-called new Kasavubu Government and the warning by Belgium to Belgian nationals to leave those parts of the Congo controlled by the legal Government. Finally came the story so reminiscent of Nazi and Fascist technique — the false account of an attempt to escape and the death of the prisoners following upon it.

What are the next steps in this plan? The information before me now is that the Kasavubu-Mobotu group has planned an offensive against Orientale Province in an attempt to secure a quick military victory before the Security Council can deal with the matter. My information is that this plan has been made with the full knowledge of the French and Belgian Governments and has their full support.

Can't Kill Struggle

Let me issue a most serious warning: Any such action, unless immediately denounced by the other members of the Security Council, will have a profound effect on African relations with the great powers.

Our dear brothers, Patrice Lumumba, Maurice Mpolo and Joseph Okita are dead, and I ask you all to join with me in mourning the loss which the whole African Continent has sustained through their cruel murder. But their spirit is not dead, nor are the things for which they stood: African freedom, the unity and independence of Africa and the final and complete destruction of colonialism and imperialism.

The colonialists and imperialists have killed them, but what they cannot do is to kill the ideals which we still preach, and for which they sacrificed their lives.

In the Africa of the future their names will live for evermore.

Dr. Rubenstein Talks on USSR

Dr. Annette T. Rubinstein, former instructor of philosophy at New York University, will speak Friday, March 10, at 8 p.m., at the Unitarian Public Forum, 2936 W. Eighth street. Her topic will be: "Socialism in Four Lands—Compared and Contrasted."

Dr. Rubinstein recently returned from a lecture tour of Poland, Czechoslovakia, the USSR, and the German Democratic Republic. Her talk will be based on her first-hand observations of the economic, cultural and political life in these countries.

Normandie Avenue to Present Interracial Fashion Show

The Golden Shovel Club of the Normandie Avenue Methodist Church will present a unique fashion show at 3:30 p.m. on Sunday, March 5, at the Wesley Methodist Church Community Center, 52nd and Main streets.

In a demonstration of true Christian Brotherhood, the large array of lovely multicolored models will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Opal Roddy. The 25 models will appear in beautiful attire fashioned for all occasion wear as a contribution to the understanding of human relations. There will also be fashions for men and children.

Earl Grant Invited

Methodist Churches in the greater Los Angeles area are contributing to this event with models from Korean, Chinese, Japanese, Mexican, Negro and white churches.

Invited to appear on the program is the incomparable Earl Grant and other outstanding artists. African students from UCLA will be present in the colorful dress of their homeland.

Rev. Wilbur Johnson is the pastor of Normandie Avenue Methodist Church.

SANTA MONICA NEWS

Some 800 admirers of poetry and jazz crowded the Barnum Auditorium last Saturday evening to hear Langston Hughes, an outstanding American poet, who is one of the top ten men in the field of letters. He was sponsored by the Area Council of the NAACP. During the concert he was honored by the Tennessee State College Alumni Association. He was presented a life membership in the NAACP. The first installment on the membership was presented to Frank Barnes, West Coast Life Membership chairman.

Community Incensed Over Woodlawn YWCA Delay

An indignant YWCA-conscious community, incensed over the repeated rejection of appropriate sites presented by the Relocation Committee of Woodlawn Center, is asking this question, "What is behind the eight years of red tape which blocked every plausible solution for the Center, and why are the appropriations for Woodlawn the first to be cut and the last to be alloted?"

Telephones buzzed with suggestions on ways and means of securing an adequate building for the activities of the Center. Calls came from individuals and organizations. Some reported that money was available for the work as soon as relocation plans were approved.

Reports this week bring added woes to the beleagured staff at Woodlawn. Who will be fired if the proposed reduction of the staff is approved? The three paid staff personnel are assisted by volunteers in the activity of Y-Teens now held in school auditoriums because of the lack of an accessable center for the program of the Y.

Among those pledging to fight to maintain the Center for the community are veteran workers who stated that something must be done soon to keep the Center active in the area which vitally needs the type of program made available by the staff in the rapidly growing community.

One volunteer worker said that "the run around" given the Woodlawn group reminds her of the closing procedures of the Magnolia Gardens Center this past year. This minority group was given desk space only at Metro. The Woodlawn group spokesmen said, "that no desk space is

Grant AME Cub Scouts Chartered

Under the leadership of Miss Cynthia Gibson, chairman of the Board of Religious Education, Youth activities at Grant AME Church have taken on a new and vigorous approach. One of the highlights of the Morning Worship Services at Grant on Sunday, Jan. 29, was the presentation of the charter to the newly organized Cub Scout Pack 823C.

E. O. Robinson, Field Scout executive of the Green Meadows District, made the presentations of certificates to the parents heading the Grant Cub Scout Activities.

Den Mothers

Emmanuel Cowitt, the district chairman, presented the charter to Rev. Henry W. Murph, pastor of the church. Mrs. Thelma Edwards is chairman of the Organizing Committee, assisted by Mrs. W. B. Webster, Miss Cynthia Gibson, and Mrs. Henryetta Davison. Bennie Patridge is the institutional representative; Luther L. Davis, committee chairman; Donald Stinson, Willie Reynolds, and Eugene Lee, committee members.

The Cubmaster is Alcue Jones, Jr., assisted by Clayton Reynolds. Den Mothers are: Mrs. Dorothye Howard, Mrs. Ethel Hale, Mrs. Lillian Tarry, and Mrs. Mary Lee. Assistant Den Mothers are: Mrs. Leone Sloan, Mrs. Icie Dixon, Mrs. Addie Owens, and Mrs. Pauline Echols. Floyd Webster serves as Neighborhood Commissioner, and Francis Johnson, Area Commissioner.

The happy youngsters of Cub Pack 823C are: Bernis Brooks, Mario Brooks, David J. Dixon, Gregory Echols, Reginald Echols, Albert Erby, Morris Evans, Jr., William Hale, Jr., Ronauld Harris, Bennett W. Howard, Roy A. Robinson, Milton Earle, Phillip Evans, Curtis Larry, Keith Lee, Myron Lee, Alton McMillon, Frederick Murph, Ronald Murph, Frank Owens, Ricky Ratliff, and Korla Woods.

Fifth Episcopal Religious Clinic At Sacramento

A Religious Institute and Clinic, of the Fifth Episcopal District of the AME Church, is being held this Wednesday and Thursday, March 1-2, at St. Andrews AME Church in Sacramento. The theme of the clinic is, "Jesus Christ is Lord."

Rev. H. Thomas Primm is the presiding bishop and Rev. Cyrus Keller is the host pastor.

Among the participants is Rev. Henry W. Murph of Grant AME Church who will speak on the Holy Communion.

AME ministers will make reports on the first half of the Conference budget.

Lenten Rites Scheduled at All Churches

Sixteen days of the Lenten season have passed and througout the world and in practically every church in the greater Los Angeles area special services of prayer and retrospection are being held.

Lent is the season when the devout give up some pleasure and fast in preparation for the advent of Spring symbolized by Easter. Ministers this year are advocating the doing of something constructive rather than abstention and fasting as an act of sacrifice for the season; striking a blow in the battle for peace, beginning with each individual. When the joyous sound at Easter morn "He is Risen," breaks the air, it should find each one with a new freedom and peace of mind which comes from faith in God with selfless service to one's fellowman, the ministers contend.

Hamilton Youth Alcohol Study Program Set

A church-wide study into the manner in which "Americans are poisoning themselves with alcohol" will be made through the program of the Hamilton Methodist Church School of Missions. Mrs. Itasca Lewis is dean of the school.

A month of study of alcohol and Christian responsibility will be presented by Rev. Richard Edgar, pastor of the Florence Avenue Methodist Church who is the Conference Director of the Youth Study on Alcohol.

An unbiased investigation on the poisoning aspects of the use of alcohol will be presented during the studies.

On March 5, at 6:30 p.m. a fellowship dinner will be held in Fellowship Hall. Rev. Edgar will speak at 7:30 p.m. with an evaluation period following.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

A hopeful message of universal freedom will be delivered in all Christian Science churches Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Man." Paul's declaration to the Romans (8:14) is the Golden Text, "As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God."

STOPS OVER — The incomparable Mahalia Jackson will sing a concert at the Shrine Auditorium on March 11, at 8 p.m. She stops over here on her current world concert tour to present her gospel interpretations.

$150,000 Unit To be Erected At Holman

Holman Methodist Church, 3320 W. Adams blvd. has designated March 26-30 as Church Loyalty Days. At this time pledges will be accepted for the building and development program designed to bring new Church School facilities to extend the church program in developing a better world.

A sum of $150,000 has been set as a goal. The drive will cover 156 weeks. The fund raising plan is being coordinated by the official board of the church with the Rev. William A. Perry, of the Methodist Church Department of Finance and Field Service, acting as advisor.

Rev. L. L. White, pastor of the church, said that the project begins with prayer. Each family of the church will pray for the success of the project which will add Christian education and fellowship to the general program of the church. Some 500 persons are expected to serve as volunteer fund raising visitors for the project.

Independent To Worship at Westminster

The Cost of Being a Christian will be the theme of the lenten sermon by Rev. Maurice A. Dawkins at People's Independent Church, next Sunday, at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services.

Holy Communion will be celebrated with music by three choirs. The sacred saxophone of Joe Lutcher will be heard with Fannie Benjamin at the console.

At 7:30 p.m. the congregation of People's will worship at Westminster Presbyterian Church, 2230 W. Jefferson blvd. of which Rev. Jomes E. Jones is pastor. Rev. Dawkins will preach on "In the Shadow of the Cross."

Mt. Zion Baptist Inaugural Rites Set

Next Sunday, March 5, will bring to a close a week-long inaugural celebration of the Rev. Edward V. Hill as pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church, 1300 E. 50th street.

Special guests on this day will be Dr. A. A. McCardell, minister of Pleasant Grove Baptist Church, Houston, Texas. Dr. McCardell will preach at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Baptismal services will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. H. B. Charles will preach at 3:30 p.m. Dr. C. A. Henson will be the presiding officer of the Installation. Dr. J. Raymond Henderson will give the official charge to the Church and the pastor.

Mt. Zion Baptist is one of Los Angeles' oldest and most progressive churches. Mt. Zion has had such eloquent ministers as Dr. F. H. Prentice and others to give it outstanding leadership.

First Elected

Rev. Edward V. Hill, the pastor-elect, came to Mt. Zion from Mount Corinth Baptist Church of Houston, and the Friendly Will Baptist Church of Austin, Texas where he was serving as pastor-elect.

At Mount Corinth he increased the budget from $14,000 to $35,000 and the membership of the church increased 1,100.

He is a graduate, with distinguished honor, of Prairie View College and won an enviable record as a young minister in community affairs in Houston. He was the first Negro to win a primary in a race to become a City Councilman for the city of Houston.

Rev. Hill was elected in

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

The Man Has a Point

Dear Mr. Taylor Spink, Editor
The Sporting News;

I was very interested to discover the re-appearance of the Wigwam Wisemen All-American High School Football Team in The Sporting News (Jan. 18 issue). I thought you had dropped it last year, bade goodbye to this piece of bad rubbish. Are you aware of the fact that the Wigwam Wisemen is a Jim Crow outfit?

How many Negro boys are listed in its seven teams of 98 players? Just two—who, I honestly believe, were picked unwittingly, because the Wigwam Wisemen didn't know they were Negroes. With the Negro emerging so strongly in every field of athletic endeavor, this cannot be chalked up to coincidence. The Wigwam Wisemen have consistently adhered to a policy of Jim Crowism. It's just more flagrantly obvious this year. And the reason behind it is just as obvious. The Wigwam Wisemen's abortive All-American game this year is scheduled for Baton Rouge, La., where "mixed competition" is taboo. So the Wigwam Wisemen aren't "wasting" any choices on kids that won't be able to play in it.

Do you think this Jim Crowism is consistent with the American tradition of tolerance and fair play? How do you think our Negro educators, athletes, and other citizens will react to such an excessive violation of our democratic principles?

How can the Wigwam Wisemen boast that their player nominations come from a "grand total of 7,820 nominations, attracting ballots from 11,202 gridiron authorities, including sportswriters . . . broadcasters . . . high school coaches and principles . . . officials . . . pro football as well as college talent scouts" — WHEN SUCH GENUINE ALL-AMERICAN FOOTBALL PLAYERS AS THE FOLLOWING NEGRO BOYS CANNOT BE FOUND AMONG THE FIRST 98 SELECTIONS:

1. Ronnie Bliey, the greatest running back in New York City history, who scored 138 points in just 6 games.
2. Bob Kelley of Weirtown, W. Va., who gained 1,211 yards, scored 18 touchdowns, and ran wild in the state championship playoff.
3. Bill Mackey of East Bakersfield, Calif., who averaged 18 yards per carry.
4. Charlie King of Alliance, Ohio, the outstanding back in the greatest football state in the country.
5. Tommy Vaughn of Troy, Ohio, who scored 514 points in three years, 230 of them the past season — breaking the school record set by the great Bobby Ferguson.
6. Ben Mobley of Montclair, N. J., an end without peer offensively and defensively.
7. Art Hastings, the great fullback from Massillon, Ohio.
8. Dick Arrington, the devastating tackle from Erie, Pa.
9. Ted Lawrence, from Phoenix, Ariz., just about the best guard in the state.

I believe you should ask the Wigwam Wisemen for some sort of explanation for such glaring omissions. The Sporting News has always exemplified the highest tradition of fair play in its coverage of sports. I hate to see it sullied (unwittingly) by such an ugly example of Jim Crowism as the Wigwam Wisemen All-America. It might be more honest to call it the Lily White All-America.

By publishing such a team, The Sporting News is giving aid and comfort to a Jim Crow outfit.

Playground Boys' Softball Loop Underway

Hundreds of boys 17 years of age and under are on rosters of softball teams which will participate in league action slated to get under way at municipal playgrounds throughout Los Angeles Monday, March 6.

Loop action is scheduled in three divisions, midget for lads 12 years of age and under; junior for boys 13 and 14 years old; and senior for those 15, 16, and 17 years of age.

Playground champions will be decided by Saturday, May 6, and title-holders in the junior and senior divisions will be eligible for district playoffs slated the week of May 8-13.

District kingpins will clash in a city-wide championships tourney to be played the week of May 22-27 and victors will meet top teams from the Catholic Youth Organization and the Jewish Community Centers Association in inter-agency finals scheduled June 5 and 7.

LAPD Slates Sixth Annual Award Banquet

The Los Angeles Police Department will present the sixth annual Sports Award Dinner at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, March 6, at the Los Angeles Police Academy.

The dinner is held each year to honor outstanding athletes in the department.

Master of ceremonies will be M. J. "Clipper" Smith, who was a Notre Dame football star under the great Knute Rockne. Smith entered coaching and produced some of the finest football teams in the country. Here in Los Angeles he handled public relations for the Los Angeles Rams, and now is in sales promotion with a major food supplement firm in Beverly Hills.

Chief of Police William H. Parker will present trophies to members of the department who have distinguished themselves in intra-departmental competition in shooting, bowling, golf, handball, volleyball, basketball and baseball.

Entertainment for the evening will be provided by the Wiere Brothers, nationally known trio of comedians.

YMCA 12th Annual

The 28th Street Branch YMCA's 12th annual Golf Tournament will be held on Friday, March 17, at the Rio Hondo Country Club in Downey.

Highlighting this year's program will be pro star Charles Sifford, who will participate in a featured foursome which will include outstanding local golfers.

This popular golf tournament is one to which many of the local men and women look forward each year. It is an 18-hole medal play affair, established handicaps being used.

There will be five flights for men and two for the ladies.

Beautiful trophies will be awarded for first and second low net winners in each flight, plus low gross trophy.

Deadline for entries is Friday, March 10. Entry blanks or information may be obtained at the 28th Street YMCA, 1006 E. 28th street, phone ADams 2-7193.

Win 17th Cage Game

Lincoln University Tigers with a smashing 89 to 61 victory over Kansas City University won their 17th victory in 21 starts this season.

Boys' Girls' Annual Golf Tourney Set

The 11th annual Los Angeles Junior Boys and Girls Golf Championships will be staged on Griffith Park's Wilson, Harding, and Roosevelt courses from Monday, March 27, through Wednesday, March 29.

Deadline for entry in the linksfest is 5 p.m. Monday, March 20, according to Americ Hadley, supervisor of golf in the City Recreation and Park Department. Application forms, together with fees, can be handed to starters at any municipal golf course or mailed to the department's Golf Division, 3191 W. 4th street, Los Angeles 5.

Marbles Champ Retains City Midget Crown

Tony Lopez, 12 years old, retained his midget division crown in last Saturday's (Feb. 18) city-wide finals in 1961 boys' marbles competition and Manuel Morales, 13, nabbed the junior division title in the windup action staged at Queen Anne Playground, 1240 West Blvd.

Lopez, who lives at 10010 Grape Street, won his berth in the finals by winning Imperial Courts Playground's championship. The two-time kingpin nabbed the top spot last Saturday by taking three street games from Michael Estrada, 11 years, of 1775 E. 102nd street, who also represented Imperial Courts Playground.

Table Tennis Tourney Set

Los Angeles' finest high school table tennis players will compete for the city championships Saturday, March 11, in the tenth annual L.A. City Schools Youth Services All-City Table Tennis Tournament at Jefferson High School.

Ribbons will be awarded to first through fifth places in four divisions: boys' singles, girls' singles, boys' doubles and girls' doubles. Play will be according to United States Table Tennis Association Rules.

Competition is open to Los Angeles senior high school students only. Entries closed on Feb. 27. Further information can be had by contacting Kenneth Hawkins, tournament director at ADams 1-9371, or Richard Adams, at LUdlow 8-7174.

In last year's event, Grant High carried home the team trophy by edging out Manual Arts 13 to 12½.

Heavyweights Set Olympic Main Event

Two ring sized heavyweights, Alejandro Lavorante and Duke Sabedong, top tonight's (Thursday) ring card at the Olympic.

Lavorante, 6' 5", Argentine champion, is rated as a 2-1 favorite over Sabedong, 6' 6". The latter is originally from Hawaii, but now boxes out of San Francisco.

Featherweights Ray Salazar and Pulga Serrano tangle in the KTLA-TV main event. Salazar is the choice.

THE TEE

WITH MAGGIE HATHAWAY

Back in the late 40's there was an historical feud between UCLA and USC. You were considered an "unprepared square going nowhere" if you were not seen in the front row at every football game.

The talk of the town was about an athelete who could catch a ball from any angle. His name was "Woody Strode."

The first day that Woody unveiled his tall, terrific, handsome frame to race out on the coliseum field all the press (especially the ladies) raced to their papers to "tell the world" about Woody. An article (along with several large scale pictures to prove its point) was printed in Esquire Magazine. It took 2 pages for the writer to tell the world that UCLA had a "Greek God" on its football team.

This is exactly what Woody was and he became famous for catching "snake passes" up in mid-air thrown by the very sensational athlete Kenny Washington. In fact Woody and Kenny were so good playing together that their fans named them "The Gold Dust Twins." Later when the now famous Jackie Robinson joined the team the name was changed to "The Gold Dust Trio."

Recently we discovered that Woody has been given another name by his popular wife, Luukialuana, and that name is "The Non-Golfer."

It happened back in 1949 when Negroes made a "giant step" by attemping to buy their own golf course. This movement was headed by Justin Grant, now a retired business man.

Justin invited Woody to be his guest on this course which was located in Chino. Woody told his wife that he would play if she would caddy for him. But darling, Luukialuanna questioned, "Do you think you can play?"

Woody answered by saying, "I can play football, why not golf?" So away they went.

When they teed off Woody was the "sharpest golfer" on the course. He was wearing a fantastic Hawaiian shirt and his "best blue suede street shoes;" his wife was carrying the clubs he had borrowed from Lumell Grant. Woody lost 18 new golf balls (one on every hole). He swears that the course (Valparaiso) was seven miles long and seven miles wide.

His shoes started getting smaller and his feet started getting larger. By the time he reached the seventh hole he had his wife carrying his shoes but he did not quit.

He played 18 holes and because he had played so badly he decided to go 18 more (in his bare feet).

The caddy (his wife) served notice that she was not going another hole farther or look for another ball, so Woody had to play the rest of the holes carrying his own bag.

He came in half crippled, water boils on his heels, corns on his hands and sun-burned. After he finally found his wife, he could not get his blue suede shoes on. He went home and made plans to give up golf and try motion pictures, which had to be easier.

The rest of the story is told on every marquee in the world. Woody Strode today is one of the top actors of our race.

Some of his pictures are: "Pork Chop Hill," "The Buccaneer," "Ten Commandments," and "Sergeant Rutledge." His portrayal in "Spartacus" had all the "first nighters" crying and if he does not win the Academy Award for the best suporting actor then Hollywood should bow its head in shame.

The golfers' loss is Hollywoods' gain for collaring the handsome, unspoiled, Woody Strode.

Hubie Watson to Anchor Arizona Relay Team Sat

Hubie Watson, former All-City sprint champ now attending Arizona State College, will anchor the crack relay team in the SPAAU outdoor track meet, Saturday, March 4, at East Los Angeles College Stadium.

The swift Arizona State mile relay team is led by Mel and Mal Spence who will be defending its record of 3:11.6 in one of the many highlights of the SPAAU relays.

Coach Senon Castillo, blessed with his strongest all-around team, has entered a squad of 24 in the all-day carnival to battle SC, UCLA, Occidenal and the Southern California Striders in the University-Open division.

Last year, Mike Barrick (49.3), Karl Schreiner (48.1), Mel Spence (47.1) and Mal Spence (47.1), set the Relays record, and the identical foursome will be running Saturday.

This sets up a hot race with the Trojans, who will use Kevin Hogan, Stan Rhodes, Rex Cawley and Bobby Staten. Hogan, Rhodes and Cawley were members of the 1960 Trobabe team that ran 3:11, and with Staten on the anchor, the team is a potential national collegiate record smasher.

Trojans, with Rusty Weeks, Staten, Bruce Munn and Jim Bates, are favored in the 880 relay where the same four set the meet record of 1:25.4 in 1960. Trow is also defending champion and record holder (41.6) in the 440 relay.

Oxy's Chuck Coker contends his quartet of Doug Smith, Steve Haas, Dixon Farmer and Al Korobkin could be a surprise in the sprint relays, while Hubie Watson is listed to anchor Arizona State.

Striders will be led by ex-Bruins Bob Seaman and Bob Holland when they defend their two-mile record of 7:36.0. Arizona State is defending distance medley champion, and record holder—9:55.6 in 1959.

The five relays will be held for all six classes — freshman, three divisions of junior colleges (based on second semester male enrollment), college and university-open.

Kite Week Slated

Because municipal playgrounds are the safest place to fly kites, the Recreation and Park Department will stage Kite Week at all playgrounds from Monday through Saturday, March 6-11.

ANN WELDON—Curvy and sexy brownskin bombshell goes through a torrid number during the Shrine Show. The house went wild at the fascinating rhythm of her tunes. (Adams)

TONI HARPER—Former child singing star, who grew up in Los Angeles, is shown making a big hit with the crowd as a grown-up star at the Shrine Show Monday night. (Adams)

Joe Louis, Milton Berle Honored At 9th Annual Star-of-Stars Show

The Shriners' ninth Star-of Stars benefit show given last Monday night at Frank Sennes' Moulin Rouge Theatre Restaurant was another spectacular and exciting show, according to the capacity crowd.

The reason was that Milton (Mr. Television) Berle in an hour and one-half performance left them in tears of laughter. In fact, Berle was a riot, all for the sake of sweet charity and the Egyptian Shrine Temple No. 5.

In appreciation of his contributions Milton Berle became the newest member of the Shriners' "Humanitarian Club." Following his act he was presented with the beautiful Humanitarian Trophy by Roscoe C. Washington, imperial assistant rabban.

Beneficiaries

Another highlight of the evening was the moment when Joe Louis was called to the stage to receive a special award for his various contributions for the benefit of all mankind. Louis, who has received just about every award imaginable, really seemed proud of this one and the capacity audience was equally proud of the Shriners for the wonderful tribute in honor of a great man. Booker T. Alexander, the Shriners' imperial potentate, made the presentation to Louis.

Among the beneficiaries of the annual show are scholarships; American Cancer Society; Freedman's Hospital, Washington, D.C.; Homer G. Phillips Hospital, St. Louis, Mo.; Carver Research Foundation, Tuskegee, Ala.; St. Mary's Infirmary, Galveston, Texas; College of Medical Evangelists, L.A.;

Star Studded

Also Howard University, Washington, D.C.; Meharry Medical School, Nashville, Tenn.; Emory University, Georgia; Dr. Jane Wright of the New York Post, and the National Jewish Hospital of Denver, Colo. Over a ten year period the Shriners have given nationally some $215,000 for medical grants and scholarships.

Joe Adams was master of ceremonies of the star studded performance. Among those appearing on the three hour show were Hank Ballard and The Midnighters, The Platters, Billy Daniels, Georgia Carr, Ann Weddon, Joe Williams, Jimmy Witherspoon, and a long list of others.

The Star-of-Stars Committee members were: Walter

EARLY ARRIVERS—Among the throng attending the Ninth Annual Shrine Star-of-Stars Benefit Show are: Katherine Andrews, Alberta (Pepper) Skinner, Louise Webb, Jean Walker and Dorothy Williams. (Adams)

KNOCK 'EM OUT JOE—The internationally famous Platters delighted ex-Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis backstage at the Moulin Rouge with an oldie entitled "Knock 'Em Out Joe," during the Shriners' show. They are Rupert Branker, Paul Robi, Zola Taylor, the Champ, David Lynch, Herbert Reed and Sonny Turner. (Adams)

Bill Smallwood

Gladys Lott will be buried Sat. at 11 a.m., services at 8th and Towne. Maidie Norman flew East to bury her father. Edith Houston has the Nannettes in this Sat. Della McDonald at work again after a bout with virus.

Getting settled: Cora Brown took an apt. Juanita Williams and Dr. Laynard Holloman celebrate birthdays on the 6th. The Archie Morgans (Skippy McCleary) of Atlantic City and NYC are due for a visit, but soon.

Kissin' Cousins

Reginald Beane in town. Local dentist Dr. G. Murdock Wharton and Clifford Wharton Sr., our new ambassador to Norway, are second cousins. Brilliant Diane Lewis is teaching and lecturing (anthropology) at UC at Santa Barbara, did you know? George Pryce Jr., upgraded at Ft. Lewis, Wash. where he's part of the Public Information Div., says goodbye to Uncle Sam next year then takes his Master's degree in Public Relations at Boston U. The Teacup Club were guests of Louise Collier at the Nikabob last Sat.

Jack Hoskins ("Crazy about that LA!") hastens back here after his school duties in June. Alma Lehman, hospitalized after an auto accident. The Business and Professional Women's Club met Sun. at Safety Savings and Loan. Group 3 of Jack and Jills descended on Ford Park last Sat. for the Plum Festival; planning committee for the exodus were Davine Carney, Rhetta Nickerson, Betty Howard, Vivian Dunning and Philippa Houston. Pitt Los Club skips merrily, tralala, into Mary Clay's house Frid. evening; if memory serves, I believe Mary and Buddy usually make a party out've her meeting date.

Very Top Drawer

North Carolina Mutual Insurance Company's very-top-drawer exec Alex Dumas jets in shortly, his attache case in hand. It's been years since I've seen Alex (he's a descendant of THE Alexander Dumas) and it will be wonderful having him on our village green, if briefly. His brother, Albert, is a medico in N'Orleans. The EPU's met with Geraldine Harrison last Sat. and got into the business of electing new officers.

Pasadena's YWCA realized over $500 from Ruth Moore Smith's two-day exhibition of her famous cups and saucers at the Smith home on Armanda; a more complete collection I've yet to examine.

After going to see Jose Greco and dancers, Angelique Bratton, Blanche Clark, Joanna Sutton, Carolyn Shifflett, Flora Chisolm and Annie Laurie Adams went on to the home of the latter where she hostessed a birthday supper honoring her sister, Flora. Joining the girls were Anita Grant and Marian Maddox who round out this coterie who go places and do things every month. Sue Harbin Bailey returns to town to live permanently as of May; she and her mother have their Carmel house for sale.

Stirring Our Coffee

Langston Hughes, ever charming and thoughtful, an old buddy, had some of us out to the intimate Renaissance coffee house as his guests Sat. to hear his new poem. (Paul Horn's group backgrounded but ideally). He was so glad to again see Meredith Hatcher after so long a time. It was a real talkathon for all of us, yup. Langston returns over the weekend of the 24th and 25th, heading for the Renaissance again. We'll be there stirring our coffee, of course. Where else indeed?

Allied Arts earmarked April for their annual coffee. Whit Mifflin frolicking a week on the village green before hieing himself home to Phila. He's courting an appealing young widow, burdened with bags of solid gold, whose spiritual home is I. Magnin (between sales) when she's in town, here. I met her at a recent Sat. afternoon hoedown; she was wearing a sort of feathered coronet which I expected to take wing at any moment and perch on one of the lemon trees.

Experts to Give Beauty Hints at Trade Show

N. Omar, outstanding beautician and hair stylist, has been working out details for her first Educational Beauty and Trade Show in a quiet and efficient manner for the past three weeks.

The two-day show scheduled for Sunday and Monday, March 12 and 13, will be attended by some 500 beauty operators, representing salons from Venice, Santa Monica, Hollywood, San Pedro, Long Beach, Wilmington, Compton, Watts, Pasadena, Santa Barbara, Santa Ana, San Diego and Pacoima.

The unusual show is designed to give hairstylists and beauticians advance ideas on the latest trends in haircutting, hairstyling, hair coloring and permanent waving.

Experts in the field of beauty will be on hand to bring something different in the way of making a beauty career exciting and interesting as well as profitable.

These experts will share secrets with those attending when they hold lectures and demonstrations featuring techniques which they have developed during their many years in the field of beauty and good grooming.

Among those scheduled for lectures and demonstrations is Mrs. B. Bradfield, instructor of Cosmetology at Fremont High School, currently at UCLA to earn her Class A credentials. Jheri Jackson, two-time winner of the Creative Hair Designers' top trophy for hairstyling, is flying in from New York to demonstrate hairstyling. Iris Smith, local beauty shop owner, will work with color and lecture on tinting and Mary L. Batiste, State examiner who works part time with a permanent wave company, will demonstrate the popular reverse permanent waving technique and also lecture on the subject.

The general public is invited to attend a special program on Sunday afternoon which will include a fashion show featuring Beth Dade models Tee, Zona and Barbara displaying Fanny Peake fashions, along with professional entertainment.

E Pluribus Elects New Officers

Geraldine Harrison's beautiful ranch-style home on North Talmadge was the setting for the regular meeting of the E Pluribus Unum Club last Saturday.

A very interesting afternoon was spent in revealing secret pals, unwrapping gifts and electing new club officers.

Dorothy Fawcett was elected president; Bernadine Brown, vice-president; Emma Taylor, corresponding secretary; Ursula Phelps, recording secretary; Jerry Harrison, treasurer; Aurora Hoskins, chaplain and Gladyce Clark, reporter.

Guests attending included Beatrice Smith, Annabelle Phillips, Dorothy Watson and Miss Verna Dechard.

Girl Scouts Week Slated For Mar. 12

Girl Scout Week, March 12 through 18, will see local Girl Scouts joining 3½ million girls and adults across the country in observing the 49th anniversary of the founding of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.

Major Girl Scout activities and interests are demonstrated in the seven days of Girl Scout Week. The week opens with Girl Scout Sunday (or Girl Scout Sabbath for girls of the Jewish faith).

Other days are: Homemaking Day (Monday), Citizen Day (Tuesday), Health and Safety Day (Wednesday), International Friendship Day (Thursday), Arts and Crafts Day (Friday), and Out-of-Doors Day (Saturday).

Dinner Party For Member On Birthday

The Petite Femmes assembled at the dining room of the fashionable Tommy Tucker Playroom recently to celebrate Mrs. Althea Townsend's birthday at the club's regular monthly meeting.

Members in attendance were: Mmes. Harrietta W. Terrell, Bonzell Chouteau, Rita Jean Wright, Marjorie Fraser, Bernice Hilson, Berle L. Wilson, Althea Townsend and Patricia M. Elmore. Two guests of the club were Mrs. Esther A. Smiles and Mrs. Clothilde E. Spurlin.

The February business included the planning of a Spring Extravaganza for April 22. Each member enjoyed a delicious and promptly served dinner.

Luncheon at Rand's

Mr. and Mrs. D. Green of Chicago invited newsmen to a luncheon last Wednesday afternoon at Rand's Roundup, the occasion being to announce the establishment of their new West Coast business.

Wilfandel Club Holds Regular Monthly Meeting

The Wilfandel Club held its regular monthly meeting Sunday, Feb. 19, with the president, Mrs. Paul Williams, presiding.

After the opening ceremonies the program chairman, Mrs. Freita Shaw Johnson, presented a most enjoyable and stimulating program.

Mrs. Grace Sevier gave a piano selection and also accompanied Mr. John Nichols when he sang "Somebody Bigger Than You and I," "I Believe" and "You'll Never Walk Alone."

"House Beautiful" was the theme for February and it was charmingly presented by Mrs. Grace Hughey, an interior decorator and teacher in adult education. She brought fabrics and wallpaper samples and concentrated on color and textures. Everyone present declared this universally appealing subject was important in home-making.

Moore, Bill Watkins, Frank Anderson, Nicholas H. Pritchett, Walter G. Allen, H. N. Yarbrough, James Jackson, Simmie Staton, Ernest Russell and George Holbert.

Zenith Show Planned

Tuesday night, Feb. 14, the Zenith Charity and Social Club met at the Leimert Park home of member Josephine Mims to continue plans for their forthcoming annual Benefit Talent Show, to be held Sunday, March 12, from 5 to 10 p.m. in the luxurious Satellite Room of the Miramar Hotel, Wilshire blvd. at Ocean avenue, Santa Monica.

Prominent clubs throughout the city have responded favorably by sponsoring contestants to vie for attractive prizes. Willie Covan Dance Studio, Bernice Pierce Drama and Art Studio, George Turpeau School of Music and LaBrea Studios have also cooperated in sending talented students as contestants.

The Exceptional Children's School, 310 E. 122nd street, will be the recipient of proceeds from this affair. Having chosen this school as their pet project 10 years ago, the Zeniths are proud to announce the near completion of the school's new dormitories, to which they were initial contributors.

In addition to the competitive part of the talent show an array of guest artists have donated their talent and time to this needy cause.

Among those to appear will be: Herb Jeffries, Toni Harper, Helen Humes, Barry Sullivan, Bixie Crawford, Dean Holly, Mecie Jenkins, Ronnie Ray, Eddie Beale, Tom Hawkins, Johnny Otis and Jimmy Witherspoon.

Reservations are available by calling president Versie L. Hawkins, WE 1-8095 or RE 1-2165

Evening Classes

Jefferson Adult School is offering classes in the following: Spanish, Public Speaking, Dressmaking, Chorus, Parent Education, Textile Arts, Ladies Tailoring and Remedial Reading.

Milliners To Display Creations

The planning committee is busily preparing for the premiere showing of millinery by "Ell-Enn."

Sponsored by the Victory Baptist Church "Voices of Victory" Choir, the benefit show will be staged at the Elks Auditorium on Sunday afternoon, March 12.

Assisting with co-ordinating the affair and handling the mistress of ceremonies chores is Wini Orr, fashion commentator and co-ordinator. Modeling will be by LaRue Brown and Isabel Dunlap.

Entertainment and refreshments will round out the afternoon.

Mrs. Ellen Johnson, the designer whose label is "Ell-Enn," promises to unveil delightful chapeaux for the coming season.

Southland Socially

By DOROTHY BOWICK

Dorothy Bowick, a transplanted Texan from Houston, taught high school one year in Texas before coming to Los Angeles as a recreation director. She is director of the Muse Art School of Modeling, a fashion coordinator and commentator and just recently headed a training program in personal grooming for Norm's Restaurants. This month will mark the opening of a swank dress salon in which she will be part owner. Socially, she is a member of The Women, Inc., Chi Kappa Rho Recreation Sorority and Alpha Kappa Alpha.
